W4LEV Helps Dad, Folks Stay In Touch

There is one group of Marines at Camp Lejeune who always have something to say. They operate the Base Amateur Radio Station, W4LEV, and spend most of their time arranging for Marines on Vieques to speak to their families at Lejeune. The station has been extending free communications service to Lejeune Marines and dependents since 1947. Located on the old parachute tower road behind the Camp drive in theater, W4LEV is open Monday through Friday from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

His most unusual congratulations came from the first couple meantime, to provide for of the theater, Special plans to put additional net he Area 5 and Industrial pen air theaters.

Information as to when the will reopen is available, se officials state it will be kly as repairs can be made.

A bit of a sentimentalist, Father Kelly traveled to Quantico this week to perform the marriage ceremony for the daughter of a Sergeant Major he married the same day 20 years ago at Camp ding.

His first appointment was to a parish in Mahonoy City in the Philadelphia archdiocese. Friday the 13th of February, 1942, he went on active duty in the Navy. The major part of his time has been spent with the Marine Corps as a Navy chaplain.

From Camp Pendleton he was sent to Okinawa to become chap-lain of the 1st Marine Division. Next, to China and then back to Tarawa to prepare the dead for St. Robert's Parish in Chester, Pa., was his duty station for the next three years while he was on inactive duty. In 1950 he returned to active duty at Cherry Point and in 1951 became 1st Division's chaplain in Korea. After Korea he was stationed in Bainbridge and then on the battleship, Missouri.

on the battleship, Missouri.

From the aircraft carrier, Ticonderoga he returned to Cherry Point to become Wing chaplain.
After a tour at Rota, Spain he reported to the submarine base at
New London and on January 5,
1961 he replaced Father Joseph
C. Canty as base chaplain of Camp
Leieune.

Besides his sea stories Father Kelly is also known for his habit of renaming his friends with names that "seem more suitable." Many of his office staff have been thus "rebaptized."

In a public confession recently to his parishoners he admitted causing his office personnel undue suffering with his constant humming of "A Little Bitty Tear Let Me Down."

Me Down."

In spite of this and the fact that Father is a proud Philadelphian who, in his own words was "born in Philidelphia and with the help of the Lord will sometime return" members of his parish are hoping the Lord will delay it another 25 years or so.

Most of the men feel that the school will be familiar. Cpl. John A. Frank, former equipment operator from 8th Engineers said, "It will be hard to get through — sort of a second boot camp."

Corps Slashes Prices On Wool Dress Blues

Marine Corps Supply Depots now have a limited supply of the old-type dress blue uniforms and accessories for sale at reduced prices. According to a Marine Corps order, the prices have been cut to nearly one half of the original price.

Supply units are directed to begin accepting individual and unit requisitions July 1. Those requisitions having particular requirements that cannot be met with the present supply will be considered cancelled. All requisitions will be accepted on a first come, first served basis.

It is noted in the order that mixed uniforms (gabardine and the old-type Kersey wool) are authorized.

The supply system initiated the price cut in an attempt to exhaust the supply of the Kersey wool uniforms to make way for the new gabardine dress blues.

Among the Marines from Force Troops recently selected to attend drill instructors school at Parris Island are a cook, a mechanic platoon sergeants and equipment operators. All are unanimous in their enthusiasm over the prospect of becoming drill instructors SSgt. John F. McCorkle, a former supply chief, commented, "I am looking forward to drill in looking forward a successful tour."

Sgt. Murphy, in his former job, made many trips to Vieques and other places and his wife, rather than resenting his new job, comments, "I'm glad he's going — I expect it will be lonely, but seeing him every other night is better than every two months when he goes to Vieques."

Another reason for wanting to be a drill instructor was voiced by Sgt. Ronald L. Costantino—broadening his professional exeprience. He says, "Tve been in the Marine Corps for nine years and I've been a cook nine years. This duty will benefit my career and give me a chance to learn more."

Mrs. Costantino, a former Woman Marine is about the most enthusiastic of all the wives about their husbands' selection. She says, "Being a former WM, I like that kind of life. I know how much help this will be to him both personally and professionally."

SSgt. Edward E. Harrison, 8th Motor Transport Bn., who is senior man of the eleven regarding time in service, takes this view of the school, "I expect drill instructor school to be like any Marine Corps school, but more exacting.

They will require perfection where the others only strive for it."

SSgt. Harrison, who joined the Corps after having a brother killed during the Okinawa landing, never expected to become a drill instructor. He has served at Cherry Point, in the Korean War, at Albany, Ga., on I & I duty in Fort Dix, N. J., in Norfolk, and Okinawa. He chose drill instructor duty because, "I enjoy instructing. In the position of instructor I have a better opportunity to give my knowledge to others."

His wife Pat says, "It will be different. He will put more time in, but ever since he's wanted to be a drill instructor, I've been for it, and was hoping he'd pass."

The men and their wives feel that a successful tour on the drill field can have only one effect on their careers and that is to further it. As Sgt. Dobies, the only one of the group with time on the field says, "I like the duty—any kind of instructional duty. Before, I was a little worried about the rumors of being busted but actually its no different than anywhere else as far as that's concerned."

