

Introducing Next Week:

FAMILY and TROOP EDITIONS

Editorial

Two Giant Steps

Camp Lejeune's award-winning newspaper takes two giant steps forward next week with the introduction of a new technique in service journalism—a TROOP Edition and a FAMILY Edition.

The content of these two distinct GLOBE editions is apparent by the titles they will bear. The TROOP Edition will contain only those news and feature items which are of interest to the unmarried men and women who make their homes in the barracks and BOQs of Camp Lejeune. No more reports of wives' activities, schools news and birth notices. Instead, this space will be used for news of the Marine Corps; or what Marines are doing at other posts and stations, and of current entertainment offered on and off the Base. Of greater importance to our unmarried readers is the fact that the pages of the TROOP Edition will be packed with timely reports of what is happening to the "troops" at Camp Lejeune.

What bus will your son take to school? When does Little League practice begin and where? What are the plans of the wives' clubs for Saturday night's entertainment? What changes are being made in Base housing regulations? Such questions as these will be regularly answered and will set the format for the distinctively different FAMILY Edition which will arrive at your door in the Thursday mail.

It is never good to begin anything with an apology, but, unfortunately, we must. With limited funds and personnel to handle our circulation, it will be possible to mail the FAMILY Edition to government quarters and government rental housing residents only. Perhaps later, when our growing pains have subsided, a way can be found whereby we can mail to everyone on and off the reservation.

Until that time, personnel who live off the reservation may pick up the FAMILY Edition at the following places: Main Exchange, Commissary, Exchange Service Station, Dependents Clinic (USNH), Reception Center, Officers Club and at the GLOBE office. Please DON'T take the FAMILY Edition from these locations if you live in government quarters, Midway Park, or the Trailer parks.

As other units and individuals strive to enhance their value to the Marine Corps by modernization of techniques and adjustment to the requirements of the changing times, so the GLOBE pioneers the field of service journalism. We of the staff see the publication of a two-edition paper as two giant steps forward in the continuous improvement program which, coupled with your enthusiastic support, has made the GLOBE a prize-winning Marine Corps newspaper.

VOL. 16

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C., THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1960

NO. 4

Division Will Commemorate 19th Anniversary Monday; Parade, Review Scheduled

Highlights of 2nd Division history, including dramatic moments of World War II will be recalled Monday when the Division's Marines form for a parade to celebrate its 19th anniversary. Lt. Gen. Julian C. Smith, USMC (Ret.), who commanded the Division during the bitter Tarawa Island campaign, will address the massed troops and will be reviewing officer for the parade which will take place on the Camp Lejeune parade ground. Marines, dependents and invited guests will hear a recount of the Division's colorful history and events that have made it a world-famous fighting organization. Other highlights of the Anniversary Parade will be the presentation of unit marksmanship awards and the 2nd Division Association Drill Trophy.

Marksmanship Award

The Regimental marksmanship award will go to the 10th Marines who fired a 92.61 percent requalification. The high subordinate battalion trophy was won by the 2nd Battalion, 10th Marines, who fired 94.18 percent. The high separate battalion award was won by the 2nd Service Battalion with a 92.53 percent requalification and high company/battery was "E" Btry, 2nd Bn., 10th Marines, that fired 97.59 percent. Currently serving at Vie-ques, "E" Battery received its award Jan. 20.

The Division Association Drill Trophy, to be presented for the third time, was won Monday by Lima Btry, 4th Bn., Tenth Marines, in competition with eight other units. It is an annual award to recognize excellence in close order drill. Co. "B," 1st Bn., Eighth Marines, won the trophy last year. Each participating unit must be proficient in the manual of arms, performance of company, platoon and squad drill, and must present an outstanding personal appearance.

Holiday Menu

In observance of the anniversary, Division mess halls will offer a holiday menu to officers, enlisted personnel and their dependents and guests. Officers and civilian guests will pay 65 cents while enlisted personnel who draw commuted rations will be charged 45 cents.

General and Mrs. Smith will be guests of Maj. Gen. J. P. Berkeley, Division commander, for lunch at the General's mess in the Division headquarters building.

General Smith, who commanded the Division from May 1, 1941 to April 1944, was present for anniversary ceremonies here in 1956. He was the Division's fourth commander when it made history at Tarawa by conquering the "uncon-

Federal Fund Over $10,000

The Second Separate Surgical Co., Force Troops, became the second Quad-Command unit to reach the 100 percent mark in the 1960 Federal Service Campaign for the Support of National Health and International Relationship Agencies. The 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines, was the first unit to attain 100 percent participation.

In the third week of the drive, the 2nd Division has donated 43 percent of their quota; Force Troops follows with 20 percent, and 14 percent was collected by Marine Corps Base. The Air Facility has reached the 13 percent mark and the civilian employees have donated 9 percent of quota.

Over $10,000 has been collected in the campaign which is scheduled to run until Feb. 19. This averages to over one dollar per man for the contributions.

The drive has been recognized by the President's Committee on Fund-Raising within the Federal Services.

DIVISION ACTIVATION—Maj. Gen. Clayton B. Vogel, at mike, commanding general of the newly-formed 2nd Marine Division, reads the activation order at Marine Corps Base, San Diego, Feb. 1, 1941, before assembled general officers and the Division staff.

If you ask me...

WHAT SUGGESTIONS CAN YOU MAKE TO IMPROVE TRAFFIC CONDITIONS AND ROAD CONSTRUCTION AT CAMP LEJEUNE?

ACT. SSGT. LLOYD ESTEP, Truck Co., H&S Bn., 2nd Force Service Regt.—There are a few sections on the base where there's room for improvement. One of these sections is the Industrial Area by the railroad tracks. Many times I have commented on the bumpy pavement and wished something could be done to eliminate it. Also, a place that could stand a traffic change is the main boulevard. During the heavy morning and evening rush, it is sometimes impossible to keep the cars moving. I'd like to see the boulevard widened to curb this.

T. P. ROYAL, Taxi Driver, 200 Staff Road, Jacksonville, N. C.—

Remembering a few years back, I must admit that the traffic conditions at Camp Lejeune have much improved. This is especially true of the area near the Marine Corps Exchange. However, I'm thinking of one incident in particular when I sat for more than 45 minutes waiting to get out of the Industrial Area during the rush. Why not get a few MPs out there to break it up.

PVT. JOYCE MILLER, Woman Marine Company, Traffic Court, Provost Marshal's Office — I haven't been on this base long enough to have become thoroughly acquainted with the road conditions and traffic problems, but there are a few things I have noticed during the past two weeks which I would definitely change as soon as possible. For one thing, I think the traffic signs should be posted better and they should be more explicit. It seems that you've got to look closely at many intersections to even find a marking. The parking lots should also have signs clear enough that the driver can see them from at least 100-foot distance.

PFC W. L. LANDON, Hq. Co., Hq. Bn.—I think the traffic conditions are good on base but the condition of the pavement in certain areas is terrible. In places where the visibility isn't good, a smooth pavement will cut off into a rough one. Tires can be ruined because of this sudden change and if one isn't aware of this hazard, there is a good chance of losing control of the car.

PFC J. R. HOPF, H&S Co., 3rd Bn., Second Marines—I drive quite often both on and off the base and I see no major problem at Camp Lejeune which would stand out in comparison with ordinary traffic faults. Being that there is a constant increase of cars on the road, I'd like to suggest building up our highways throughout this base. There also should be more plainly marked parking areas.

