A TIME FOR VIGILANCE

Our Resolution For 1961: Marines Must Be Ready

What will 1961 bring to the Marine Corps? We already have some glimmerings. The eight-man squad drill was abolished last month. There has been a major change in the policy for dependents going overseas. The M-14 rifle and new light machine gun are being phased in along with other new weapons and equipment.

From the early look, 1961 appears to be about the same kind of year Marines have always had. There will be alarms and flaps as trouble flares up in different places in the world. Rumors will have us going everywhere, doing everything but we hope things will calm down quickly as they have in the past.

But, if they don't, we must be prepared. This preparedness is not just being in good physical condition and having all our equipment in workable order. A big part of the preparedness is in the mind. We must be ready for combat, realize always the possibility of combat and know in our own minds that we can handle any job handed the Corps.

We are Marines. We are professional fighting men with only one actual mission—protecting the United States and its citizens. All of us sincerely hope that it will never be necessary for a Marine to fight again, but the possibility is always there. As international tension increases, and trouble breaks out, each of us must be prepared mentally to accept the change from barracks or the field to actual combat. Some, unfortunately, refuse to accept the fact that we can be dumb and happy Friday night. Liberty starts and in a fight day.

In 1950, when the Korean war started, Camp Lejeune was cleaned out like an orange soked dry. Every available man was shipped to Camp Pendleton to fill out the 1st Marine Division. A lot of us had discounted the possibility of war because of our nuclear weapons. We learned, at the Pusan Perimeter, Inchon, the Chosin Reservoir and other places, that the Bomb doesn't stop war.

So 1961, at Camp Lejeune, looks to be much of the same as 1960. The Division and other FMF troops will make their trips to Vieques and the Med, and Base will continue its household and supply chores. Each of us has an important job, regardless of whether we are a rifleman in an infantry company or a clerk at Marine Corps Base. How well we do our jobs can determine the outcome of the future and possibly save the lives of a lot of Marines.

We make only one resolution for 1961.

We will be ready.

Library News

New Books

These books are available at the Central Library, Bldg. 62, or through request from area branches at Montford Point, Courthouse Bay, Rifle Range and the Tenth Marines. Books may be reserved by telephone.

BLUE-WATER BOUNDARY by Alida Malkus is the story of the "blue-water" boundary—the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River—between the United States and her neighbor to the north.

GRAPE AND CANISTER by L. Vann Loan Naisawald is a history of the Field Artillery of the Army of the Potomac, 1861-1865.

WALK EGYPT by Vinnie Williams is a novel about a young girl, Toy, the only responsible person in an irresponsible family. Set in Georgia, the humorous, wise and colorful talk of the people brings the writing to life.

GOODBYE DOLLY GRAY by Rayne Kruger is concerned with the Boer War—a war fought without outstanding heroism and often with glaring incompetence on both sides, which presaged many techniques and weapons used in World War II.

TWICE LOST by Phyllis Paul is a mystery story, like the "Turn of the Screw," is not only a novel of suspense but also an exploration of the twilight territories of the mind.

CEREMONY IN LONE TREE by Wright Morris is a novel in which the central theme is the confrontation of the past with the present. The author won the National Book Award with his "The Field of Vision."

CAREERS IN EDUCATION by Richard Wynn is a forthright introduction to careers in the field of education which realistically and honestly describes the satisfactions and frustrations, the opportunities and limitations of teaching as a profession.

If You Ask Me:

WHAT ARE YOUR RECOMMENDATIONS FOR CONTROLLING TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS?

LCPL. CHARLES WALLACE, "I" Co., 3rd Bn., Second Marines — I've known quite a few people who've been arrested or fined for violating traffic regulations. From the attitude most of them have after the damage has been done, both before and after the arrest, I strongly conclude that fines should be heavier. I am definitely against this mild action toward the driver. Either this, or the license should be taken away altogether. I believe both military and civilian traffic policemen are much too mild.

CAPT. ROBERT G. HOUT, Hq. Bn., 2nd Division — As far as controlling traffic violators here at Lejeune, I believe there should be more strict disciplinary action by commanding officers. Personnel should be restricted, and, if serious, reduced in rank. I also believe men over 45 years of age should be required to undergo an annual driver's test. A suggestion, the three-lane system at Holcomb Blvd. should be handled the same in the morning as it is in the evening. During this time, speed should be set at a minimum. Slow drivers are just as hazardous as fast drivers and during the morning and evening rush, the cars should be steadily moving.

2ND LT. F. L. CRONHARDT, Woman Marine Co., Hq. Bn., MCB — The only recommendation I can make for controlling traffic violators is to simply be more strict. Base police as well as civilian police should forget this business of "first offense, only a warning." These actions only leave room and possibility even greater for an accident. If authorities clamp down after the first rule-breaking, accidents and traffic violators are bound to lessen.

SGT. PABLO GONZALEZ, Traffic Investigation Department, MCB — If we could only instill into drivers the importance of keeping their eyes on the road at all times, the number of traffic violators would be decreased. When a driver is alert and pays attention to what he is doing, driving-wise, there is little chance for some of the foolish accidents which occur so frequently today. I notice a lot of this "one eye here, one eye there" business in the vicinity of the Central Exchange, especially young Marine drivers. Another thing is the close fender-to-fender driving at 4:30 p.m. when Holcomb Blvd. changes to three lanes out. Going at a rapid rate of speed and following close at this time is certainly a poor policy. As the old saying goes, "It's better to waste a minute than to die the next."

SGT. JACKIE L. ETHRIDGE, Traffic Investigation Department, MCB — A larger quantity and better quality of law enforcement, uniform traffic regulations, and a uniform court system go hand in hand, with the certainty of punishment deserving more importance than the severity of punishment. This is not in effect today and, because of this, the accident situation is bad. Reports have proven this action will reduce accidents.

Roller skates, scooters, bicycles, wagons and sleds have gladdened the hearts of many children this Christmas, but they can bring sorrow and tragedy to many families if the children are not doubly careful when using their gift of "rolling stock" on city streets and suburban roads, warns the N. C. State Motor Club.

