Ground Breaking Ceremony Held For New High School

The first ground was broken Tuesday morning for the new 800-pupil Camp Lejeune Junior-Senior High School. Maj. Gen. Sidney S. Wade, commanding general of Marine Corps Base, and Mr. L. T. Rogers Jr., contractor for the project, turned the first soil to mark beginning of work on the plant. Mr. Jesse M. Paige, architect, Mr. W. H. Tuck, superintendent of Camp Lejeune Schools, Col. R. Quigley, chairman of the Camp Lejeune School Board, and other officials were among those present for the ceremony.

The new school is expected to be ready for use by the opening of the 1961 session next September.

Ultra-modern in all aspects, the new school will be built at a cost of $1,227,754 and is scheduled to be completed in time for the opening of the 1961 school year. The contractors express confidence the school will be completed well before the contract deadline date.

The school is being constructed on a 63-acre plot on Stone Street extension and will house 32 classrooms. Twenty of these will be general subjects classrooms, and the others will be given over to

Commandant Eliminates 'Acting' From Rank Titles

The Commandant of the Marine Corps this week issued a directive eliminating immediately the word "acting" from all enlisted rank titles and designating July 1, 1963, as the cut-off date for complete conversion to the new enlisted rank structure. The directive provides that an acting master sergeant, for example, will now be simply designated as a master sergeant (E-7). The same procedure will be followed in redesignating Marines carrying acting titles in all other grades.

The Commandant's new policy was spelled out in Marine Corps Bulletin 1223, which was issued at Headquarters Marine Corps. The Bulletin also stipulates that staff sergeants (E-5) will be considered staff NCO's until July 1, 1963. Subsequently, after that, they will be sergeants (E-5) and not staff NCO's.

After the cut-off date, July 1, 1963, all enlisted Marines will be carrying the rank title appropriate with their pay grade under the new enlisted rank structure. By that time, Marines in all grades will have had an opportunity to qualify for new rank as a result of promotion.

Board Convenes To Select 153 Majors

A board headed by Brig. Gen. John H. Masters met in Washington, D. C., last week to select captains on active duty for promotion to major. Headquarters Marine Corps announced.

The board, which is expected to be in session about three weeks, has been authorized to select 128 unrestricted officers, 17 LDO's, and eight SDO's for promotion. The unrestricted SDO zone ends with Capt. James Edward Kiser, No. 365 on the 1960 Combined Lineal List. Capt. James Woodrow Wilson is anchor man of the LDO zone, with precedence No. 25 on the LDO Lineal List.

'Mr. MCI' Advocates Value Of Self-Education Program

They call him "Mr. MCI"—and with good reason. Last year, Sgt. Clyde M. Simmons, Hq. Btry., 1st Bn., Tenth Marines, successfully completed more Marine Corps Institute Courses than any other Marine.

Since joining the Marine Corps in March, 1953, Simmons has completed 37 MCI courses, running the gamut from "Basic Bread Baking" to "The Military History from the Franco-Prussian War to the End of World War II."

Sergeant Simmons, a self-proclaimed 20-year man, joined the Corps after completing two years of pre-medical schooling at Southwestern Junior College. Before reporting to Camp Lejeune, he served at duty stations in Japan and Hawaii as well as in the Marine Aviation Detachment of the Naval Air Station, Memphis, Tenn.

The Division Marine, who spends at least four hours nightly working on the courses, feels that every Marine should take advantage of the opportunity offered by the Institute to add to his professional knowledge as well as to give him a wide background in general subjects. Other diverse and varied courses he has completed include: "Bookkeeping," "Chemical Warfare and Defense," "Spelling," "Tank Tactics," and "Menu Development."

With a wife and three young children it has been an obvious sacrifice on his part to devote so much of his free time to his studies. But Simmons is of the opinion that it has been well worth the effort. In fact, he shortly intends to add the United States Armed Forces Institute courses to his self-education and improvement program.

Simmons expresses the belief that these MCI courses are so valuable that every Marine should feel required to enroll in them. He states, "Once you get interested in them, you'll find yourself doing quite a few."

When asked how many more courses he intends to complete, "Mr. Marine Corps Institute" replied with quiet determination, "I'll do most of them."

VMO-1 Crew Chief Awarded Mast For Dangerous Rescue

Sgt. Floyd G. McDeavitt, Marine Observation Squadron-1, MAG-26, has been awarded a meritorious mast for heroism by Lt. Col. J. D. Boldman, VMO-1 commanding officer. The citation reads in part, "On April 19, 1960, while working on the HOK line, you were the first person to reach an HOK which crashed on take-off.

Without concern for your own safety and despite the hazards of spilled gasoline and flying debris, you made your way to the wrecked aircraft and forced open an escape hatch to allow the pilot and two officer crew members to escape unharmed."

Sergeant McDeavitt, a helicopter mechanic and crew chief, was the closest person to the 'copter when a gust of wind flipped it on its side upon take-off. He immediately threw himself to the ground to escape being hit by the flying debris of the wooden rotor blades.

As soon as feasible, he ran to the helicopter and ripped off the escape hatch and pulled out the dazed crew members, both students of the Aerial Observer School at the Air Facility. The pilot, Capt. I. G. Taylor, escaped through the bottom of the aircraft. None of the three officers were injured.

The presentation was made in the presence of Captain Taylor and Maj. K. E. Will, officer-in-charge of the Aerial Observer School who represented the two students.

Kai Winding Opens Five-Day Engagement Next Week

The Trombone Sound of the Kai Winding Septet featuring Four Trombones opens a five-day engagement at Camp Lejeune next week. Kai's repertoire includes trombone treatments of everyone's favorite steps and tempos, old and new.

Kai opens at the Courthouse Bay

Indoor Theater Tuesday at 6 p.m. and moves to the Camp Geiger Outdoor Theater at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 10, the Septet will perform in concert at the Camp Theater at 6 and 8 p.m. The public is invited to these two presentations; admission is free.

On Aug. 11, 12, and 13, the group will play for dancing at Marston Pavilion, Paradise Point Officers Club and Hadnot Point Staff NCO Club, respectively. The dance begins at 8 p.m. at the Pavilion and at 9 p.m. at the Officers Club and Staff NCO Club.

With Stan Kenton in '46 and '47, Kai Winding's name took on new prominence through his featured work on Kenton's "Artistry in Rhythm" series. "The Trombone Sound," created by Kai, stayed on with the Kenton band after he moved on to the Charlie Ventura All-Star Sextet. Kai has also played with Sonny Dunham, Alvino Rey and the Benny Goodman organization.

From late 1949 through early 1954, Kai combined two careers: with his own jazz group he played some of America's top rooms; with sidemen such as Gerry Mulligan, Max Roach and George Wallington, he opened "Bop City" in San Francisco and was a regular feature at "Birdland."

Kai has played on the "commercial scene" also, doing radio and

KAI WINDING

TV work with some of the top stars, commercial jingles, was in the pit for "Pal Joey" and even played the horse show at Madison Square Garden.