TWO RECORDS, FOUR SIDES AND FOUR HITS—LCpl. Robert H. Jarvis, Hq. Bn., legal clerk, holds the records that he and a friend, Harold Hubble, cut for the Delta label. The records are currently hitting the top in the midwest. (Photo by Pfc L. T. McClain.)

Knowledge Of Greek History Enhances Tour Of Country

To be able to appreciate the modern Greek, a bit of the fascinating history of this little country is necessary. The Parthenon, which can be seen from almost any point in Athens, was built 2,500 years ago. At that time, our ancestors in Western Europe were just emerging from their caves. There were other civilizations as old and older than that of the ancient Greeks, but theirs has rightly been called "the first great civilization of the Western World." Much that Europeans and Americans value in modern civilization came down from Greece. The idea of democracy was first developed and put into practice by the Greeks 500 years before Christ. The word itself comes from two Greek words, demos (the people), and kratos (authority). Greek philosophy, science, literature, architecture and art profoundly influenced Western developments in these fields.

The modern Greek is rightfully proud of this great history. He sees himself as a descendant of Demosthenes, Socrates, Plato and others. His language has changed somewhat, but it is still Greek. The classical language studied in American schools is not the spoken language of Greece today.

Family Life

The Greeks have many admirable traits and, like all peoples, some characteristics that may exasperate foreigners. They are hospitable, friendly and genuinely gay. They have an alert intelligence, curiosity, intellectual aspirations and a strong sense of national independence. They have a strongly developed family life and a love for children.

Free 'Ham' Radio Classes Scheduled For February 2

The amateur radio station, W4LEV, will conduct classes to help personnel prepare for the Federal Communications examinations. The classes will begin Feb. 2 and continue for 10 weeks. The courses are open to all interested personnel and their dependents. Dependents over 14 years of age are urged to attend and no previous experience is necessary. Courses will be offered for the novice who has little or no understanding of "ham" radio and for the more advanced students.

The classes are free and will be held four nights a week. Attendance will be required on two of the scheduled nights. Registration must be made before Feb. 1. It is requested that persons interested in the classes register as soon as possible so that plans may be made to accommodate everyone.

All interested personnel are requested to go in person to the station located in the field past the entrance to the drive in theatre for registration. Do not telephone because the phone lines are usually needed to run traffic for overseas personnel.

Tapes will be furnished for those having tape recorders at home to allow more rapid learning of communications practice. Complete operating positions are now available for authorized amateurs at the radio station. In addition, new stations are planned for 2nd Division amateur radio operation.

PIANIST NEEDED

The 2nd Division chorus is in need of a piano accompanist. Anyone in the Division who is an experienced pianist and would like to play for the chorus is requested to call 1st Lt. Weltin at 7-3505.

Legal Clerk Rocks 'n Rolls In Popular Recording Field

A young Camp Lejeune Marine has begun the climb to the top in the present-day popular music field. LCpl. Robert H. Jarvis, Hq. Bn., Marine Corps Base, has recorded two records, released Jan. 9, that are already climbing in popularity. Bob, from Lebanon, Ind., and Harold Hubble, Greenfield, Ind., form the duo known professionally as "Harold and Bob." "Breaks of the Game," written by Bob, is a vocal ballad that is rapidly climbing in popularity. The flip side of the record, "Spitfire," is an instrumental rock and roll number that should become a big hit with the teen-agers of today.

The other record, "Jungle Beat" backed by "Stray Cat" is doing very well. "Jungle Beat" is an instrumental novelty closely resembling Martin Denny's "Quiet Village." A wild and frantic novelty rock and roll number, "Stray Cat" is also moving up in sales.

Although the boys pooled their ambitions only recently, they are by no means newcomers to music. Each began singing at an early age. Harold, in his high school days, was scouted by professional baseball clubs but encouragement from his parents convinced him to improve his music technique.

Bob's high school years were less filled with sports "or little else," he explains, "that would interfere with music." It had been his first love since the days when his father held him and his brother on his knee to sing in church. He learned music on the guitar but later branched out with drums, playing for six years in the school orchestra. He also plays the piano but admits that his repertoire is limited.

Shortly after graduation, he enlisted in the Marine Corps. He has attended the administration school and the Naval Justice school and is currently working in the Hq. Bn. legal section.

While stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif., from 1956 to 1958, he was featured weekly on "Marines In Review," a coast-to-coast radio show. On Okinawa in 1958 and 1959, he spent his off-duty hours with various combos and appeared in a weekly television show.

Bob's occasional leaves home are well planned by Harold towards furthering their career. Delta records, the publishers, plan to record 12 other songs the boys have written in the near future.

Terrace Gets Rugs, Lamps For Residents

All of the furniture, with the exception of kitchen stools and dining room chairs, has been received by the Tarawa Terrace Housing office, according to CWO L. H. Pollock, property officer.

Residents must be on the waiting list to receive items of furniture. Tenants are not automatically put on the waiting list when they move in but must appear at the office and request the furniture.

Living room items are available, including rugs and lamps. Due to the many deliveries to be made, it may be some time before the lamps can be delivered. However, residents may pick them up at the warehouse which is open from 8 a.m. until 12 noon and from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Dining room and kitchen furniture has been received and efforts to deliver them have been made. At least one member of a family must be home for deliveries to be made. Residents who believe they are on the waiting list but have not yet received their furniture are requested to contact the property section at the housing office.

Many residents having their own furniture were put on the waiting list, but due to space, find that they have no room. These persons should contact the housing office and have their names taken off the list. Those occupants who still do not have all of their furniture may submit a letter requesting the additional items needed.

Camp Lejeune Master Menu

Sixth Marines Exceed Quota In Fund Drive

The Sixth Marines is the first organization in the Quad-Command to attain 100 percent participation in the current Federal Services campaign.

Scheduled to end on Feb. 19, the drive is now in its half way point with all organizations planning to hit 100 per cent participation.

Not only is the Sixth Marines the first as a whole it was 3rd Bn., Sixth, that was the very first unit to make 100 per cent in the Camp Lejeune complex.

Force Troops with its 2nd Separate Surgical Company is the only other unit, as opposed to organization, that has made a 100 per cent participatory goal.

No monetary goal has been assigned according to Lt. Col. Sam Smith, drive chairman for the Camp Lejeune area. The goal is expressed in participation by all hands giving according to his conscience and desire. A "fair share" has been suggested by the Base and Division Bulletins on the drive. This fair share is spelled out in Base Order 5340.2B as a guide only.

Last year during this "two envelope drive," so called because of the National Health Agencies and Joint Crusade supplied envelopes, the Camp Lejeune area contributed some $41,000. This was over $6,000 more than in 1958. In terms of 100 percent this averaged one dollar per man.

SALUTING THE SECOND MARINE DIVISION ON ITS 19th ANNIVERSARY

Follow Me

Camp Lejeune is known as the home of the 2nd Marine Division and as the verse of our Marine Hymn implies, "they have fought in every clime and place." This week we take pride and pleasure in saluting the 2nd Division on their 19th anniversary.

Formally activated on Feb. 1, 1941, the division is just 19 years old Monday. Many could say it is somewhat of a teen-ager, but what youth or young unit of any armed forces could boast of such history-making years in such a short span as past and present members of the division have "chalked up"?