"Motorists should be doubly watchful for unexpected forays of children on the streets at this season," said Thomas B. Watkins, president of the motor club. "Youngsters unskilled in the use of skates or bikes are a particular hazard. Their safety will depend in great measure on the careful operation of motor vehicles.

"Parents also must take their share of responsibility for child safety. Their duty is to impress on children the dangers of traffic-burdened streets and to instill in the youngsters a sense of carefulness in the use of their gifts," he cautioned.

During a stopover at Hong Kong which lasted almost a month, men of the Navy Transport TALLADEGA contributed $570 to cover tuition costs for 11 Hong Kong children in a local grammar school for the next two years. Before departing, TALLADEGA crewmen hosted the children aboard ship and treated them to ice cream, cake and a tour of the ship.

Chaplain's Corner

In one of the decisive battles of World War I, disastrous reports poured into the headquarters of Marshal Foch, the commander of the Allied forces. The great general, faced with reverses that would have overwhelmed most of us, never lost heart. When things were at their worst, he drafted his famous order which is now in all textbooks of military strategy:

"My center is giving way, my right is pushed back, my left is wavering. The situation is excellent. I shall attack!"

The success that followed the Allied attack broke the spine of the armies of the Central Powers.

There is an old and true saying that the battle is won by the force which stays in the field for the last 15 minutes. A boxer becomes a champion by staying in the ring and punching right up to the last bell. The surgeon who doesn't lose his nerve, but fights beyond hope, is the one who saves the "hopeless" cases.

Force-In-Readiness

Will 1961 see the questions of national defense resolved? Although all-out assault against the United States is believed to be the greatest danger facing this nation, most government sources feel that the biggest long-term threat to the nation's security is the bit-by-bit loss of parts of the free world to limited and camouflaged aggression.

Marines based at Camp Lejeune believe they have the answer to the menace posed by these so-called "brush-fire" wars. Prepared to go at a moment's notice, the 2nd Division, a part of our nation's force-in-readiness, is a completely ready amphibious force prepared to meet the challenge of either limited or world-wide war.

Combining the experience gained during World War II and Korea with the vertical envelopment concept of warfare, Marines of the 2nd Division are trained to hit and hit hard wherever needed.

Working with elements of the Atlantic Fleet and the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean, Marines of the 2nd Division are prepared for quick action against aggression anywhere. Utilizing the mobility of the U. S. Fleet on the high seas, the Navy-Marine Corps team can move into troubled areas where American interests and world peace are threatened; ready to put their amphibious skills to work.

Marines of the 2nd Division and the 2nd Marine Air Wing at Cherry Point train constantly for their part as the nation's force-in-readiness team, both at the Camp Lejeune Amphibious Base and at the 2nd Division training area in Vieques, Puerto Rico. This training insures that the individual Marine maintains the high degree of skill required for execution of the Division's assigned mission.

Extensive training in the post-World War II concept of vertical envelopment, whereby helicopter-borne assault troops supplement Marines landed across the beach, an important part of 2nd Division training. Because of the increasing emphasis placed on the capability to fight and win wars of limited objectives, in limited areas, employing limited means, the Division striking force must be mobile and flexible, and deliver maximum firepower from a minimum number of men.

The vertical assault concept meets these needs. Mobility is achieved by making all assault elements of the landing force helicopter-transportable. This development, along with the use of new weapons and equipment reflected in organization of the Division's combat units.

The Marine Division of World War II is a thing of the past. Tanks and heavy artillery are no longer an integral part of the Division. Although it is now lighter in manpower and equipment, the Division has greatly increased its shock and firepower.

Pointing up this increased firepower and mobility is the arsenal of modern weapons used by Division Marines, from the infantryman's rifle to the self-propelled recoilless "artillery."

The new M-14 rifle, which is replacing the M-16 carried by Marine riflemen, double the rifle platoon's firepower. The Ontos, a tank killer carrying six 105mm recoilless rifles, has more firepower than a platoon of Marines. These infantry weapons from the machine gun to the 105mm howitzer give the Division the mobile, hard-striking force required of today's Fleet Marine Force organization.

Utilizing some of the most difficult terrain to be found anywhere, the 2nd Division trains its Marines to the fine edge required of our present-day striking force. From sandy beaches to the swamp-filled lowlands and tangled underbrush of the pine forests, Camp Lejeune offers one of the finest areas for the training of its fighting forces.

The training program for the individual Marine is hard, grinding work. Physical fitness of the individual Marine is absolutely essential. Maintaining the degree of fitness necessary to accomplish the Division's mission as a part of the nation's amphibious force-in-readiness requires constant field training under combat conditions.

With the introduction of new weapons and new ways of employing them, the Marines of the 2nd Division, in all probability, will never again make the kind of landings made by Marines at Guadalcanal, Saipan, Iwo Jima, or Inchon. However, constant training and stress placed on the individual man, along with the new helicoptered assault concept, assures that the Marine of the 2nd Division is ready now and in the future.

A complete fighting force, however, requires more than just one element. Various activities and units at Camp Lejeune provide the 2nd Division with the support necessary to get the job done.

Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force Atlantic, gives the 2nd Division the punch to go with its striking force. Because the Division itself is lightly equipped for high mobility, Force Troops, a separate command, provides additional logistical and fire support.

Containing most of the specialist talents required to give the Division its balanced attack, Force Troops is made up of such units as Air and Naval Gunfire Liaison; Reconnaissance; Artillery, which furnishes missile and heavy artillery support; tanks and communications;

The Infantry Training Regiment, located at Camp Geiger, a part of Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, gives young Marines their first experience in Marine Corps tactics. Marines upon graduation from recruit training at Parris Island, S. C., are transferred to the Infantry Training Regiment at Camp Lejeune.