But Kai Winding is a jazzman, a trombonist who has constantly played among the top three in the annual "Downbeat" and "Metronome" polls since 1947, and a man who has made jazz history.

ICE CANS—Four ice cans are filled in a matter of seconds and then placed in the tank filled with brine (salt water), where they will stay until frozen. The process of freezing takes about 30 hours.

Four Hundred Tons Of Ice Ready To Keep Camp Lejeune Cool At All Times

Four hundred tons of ice in storage, and more being produced daily, assures Camp Lejeune Marines of cool drinks the year 'round.

Ice was first produced here in 1942 but was a slow process and on a very limited basis because everything was manually operated. The 300-pound cakes of ice were pulled and moved by hand, but in 1943 new modern machinery and equipment was approved by the Navy and the ice plant went into full scale production.

This same plant today stands ready to meet any demand for ice that should come up and even if something happened that the plant would have to shut down for awhile, Lejeune would still have ice, for the plant keeps about 400 tons of ice for emergency use.

Their big customers are the mess halls, hospitals, clubs and other establishments that require a daily use of ice. During the month of June, the daily usage was about 18 tons per day. In July it was hotter and the daily use exceeded June's usage. August is also expected to be another big month, but the plant is capable of producing around 30 tons of ice every 30 hours. In the winter months, ice is produced on a daily usage rate, or to build up the storage supply.

Too often we think all that is needed to make ice is to have water and a cold place to freeze it, but in "layman's" terms this is not true, for the making of ice is also a cooking process. Ice is cooked or frozen between 14 to 15 degrees above zero and it must be frozen from the outside inward. Also, to keep air pockets or dead space out of ice, the water must be agitated while being frozen.

The water is run through a sand filter before being put in the ice cans. The cans are then placed in a tank filled with brine, or water with salt added to keep it from freezing. The freezing process takes about 30 hours.

A metal tube is placed in the center of each can with an air hose attached to each tube. Air is then forced into the water to agitate it.

The brine that is used to freeze the water is also agitated in the same manner but on a larger scale so that a 14 to 15 degrees above zero temperature can be maintained around all cans. The brine water is never changed, but a chemical, sodium dichromate, is added to help combat rust and corrosion in the tank and on the ice cans.

STORAGE ROOM—About 400 tons of ice are stored at the ice plant to meet any emergency that may come up. It takes 267 300-pound cakes of ice to make up this much ice. The room is kept at 28 to 30 degrees above zero all the time.

After the water is frozen, four cans are hoisted and placed in a tank of water at about 68 degrees above zero so that the ice will melt just a little in order to slide out of the cans when dumped.

The six Civil Service employees who work at the plant work three eight-hour shifts. Mr. G. R. Blake, Machinist Supervisor, is in charge of the plant and also maintains a record of all production and how much ice is in storage at all times. He has worked at the ice plant since it was first built in 1942.

THERMOMETER CHECK—Mr. G. R. Blake, plant supervisor, checks the thermometer on the brine tank. It has to be checked every hour to make sure that the tank is about 14 to 15 degrees above zero at all times.

Flight Plan

COMPRESSORS—Four large compressors are used at the ice plant to pump the ammonia gas from the refrigerator coils, back to the condenser, where the gases are turned back into liquid.

Baker Hurls No-Hitter During League Play; Special Meeting Scheduled For Tonight

With only one week remaining to be played in the Lejeune Boys League, the Orioles of the Pony League continued their winning ways by downing the hapless Athletics 8-1. Bouncing back from their upset, the A's sprang to life in the fifth inning last Tuesday to defeat the hard-hitting Indians 7-6 in an abbreviated contest called because of darkness. Friday saw the Indians just about clinch second place when they defeated the Athletics 15-7 after scoring eight runs in the ninth inning of a suspended game to defeat the Tigers 12-0.

In the Major league the Dodgers dropped a hard fought game to the Cardinals, 7-2, while the Pirates grabbed a good grip on first place with a 6-0 shutout over the Cubs, behind the no-hit hurling of Marvin Baker. Baker went the route, allowing only one walk while striking out 13 batters for his seventh

Panthers Cop Girls' Softball League Title

The Tarawa Terrace Girls Softball League closed out the season last Friday night with awards presentation ceremonies in the Community Center.

More than a hundred players, coaches and parents turned out for the ceremonies which officially declared Coach Louise Wheaton's Black Panthers league champions. Finishing second in the league, behind the Panthers, was Rita Sova's Seminole Indians. The Comets, coached by Peg Vegass, wound up the season in third place with the Yvonne Adams-Coached Blue Devils occupying the cellar position.

All players from each of the teams received certificates during Friday night's festivities, as did the four coaches. Martin Mallory, official umpire of the league, also received a certificate as well as a gift from the players and coaches. Also honored for their assistance to the league were MSgt. William S. Becker Jr., and MSgt. Sidney Baulanger.

In other presentations, each of the coaches received token gifts from the members of their respective teams. Terry Gray of the Panthers made the presentation to Mrs. Wheaton; Sue Zeigle handed twin vases to Mrs. Sova for the Indians; Brenda Cline represented the Comets in the award of a Lazy Suzan to Mrs. Vegass and Jane Tuck presented the Blue Devils' gift to Mrs. Adams. A special award was presented to Mrs. W. I. Paul the league's player-manager by Peggy McKeon.

Medals were awarded to the "Best Sport" and "Most Valuable Player" of each team by Kevin J. Griffin, President of the Tarawa Terrace Community Association, sponsors of the league. MVP awards went to Sandy White, Panthers; Sue Zeigle, Indian, and batting leader with a .750 average; Maryann Gross, Comets; and June Wheaton, Blue Devils.

Winning awards for best sportswoman were Joanne Killough, Panthers; Sue Smith, Indians; Glinda Parton, Comets; and Marcelle Baulanger, Blue Devils.

Date Set For Force Troops Golf Tourney

Force Troops personnel will be playing a 36-hole medal Golf Tournament on Aug. 11 and 12 at the Paradise Point Golf course. The tournament is being held to select a five-man team to represent Force Troops in the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, tournament to be played at Cherry Point the week of Aug. 29.

Entries have been limited to those golfers with established handicaps of 10 or below due to the high caliber of play which will be required at Cherry Point.

The tournament director has announced a pre-tournament meeting to be held at Bldg. 300 at 11:15 a.m. Aug. 10 for the purpose of final instruction before actual play begins. For further information, contact 1st Lt. C. E. Lynch at 7-3388.

practice Monday with a disappointing total of 55 aspirants taking the field. This was 12 more hopefuls than showed up for the last year's opening drills. Horn stated, "There should have been 200 prospects out for the trials."

Eleven internal linemen held line drill designed to disclose ability and speed, while 15 ends and 29 backfield men participated in passing, pass receiving, running, hand-offs and agility drills.

Captain Horn stated the screening session would continue until Saturday with regular practice scheduled for Monday. He also remarked that first cuts would be made at the end of the week, but assured also that trials would still be available for new men.