This week the division will pass in review on the parade ground of Camp Lejeune in the presence of the division's fourth commander, Lt. Gen. Julian C. Smith (Ret.), who led the division through some of the bloodiest battles of World War II. At this time a great many men who helped write the division's pages of history will not be present on the field, but from the "old timers" and "new breed" alike, the tribute being paid them will not go unnoticed.

It is not just the division we are honoring this week, but the officers and men who comprise all the units which make up this hard-hitting military force-in-readiness.

The motto of the 2nd Marine Division exemplifies the spirit and readiness of the officers and men who, if called upon again to defend their country's freedom, will again cry out, "Follow Me."

Short Rounds

NOT QUITE RIGHT—Many times during the past two weeks the phones in the GLOBE office have been busy with interested readers inquiring about the GLOBE's mysterious "question marks." The numerous phone queries have revealed many different ideas—some very close to the right answer and others that were just a little far-fetched. A call from Act. SSgt. M. R. Moudy, Division Special Services, informed us that the big mystery was about the completion of the Onslow Beach fishing pier and its being open to Marines and dependents. An answer which came pretty close to the solution was called in by Act. SSgt. Raymond Plande, MP Co., MCB. Sergeant Plande felt that in the near future the GLOBE would be delivered to the homes of "brown-baggers" in government housing areas. As announced on this week's front page, you can see he was quite close. Other phone conversations reported that the "Marine Corps was going to offer monetary awards for top Corps shooters, and that a special directive from the Commandant in the near future would permit Marines to take their families to foreign duty stations." Just before deadline a reader called in to find out if there was going to be a party for the entire base which both troops and their families could attend. Capt. B. T. Burke, assistant Base Transportation officer, believes the "teaser" is an announcement of the forthcoming Boy Scout Week in February. One young man, Pfc G. R. Broomall, Service Co., Hq. Bn., 2nd Division, thinks the answer to the question marks is a sign to be placed around Camp Lejeune marking animal and troop crossings. Friday afternoon, Pfc J. H. Banks Jr., Spt. Co. "B", Hq. Bn., informed the GLOBE of the correct solution to the puzzle. Our congratulations to Pfc Banks!

MCI—The Marine Corps Institute passed its 40th birthday quietly Jan. 5 with only the announcement that there will be a new handbook issued soon as a further aid in educating Marines. The Institute opened with a curriculum of 13 courses in a few small rooms at Quantico Marine Barracks in 1920. A number of Marines learned how to read and write since the courses offered then were for the general educational development of Marines on active duty. MCI now offers 225 correspondence courses and over 788,000 Marines have been enrolled since it began.

Chaplain's Corner

When a man or woman in military service today says, "I need to see the Chaplain," what do they mean? These words express some interesting attitudes which some people seem to have toward the Chaplain. For some, the Chaplain is someone to see only when you need to—usually as a last resort. In other words, "Chaplain, like Aspirin, should be taken only when needed."

Then there is the attitude that the Chaplain is someone to be seen but not heard, "Chaplains are swell if they don't give you Hell." Some people frankly confess that they just don't have the slightest idea what the Chaplain is for—but he does seem to be a nice guy to call on when there's no one else around to engage in conversation.

"Chaplain" is a French word with a French background. St. Martin of Tours once gave his cloak to a shivering beggar. This cloak, later recovered, became a holy relic of the French army. Whenever the army went into battle, the cloak was carried as a rallying point for the soldiers. The man responsible to be the "keeper of the cloak" was called the "Chaplain."

Since the days of Martin of Tours, the military Chaplain has often been a source of inspiration, as Keeper of the Cloak of Faith and Hope and Love, enabling men to rally to the Cause of Man and God in the field of battle.

This is as it should be. The Chaplain is, after all, a minister, priest, or rabbi—in uniform. He has been set apart and ordained to a special and unique work and service. This does not mean being a "Handy-Andy" sort of a guy who does all the odd jobs which no one else wants to do, or has time for. This does mean that the Chaplain should, at all times, be about His Father's Business.

1960 Annual 2d Division Supplement

Division Role In Operation 'Inland Seas'

When the St. Lawrence Seaway officially opened in June of last year it afforded midwesterners their first opportunity in 148 years to witness Marines in action. At five cities, Rochester, N. Y., Erie, Pa., Cleveland, Ohio, Chicago, Ill., and Milwaukee, Wis., an estimated two million people observed the 2d Bn., Sixth Marines, as they staged amphibious landings.

Under the command of Lt. Col. W. E. Antley, the battalion boarded ships of Amphibious Squadron Eight at Morehead City on June 9.

Ports of Call

The Division Marines, with battalion headquarters aboard the USS Cambria, entered the locks of the Seaway on June 21. The first "port of call" was Ashtabula, Ohio. There, the battalion marched in combat regalia at an afternoon parade and that evening were guests at a city-sponsored party in their honor.

July 4, in Chicago, the first landing was staged. Over 500,000 spectators braved the elements to see the Marines assault the beach along the North Shore.

Four days later on July 8 at Milwaukee, Colonel Antley led his battalion in an "invasion" of McKinley Park Beach. Here, too, enthusiastic spectators cheered lustily as the Marines waded ashore to the accompaniment of exploding "artillery fire" and the drone of helicopters.

In the final week of the cruise on the Great Lakes, July 18 to 25, the battalion staged successful landings at Cleveland, Erie, and Rochester, respectively. The same tumultuous welcomes were repeated in these cities.

The Division Chorus and Band joined the battalion in Chicago and presented impressive concerts there and later at Milwaukee.

The Band, under the direction of WO George J. Buccieri, lined the streets of Chicago to serenade the Queen of England during her visit to the Windy City.

Capt. W. L. Mundell, Division Chorus Director, led the Marine musical group when it made its first appearance in the Great Lakes region at a concert held in conjunction with the opening of the Trade Fair in Chicago.

Large Audiences

The Chorus exhibited their musical wares before thousands during their six-day stay in Milwaukee. Appearances in Toledo and Cleveland wound up in the Chorus' participation in Operation Inland Seas.

During the operation, millions of American taxpayers received their first look at the diversity of the 2d Division's Marine. Each demonstration pointed out, for all to see, that the Marines are truly a Force-in-Readiness.

Commanding General's 19th Anniversary Message

On the 19th anniversary of this famed unit I look with pride not only on its accomplishments of the past year but those of its entire history. I know that the deeds of former Division personnel, brought in focus on this date, will continue to inspire us in the coming years.

Our Division was formed in the troubled year of 1941 and the record of the 2d during World War II at Tarawa, Saipan, Tinian, and Okinawa is indelibly printed on the pages of Marine Corps history.

The American people will never forget our past deeds of courage, spirit and fighting teamwork.

They can look with confidence to the future knowing full well that the 2d Division stands ready, highly trained in the latest and most formidable concepts of amphibious and vertical envelopment warfare.

To the officers and men, wherever they may be and to their families, I extend my personal congratulations on this our 2d Division's 19th anniversary.

2d Division's History Began 19 Years Ago

Nineteen years and several history volumes later, the 2d Marine Division continues to play an important role as a Force-in-Readiness and as the nation's East Coast Amphibious Force. Born Feb. 1, 1941, at Camp Elliott, Calif., near San Diego, the Division while still a youngster fought its way to fame from one Pacific island to another during World War II.

As international crisis was mounting in 1940, the need for another Marine division became apparent. Using the Sixth Regiment, of World War I fame, as its nucleus the Division was christened at Camp Elliott and placed under the command of Maj. Gen. Clayton B. Vogel.