Freedom Still Hinges On 'Power For Peace'

Saturday Camp Lejeune will be open to the public as part of the nationwide observance of Armed Forces Day. In essence the men, women and children who come aboard to see how and what the Marines do are our employers and our charges. As Marines we are dedicated, as part of the Armed Forces team, to protect the citizens of our country to the extent of giving our lives if necessary.

It is important to remember that the impression these visitors get from us will be their impression of all the armed forces. If they find us competent, intelligent, sharp and determined, they will feel that our entire defense team is the same. If they go away feeling that Marines are not up to their job, then they will also lack confidence in all the services.

Armed Forces Day is more than a show of strength for Americans.

Chaplain's Corner

"Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." (Matt. 6:21)

The needs of the world today are no different than the needs of the time of our Lord. They are more complex—causing greater frustrations, but still the same. Christ came proclaiming, "Salvation is at hand—repent." The people heard but went their way. They said to themselves, "I have plenty of time," or, "Tm not ready for I have too much to do and get before I'm willing to change." The change required was too drastic and too demanding.

Today, people are saying and doing the same thing. Salvation requires a change in thinking, living, and talking. Too many have seen the need but have tried to rationalize by thinking they can live for Satan today and for Christ tomorrow. Sunday we thank God for our many blessings and Monday we blaspheme God in our conversation. Variety may be the spice of life in reference to some things but a constant and consistant life of living daily the principles of Christ-likeness is the need of today.

The way one thinks results in one's talking and thus one's thinking and talking is reflected in one's own salvation as measured by what one sacrifices for it, thus it is no wonder that it is rejected.

Note: Salvation? God thought it, Christ bought it, the Spirit wrought it, the Devil fought it—have you got it?

-William O. Graham, Chaplain, 1st Bn., 2d Marines.

MAJ. GEN. J. P. BERKELEY Commanding General

It is a day of understanding for all services between members of the team. The Marine Corps, alone, could do little without the competent, dedicated support of the Navy, Air Force, and Army. We are designed to augment, support and carry out specific missions which will contribute to an overall victory if our country ever goes to war our country ever goes to war

It is a day to consider the fact that Americans are still dying under enemy guns. These men are giving their lives to keep the free world strong enough to stay out of a gen-eral war. We must make sure that their sacrifices are not in vain.

To us, the Marine Corps is the best. We feel that our leadership, training and equipment is the best for the mission we are designed to perform. But we must never forget that there are other members of the team whose missions are equally important.

Remember this Saturday when America comes to call. Give them confidence in the entire team, not just a part. Show them that we are more than capable of performing our mission and make sure that they know that the rest of the team is equally competent.

Remember it yourself.

The United States As a symbol of the close working relationship be tween the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and the reserve components, open house will be the week's main feature at bases and facilities around the world. In addition, civilian guests in thousands of communities will see demonstrations and exhibits designed to increase their understanding of the nation's strength.

Last year, in the continental United States alone, more than 1,000 community programs were held featuring parades and displays. The Department of Defense has encouraged this type of program while still emphasizing the on-base, open house aspects of the observance.

The 1952 observance stressed the fact that the Armed Forces represent "Power for Peace." This slogan was considered so descriptive of the national effort that it has been used every year since.

In some overseas areas the phrase "Partners for Peace" is used to point up this country's free world alliances.

ARMED FORCES DAY PRAYER

All wise and merciful God, on this Armed Forces Day, 1962, as we dedicate anew our military power for the cause of peace, both at home and abroad, we do so in the spirit of our forefathers who believed that mankind is endowed by God and that freedom is inherent in man's inalienable rights.

As our forefathers determined to build an island of freedom in a world of tyranny and to establish a republic which would respect the human dignity of every individual, may we be determined to share this freedom and respect with all men everywhere.

We pray, O God, for the men and women who constitute the fabric of our military strength. We dedicate ourselves to unselfish service and pledge to walk in the paths of righteousness that we may effectively serve our fellow man, our country, and our God. Amen.

Tomorrow Evening

The Lejeune varsity baseball team will have their hands full tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday when they take on the Fort Devens Hornets at the Harry Agganis Field. It is not that we are doubting the ability of the locals because that cannot be done, as evidenced by only three losses so far this season. The fact that proves our statement is the team roster of the Hornets.

Of their 22 players, 10 have at least two years professional baseball experience, eight have semi-pro experience, and three have at least two years experience with a major college. The remaining player, pitcher Timmy Rounds, has two years experience with the Quebec Falcons in the Canadian League.

From a first glance, they look pretty dangerous, but just how dangerous they are we will find out tomorrow night at 7:30.

Devens opened their season against Fort Reliable League.

Devens opened their season against Fort Belvoir last Monday in the first of a three-game series but no reports as to the results were available at deadline.

as to the results were available at deadline.