When asked about this year's schedule, the mentor quickly remarked, "I see no soft touches. Quantico, San Diego and Pensacola are always tough. All Army teams on the schedule promise to be good and Ft. Eustis of Virginia is said to be extremely strong. After talking to the coach of the Norfolk team (referring to the first game of the season with the Norfolk Tars), it seems they are the only team that shouldn't give us much trouble." He added, "However, these are only pre-season speculations." Captain Horn hails from Brooklyn, N. Y., where he played varsity baseball at Madison High School. Before joining the Marine Corps in July of 1955, he attended Ithaca College of New York, and played several years on the grid squad as a wing back, line backer and offensive halfback.

After playing baseball in Okinawa in 1959, the mentor coached the backfield and ends for the Marine Royal's eleven who compiled a season record of four wins, five losses and one tie.

Schnieder, a former griddler from the University of New Hampshire, will be remembered by grid fans of last year when he played against Lejeune during the Shrine Bowl at Pensacola, where he played two seasons with the Goshawks.

Zellinski held a position in the line with Northeastern University in Massachusetts while Moore garnered his grid knowledge at Michigan State.

Eight Certificates Presented To Winners At Geiger Wives Club's 1st Baby Parade

In every size, shape, color and costume, babies from Geiger Trailer Park populated the Canteen last Tuesday morning when the trailer park Wives Club staged their First Annual Baby Parade. Decorated in pink and blue, the children made their entrance from the stage of the main auditorium onto a white platform where they proceeded down the ramp to the judges' box. Smiles, frowns, laughter and tears combined to result in the most successful social turn-out the wives club had ever seen, according to Mrs. R. P. Kellon, president of Geiger Wives, and Miss Jane Geagan, USO advisor. Certificates of recognition were presented to eight winners, one boy and one girl in two categories of two age groups. The judging was based on color schemes, proper fitting, fashions chosen to suit the child's build, and selection of clothing in accordance with the age group.

The eight winners for the contest were Wayne Horning, best dressed boy under one year; Susan Myslenski, best dressed girl under one year; Danny Watson, most originally dressed girl under one year; Billy Ray, best dressed boy over one year; Marcia Ann Keyes, best dressed girl over one year; Bryan Hoff, most originally dressed boy over one year; and Donna Kay Diesel, most originally dressed girl over one year.

E-8, E-9 Board To Convene Next Month

A Marine Corps promotion board will convene in Washington, D. C., about Sept. 19 to consider all eligible master sergeants and gunnery sergeants E-7 for promotion to pay grade E-8 and all first sergeants and master sergeants E-8 for promotion to sergeant major and master gunnery sergeant, respectively. Those Marines in pay grade E-8 who desire redesignation to the opposite rank within their pay grade will also be considered by the board for their requested redesignation.

All first sergeants who will have two years in grade on Sept. 30, 1966, are eligible for promotion to E-9. The service in grade requirement is waived for master sergeants E-8.

To be eligible for promotion to E-8, all master sergeants and gunnery sergeants E-7 must have two years in grade on Sept. 30, 1966.

Public Law 85-422 requires a minimum of eight years' total enlisted service for pay purposes for promotion to first sergeant and master sergeant in pay grade E-8. Ten years of such service are required for E-9 promotions.

Service as a temporary officer, while holding a permanent enlisted rank, is creditable toward the required enlisted service. Service as a permanent officer, regular or reserve, is not.

Off-Duty Education Group Is Appointed

An Off-Duty Education Program Committee has been appointed by the commanding general, Marine Corps Base. The Committee held its first meeting July 21.

For several years, East Carolina College, in Greenville, N. C., has conducted college extension courses at Camp Lejeune. At the request of the Base commander, representatives of ECC have initiated proceedings to establish an off-campus educational center here. Personnel who participate in the Off-Duty Education Program at such a center would receive residence, rather than extension, course credits for subjects which they complete.

Dr. Ralph Brimley, Director of Auxiliaries and Foundations for East Carolina College, will be the coordinator for the college in its dealings with the Off-Duty Education Program Committee.

The Committee will advise and assist the commanding general and the representatives of East Carolina College in the further development of the Off-Duty Education Program.

Senior member of the committee is Lt. Col. H. H. Hawkins, Force Troops, Second Lt. Jo A. Kilday, Base Education Officer, is the secretary.

Other members are: Lt. Col. F. D. Cortner, Base; Lt. Col. R. E. McClean, Force Troops; Lt. Col. R. S. Stubbs II, Base; Maj. B. W. Clark, Capt. A. O. Nelson and 1st Lt. R. C. Bohrer, 2nd Division.

ts. Will be redesignated. A sergeant (E-4), for example, on July 1, 1963, would be redesignated a corporal (E-4), and the same procedure would be followed in other ranks.

Marine Corps Bulletin 1223 also provides that recognition and privileges be accorded sergeants and corporals, regardless of pay grade, including, where practicable, suitable club and messing facilities and liberty considerations.

Col. Jones Replaces Col. Damke As Base Inspector

Col. John H. Jones, formerly Deputy Director of 8th MCRRD, New Orleans, has replaced Col. K. A. Damke as Marine Corps Base Inspector. Colonel Damke retired June 30. Colonel Jones has previously served at Camp Lejeune as commanding officer of the 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines, from September, 1955, to August, 1956, and as Assistant G-3, 2nd Division from August to November, 1956.

After graduating from Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., in 1941, the colonel was commissioned a second lieutenant in October of the same year. He saw World War II action in Guadalcanal, Kwajalein, Saipan, Tinian and Iwo Jima. During the years between World War II and the Korean conflict, Colonel Jones held assignments as Assistant G-1 at Headquarters Marine Corps, as an NROTC Instructor at the University of Virginia, and as executive officer of the Marine Barracks, Naval Base, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

From 1950 to 1953, the colonel was executive officer of Marine Barracks, U. S. Naval Base, Brooklyn, N. Y. He was then assigned as a student at the Senior Course, Marine Corps School, Quantico, and a year later was ordered to the 3rd Marine Division, where he served as commanding officer of Headquarters Battalion and executive officer of the Third Marines.

Marine Museum To Open In September

The Marine Corps now is shooting for an opening date of Sept. 12 for its Marine Corps Museum in Quantico, Va. The museum, which will be the only one of its kind in the Marine Corps, will house mementos and relics of Leatherneck history dating back to Revolutionary War days.

It will have a study room with micro film readers designed for persons interested in doing serious research on the Marine Corps.

There will also be another room in the rear of the museum building which will serve as a technical research library. The library room, which will display historic Marine Corps trophies, also will be used as a meeting hall for Marine Corps associations.

Some of the historical items which will be in the museum will be the sword presented by the State of Virginia to Presley O'Bannon, whose Marine Corps force captured the fort at Dern, Tripoli, during the Barbary Wars.

Also on display will be the original flag which was raised atop Mount Suribachi on Iwo Jima in the closing days of World War II.