Intensive Training

Shortly after its formation, the reactivated Second, Eighth, and Tenth Regiments joined the Division and immediately began an intensive training program in amphibious warfare. After four months, a reinforced regiment of the Second was dispatched to Iceland. Another was sent to Samoa to protect the vital life line to Australia.

Although units of the Division participated in the Allies' first offensive operation in the Pacific, Guadalcanal, it wasn't until 1943 that the units were reunited under the Division colors. Its first task was Tarawa where the Division stormed the beaches to make combat history.

Tarawa

In 72 hours, it conquered the "unconquerable" island of Tarawa. For this epic battle, the Division was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation.

In June, 1944, the Division assaulted and captured Saipan and Tinian in the Marianas group.

September, 1945

Following the Japanese surrender, in September, 1945, the Division moved ashore at Nagasaki and spent a year of occupation duty in the "Land of the Rising Sun." Returning to the U. S., the 2d Division came "home" to Camp Lejeune where it has since remained.

Early in 1948, rotating battalions of the Division were assigned to the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean as a show of force and as purveyors of goodwill. Not only have these battalions won many friends for the U. S., but also proved themselves worthy as a combat force when they stormed ashore at Beirut, Lebanon, during July, 1958, to bolster President Camille Chamoun's threatened government.

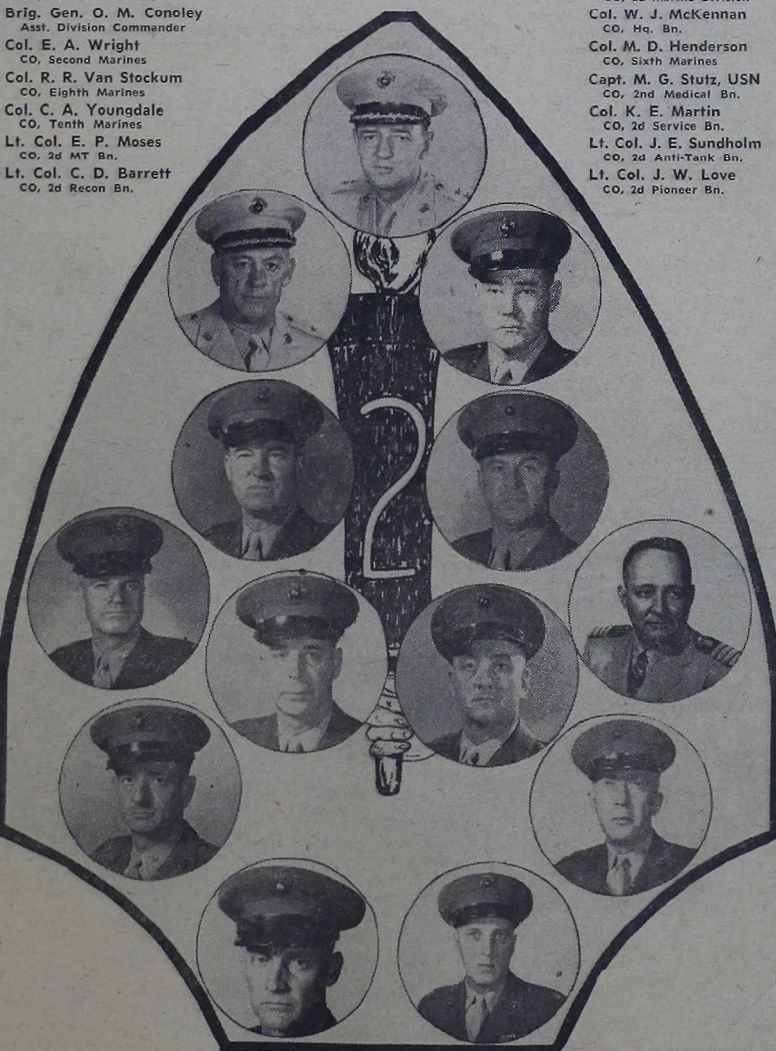

Whether in the Mediterranean or at home in Camp Lejeune, the 2d Marine Division perpetuates its intensive training program in an effort to reach perfection in amphibious warfare and to maintain its role as a Force-in-Readiness.

Highlights Of The 2d

The 19th anniversary of the 2d Marine Division Feb. 1, finds the Division still firing in the "five ring" with no alibis needed to retain its coveted "expert" badge.

The course wasn't easy. Score book entries show thousands of man hours spent snapping-in to maintain its posture as a force-in-readiness. Tactical exercises and rugged training dominated every firing line.

Perhaps the most spectacular event of the year to focus the spotlight of public attention upon the Division's role as an amphibious striking force came during "Operation Inland Seas" when the 2d Battalion, Sixth Marines, made a series of demonstration landings in mid-west cities bordering the Great Lakes to celebrate the official opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Witnessed by some three million Americans in a section of the country where Marines have been an unfamiliar sight since WWII, the BLT supported by Marine helicopters and fighter escorts, made screaming newspaper headlines as they successfully "invaded" Chicago, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Erie and Rochester.

Said Congressman Charles A. Vanik of Ohio's 21st District: "Operation Inland Seas gave mid-westerners an excellent chance to see the defense value of their tax dollars."

The Fall of 1959 saw the Division commander elevated to three-star rank and named Commanding General, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic. Lt. Gen. J. C. Burger turned the Division reins over to Brig. Gen. O. M. Conoley who served as interim Division commander during late October and early November, pending the arrival of Maj. Gen. J. P. Berkeley. TRALEX 4-59 . . . the largest training exercise of the year involving Division personnel . . . was then entering its final stages. Upon his arrival Nov. 5, General Berkeley saw the Division in action for the first time as its commanding general.

Major elements of the landing force were the Second, Eighth, and Tenth Marines, whose "over-the-beach" phase was observed by Vice Adm. G. C. Towner, Commander, Amphibious Forces, Atlantic Fleet; Lieutenant General Burger, and Brig. Gen. L. C. Hudson from Headquarters Marine Corps.

Commandant's Birthday

I take great pleasure in leading and best wishes from the entire Division and every member of the 2d Division on the nineteenth birthday of your Division.

The record of continuous service since its activation on January 1, 1941, is a record of highest Corps. It is a record of indomitable spirit, fast devotion. At Gavutu, Tanabaru, Tinian, and Okinawa, members of the inspiring pages of the story, for ways be remembered with the people.

Today the 2d Marine Division is poised on the East Coast and is ready to fill any assigned mission.

Thus, in its past history, the Marine Division exemplifies the role of the Nation's Amphibious Force.

I am proud to salute the Marine birthday, and to all of its men's regards.

in many languages by the Division G-2 Section. During 1959, the "collectors and disseminators" of intelligence data sponsored study groups in Spanish, French, Russian and Arabic for Marines already conversant in those tongues. Classes met once a week and subscriptions to newspapers and magazines published in those languages were obtained as well as formal instructional matter. The military intelligence application in the fields of POW interrogation and the translation and interpretation of military documents were stressed.

An Escape and Evasion School was conducted by the Division Reconnaissance Battalion last year under the supervision of the G-2. Graduates of this two-week course can attest to the "tenderness" of porcupine steaks with their built-in tooth picks. This and other natural delicacies are available on the forest bill-of-fare to students undergoing survival training during their "escape" from the enemy. Other phases of the course include the intelligence aspects of avoiding capture, escape techniques, resistance to enemy interrogation and POW conduct.