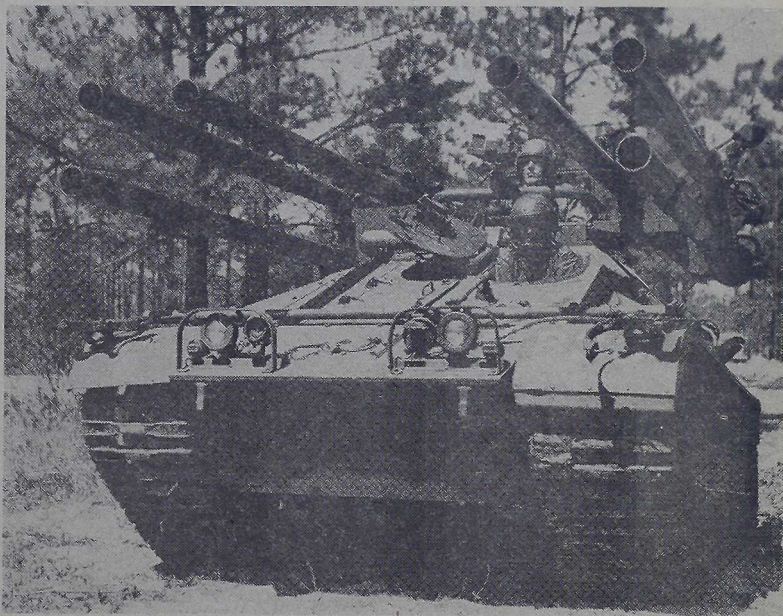

Normal rotation assures the 2nd Division of getting the experienced non-commissioned officers and commissioned officers it needs. However, most of the younger Marines join the Division from the Infantry Training Regiment. At the Training Regiment the young Marine receives a concentrated one-month course in infantry tactics and weapons that will provide a basis for further training with Fleet Marine Force units.

Camp Lejeune is also noted throughout the Marine Corps for the fine service schools which furnish not only the 2nd Division, but also the entire Marine Corps with special skills required for efficient operation.

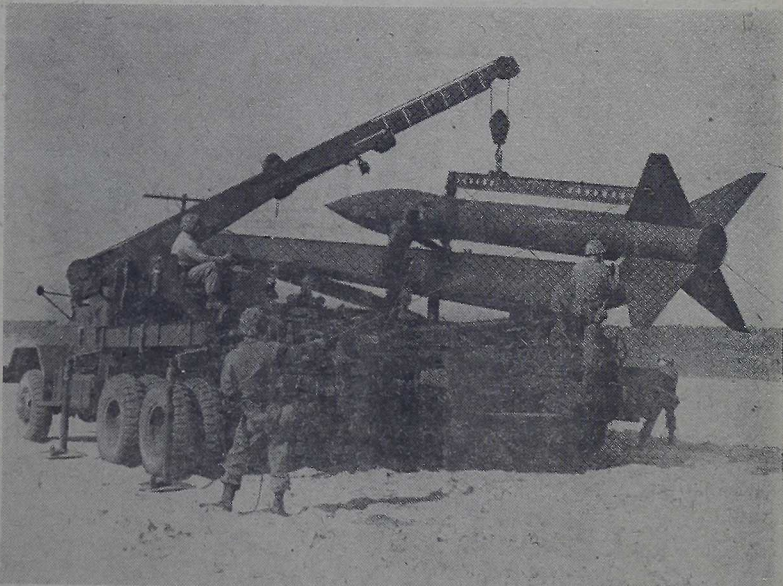

Supply Schools at Montford Point graduates trained Food Service, Motor Transport, Supply, and Communications Marines. The Marine Corps Engineer Schools at Courthouse Bay train Marines for duty with Engineer units and teach courses in combat engineering, engineer equipment and utilities. These are the only schools within the Marine Corps training Marines in these specialist fields.

Whether a member of the 2nd Division, Force Troops, or of the Base activities, Marines at Camp Lejeune believe the answer to our nation's readiness is stated best by President Washington. Addressing Congress on Jan. 8, 1790, Washington said, "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

Famous 'Arkansas Travelers'

Famous Arkansas Travelers At Field House Sunday Night

Hazel Walker's famed Arkansas Travelers will make a return visit to Camp Lejeune Jan. 8 to meet the Camp Basketball Team at Goettge Memorial Field House. Game time is 8:15. No admission will be charged for this entertaining exhibition game and the public is cordially invited to attend. Miss Walker, the sole owner of this team, known as "Miss Basketball," was selected on the mythical All-American Team 11 times, a record which has never been topped.

During the 14 years in amateur ball, Hazel played on five National Championship teams and runner-up three years.

A few years back this All-American performer won a spot with Greats of Sports World in America's Athletic Hall of Fame—"The Helm's Athletic Foundation" of Los Angeles, Calif. Miss Walker took her place with such stars as Babe Didrickson Zaharias, Golf's Patty Berg and Marlene Bauer Hagge; Helen Wills, Pauline Betz and Louise Brough of tennis fame.

In 1959 Arkansas had its first "Hall of Fame" and Miss Walker was selected to this coveted honor as one of its first five, her being the only female, among such greats as Bill Dickey, ex-New York Yankee catcher, and Bill Lee Howell, New York Giant football coach, and three others.

The girls hail from Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas—all Southern "Belles." They include Frances "Goose" Garrouette from Van Buren, Ark., coach, manager and captain of the team, a 10-year veteran, the greatest professional player of all times, and who averages 40-45 points per game. Goose plays pivot—excellent "hook" shots from left or right, and a sensational "unorthodox" one-handed push shot.

An All-American selection of Professional Women's Teams nine years and who displays fancy ball-handling exhibitions during warm-up every night, Frances is 5'11", weighs 155 and is 27 years old.

Toby Rayborn from Tylertown, Mississippi, Only 5'8", she is very strong, alert and the most outstanding ball-handler and passer in professional women's basketball today. Toby is in her sixth season with the Arkansas Travelers and is considered by Miss Walker to be the "play-maker" of the Travelers.

Toby starred through four years of high school, two years at SW Mississippi Junior College and her first and only Women's National Amateur Tournament ever to attend. She was selected on the mythical All-American Team for her outstanding performance. She teams with Goose Garrouette on the floor in setting up "shenigans" that baffle opponents.