Marine Sergeant Has Solid Beat Wherever He May Go

Jose Castillo is a Marine sergeant who swings. He carries his trumpet wherever he goes, even to the rifle range where the blast of his horn matches decibels with the rifles. For 12 years the El Paso, Texas, musician has been a Marine. His musical career began six years before that and he has marched, swung and jived his way through half the commands in the Marine Corps. His latest contribution to the music world was the "Kentucky Mountain Laurel Festival March," composed specially for the annual festival in Pineville, Ky. The march was officially presented to the State of Kentucky by Sergeant Castillo and the 2nd Division Band.

Eight years of private study plus the year-long United States Naval School of Music course trained him in practically every phase of music. He was top man in the Naval School when he graduated, a credited expert in concert band arranging, dance band arranging, theory, harmony, rehearsal techniques, practical conducting and band administration.

You have to know how to do more than blow a horn in a Marine Corps band. Castillo spent a year and a half with the 1st Marine Air Wing band at El Toro, Calif., two years at Pearl Harbor and three years with the Post Band at Quantico, Va. He joined the 2nd Division Band in October, 1959.

Now a staff sergeant, Castillo enlisted when he was 13. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesus P. Castillo, still reside in El Paso, Tex. His wife, the former Miss Rose Marie Koerte of Lihue, Kanai, Hawaii, and their five children are with him in Jacksonville.

Officer Selection

Inquiries from area college students and their parents relative to officer training programs of the Marine Corps are invited on Tuesday, Aug. 9, at Bldg. 1005, phone 7-3321. An officer selection team headed by Capt. William H. Rice, will be available from 8 to 11 a.m. to discuss aspects of the Platoon Leaders Class with interested parties. In the event contact is not possible on Aug. 9, inquiries should be directed to the Marine Officer Selection Office, Raleigh, N. C.

New Revised Guidebook Is Now On Sale

As new as tomorrow, as familiar as yesterday is the Seventh Revised Edition of the Guidebook for Marines.

Why the seventh revision? Well, it's simple, says the Guidebook editors. The Marine Corps is constantly revising its orders and directives to bring training up to date. Recognizing this, the Leatherneck Association, which publishes the Guidebook, started a year ago to bring out a more timely edition.

The Guidebook for Marines still has the same cover design that Marines have seen for years, but inside it is strictly modern. The 60mm mortar, now obsolete, has been replaced with a chapter of the 81mm mortar.

Nuclear warfare and the bayonet chapters have been given a major overhaul and the first aid department has the latest life-saving techniques incorporated. Illustrations, photos and text throughout the book has been given the modernization treatment.

Leatherneck staff photographers worked for over three months to get the more than 350 new pictures found in the latest Guidebook. Subjects posed were from Headquarters Bn., Henderson Hall, and Marine Corps Schools, Quantico.

Technical aid for the publication came from G-3, HQMC, and Training and Test Regiment and Schools Demonstration Troops, MCS, Quantico.

The Guidebook for Marines is on sale at all Marine Exchanges.

Two Marines Raise Hands, Hike Savings

The savings accounts of two 2nd Division Marines increased by almost $1,500 when they raised their right hands and reenlisted for a total of 12 years.

SSgt. Earl E. Fultz of "E" Btry., 2nd Bn., Tenth Marines, took the oath for the third time since joining the Marine Corps in 1947. His reenlistment bonus for his new enlistment of six years totals $520.

Cpl. Harold Taylor, Hq. Btry., 2nd Bn., Tenth Marines, decided to make the Marine Corps his career, and his first reenlistment for six years earned him a bonus of $900.

Taylor explained why he chose the Marines as a career. "My wife and I discussed it pretty fully, and together we decided that the Marine Corps offered us more security and benefits than in any other profession. Besides," he added, "where else could you get $900 by agreeing to stay on the job?"

Staff Sergeant Fultz long ago decided to stay with the Marine Corps. Presently the gunnery sergeant for the 1st platoon of "E" Btry., he has completed 13 years of active duty in the Marine Corps. Both men were administered the oath of reenlistment by Lt. Col. J. C. Fegan, commanding officer of the 2nd Bn., Tenth Marines, at ceremonies in the colonel's office July 21.

First stop for both Marines after the swearing-in ceremony was the local bank.

Guadalcanal, The Proving Ground For The Struggle In The Pacific

When the officers and men of the First Marine Division arrived in New Zealand in mid-June 1942, they did not expect to be sent into combat against the enemy for another six months, their commanding officer wanting to use that time to whet his unit's fighting edge.

But the strategic situation at the time would not allow for any such delay. The Japanese, reports revealed, moving down from their base at Truk, had already established a series of outposts in the Solomon Islands.

If these outposts were turned into strong bases for further moves south and southeastward, the communication lines between the United States and Australia would be severed.

To frustrate the enemy's efforts the First Marine Division landed on Guadalcanal on the morning of August 7, 1942. This paramo-cium-shaped tropical expanse of forested mountains and inert volcanoes sloping to a flat, narrow, grassy plain on its eastern mid-section was destined to become the most crucial battleground in the entire Pacific theater of operations.

Guadalcanal held the key to driving the enemy back to his home islands. By landing on Guadalcanal, the Marines provoked the Japanese high command to dash to pieces a large part of its naval forces.

Moreover, the holding of Guadalcanal by American forces discouraged the enemy from offensive operations in New Guinea and thus saved that archipelago from capture.

Guadalcanal held terrors never to be forgotten by the men who fought there. But it served as the proving ground for the bitter struggles to follow.

Guadalcanal was the first land offensive of the Pacific War. Its success in the face of almost insurmountable odds stands as a monument to the pioneers of Marine amphibious warfare doctrine and as a guidepost for our present-day force-in-readiness.

Voting Awards Program Open

An act as meaningful as casting your ballot in the 1960 presidential election is not one to be undertaken frivolously. It deserves forethought and deliberation. And is there any better way of marshalling our ideas and convictions than to put in writing what it means to be an American voter?

This year's subject for Freedoms Foundation's Letter Writing Awards Program, "My Vote—Freedom's Privilege," gives each of us an excellent chance to clarify our thinking before Election Day. Unless we have a sound understanding of the free elective system that underlies our democratic life, we are in danger of making our fateful choice impetuously—of misusing our vote.

Critics of the democratic way often accuse Americans of fuzzy political thinking and of gullibility to catch-all phrases and panaceas. Are we guilty of exercising our precious franchise without giving our decision hard thought? Such hard thinking is exactly what Freedoms Foundation hopes to stimulate among Armed Forces voters in this election year.

Don't wait until Nov. 1 to put in the mail, in a letter of 100 to 500 words, your personal statement of what Nov. 8, 1960, means to you. The Letter Writing Awards Program has unique significance this year. It's a challenge to every one of us. If we really feel deeply about our responsibility as voters, we owe it to ourselves to give that feeling expression.