Important Factor

One of the big factors in favor of the local varsity is that all baseball members of the conference are Army teams that are strengthened by the recent call-up of the Army reserve to active duty last fall. If these reservists were to be released in the near future, the field would be wide open for Lejeune. Maybe that will come sooner than we expect

Our Picks

The way we here at the GLOBE see it, at the end of the season, Lejeune should be sitting on top of the heap with a toss-up for second place between Ft. Eustis and Ft. Lee. In fourth place, Ft. Belvoir should have it all sewed up with Ft. Dix and Ft. Devens as the dark horse entries. From an early look at Ft. Monmouth, when they dropped two straight to the locals last week, the Signaleers should be a sure bet for the cellar.

Marines Get Easy Catch From High-Jumping Bass

Two Lejeune Marines, SSgt. James Proulx of "H" Co., 2d Bn., 8th Marines, and SSgt. Frank Truncellito of "A" Co., 2d Anti-Tank Bn., decided to go gigging for frogs Monday evening at Bayden's Pond in Richlands. As the evening turned out, the Marines returned without frogs, minus a boat, but with a story of a fish that didenot get away.

They had sat in their boat at the side of the pond for almost three hours and their total catch amounted to only six frogs.

amounted to only six frogs.

Not being discouraged, they decided to row to the other side of the pond. About halfway across there was a sudden splash in the botton of their craft. Proulx, a little scared, thinking that the intruder was a water moccasin, shouted at his partner to shine a flashlight on the guest.

When the beam of light hit their visitor, both men saw the tail of a fish. Proulx pounced on the fish and flattened it to the bottom of the boat. It was a 7-lb, 4-oz. largemouth bass, one of the largest ever caught in that area.

Just to make their evening complete, as they turned around and started to row towards shore, Truncellito noticed that there was a great deal of water beginning to accumulate in the bottom of the boat. When they were approximately 100 feet away from the

Devilpups Finish Season With Win At Swansboro

With Win At Swansboro

The Camp Lejeune High School Devilpups completed their Onslow County Conference season with a perfect 6-0 slate last Thursday with a 17-5 romp over the Swansboro Pirates at Swansboro.

Coach Tom McGhee's Devilpup squad, which came from behind to post a victory over Richlands to clinch their third consecutive conference title last week, had very little trouble downing Swansboro for the third straight time this season as the Pups put together two five run innings and a four run inning to win easily.

Lejeune's regular catcher, Jim Barrett, who played shortstop and first base in the Swansboro contest, was the hitting star of the game with a pair of doubles and singles in five trips to the plate. He also scored three of the Devilpups' twelve runs.

Mike Sellers, who pitched back to back no-hitters in his last two starts against Swansboro, came on in relief in the sixth inning and pitched two innings of hitless ball to extend his string of no-hit innings to 20 and 2/3.

In the fifth inning, Sellers aided the victory with a long home run over the centerfield fence.

Lejeune took an early lead by getting two quick runs in the first

Sgt. William D. Lehman, Hq. Co., H&S Bn., MCB, appeared at meritorious mast last week at battalion headquarters. Col. William H. Junghans, Jr., presented Sgt. Lehman with a letter of commendation for his work as the NCO in charge of the Base Education Office.

Sgt. Lehman served in this capacity from March 16 to April 16 of this year. The billet calls for a staff sergeant.

Sgt. Lehman was responsible for arranging and supervising USAFI General Education Development testing of Marines of Camp Lejeune units, conducting educational lectures, training Women Marines in their jobs as educational assistants and supervising the high school off-duty education program. Besides the routine work commensurate with his position, Sgt. Lehman conducted an educational training program for three Marines temporarily assigned to the Base Education Office for further training and assignment to other units as Education NCO's.

Sgt. Lehman was also commended for his work as the NCO in charge of the Battalion Color Guard. The letter termed as "outstanding" the supervision, appearance and general demeanor of the Color Guard in parades.

Commandant Sets Change For Reserves

A reorganization of the Marine Corps' Organized Reserve was announced April 30 by Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine Corps Commandant.

Affecting nearly half of the 218 ground units and all 86 aviation units now participating in the Corps' organized reserve program, the move will group units into ma-jor elements to form a 4th Marine Division and a 4th Marine Aircraft Wing within the reserve structure.

Reorganization will commence July 1, 1962.

July 1, 1962.

The Marine Corps now has on active-duty three divisions and three airwings.

The Marine Corps has over 200,000 trained Marines on its Ready Reserve rolls. Over 45,000 of this number participate in the Corps Organized Reserve Program, meeting regularly at training sites throughout the country. Organized reservists receive four days pay each month for participating in unit training.

The actual designation of Marine Reserve units into the elements of an air-ground team will enhance realistic long-range training and provide for rapid unit response in event of mobilization. This reorganization will place further emphasis on unit training and will be effected within currently authorized Reserve strength.

The number to be selected in each category, it was learn the boards to consider the nominations would mee mid-December 1962.

The 1963 program has had little change in the requirements necessary to qualify. The age limitations for regular warrant officers have been further pinpointed and the MoS's open for LDO and regular male WO appointments have been revised, but the balance of the