Virginia "Jennie" McGuffee, Monticello, Miss., is no newcomer to the pro ranks. She is playing her fifth season with the Travelers and Hazel calls her a "natural-born athlete." She is very fast, aggressive and an outstanding performer at all times.

Jennie has an over-head shot, which is difficult to block, and her play on the backboards is outstanding. She, like Toby, was a star on the SW Mississippi Junior College team and attends Mississippi Southern, Hattiesburg, Miss., off season and will soon have her P. E. degree.

Gina Wood, formerly from Van Buren, Ark., now residing in El Paso, Tex., is back again after being selected "Rookie of the Year" her first year in pro ball. She is now in her third season as a Traveler and rated the smallest player in pro basketball. She is only 5'7" and weighs only 125 pounds. Gina out rebounds six-foot men and is rated the finest on defense and she drives through for lay-ups with finesse. She is only 21, cute, pretty, and was tabbed the "Darling of the Hardwood," and is a crowd favorite.

Lucretia Taylor from Kilmichael, Miss., is playing her second season and no doubt will be one of the greatest this season with one year's experience as a pro. She is 5'9", aggressive and has a jump shot that is fantastic. She is only 18—the youngest member of the team.

Mary Graham, Walker, La., is playing her second year after being out during the 1959-60 season. She made an outstanding record during the 1958-59 season as an Arkansas Traveler. She stands 6'2", weighs 158 and is only 20 years old. She is strong, very fast, a good shot from pivot, front court, has a jump shot and is an outstanding all-around performer.

Quantico Wins Annual Holiday Tourney; Meet Local Basketball Team Tomorrow

Camp Lejeune's top flight basketball team will carry their 14-2 season record against Quantico Jan. 6 and 7 in what is considered the toughest series on their 1960-61 schedule. In preparation for their Lejeune series, the Quantico Marines romped over Belmont Abbey, 84-62 Dec. 15 in the finals of the seventh annual Christmas Basketball Tournament held at Marine Corps Schools. This marked the sixth win for Quantico in the annual carnival at MCS. The Leathernecks' only loss occurred during the fourth tourney to Providence.

Led by Robert Mealy, one time high scorer and rebounder for Manhattan College, Quantico pulled ahead after a short point-for-point battle in the first minutes of play.

During the scuffle for the lead early in the game, Jim Mullen of Belmont sank a set shot, putting the Crusaders in the lead by one point. Hank Gretkowski for Quantico quickly answered with a lay-up and the Marines were off. High scorers, Mealy with 27 and Art Musselman with 22, hit time and time again, pushing Quantico beyond reach. Shortly before the half, Belmont's slight surge cut the Leatherneck lead to 42-33 with the haltime horn.

Second Half Surges

The second half proved too much for Belmont. Mealy and Musselman kept hitting while Bobby Miller and Steve Kemp snatched the ball repeatedly from the Crusaders, setting up additional shots for the Marine dead-eyes. Belmont failed to even threaten Quantico during the second half and bowed to the victorious Leathernecks 84-62.

Earlier in the day, Jacksonville U. and American U. battled for the consolation award. This time, American U. took an early lead and held it throughout the game for a 82-68 victory. High man for Jacksonville was Roger Strickland with 32 and for American U. it was Bob Lindquist with 26.

Tournament Summary

A summary of the three-day affair shows Jacksonville U. over St. Michael's, 100-60; American U. took Buffalo U. 67-65; Quantico over Atlantic Christian 78-59, and Belmont Abbey over Philadelphia Textile Institute 66-64. On the second day of competition, Philadelphia Textile defeated St. Michael's 93-71; Buffalo U. over Atlantic Christian 75-59; Belmont Abbey over Jacksonville U. 73-71, and Quantico over American U. 83-73. The second day's action gave St. Michael's a 79-72 win over Atlantic Christian; Philadelphia Textile over Jacksonville U. 82-68, and in the final championship game it was Quantico 84, Belmont Abbey 62.

Local Boxers Prepared For Army Champs

Ring fans of the Camp Lejeune area will see a star-studded battle as the local scrappers open their 1961 boxing season against Ft. Campbell Jan. 11 at Goettge Memorial Field House, beginning at 8:15 p.m. The local boxers will place their two Olympic scrappers and one All-Marine winner against five All-Army and one All-Air Force champions in what is considered to be the toughest foe they will meet this year.

Leading the fight for the "Marines" will be All-Marine and Olympic heavyweight Percy Price, recently transferred to Lejeune from Quantico. Backing up Price's bid will be colorful Ray Phillips, All-Marine and Olympic tryout, 165-pound winner. Also challenging the soldiers for a victory will be Tommy Zangla, All-Marine 132-pound champ and a ring favorite at Lejeune, and light welterweight Willie Davis, Lejeune's most improved fighter of last season.

Parade of Champs

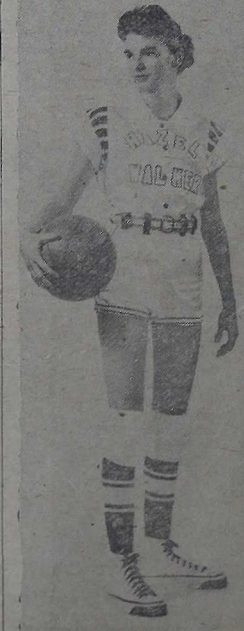

Heading the champions of Ft. Campbell will be former Air Force middleweight champ, Bobby Foster, and Army light middleweight Ed Crook. Both scrappers won their respective interservice titles here in May, 1960, during the Interservice Matches.

Crooks later went on to win the Olympic 165-pound title, while teammate Foster suffered a cut eye and was eliminated after being considered the best amateur middleweight in the world.

Following Crook and Foster on the Army card will be Bob Carmody, 1960 All-Army flyweight champ; Johnny Joiner, from the Olympic Trials; David (Bang Bang) Harris, '60 All-Army featherweight champ; Prentiss McGlory, 1960 All-Army light-middleweight champion; James King, 1958 runner-up Junior National AAU Championship; Will Carter, USAREUR Champ, and Jim Carter and Roy Owens, both 3rd Army Champions.