First Offensive

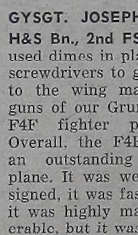

If You Ask Me:

WHAT DO YOU REMEMBER MOST ABOUT THE GUADALCANAL CAMPAIGN?

MAJ. VAN D. BELL, Hq. Co., MCB—I remember the attitudes of the Marines and their will to win. The old breed were the leaders then and the young men tried to emulate them. I remember how the staff NCO's, the sergeants and the corporals accepted the responsibility. Also, there were many instances of Pfc's running platoons due to a shortage of officers and NCO's.

GYSGT. JOSEPH FANELLO, H&S Co., H&S Bn., 2nd FSR—I remember how we used dimes in place of screwdrivers to get into the wing machine guns of our Grumman F4F fighter planes. Overall, the F4F was an outstanding airplane. It was well designed, it was fast and it was highly maneuverable, but it was very difficult getting a screwdriver into the wing sections. You could always tell a Marine ordnance man by the bruises on his knuckles.

MGYSGT. JOHN J. CADDLE, Hq. Co., Force Troops—When some P-38's came into Henderson Field to bolster our few Marine fighters, I remember what a big boost that gave to our morale. Then too, I remember Joe Foss and his pilots and how we used to listen in on their conversations while they were hiding up in the clouds waiting for the enemy planes to make their appearance.

MSgt. THOMAS A. BLAIR, Support Co., "B," Hq. Bn., MCB—I remember the spirit of the men the most. In August 1942, Henderson Field was being bombed, our pilots were fighting day and night, and many of our supplies were in smoldering ruins. But the attitude of the men was above it all. Everyone knew he was there to win. We did.

GY SGT. WALTER J. ROMANINI, "I" Co., 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines—I landed on Tulagi with the First Raider Battalion and for the first three days we fought for our survival. At night, there were things going on in your mind—like wondering whether you were going to be alive the next day. Also, I remember how about 80 per cent of us had been in the Marines only five months.

Humility Found In Truly Great

What is humility? Probably no virtue is more misunderstood. Someone has said that the miracle of life is difficult of definition and explanation, apart from observing the difference between a corpse and a living man. Even so, like life, humility is worth the struggle if it brings a modicum of understanding.

Without humility we are victims of pride, the father of all sin. We are guilty of the worst sin against God, idolatry of substituting self for God; and of the worst sin against our brothers, the arrogance which denies and destroys the ties which make us brothers. Pride leads to every vice of flesh or spirit. It is the fault we most easily detect and most loathe in others and yet of which we are least conscious in ourselves.

How do we become humble? Some would say by depreciating ourselves? By making ourselves small and insignificant? Strange as it might seem the opposite is true. Humility is found in the truly great person and noticeably lacking in the peanut personality. Ruinous pride is always found in the presence of undue self-satisfaction over puny accomplishments.

We achieve a measure of greatness by aspiring to do great things. The very presence of that which is mighty in our lives makes us humble. The comparison relates us to our proper size. Thus it is, when man truly aspires to know God then he becomes humble by reason of comparison and thus escapes the fatal fault of foolish pride.

Round-The-Clock Courtesy, Efficiency Watchwords Of Base Telephone Section

"Operator, I'm calling from 7-5555. I'm trying to place an urgent call to Camp Geiger, and can't get a clear line. Could you help me?"

Every hour of every day, one of the 93 members of the Telephone Section of the Base Maintenance Division begins checking telephones, lines and cables to discover the reason why the party at Camp Lejeune can't call Camp Geiger or the party at Courthouse Bay can't get Montford Point. Any one of dozens of telephone troubles are checked and remedied by the Marine and civilian telephone repair specialists during the course of every working day.

An estimated nine to 10 thousand calls daily are handled manually by the 18 operators of Camp Lejeune, in addition to the tens of thousands of calls which go through the automatic dial systems. There is an operator at the switch board all night, as well as a man at the test board to take care of any emergency telephone failures.

The 93 members of the section work in these specific duties: operators, telephone directory service, order writing, telephone accounts, construction, cable splicing, installation-repair and the central office. Heading the section are CWO Alfred G. Kohler, officer-in-charge, and WO H. Eoff, his assistant.

Bad weather usually brings an increase in telephone failures, but the greatest number of troubles by far are man-made, not caused by nature, according to Mr. Kohler. Unauthorized climbing of telephone poles, relocation of office phones without first consulting the telephone office, digging holes in the ground in areas where cables are buried—these cause a necessity for much costly and time-consuming repair work.

Even though the telephone system at Camp Lejeune has, over the years reached a point of remarkable efficiency, there are many things which phone users can do to assure themselves of faster and more dependable telephone service.

Number one on the list would be for persons to immediately report to the telephone office any trouble which they have with their phones. As electronically automatic as the system has become, it cannot detect frayed cords, broken receivers or loose dials. Except in the case of major repairs, the installation-repair section maintains the enviable record of being able to answer and repair all minor troubles within four hours after receiving notice of the discrepancy.

The number two suggestion concerns the miles of underground cable buried throughout the Camp Lejeune area. If for any reason a person plans to dig into the ground, he should first call the telephone section to make sure he isn't headed for a cable. Recently the main trunk cable to Jacksonville was accidentally cut, causing damage which required 14 men more than 12 hours to repair. Thirty-two feet of cable had to be replaced.

A third helpful suggestion applies to persons who do not give to parents or families a number at which they can be located in case of emergency. Because a specific number is not given, operators have to spend sometimes hours trying to locate the man's organization or place of work.

The directory service, the gathering and publishing of a complete list of all telephone numbers at Camp Lejeune, is another facet of the telephone section which operates more efficiently if given a hand by telephone users. The omission or incorrect listing of any number is best realized by the individual concerned. A call to the directory service office will correct the error.

One of the newest additions to the maze of automatic equipment which keeps the Camp Lejeune telephone system in operation is a compressor-dehumidifier, located in Bldg. M-172 at Montford Point. Inside this small building, all the cable trunk lines in the Lejeune telephone network meet and are cross-connected. Under pressure, dehumidified, or dried air, is pumped into the cables leading to and from the building. Should any of cables become punctured or damaged, the pressure drops, an alarm sounds from the trouble desk in Bldg. M-172 and the fault is immediately pinpointed and repaired.

Another trouble-shooting device has recently been installed. Called an automatic line testing unit, the electronic device can check within two hours every phone in Camp Lejeune. If any phone is out of order, the number is recorded and a repair

Pure Pleasure Of Flying Combined With Self-Achievement Motivate Marine Flying Club

Last Sunday afternoon a small gray airplane climbed and circled slowly over Jacksonville. At 10,000 feet, where the little 65-horsepower engine began to falter in the thin air, the pilot eased off the power and kicked the plane into a spin.

Almost invisible at that altitude, the plane spun, swooped and soared, dropping until it finally touched down to a gentle landing on a sod strip off the Piney Green Road.

The pilot was a Marine. Not a Marine pilot, just a Marine who likes to fly. He is one of the more than 50 members of the Camp Lejeune Flying Club, which owns two planes, and flies from a private field near Jacksonville.