The sunny Caribbean felt the impact of hard charging 2d Division Marines during the first half of 1959 when three Provisional Marine Brigades . . . BRIGALEX 1, 2 and 3 . . . trained and operated out of Vieques, P. R. These were a series of exercises to test another Division "first."

It was the first time in the concept of vertical envelopment that helicopters were employed exclusively by a 2d Marine Division force which consisted of a reinforced battalion and brigade headquarters staff operating from high speed shipping. The main troop carrier during these exercises which ran from January to June, was the converted aircraft carrier USS Boxer, supported by fast moving LSD's.

The big guns of the Tenth Marine Regiment, artillery arm of the 2d Marine Division, spoke loud and clear last spring during field training exercises at Ft. Bragg, N. C. With their booming 105's, cannoneers of the Tenth covered all phases of gunnery, including exercises in tactical control of artillery.

During their action packed schedule of 1959, the Tenth Marines provided artillery support for all operations conducted by Division infantry regiments and assigned several batteries to serve aggressor forces during TRA-LEX 4-59. The 1st Battalion . . . a close-support 4.2 inch mortar unit of the Tenth Marines . . . conducted extensive training in heli-borne exercises on both battery and battalion level.

Train and test was the criteria for the 2nd Pioneer Battalion during 1959. The combat engineers who provide the Division with both tactical and logistic type support, conducted four equipment evaluation tests for the Marine Corps Development Program.

They tested a portable roadway designed to carry heavy vehicles through swampy or marshy areas; tested the feasibility of heli-lifting items of sectionalized engineer equipment to supply infantry units in remote areas; experimented with armored footwear to protect troops from blast and fragmentation effect of small anti-personnel mines and tried out a special pallet-coupler designed to permit an HUS helicopter to lift two heavily loaded pallets simultaneously, thus permitting maximum utilization of the helicopter's lift capability. It is not known at this writing if any of these tested items have yet been accepted as "bona-fide" birthday gifts by the Division.

One of the more colorful events of the year held by Division personnel was the RLT display for Secretary of the Navy William B. Franke.

The Sixth Marines was designated the basic unit of the RLT and assigned the job of coordinating other elements of the task organization.

Preparations for the half-hour show . . . the thousands of details . . . countless phone calls . . . rehearsals, planning, paperwork and readying of men and equipment . . . was sharply evident in the smart appearance of Marines, in the symmetrically aligned rows of troops and equipment . . . and in the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

Other colorful events of the year included: a static display of 2d Marine Division equipment during "Open House" at Camp Lejeune on Armed Forces Day; Division parade and review in honor of Lt. Gen. E. A. Pollock; change of Division Sergeants Major parade October 23 . . . reportedly the first of its kind ever held at Camp Lejeune . . . when Sgt. Maj. Austin J. (Derby) Ross was relieved by Sgt. Maj. Russell O. Baker; parade and review for Gen. Randolph McCall Pate during the former Commandant's visit in June; a parade and review in honor of Brig. Gen. Sidney S. Wade, former assistant Division commander, who received the Distinguished Service Medal for service during the Lebanon crisis when he commanded the 2d Provisional Marine Force; visit of Maj. Gen. H. Liefstinck, Commandant, Netherlands Royal Marine Corps; visit of Col. S. T. G. Coleman, Australian Army, Director of Infantry, and the visit by the faculty and students of the Armed Forces Staff College Nov. 24.

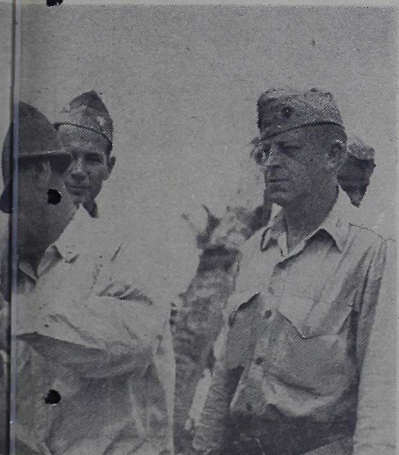

In keeping with an established custom for an appreciable number of years, the 2d Division again furnished a special battalion for the Camp Perry Rifle Matches. The 2d Battalion, Second Marines, "pulled butts," marked targets, kept scores, and generally officiated during the six-week 1959 shoot.

Rifle marksmanship . . . the hallmark of every Marine . . . was practiced in a few instances on unit level during last year. However, 1960 promises to show greater participation on unit level by Division personnel engaged in requalification firing.

Highlights of the 2d Marine Division serve only to report a few of the major operations and activities accomplished during 1959 and does not record the detailed achievements of the small organic units whose support was the deciding factor in the over-all success of the Division's role as a force-in-readiness.

Preparedness exemplified by Division units during their daily training in garrison and field . . . by their adaptability to innovations and novel situations and ability to improvise under unusual conditions . . . serve only to confirm the existence of the intangible substance at the heart of the Division; some call it "Esprit de Corps."

The American people enjoyed peace and security during 1959. This status quo will be maintained in 1960 with the help of a proud 2d Marine Division whose battle sights can be set for any "windage."

DAVID M. SHOUP
Colonel, U. S. Marine Corps
Commandant of the Marine Corps

A BRIEF PAUSE—Secretary of the Navy, the Honorable William B. Franke, pauses briefly to talk with a company commander as he inspects the deadly ONTOS. Mr. Franke paid the 2d Division a visit during his tour of various Navy and Marine Corps bases on the Atlantic Coast last year.

POTENT PUNCH—One of the latest additions to the 2d Marine Division's arsenal is the light infantry weapons carrier (mechanical mule). It mounts a 106mm recoilless rifle and is also used as a cargo carrier. "Mules" are assigned to each infantry battalion in the Division.

Old Timers

On the eve of the Division's 19th anniversary, four members of the "old breed" were asked their views on the major changes in the division since 1941.

Sgt. Maj. Louis M. Cooper is now Headquarters Battalion sergeant major. But in 1941 he had been called up from reserve with the 16th Infantry Bn., USMC, of Indianapolis, Ind.

Sergeant Major Cooper remembers the many colorful personalities that characterized the 2d Marine Division before and during World War II.

In particular, he recalls Brigadier General Clayton Vogel and his dog "Bugeye." He also remembers the 25-mile hikes every day and that the same uniform was worn, whether on liberty or a landing.

The sergeant major was very emphatic when he said, "The good old days are right now—here in 1960. Everything is better—living conditions, training and pay; and it will continue to get better."

Sgt. Maj. Edward F. H. Bauer was an Anti-Aircraft machine gunner in the 2d Anti-Aircraft Machine-Gun Battery when the 2d Division was formed in 1941.

From there he rose through the ranks and became a captain in 1944. As Executive Officer of "B" Company, 2d Bn., 29th Marines attached to the 2d Marine Division on Saipan, he was wounded in an action that won him a Purple Heart and a Silver Star.

Selected as sergeant major in Dec. 1955, Sergeant Bauer is on his third tour of duty with the Division. He plans to retire in May.

Act. MSgt. Sigmund V. Falicki was a corporal in a rifle platoon of "C" Co., 1st Bn., 2d Marines, in February, 1941.

In his first tour of duty with the division, he made the Florida and Tulagi Island landings in the Solomon Islands in 1942, and later participated in the Saipan-Tinian operations in 1944.