'Marines' Salvage Second Place Finish After Third Annual Holiday Cage Classic

Camp Lejeune's basketball team suffered an 89-70 defeat to slide into the runner-up slot of the Third Annual Christmas Invitational Basketball Tournament here last week. The new classic champion Pikeville Bears overlooked all odds and whispers that the game would be close but in favor of the defending champion Lejeunites, as they handed the "Marines" their only loss of the tourney. Pikeville's stalwart Donis Butcher, who paced the champs for the three-game event with

75 points, was voted as the tournament's most valuable player, while Charlie Bryan of Carson-Newman was lauded for his sportsmanlike play in the classic.

Lejeune's top scorer, Jack Sullivan, set a new tourney scoring record with 95 points for three games while Carson-Newman's Cris Jones broke the previous record of 12 free throws in a single contest as he dropped 16 for 20 foul shots against Camp Lejeune.

Third place in the annual event went to Carson Newman College of Tennessee, while Elon of North Carolina, University of Baltimore, Catawba of North Carolina, Georgia Southern and Concord of West Virginia, finished fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth respectively.

Pikeville gained a chance for the title game after defeating Elon in the tourney opener 89-66 and a second-day victory over the University of Baltimore, 74-50.

Moving into the finals, Lejeune defeated Catawba 79-63 in the final contest of opening day and swamped Carson Newman in the semi-finals, 102-79.

Pikeville Leads Early

Falling behind 15-5 early in the initial period, Lejeune came to within one point of tying the game at 18-19, but saw foul shots and one-handers from outside their defense slowly stretch the Pikeville lead which totaled a 40-34 half-time deficit.

Taking advantage of their lead over the locals, the Bears commanded the backboards, slowed down their offense, and forced Lejeune into scrambling for the ball.

In their attempt to get their hands on the ball, Lejeune's speedsters caused 39 fouls and saw Pikeville sink 37 out of 64 from the free-throw line. Butcher scored 15 points during the final game, all from the foul line.

Rebounder Vern Woods with 19 points was second in the scoring effort behind teammate Paul Setser who stripped the cords for 23 points.

Sullivan led the team in rebounding with 10. He scored on pushing him well over the previous tourney record of 87 markers in the three-game event.

In the other final day's action, Cris Jones and Jerry Ellington of Carson-Newman, each hitting for 26 tallies, moved the Eagles into third place with a 95-69 thumping over the University of Baltimore.

Other action saw Elon college upset a favored Catawba College, 72-57, slipping into fourth place and sending their opponents skidding to sixth.

Georgia Southern snapped a nip-and-tuck contest late in the first half, to hand Concord College of West Virginia their third consecutive loss of the tourney, 93-78.

Bartyzel Rolls Lucky Fives To 2-1 Victory

Six consecutive strikes by Capt. H. R. Bartyzel were the margin of victory last Friday as the Lucky Five bowlers from Marine Corp Base downed Force Troops 2-1 in a roll-off for first place in the initial half of the Officers Bowling League.

Bartyzel rolled a 233 third game to boost the Lucky Five to a 2847 series and the first-half championship. Under league rules, the win moves the Lucky Five team into the finals against the winner of the second-half play which gets underway this week.

In Friday's roll-off, Lucky Five took the first of a best two out of three series but fell 11 pins short of victory in the second game. With the roll-off even at 1-1, the Base Headquarters bowlers caught fire with Bartyzel leading the way.

Bartyzel pocketed the ball during each of the first six frames of the final game, was open in the 7th frame and marked out for a 589 series. High man for Force Troops was Lt. Col. W. L. Batchelor with a 570, followed closely by the league's most improved bowler, C. Howard with

HABIT—"It's just a habit with me," was Sgt. Maj. William A. Umlauf's reply to Maj. Gen. James P. Berkeley, 2nd Marine Division commander, after the general had given him the Marine Corps oath of enlistment. This was Umlauf's 10th enlistment. The Tenth Marine Regiment sergeant major was reenlisted in General Berkeley's office. (Photo by SSGt. A. L. Cooper)

After 29 Years' Service

Sgt. Maj. Umlauf Reenlists; Recalls Old Corps Exploits

"Sergeant Major, this gives me extreme pleasure," said Maj. Gen. James P. Berkeley, commanding general of the 2nd Marine Division. "It's just a habit with me, General," replied Sgt. Maj. William A. Umlauf, top enlisted man in the Tenth Marine Regiment. Sergeant Major Umlauf had reported to General Berkeley's office to raise his right hand and accept the Marine Corps' oath of enlistment for the 10th time, a "habit" that had started in April, 1921, and which for the venerable artilleryman has failed to shake off after more than 29 years of active duty.

The sergeant major had tried to "kick" his habit once. Near the end of his first enlistment, his mother died and Umlauf left the Corps to raise his younger brother and sister. When they became of age and could fend for themselves, he reenlisted for a lifetime career.

One of the last of the "Old Breed" Marines, Sergeant Major Umlauf has a wealth of sea stories and a storehouse of memories of what it was really like in the "Old Corps." He remembered the time in 1922 when an Admiral Phillips was so impressed with the young Marine's neatness that he took his picture and labeled him the "cleanest man in the Marine Corps."

"That wasn't too much of a feat," Umlauf recalled. "There were only 17,000 Marines in the Corps then."

During his 29-year career, Sergeant Major Umlauf has served in nearly every type of Marine Corps unit, circled the globe eight times, and been in every one of the 50 states except Florida. As evidence that he is truly the last of the Marine Corps' "Old Breed," the sergeant major wears an embroidered cannon on the sleeve of his dress uniform—signifying that he is a qualified cannoneer and thoroughly checked out with the 3, 5, 6, and 8-inch naval guns.

When asked to recall some of the high points of his service, Umlauf replied, "There has been so much that happened to me that it is hard to remember them all." But his fabulous memory recalled the details of a 500-mile march from Quantico, Va., to Gettysburg, Pa., when he was serving as an orderly for the Corps' legendary hero, General Smedley D. Butler. He also remembered being chided by fellow members of a Navy racing crew. Umlauf, who was serving aboard ship, stroked the crew while wearing his dress uniform.