Five Marines started the club in March. Col. Harlan C. Cooper, a private pilot who owned his own plane, contacted other non-military pilots with the idea of forming the club under the new Secretary of Navy Instruction allowing such activities.

Four others stuck after reviewing the difficulties ahead. They were 1st Lt. P. G. Gerity, 1st Sgt. H. D. Dorsett, GySgt. D. R. Wells and Sgt. R. C. Miller. Gerity and Wells are commercial pilots, and Dorsett and Miller hold private ratings.

Wanting to fly and forming a club and actually getting airborne is more difficult than people realize. Airplanes cost money and insurance on planes used for instruction is extremely high. By charging $50 membership the club raised enough money to make the down payment on their first plane in April, an Aeronica Champion. By May, they were far enough along to add a Piper Super Cruiser.

Originally the club flew from the Jacksonville Airport, a privately owned field but had to move when the North Carolina Department of Conservation leased the land for use as a military service planes. Three planes were used for the rescue of the fledgling club and a private strip on a farm on Piney Green Road.

The strip had been cut by a private pilot. He had leased it to the Jacksonville Flying Club. Mr. A. D. Guy, a resident of Jacksonville; Dr. Willis E. Wright worked out an agreement with the club. Operations had to be suspended until the grass had taken hold.

To add to the troubles, the oil pressure and had to go to the mechanic. It took another month to get the plane back in the air.

In the meantime, a group of Marines, led by MSgt. C. R. Green, a commercial pilot and instructor with more than 4,000 hours, in charge, had been working on the flight planning, some of the Civil Air Regulations. School is almost impossible to pass without a pilot's license.

In addition to teaching the club to solo was Capt. [Name]. While no member of the club, he is just about ready for flight.

Colonel Cooper was the first president. He resigned as president when he was promoted to colonel. He is now a colonel in the Marine Corps. Colonel Cooper has logged more than 10,000 hours of flight.

Other officers in the club are 1st Lt. Dorsett is vice-president, 1st Sgt. Miller is treasurer, and Lt. Monte Campbell is club's flight instructor.

Most flying is done on the weekends. The fee for the week for membership is $50, with $30 for the time of transfer or if he resigns. The fee can be paid in installments as they begin paying membership.

Plans for the future call for more instruments in the club. Several members of the club are working on the instructor and instrument ratings. The club has an Omni, a radio navigation aid.

But, basically, members of the club fly for the pure pleasure of it. The pure pleasure of flying to 10,000 feet and then turning around and looking at the earth.

Chicago Bear Lineman Here With Windy City Reserves

Stellar defensive halfback Erich Barnes of the Chicago Bears didn't seem bothered by his heavy pack as he strode briskly beside other Organized Marine Corps Reservists of Chicago's 2nd Communication Support Bn., which finished annual summer field training here Friday. The 6'3", 205-pound member of the 1959

Western Division All-Stars of the National Football League didn't even break stride for an interview as his battalion marched to a simulated combat objective late last week.

"This training helps keep me in good shape for the coming season," he remarked.

An Indiana All-State football and track star at Elkart High School, Barnes is a private first class, and has been in the Marine Corps Reserve for two years. He was on active duty under the six-month program, attending recruit training at Parris Island and individual and advanced combat training here at Lejeune.

Sidelined at Purdue U.
An ankle injury kept the lanky halfback sidelined during his senior year at Purdue University. He played three years with the varsity squad, however, and graduated in 1958 with a Bachelor of Arts degree, majoring in history and education.

Barnes is now in his third year with the Bears and plans to continue playing pro football as long as he is wanted. Lejeune fans may

Pistol Matches Get Under Way At Perry

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, July 29—Marine pistol marksmen, among the nation's finest, will begin sighting in on the "big money" here Monday (August 1) with commencement of the 1960 National Pistol Matches.

The Marine Corps Pistol Team, slimmer to a final 35, will compete with some 2151 military and civilian shooters for top honors. In all, 112 Marines, including reservists, post and station representatives and other individual competitors, are entered in the pistol phase of the annual meet.

The Corps' rifle team, expected to number just over 100, is scheduled to arrive at Camp Perry about August 12. Major high-powered rifle competition begins Thursday, August 18.

Archers

There will be a meeting for all interested personnel at Bldg. TC-1143, Camp Geiger, in an effort to start an archers' club at Camp Lejeune. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m., Aug. 10. For further information call SSgt. Rocco Cafolla at 0-1521.

Marines Face Hawaiian Nine In All-Marine Opener Tuesday

Baseball players from the Far East area and the West Coast began arriving at Camp Lejeune Tuesday for the All-Marine Baseball Championships which will be hosted at Harry Agganis Field beginning Aug. 9. Returning from a highly successful road trip to Parris Island and Ft. Gordon, Ga., the local nine, defending All-Marine Champions, will have a six-day breather before facing Hawaii in the classic opener next Tuesday evening. Moving into the annual series for the fourth time, Coach Hal Glasgow of the locals is seeking his second consecutive title, after two setbacks, one at Lejeune and the first in Hawaii. Last year's All-Marine title was the second for the Lejeune nine, the first being one in 1951 when the Marine team was voted to the championship by Bob Grim, now with the Kansas City Athletics.

Glasgow has named Bill Haywood, with 20 victories and five losses, as the starting pitcher against Hawaii, with Hank Nichols receiving. Rounding out the infield will be Hal Norton at second, Barry Fullerton at second, Charlie Armstrong at short, and Jim Green at third. Four outfielders have been named as possible starters and are Sam Valentine, Dave Petros, Cliff Simpson and possibly Howie Heiden. There was no information as to who will be on the mound for the Lejeune squad for the second contest.

Hawaii, who Lejeune topped last year, along with Camp Pendleton for the title, will be depending on the big bat of Dick Young and the hurling of Jim Williams for revenge. Young leads the Hawaii Marines in all aspects of the batting department with a healthy average of .352, with 15 doubles, eight triples and eight home runs, while Williams has won 10 games while losing eight with an earned run average of 3.17. Another 300 hitter, Warren Sheenhan, at 310 is expected to aid in the Hawaii line effort. During the current season the Far East representatives compiled a record of 30 wins against 27 defeats.

Boasting a .308 team batting average, the San Diego ball club will arrive at Lejeune carrying an impressive .953 fielding average. Loaded with lefthanded hurlers who combined won 52 games, San Diego had a season record of 6-24 as of July 28.

Ed Hottell leads the West Coast nine with 18-2. Doyle Stout follows closely with 19 wins and nine losses and Dave Gavallin brings up the rear with a 15-2 ledger.

With nine players over the 300 mark, the San Diego team is led by pitcher Cavallin and Dick Esbach, outfielder, both swatting a neat .373.

During the 1960 season the West Coast nine won the 11th Naval District league championship, undefeated, with a 13-0 mark.