Sergeant Falicki thinks the Division is "bigger and better than ever." "But," he added, "I think some of the junior NCO's should realize and accept more of their responsibilities."

Sgt. Falicki is currently serving as First Sergeant of Service Company, Headquarters Bn.

Act. MSgt. Louis A. LeBlanc also was present with General Vogel assumed command of the new 2d Division. Sergeant LeBlanc was a corporal when he joined "A" Company as an infantryman.

Sergeant LeBlanc thinks the big difference in the division today is the "attitude of the personnel—which is much better."

Sergeant LeBlanc served on Guadalcanal and was returned to the States in July 1943 with malaria. Since 1943, Sergeant LeBlanc has not been attached to the division, until Jan. 1959, when he was assigned to Division G-1.

He is serving today as first sergeant of Headquarters and Service Company.

Division Training Includes Forest Fire Fighting Tactics

The 2d Marine Division's training for "brush fire" warfare benefits the State of North Carolina in forest fire combat. The Division, 19 years old Monday, Feb. 1, has been helping the state save its timber for more than a decade. Whenever an emergency forest fire condition exists, Division Headquarters is notified and a regiment is designated to supply men for a fire-fighting detail.

The regiment must be prepared to move out with the same speed it would employ in a tactical operation.

Speed and Alertness

This alertness and speed was put to a severe test when in August of 1957, some 150 Leathernecks of the 2d Division were called upon to help fight one of the worst forest fires ever to hit the state of North Carolina. The blaze, which occurred in the Manteo area, was finally licked after a week of toe-to-toe slugging. Eighty thousand acres of pulpwood was destroyed, a loss which might have been much heavier had it not been for the Division troops, using equipment borrowed from Marine Corps Base.

Commended

Camp Lejeune received several letters of appreciation from state officials for its part in combatting this historic blaze.

More recently, in May of 1959, men of the 2d Bn., Eighth Marines, responded to a call for assistance from the North Carolina Forest Service Office in New Bern. A detail of 114 men, under the leadership of Capt. Robert L. Zuern, fought the blaze for three days until they were relieved by another group from the Eighth Marines. This group remained an additional two days until the fire was brought under control. Once again, Marines from Camp Lejeune proved that they are ready to help in any emergency.

DOUSING THE FLAMES—Men of 2d Marine Division spray a fallen tree in an attempt to halt an on-coming forest fire. The men of this Division are often called upon by civilian authorities to aid in combating these fires.

Former 2d Division Commanders

Seventeen generals, 14 of whom have since retired, have commanded the 2d Division since its activation in February, 1941.

Maj. Gen. Clayton B. Vogel, a veteran of 37 years' Marine Corps service, was given the mission of organizing and commanding the new unit.

In January, 1942, the under-manned Division, then under the command of Maj. Gen. Charles F. B. Price, was ordered to supervise the training of recruits at Camp Kearney in the San Diego area.

Maj. Gen. John Marston was commanding general when the re-strengthened 2d Division embarked for New Zealand and further training in amphibious and jungle warfare.

Brig. Gen. Alphonse De Carre, assistant Division commander, led the Division into its first taste of combat at Guadalcanal, because General Marston had been ordered to remain in New Zealand.

On May 1, 1943, Maj. Gen. Julian C. Smith, who had earned the Navy Cross for outstanding heroism in Nicaragua during the '30's, became commander of the Division.

For his successful performance as commander of the Twenty-second Marine Regiment and 106th Army Regiment in the assault of Eniwetok Atoll, Maj. Gen. Thomas E. Watson had been promoted to that rank and given command of the 2d Division.

The day Okinawa was declared secure, June 22, 1945, the Division received another commanding general, when Maj. Gen. Leroy P. Hunt was assigned to relieve General Watson.

He brought the organization back to the United States in July, 1946, and their new headquarters at Camp Lejeune. Immediately after arriving at Camp Lejeune, General Watson again assumed command and served until 1948.

On Jan. 31, 1948, Maj. Gen. Franklin A. Hart assumed command of the Division.

Maj. Gen. Ray A. Robinson, a veteran of both World War I and II, and holder of the Legion of Merit with bronze star, relieved General Hart on June 30, 1950.

He remained as commanding general for 18 months, when Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Pollock took command until September, 1952, when he was ordered to Korea and duties as commander of the 1st Marine Division.

Former Commandant of the Marine Corps, Randolph McCall Pate, then a major general, became commanding general in September, 1952. He served in this capacity less than a year before reporting to Korea the following June, again to relieve General Pollock.

Maj. Gen. George F. Good Jr. who had served as chief of staff of the World War II 2d Marine Division in the Saipan, Tinian and Okinawa campaigns, then assumed the top role in the Division.

He remained in this position until July, 1954, when Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Pulier, winner of five Navy Crosses, became Division commander.

On February 7, 1955, General Puller was reassigned to the Marine Barracks, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, and Brig. Gen. Edward W. Snedeker assumed command. A holder of the Navy Cross, he served as commanding general until July 1, 1955.

The next commander was Maj. Gen. Reginald H. Ridgely Jr., who had been captured by the Japanese and spent the war years as a prisoner, after the heroic defense of the Philippine Islands. He served as commanding general for two years.

Maj. Gen. Joseph C. Burger became Division commander on June 1, 1957, and remained in that position until October of last year when he was elevated to three-star rank and command of the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic.

General Burger, winner of the Distinguished Service Medal and Bronze Star Medal, had served as commanding general, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, prior to taking over the Division post.

Brig. Gen. Odell M. Conoley, who became interim commanding general on Oct. 24, controlled the Division phase of the recently concluded exercise (TRALEX 4-59), and served in that capacity until Maj. Gen. James P. Berkeley became the new commanding general.

General Berkeley reported to Camp Lejeune from Department of the Pacific, San Francisco, where he had been serving as commanding general.

Top Sports Events During The Division's 19th Year

The 2d Marine Division's capture of Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, titles in golf, bowling, and tennis; Quad-Command championships in softball, baseball, and football; an Atlantic Fleet crown in soccer coupled with outstanding individual performances by 2d Division Marines highlighted the Division Sports program for 1959.

February of 1959 marked the opening of tournament competition as the Second Marine Regiment staged a brilliant comeback to clinch their third consecutive intramural basketball title.

Pfc Gary Sheffield, Headquarters Bn., 2d Marine Division, gained new honors for the Division when he was selected to the four-man United States bobsledding team entered in the 1959 Olympics. The American entrant edged out the Italian team by a fraction of a second to bring the United States its first place bobsledding title since 1953.

As Division sports activity moved into March, Act. MSgt. Frank Beach, five-time All-Marine Corps Bowler, led team number one of the Division to the Quad-Command title by defeating MAG-26.

The Second Marine Regiment highlighted April action in Division sports as they came from behind to win the intramural volleyball title with 14-12 and 15-7 victories over the Tenth Marines in the final two games.

The Tenth Marines held the spotlight in Division tennis play with Clint Parsons and Austin Sullivan taking all 16 points to win the intramural title.

The Tenth Marines Tennis champs gained the Division its second FMFLant crown of the year with an easy victory in a five-team tournament held at Beaufort, S. C.

Headquarters Battalion and 2nd Battalion, Second Marines, clinched the title in the National and American leagues of the Division intramural softball leagues.