Before General Berkeley accepted the sergeant major's oath of enlistment, he read two factitious defense reports, citing Umlauf for wearing civilian clothes in the Staff Noncommissioned Officers Club and improperly displaying the Marine Corps emblem on the front of his automobile.

After the ceremony, Sergeant Major Umlauf was asked if this would be his last enlistment. His answer was emphatic, "No! I'll reenlist just as long as the Marine Corps will let me."

Base Public Works Officer Receives Orders To Illinois

Cdr. Norman C. Harvey, CEC, USN, public works officer of the Marine Corps Base since May, 1958, will leave here Feb. 8 for duty with the Naval Air Reserve Training Command, Glenview, Ill., it was reported this week. He will be relieved of his duties here by Capt. W. W. Moore, CSC, USN, who is currently serving in Washington, D. C., in the office of the special assistant for public works planning for President Eisenhower.

In his new assignment with the Air Reserve Training Command, Commander Harvey will serve as Assistant Staff Civil Engineer.

A graduate of the University of Florida, Harvey was commissioned a reserve lieutenant (jg) in the Engineer Corps in 1942. Called to active duty for World War II, he went overseas in November, 1943, as executive officer of the 140th Naval Construction Battalion. He remained in that post until May, 1945.

After being released to inactive duty in 1946, Harvey was employed as an engineer with a heavy construction company in Miami.

Again called to active duty, he served as Public Works officer at the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Whiting Field, Fla., from 1951 to 1953. In February of that year he was transferred to the Staff of the Commander, Naval Forces, Marianas, on Guam.

He was assigned to the 13th Naval District public works office in Seattle, Wash., in December, 1954, and served there until transferred to Camp Lejeune for his first tour of duty with the Marine Corps.

As public works officer here, Commander Harvey represented the 5th Naval District as Resident Officer in Charge of Construction. In addition, he served the commanding general of the Marine Corps Base as Officer in Charge of Construction. In two capacities, he was instrumental in improvement and rehabilitation projects amount to between $11 and $12 million.

Commander Harvey considers his efforts in desolving the Lejeune power system and switching to public power to be his most significant achievement here. His "biggest headache" has been the still-in-the-air 800-unit Capehart housing construction.

People Cheer Group 'Copter After Mission

ISABEL SEGUNDA, VIQUES—A Marine helicopter saved the life of a dying woman on Christmas Eve by transporting her from her village to a hospital in Figardo, Puerto Rico, 20 miles from San Juan.

The helicopter, from Marine Helicopter Transport Squadron-264, of MAG-26, New River Air Facility, presently attached to the Landing Force SOLANT AMITY aboard the USS Hermitage, LSD-34, on a South Atlantic good will tour, had landed at the Marine Base here, Camp Garcia, when the pilot, Capt. William Boone, of East Paterson, N. J., was asked by the base's commander if it would be possible for him to air-lift a dying woman to a hospital in Figardo.

The captain returned to the ship to refuel, and was granted permission.

In a matter of minutes the "helo" landed outside of the home, and the woman was loaded aboard the helo, accompanied by her son.

After a short, not so bumpy ride, the "copter landed on the front lawn of the hospital, and an ambulance took over from there.

Cheers of approval came from the quickly gathering crowd as the "copter's rotor blades began to spin and lifted her into the air, leaving behind a more than grateful woman and family.

Members of the crew were Captain Boone, pilot, 2nd Lt. Dominick Bosco, co-pilot, of Thompsonville, Conn.; LCpl Richard Gifford, crew chief, of Syracuse, N. Y., and LCpl James J. Cahill, press information man, of Clifton, N. J.

January Gazette Features Amphibious Force Article

Writing in the January GAZETTE, Capt. B. H. Liddell Hart says there's "Danger On The Flanks Of Nato." In his fourth article assessing our current strategic situation he takes a clear hard look at defense capabilities as they are embodied in NATO. Our main NATO effort has gone into the defense of western and southern Europe. But we are weak, the eminent military writer points out, on the exposed flanks leading to control of the Atlantic and Middle East.

The January issue is the first of a planned series of special issues built around the theme of NATO and its requirements for strategically-mobile Marines.

"The LPH: Teamwork in Action" by 1st Lt. John A. Maxwell; "Battalion Air Mount Out" by Maj. Bruce F. Meyers; "Embarkation Via MSTs" by Lt. Col. F. A. Long, and "Fast Amphibious Force" by Capt. R. A. Stephens support this theme with concrete ideas on how to implement this force.

In the hot dope column, the "Marine Corps Association Newsletter" will be the latest scoop on the GMST and promotion and a chart showing the redesignation of transplacement battalions.

the hospital in preparation for surgery there early this year. Dr. Hood said he did not know when the hospital would reschedule the appointment.

The plight of Joy and the Masten family was brought to light in a story published by the Camp Lejeune GLOBE and all major news media of North Carolina on Dec. 22. Determined to prove the truth of the statement, "Once a Marine, Always a Marine," the Marines of Camp Lejeune began collecting money to assist.

Marine MSgt. Frank S. Hoffman and civil service employee Henry Jarman, coordinators of the drive, this week described it as a "big success." "We have received a total of $4,042.76 as of today (Jan. 3) and are very well pleased. Sergeant Hoffman said, "We plan to discontinue the campaign on Jan. 9 and feel that everyone will have had an opportunity to contribute by that time. Every unit and organization at Camp Lejeune has donated generously and we have received contributions from civilians throughout Eastern North and South Carolina. We are most thankful and I know that Mr. Masten is, too."

The North Carolina State Board of Health and Duke University Hospital will bear the cost of the operation. Money resulting from the Marine drive will be used to pay previous medical expenses for which the Mastens now owe and to provide funds for transportation and maintenance of the family at Durham during Joy's hospitalization. All other money collected will be turned over to the Hospital to aid other patients.

Appreciation

We wish to express our appreciation for everything that was done for us at the time of our son's death on Dec. 16, 1959. William K. H.