Parris Island Falls Prey To Lejeune Nine

The Camp Lejeune Baseball Team continued its domination over the Devildogs of Parris Island, defeating the Islanders, 2-1 and 6-1, last week at the Depot before rain washed out the final contest.

Bill Haywood won his 19th victory of the campaign against only five defeats. The big righthander went all the way allowing only three safeties and striking out 14 Devildog batters, during the first game of the series.

Lejeune Shorstop Charlie Armstrong slammed his 13th home run of the year to give the local squad eight wins over the Islanders in ten games. Armstrong is now within one home run of the Agganis-Norton record of 14.

Lejeune scored the first run of the game as second baseman Barry Fullerton slashed a double and came on to score on a two-base error.

Bryan Wins Sixth Game
First baseman Hal Norton led the Lejeune nine over the hosts in the second game, 6-1, collecting three hits in four official trips to the plate and in addition drove in two runs and scored one himself.

Charlie Bryan hurled four-hit ball against the Islanders to pick up his sixth win of the season against one defeat. Bryan gave up a home run ball to pinch-hitter Chuck Pryor in the eighth inning which proved to be the only tally of the game for the hosts.

Haywood Hits Twenty Mark In 8-0 Victory

Top twirler Billy Haywood reached the coveted mark of 20 victories as he hurled the Camp Lejeune Marines over the Ft. Gordon Saints, 8-0, Monday night to run the current win streak to four, while on their final road trip of the season.

After sweeping a two-game series at Parris Island, the locals downed the Signalers of Ft. Gordon, 10-5, Sunday night. Monday night's victory gave the Marines a 63-19 ledger with one season game remaining to be accounted for during the 1960 season.

Haywood allowed only three hits during Monday night's contest while, his teammates held scoreless until the third inning, erupted for three runs aided by a three-run home run by second baseman Barry Fullerton, his 11th of the year.

The locals added one run in both the fourth and the eighth frames and three more in the ninth behind Fullerton, who had a busy night collecting four hits in five official trips to the plate, and figuring in seven of the eight tallies, driving in five runs and scoring three himself.

FIRST IN HISTORY — Marine GySgt. Michael Pietroforte of Malverne, N. Y., flanked by the DuPont and Daniel Boone trophies symbolizing his national rifle championship records, last week became the first and only shooter in history to be placed on the honor rolls of both the nation's most exclusive marksmanship clubs. Pietroforte virtually accomplished the "first" in one year.

12th Brigade Ends Exercise BRIGADELEX

Elements of the 12th Provisional Marine Brigade consolidated their position ashore Tuesday morning with an attack to seize and defend the final objectives of the Amphibious Exercise.

The combined land, sea, and air training operation was executed with precise coordination and has been a great step forward in the development of the Marine Corps concept of Amphibious Vertical Assault.

The 12th Brigade is the assault unit of a Task Group commanded by Commodore H. Kossler, who also commands the ships of Amphibious Squadron 10. Amphibious Squadron 10 is unique in that it is organized around the USS Boxer, recently converted to the status of Amphibious Assault Carrier. The Boxer is commanded by Capt. E. Parker.

This landing exercise, the final phase in a two-month training operation termed BRIGADELEX 3-60, produced several "firsts" in the utilization of aircraft carriers as vertical assault ships. More helicopters operated from the flight deck of the Boxer than have previously operated from any helicopter assault carrier. On the first day of the exercise a record was established airlifting troops and supplies in an assault landing. More troops and a greater quantity of supplies were delivered in one day than has previously been recorded.

The 12th Brigade, under the command of Col. Douglas A. Banger, consists of one air and one ground unit, the 3rd Bn., Second Marines (Reinf.), commanded by Lt. Col. Reverdy D. Hall, is based at Camp Lejeune. Provisional Marine Aircraft 30, commanded by Lt. Col. Thomas M. Forsythe, was organized from personnel of the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, based at Cherry Point. HMR(L)-264 (Reinf.), the helicopter squadron operating under the control of Provisional Marine Aircraft 30, is commanded by Lt. Col. Edward O. Reed and is based at MCAF.

Seven Units In Reserve Training Here

Seven Organized Marine Corps Reserve units, the smallest number to train at one time here this summer, end their first week of annual summer field training here Friday. Two Philadelphia units, the 2nd Service Bn. and 7th 105mm Howitzer Bn. finished three days on the rifle range yesterday.

The 42nd Rifle Co., Pittsfield, Mass., has been using the extensive training grounds at ITR to "sharpen its infantry skills."

Big guns of Raleigh's 4th 155mm Howitzer Btry. have joined with 2nd Field Artillery Group for their training. Marine Corps Engineer Schools at Courthouse Bay is hosting Baltimore's 1st Engineer Bn.; the 2nd Truck Co. of Augusta, Ga., is training at Marine Corps Schools, Montford Point, and the 2nd Division's 2nd Anti-Tank Bn. is working with the 1st Anti-Tank Co. of Rome, Ga.

Most of the Reserve units arrived last weekend by commercial air, bus or rail. However, part of Philadelphia's 7th 105mm Howitzer Bn. motored to Lejeune, driving their 2½-ton trucks, towing artillery pieces.

All units, totaling over 1,200 troops, will mass on the Hadnot Point parade field tomorrow evening for a twilight parade.

Some Used-Car Lots Are Finance Company 'Fronts'

1960 PULITZER PRIZE WINNING SERIES

A year later the finance company established as a wholly owned subsidiary an insurance company organized in a Southwestern state. The insurance company is not licensed to do business in Washington but reportedly gets the Washington business by reinsuring policies for firms licensed to trade in the Washington area.

He has now become president of another finance company. One of the other stockholders in this newly organized company is a Baltimorean connected with two other used car lots established within the past year.

What do the most complained about used car dealers and financing companies get out of these interlocking setups? They get the used car buyer coming and going.

One of the notorious used car dealers boldly explained it himself the other day when a legitimate dealer asked him how he could afford to pay so much for cars bought in wholesale lots.

"Oh, we make our money out of finance charges," he replied airily.

He went on to say that he usually gets the cars back pretty quick when buyers are stuck with "pick-up payments" they can't meet.

The tie-ups between dealers, finance companies and wholly owned insurance companies work this way:

The dealer induces the used car buyer to get a substantial loan for a down payment. Then the dealer writes a contract with a finance charge at the rate of 20 per cent or more a year, credit life, health and accident insurance charges at double or more the usual rate and a "schedule of irregular payments" that may include several $100 lump-sum payments in addition to the regular monthly payments.

The dealer assigns the inflated contract to his partner, the finance company. Frequently it is not until the used car buyer gets his notice from the finance company that he realizes he has been "hooked."

The finance company lets the buyer keep the car for a few months to sweeten the deal. Then, if the buyer is one day late in making his monthly payment—or runs head-on into an unexpected lump-sum "irregular payment," the finance company snatches the car. A typical buyer reported that he got to the finance office too late on a Saturday to make his payment and figured he would make it on Monday because the office was closed on Sunday. On Sunday night his car was repossessed.