In a triple-header on July 24 the Headquarters Battalion contingent defeated 2d Tank Bn., 11-4, and 2d Battalion, Second Marines, 8-1 and 7-5 to clinch the Quad-Command title.

The 2d Division gained their third FMFLant title of the sports year when they walked off with top honors in the 72-hole FMF Golf tournament held at Cherry Point, N. C., in late August.

For the second consecutive year, the 2d Division All-Star Soccer team won the Annual Atlantic Fleet Soccer tournament at Norfolk, Va.

As a fitting climax to the successful sports season a singular honor was bestowed on Brig. Gen. O. M. Conoley, assistant Division commander, when he was presented the Sports Illustrated Silver Anniversary Award. The award was given to those varsity college athletes of 25 years ago who have contributed in an outstanding way to the welfare of their country.

SPORTS PROGRAM—The 2d Marine Division maintains an active intramural sports program throughout the year ranging from soccer to golf. Division Marines participate actively and as spectators. Action in the intramural football loop was well-balanced, with the Sixth Marines winning the crown in the last game of the season. Later, in the FMFLant tourney, Division shellacked MAG-32, Beaufort, S. C., 83-0. Emmet Holmes, Division end, readies a straight arm, enroute to one of the Division's 11 touchdowns.

Lejeune Cagers Win Seventh Straight

Successful Home Stand By Locals Nets Three Victories In Win Skein

Camp Lejeune's Marines hit the lucky number with seven wins in a row Monday night at Fort Eustis, as they outscored the soldiers 93-71. Art Andreoli hit for 34 points to lead the Marines in the scoring column. The win streak started with a 98-87 win over DesLant Jan. 12 and was followed by a 73-70 victory the following night with ServLant on the losing end. The Marines extended their winning ways after taking two games from the Cherry Point cagers, both away, Jan. 19, and at home Jan. 20.

Charlie Morrow led the locals to their first win, 88-70, hitting the nets for 19 tallies with Art Andreoli and Bill Reeves hitting in the double figures.

Cherry Point's Bradshaw paced the losers with 15 markers.

Second Game

The second game saw the starting five on the bench for three periods as the locals scored a 92-85 victory over the flyers.

Cherry Point's Johnson was high man in the second game with 34 markers, while Derek Dickinson with 15 and four other locals hitting 10 or more points led the Marines to their fourth win in a row.

Out-Maneuvered

Next to fall under the surge of Lejeune's winning streak was a powerful Fort Gordon quintet.

The Marines overcoming a third quarter slump, out-manuevered the Signalers to an 84-80 win, Thursday night at Goettge Memorial Field House.

Fourteen field goals and eight free throws for a total of 36 tallies gave the scoring honors to Lejeune's Art Andreoli.

Former Wake Forest Star

Fort Gordon's Ernie Wiggins, former Wake Forest star, was high man for the Signalers with 27.

Fort Gordon opened up the scoring with Pat Maloney driving in and hitting for two. After a 4-4 deadlock the locals jumped to an 8-4 lead early in the first quarter.

Past breaks and accurate passing, coupled with remarkable shots enabled the Marines to move out in front 45-30 with three minutes remaining in the first half.

Half-Time Lead

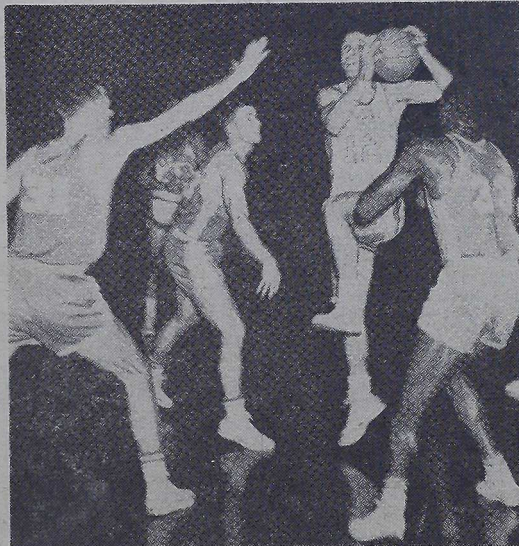

Fort Gordon fighting desperately to get back into the game hit for seven points before Andreoli was able to break through their defenses for a marker ending the first half with the Marines ahead 47-37.

Faltering in the third quarter the locals could not contain the Signalers, who with the aid of four free throws and three baskets by Wiggins cut the margin to four.

All Doubt Removed

With Wiggins again hitting from outside, the Signalers twice pulled to within one basket of tying the game.

GLOBE SPORTS

Three Wins, Three Defaults Spell Triumph For Fighters

The Camp Lejeune fighters won their second match in a row when they defeated the scrappers from Fort Eustis Saturday night in the losers' home gymnasium. The match followed last week's win against a quad-based affair which included Bolling Air Force Base, Bethesda Naval Medical Center, Fort Belvoir and the locals. Saturday night's match was termed as the most improved fight of the year, as the scrappers scored three unanimous decisions and took three other bouts by default.

Leroy Metz opened up the evening by scoring a unanimous decision over Eustis' Flyweight Joseph Harrison. Metz was considered by Sgt. Allen Elkins, assistant boxing coach, to have improved considerably over his prior bouts.

The second bout saw Lejeune's Ron Cooper score a unanimous decision over Bantamweight Kenneth Aywood. This fight was said to be Cooper's best of the season.

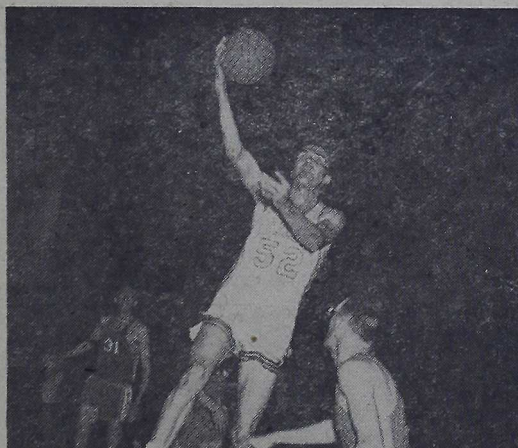

Also winning by decision was Lightweight Lon Zanglia over Eustis' Moses Taylor. Zanglia warded off the strong punches by Taylor and scored heavily himself in the free swinging battle, enabling him to score the victory.

Lejeune Middleweight Henry

Hooper fought Sau Bridges, light heavyweight, to a split decision in a hard fought contest considering the weight difference.

Billy Brietzman, also a Lejeune middleweight and fighting another heavier classed fighter, lost a unanimous decision after being floored twice and returning to take the scrap to the final bell.

Lucion Green, Lejeune light middleweight, and Rocky Fiorentino, local featherweight, both won by default.

Try-Out Dates Released For Baseball Club

Camp Lejeune's 1960 baseball screening sessions get underway Feb. 8 with candidates reporting to Goettge Memorial Field House at 2 p.m. The sessions will follow last year's pattern with pitchers and catchers reporting Monday, Feb. 8, and infielders and outfielders the following week.

Candidates must be equipped with sweat shirts, gym shoes, towels and gloves from their unit special services.

Outstanding Performance

Ten members of the 1959 team are expected to return this year as the club will endeavor to repeat last year's remarkable performance of 96 wins against 20 losses, a Camp Lejeune "All Time" record.

Included among these feats were the East Coast Marine Championship, Atlantic Fleet Championship, All Marine Corps Championship and the North Carolina State Semi-Pro Championship.