CMC Praises Air Force Maj. For Job Here

Air Force Maj. C. V. Lang, Marine Corps Base Veterinarian, received a letter of appreciation from the Commandant of the Marine Corps last Tuesday.

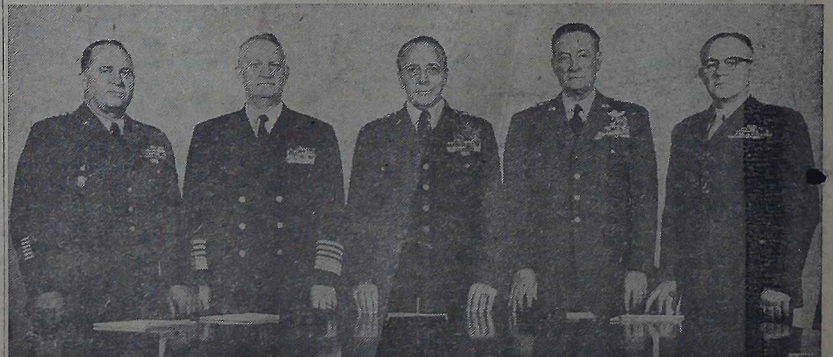

The letter, delivered with congratulatory comments by Maj. Gen. R. B. Luckey, commanding general, MCB, expressed the Commandant's appreciation for Major Lang's performance with the Marine Corps Base Food Inspection Service.

The letter stated, in part, "The Inspector General, Marine Corps has . . . informed me of the excellent services being provided by you in the operation of the food inspection services at Camp Lejeune.

"Your performance and vigilance in monitoring deliveries of supplies from vendors resulted in an estimated savings of $29,000 to the Marine Corps. Please accept my sincere appreciation . . .

"Your devotion to duty reflects credit upon the Veterinary Corps of which you are a member." Signed, David M. Shoup, Commandant of the Marine Corps.

Major Lang, one of two Air Force Veterinarians at Camp Lejeune, joined the Marine Corps in June, 1953.

Staff Group Will Install Club Chiefs

Club officer farewells will be carried out in a holiday theme this afternoon for the Marine Corps Air Facility Staff Wives Club, New River, as they conduct their formal installation ceremonies for the new year. The affair is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. in Vecchio's, formerly Harvey's, Restaurant, New River. All members of the club and their guests are cordially invited to attend.

Special guests for the afternoon will be Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. R. Little Jr., commanding officer, MCAF, and Honorary Chairman for the Staff Wives Club, respectively. Installation officer will be Chaplain Elwin N. Sire, Lt. Cmdr., USN, Protestant Chaplain at the Air Facility.

Incoming officers for the group are listed as follows: President, Mrs. C. J. Gallagher; vice-president, Mrs. J. J. MacMillan; recording secretary, Mrs. J. R. Neece; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. W. Hodges; and treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Bailey.

Outgoing officers for the 1960 club year are president, Mrs. W. Mortimer; vice-president, Mrs. D. E. Frost; recording secretary, Mrs. C. J. Gallagher; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. R. Cruddas; and treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Covell.

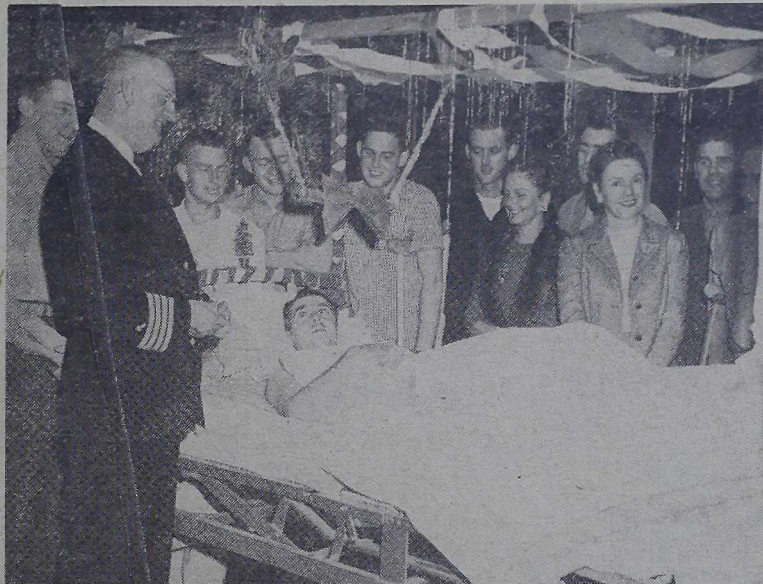

The presidential gavel will be handed over to the new president, Mrs. C. J. Gallagher, after which the formal induction program will be held.

Gifts Distributed

Over 100 gaily-wrapped packages were distributed to the patients at U. S. Naval Hospital on Monday, Dec. 19, by the New Hanover County Garden Club of Wilmington, N. C. These ladies come to Camp Lejeune each year and distribute gifts to those who would not be going home for the holidays.

Their president, Mrs. Gardner D. Greer, was unable to come with them but they were represented by Mrs. R. C. McCarroll, first vice-president; Mrs. A. H. Goodnight, second vice-president; and publicity chairman, Mrs. Jack Glazier of Crepe Myrtle Garden Club, Mrs. A. W. Bount and Miss Margaret Weather.

Captain L. E. Bach, commanding officer of USNH, was on hand to greet the group and thank them for their generosity on behalf of the patients.

EM International Wives Include Thirteen Nations

More than 30 members, representing more than 13 nations, are presently enrolled on the membership roster for the newly organized Enlisted International Wives Club here, as reported by Miss Jane Geagan, Jacksonville USO, and Chaplain Martin Siegel, Jewish chaplain, both directors of the group. Organized for the wives of all sergeants (E-5) and below connected with Camp Lejeune, the club exists for the benefit of foreign-born wives of enlisted personnel here who might feel ill-at-ease because of the their background of native customs and social behavior of their adopted lands. Another major importance of the club is to strengthen and adjust wives concerning the role as a Marine wife.