The finance company then either charges a $50 fee before the buyer can get his car back or promptly sells it for only a fraction of the cost to the same dealer or another one also associated with the same finance company. Then the owner who lost his car is sued for the difference between what he owed and what the finance company got for the car. At the same time, the dealer now owning the car sells it and the business starts all over again.

The same car may be sold a dozen times. One car bought for less than $1,000 wholesale may put $12,000 into the pockets of used car dealers and their partner, the finance company.

Each time, the dealer gets the cash price of the car minus whatever he paid for it. The finance company gets the finance charges, the unused insurance premiums and its cut on the insurance.

Interim Rank Phase - Out Heads Symposium Agenda

A plan for phasing out of the interim acting ranks is foremost on the agenda of the three Camp Lejeune representatives to the 5th Annual Staff NCO Symposium at Camp Pendleton this month. The representatives are: Sgt. Maj. H. A. Stoneburner, Marine Corps Base; Sgt. Maj. B. F. Dutton, 2nd Division, and Sgt. Maj. R. C. Gray, Force Troops. Also included on all three symposium lists are personnel affairs counseling for junior enlisted men, a means for reducing unused leave payments, methods of improving the reenlistment program, proper administration of the proficiency pay program and improvement of bachelor staff NCO quarters.

Marine Corps Base recommendations for discussion include movement of mobile homes under permanent change of station orders; Woman Marine clothing regulations; improvement in the overall Marine Corps physical fitness program; re-adoption of the 13-man squad drill.

Establishment of an MOS for Special Services billets; restriction on the number of dependents allowed staff NCO's on independent duty; discontinuance of local screening boards for E-7's and E-8's promotion; promotion procedures to E-3 and E-4 and conduct and proficiency marks in Service Record Books and uniform wearing.

Proposals to be brought before the symposium by the 2nd Division representatives are the feasibility of assigning Marines to non-FMF units direct from ITR; re-adoption of the Landing Party Manual drill as the official Marine Corps drill; evaluate and set firm standards for warrant officer selections; policies on assigning sergeant majors to personnel administrative school; discuss extension or re-enlistments of personnel below the rank of E-8;

Promotions in saturated fields; unmatched uniforms and special allowances for persons engaged in work requiring excessive use of the utility clothing; officer-type uniforms for staff NCO's; clothing allowance and procurement; service clubs for all Marines and construction of buildings for recreational use.

Overseas pay increases for E-8's and E-9's, clothing allowances for Naval personnel assigned to FMF units, letters of indebtedness and careers of senior NCO's are items on the agenda of the Force Troops representative.

Second FAG Pioneers New Concept In Night Fighting

Breakfast in the evening, lunch at midnight, dinner dawn—Force Troops' 2nd Field Artillery Group reveal their entire schedule for three days last week, pioneering way for a new concept in night training. A remarkable degree of proficiency in the operation of artillery units under cover of complete darkness was the result of the three-way problem, according to Maj. James G. Fox, executive officer of 2nd FAG.

The exercise simulated a situation in which the 2nd Field Artillery Group gave reinforcement to the 2nd Division. Only the night was used for training, while the days were employed as a time for rest, consolidation, regrouping and strengthening of defense position.

The basic concept of artillery being able to move, shoot, communicate—was the mainstay of the operation.

During the displacements, communications and control were complicated by the fact that gas had to be employed. To make firing situations more realistic, aerial and chemical warfare agents were brought into full play.

Live firing was conducted at night by the 155mm Howitzer battery and the 8-inch Howitzer battery. Firing positions south of Highway 172 were used for first time, positions which not only gave a greater range to the guns, but enabled them to operate not previously used.

An Honest John rocket was fired under a "first" condition. For the first time, the Heavy Rocket Battery fired the weapon from an inland position rather than from a beach area.

A highlight of the problem was the visit of Brig. Gen. Leonard Chapman Jr., commanding general of Force Troops, and his staff. The general made an inspection of the many training phases which witnessed the artillery firings.

Col. R. D. Wright, who recently became commander of the Field Artillery Group, was also observer of the night training. Major Fox said that although the problem began with some fog in the dark, a great amount of proficiency was seen by the time the exercise was completed.

Bloodmobile Visit Scheduled Next Tuesday, Wednesday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Camp Lejeune Marston Pavilion Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 9 and 10. One hundred pints of blood are expected to be collected from members of 2nd Division, Force Troops and the Marine Corps Facility. Regardless of whether or not a serviceman is able to donate blood himself, he is still eligible to receive blood for himself and his dependents under the Red Cross program by virtue of his being stationed at Camp Lejeune. This is true because the program receives active support on a regular and continuing basis here.

In addition, the serviceman and his immediate family are still protected for six months after he is separated at, or is transferred from Camp Lejeune. If he is sent overseas from Camp Lejeune, the protection covers his immediate family during the entire period he is overseas.

To avail himself of the assistance offered by this program, the serviceman may contact the Red Cross representative at Camp Lejeune who will in turn arrange for blood to be delivered at the needed locality. Should the man not be able to make the arrangement (maneuvers, etc.), his family can go through its local Red Cross office, which will obtain confirmation from the Camp Lejeune representative.

Contrary to popular belief, the blood bank is not something readily available to everyone without cost or obligation. In many places blood recipients must pay for the blood received or replace it on a "two for one" basis.

Even the Red Cross, when it provides blood, normally tries to have this blood replaced by relatives and friends of the recipient in order to keep its stock of blood at a high level to meet possible national emergencies.

However, through effective voluntary supported programs such as established here, the Red Cross is able to assure the military personnel at Camp Lejeune that blood bank support will be readily available to their immediate families without replacement and, of course, without cost.

"Immediate families" include those persons eligible for "Q" allotments and is not limited to members living in the household or servicemen.

VA Stresses Importance Of Current Beneficiary Names

Renewed effort on the part of all commands to emphasize the importance of keeping Government life insurance policy beneficiaries current, was directed in Marine Corps Bulletin 1741, issued recently. Issued at the request of the Veterans Administration, the bulletin points up the necessity for all holders of Government life insurance policies to keep their policies current.

According to the bulletin, the Veterans Administration often pays the proceeds of a government life insurance policy to a person who is no longer the preferred beneficiary of the deceased. In such cases the Veterans Administration's hands are tied as that agency is required by law to pay the last person designated.

As revealed by MCB 1741, the VA points out that a designation to a parent or a friend made in 1950 may not be appropriate today, especially if the policy holder has married since 1950 and is the father of children.

Should the policyholder die, says the VA, before redesignating his wife and/or children as beneficiaries there is no choice but to pay the designated parent or friend.

The VA places particular emphasis on the fact that a last will and testament, no matter how current, or a properly and recently completed Record of Emergency Data, will not act to change a beneficiary on a government life insurance policy.

Completing VA Form 9-336, the Marine Corps bulletin reveals, is the only way to change the beneficiary, and if VA Form 9-336 is not immediately available, a designation change may be accomplished by letter.