Because of the vast difference in customs and habits of the women, it has been decided to devote the meetings to acquainting the club members with one another before going into a wider coverage of nations. Some of the countries already represented are Germany, Israel, England, Japan, Italy, Mexico, several South American countries, Morocco, Scotland, Trinidad and Okinawa.

The International Wives meet every Monday morning at 10 in the Midway Park Community Building. The group is financially sponsored by the Officers Wives Branch of the International Wives.

Hospital Classes To Begin On Thursday

The first session of a series of pre-natal classes for 1961 will begin next Thursday, Jan. 12, at 1 p.m., in the Conference Room, Ward 17, at the U. S. Naval Hospital. The classes are sponsored by the Navy Relief Society of Camp Lejeune and are taught by a registered nurse.

The session will consist of five lectures and will be held on consecutive Thursday afternoons.

Such subject material as layettes, prenatal care, labor and delivery, hospital routine and method of infant feeding will be discussed and taught. The classes will be supplemented with visual aids, demonstration and free literature.

All expectant mothers are urged to attend the session. Husbands are invited whenever possible. For further information contact the Navy Relief Society.

Gala Party For Youths At MCAF

Wednesday evening, Dec. 21, was the occasion for the gala Christmas Holiday Dance given for all teen-agers of commissioned officers at the Marine Corps Air Facility.

A local orchestra was on hand to provide music for dancing. The dancers included teenagers and their guests from the Camp Lejeune area.

Held in the MCAF Officers Club, decorations consisted of seasonal greenery highlighted by the traditional Christmas tree.

Refreshments included Christmas punch and sandwiches which were served from a table overlaid with a red and white yuletide cloth.

The event was sponsored by the Marine Corps Air Facility Officers Wives Club and Open Mess. Chairman for the affair was Mrs. James S. Ashman. Chaperones were Capt. and Mrs. F. G. McLenon and 1st Lt. and Mrs. Walter N. Collison.

During the evening, carols were sung by those in attendance and several private gifts were exchanged. All teenaged dependents living at the Air Facility were invited.

Get-Together

It's a Tasting Tea and Card Party for Group V, Officers Wives Club's Jan. 13 get-together. Favorite recipes of the group's board will be on sample and copies of the recipes will be available.

The tea is scheduled for 11 a.m. in the Paradise Point Club. The Card Party will follow with tables for Bridge and Canasta.

Ladies desiring to attend are asked to make reservations before noon Thursday, Jan. 12, by calling the group's hospitality chairman, Mrs. R. C. Caldwell, Jax 6553.

Exchange To Conduct Big January Sale

The Marine Corps Exchange will sponsor a huge over-age merchandise sale beginning Jan. 9. All items over 18 months old will be sold at reductions of one-third or more.

The sale will continue through Jan. 28 during normal exchange hours. All over-age toys at Toyland will also be on sale during the following periods: Jan. 10-14, 17-21 and 24-28.

Merchandise on sale in the main exchange will include uniforms, clothing, shoes and sporting goods. Gift items, household accessories, radios and phonographs, cameras and accessories, necessities and tools over 18 months old will also be on sale.

Vieques Unit Takes Beach After Holiday

The 2nd Bn., Second Marines, got back to work last Thursday after a long Christmas weekend when they carried out an amphibious assault exercise on the island of Vieques, Puerto Rico.

Lt. Col. F. F. Eubanks' reinforced battalion landing team stormed ashore just before dawn supported by their own tanks and artillery units. The Marines proceeded to secure objectives which had been previously assigned.

The 2nd Bn., Second Marines departed from Camp Lejeune, N. C., Nov. 22. Training at Vieques is a year-round activity designed to keep the 2nd Marine Division at a peak of combat proficiency.

The Christmas weekend in San Juan featured a 2-1/2 hour entertainment presented by Bob Hope and a troupe of USO performers. Christmas day was filled with divine services and the traditional feast, with all the trimmings.

Retention Permitted For Reserve Officers

Certain reserve officers now on active duty may be retained beyond their initial date of obligated service.

Marine Corps Order 1001.27E permits many reserve officers in the grades of major and below to remain on active duty with the regular establishment either on extended active duty (EAD) or under the provisions of a Standard Written Agreement (SWAG).

Applications may be submitted up to a maximum of five years. Those requesting extension on active duty for less than one year will not be considered except to complete an overseas assignment or an operation or maneuver outside the continental limits of the United States.

A board to select applicants under this order will meet monthly at Headquarters Marine Corps. Officers application for extension should reach Headquarters at least three months prior to the date of release.

LOST AND FOUND

A man's high school ring with two initials inside has been found in the vicinity of Bldg. 1. The owner may have after furnishing description to GySgt. Robert T. Lewis, who can be reached at Bldg. 1309, or by calling extension 7-3535.

Eighty-Five Local Marines Picked For E-8 Promotion

Eighty-five men from Camp Lejeune have been selected for promotion to the E-8 rank. Of this total, 19 were selected for first sergeant and the remainder for master sergeant. They are part of 815 men selected throughout the Marine Corps for the Corps' second highest enlisted pay grade. Of the group

Shooting Now Junior Officer Fitness Item

Marksmanship scores for both rifle and pistol for male lieutenants and captains will be entered in their fitness reports beginning Dec. 31, 1960. The qualifications will be recorded as the first entry in the space provided for additional duty, according to MCO 1611.3B.

Proficiency in marksmanship has always been considered an important element of professional qualification of a Marine officer. The Marine Corps considers it especially important for company grade officers who provide direct leadership to the individual Marine.

"Proficiency with the basic arms," according to the order, "constitutes a major part of our combat effectiveness."

The order also consolidates existing changes in the instructions regarding submission of officer and NCO fitness reports. It standardizes instructions for completing the review section of both officer and NCO fitness reports.

Reporting seniors are required to justify a mark of "Outstanding" or "Unsatisfactory." Generalized statements or statements which lack explicit details are not acceptable as justification for "Outstanding" or "Unsatisfactory" ratings in items 16(a) or 19.

The order is also applicable to the Marine Corps Reserve.