Eleven members of Lejeune's 1959 squad (including five of this year's returnees) were nominated to the Marine All-Star team and traveled to the Far East to compile a 13-8 record and four deadlocks, against numerous non-professional Japanese ball clubs in Tokyo, Kobe, Osaka and Okinawa.

Norton Returns

Barring unforeseen developments, first baseman Hal Norton is expected back with the club this year.

Norton, batting .352 last season, set numerous "All Time" Camp Lejeune records, including 107 RBI's and tied in home runs with former Red Sox star Harry Agganis with 14.

Red Raiders Take Twin Bill From Cherry Point Marines

The Woman Marines upped their win streak to three games as they downed the Cherry Point quintet twice last week on the losers' home court, 33-25 and 28-24. Marie Paradis, scoring only six points in the first half of the game, stripped the nets in the final half for 13 to take the scoring honors with a total of 19 markers.

Dede Alexander followed with nine and Barbara Meyers hit for five.

Barricade

None of the Cherry Point five could crack the Lejeune barricade to score in the double figures as McCall was high for the Pointers with nine tallies.

The second game again saw Paradis hitting four field goals and three free tosses for 11 markers to lead the Raiders to their second triumph of the week. Alexander followed Paradis with seven and Irish O'Connell and Barbara Meyers both hit for five each.

McCall again was high for the flyers with 11 marks with Plunkett closely following with 10.

The Raiders now have a season record of four wins against three losses.

Act. SSgt. Bob Willis

PAUL PENDER, ex-Marine, scored a majority decision over Sugar Ray Robinson Friday night to become the new Middleweight Champion of the world. This was Pender's eighth straight win and Robinson's seventh loss in 152 professional bouts. Robinson will have a chance to regain the crown in a return bout within 90 days.

WILT CHAMBERLIN has scored 1,544 points in 41 games for a 37-6 average to take the lead in the National Basketball Association scoring race. The 7-foot 1-inch scoring ace for the Philadelphia Warriors took the lead Sunday night from Cincinnati's Jack Twyman with a 31.3 mark.

LOUIS APARACIO, shortstop ace of the American League Champion Chicago White Sox, may be the first serious holdout of the 1960 season after being disturbed over his new contract.

Aparacio, who played a major role in the White Sox's first American League pennant since 1919, commented on his contract by saying, "The new contract included a raise, but I think I earned a better one."

WALLY MOON, slugger and outfielder for the World Champion Los Angeles Dodgers, will be back in the line-up after receiving an increase of pay believed to be between $8,000 and $10,000 over last year.

TED WILLIAMS, the splendid splitter of the Boston Red Sox, is completely undecided as to signing a 1960 baseball contract. Williams has negotiated with the owners of the Red Sox and has stated he will not sign if the back trouble he has endured throughout the winter does not subside.

Service Battalion Leads National League After Stopping Tenth Marines Hoopsters

Service Battalion moved into the number one position in the National League with an 81-70 victory over 4th Battalion, Tenth Marines, as Division intramural basketball moved into the final round of play this week. Second Battalion, Tenth Marines, strengthened their hold on the top spot in American League action with successive victories over Pioneer Battalion and 2nd Motor Transport Battalion. After dropping three of their initial four starts, 3rd Battalion, Sixth Marines, captured their seventh consecutive victory to move into a second place tie with Headquarters Battalion. The 3/6 quintet reached the century mark for the second time this season to defeat Motor Transport Bn., 103-55.

Slump Broken

Headquarters Battalion shook off a two game losing slump with successive triumphs over 1st Battalion, 8th Marines, 97-59, and 2nd Motor Transport Bn., 89-68. The two victories enabled the Headquarters contingent to remain in

Win Streak

Reeves, John Rich and Andreoli teamed up with five points to push the Marines ahead with a five-point margin and only seconds remaining in the game.

Sixth Straight

Completing a successful home stand Friday night, the locals stretched their win string to six straight as they topped the century mark and thumped a tired ServLant quintet 109-84.

Art Andreoli again led in the scoring column for the Marines with 22 tallies.

ServLant's Shed Mitchell and Bill Brown tied at 19 points each to pace the losers.

Only Lead

Brown put the Norfolk team in the lead 2-0 in the opening seconds of the game, but ServLant immediately saw their one and only lead wiped out by Andreoli, Leo Elwell and Bill Reeves, each hitting to push the locals ahead 6-2.

As the minutes swept by the Marines widened the margin until they commanded a 63-42 half-time lead.

Overcoming a height deficit with blazing speed and agility, the Marines stripped the nets for 15 points in the final four minutes of the first half.

Widest Margin

The second half followed the same lines as the first with ServLant scoring the first goal. After several exchanges of shots by both teams, the Marines tightened their defenses and outscored ServLant 13-6 to command the largest lead of the evening, 98-71.

With six minutes remaining in the game Dick Meade hit with a set shot from outside to lift the Marines to the 100-mark.

a second place deadlock with 3rd Battalion, 6th Marines. Both teams trail the league-leading 2nd Battalion, 10th Marines by a slim half-game margin. Hq. Bn.'s Bob Duerr and Mike Marzano continued to score 60 of the 97 points in the victory over 1st Battalion, 8th Marines. Duerr tossed in 31 and Marzano contributed 29 markers in the win.

1st Battalion, 2nd Marines practically assured themselves of a fourth place finish in the American League with victories over Pioneer Bn., and 1st Battalion, 8th Marines.

2nd Service Battalion ran their winning skein to seven to take over sole possession of first place in the National League for the first time this season. The Service Battalion quintet edged past the 4th Battalion, 10th Marines with an 81-70 victory. The loss dropped the Cannoneers into second place, a half game off the pace.

Defeat Avenged

Service Battalion avenged an early season defeat with a 71-65 decision over 2nd Battalion, 6th Marines and followed up with a 91-53 victory over 2nd Anti-Tank Battalion. After leading the Anti-Tank courtmen by only nine points at the intermission, Service Battalion erupted for 60 points in the second half to coast to an easy victory. Ed Thomas led all scorers for Service Bn. with a total of 27 points while Marvin paced 2nd Anti-Tank courtmen with ten markers.

2nd Anti-Tank Battalion ran up a comfortable 34-16 intermission lead and tossed in 30 second half points to win their first contest of the season over the 2nd Battalion, 8th Marines, Art Odabash accounted for 19 points to lead the Anti-Tank scorers.

3rd Battalion, 2nd Marines clinched a fourth place finish in the National League defeating 2nd Battalion, 8th Marines and losing to the third place 2nd Battalion, 6th Marines contingent.

Both leagues wind up proceedings this week with first place ties a distinct possibility. In the American loop 3/6 tangles with 1/8, 1/2 meets the league-leading 2/10 aggregation and Headquarters Bn. takes on Pioneer Bn. a 2/10 loss and victories by 3/6 and Headquarters Bn. would throw the league into a three-way tie for the number one position.

In the National League a 4/10 victory over the fourth place 3/2 quintet would cause a tie between the Cannoneers and 2nd Service Bn.

Division Ends Keg Season; Roll-Off Set

The Division intramural bowling league concluded regular season action last week with Headquarters Battalion sweeping to the National League title while Medical Battalion and Service Battalion wound up in a first place deadlock in the American Loop.

Medical Battalion and Service Battalion finished with identical 45-11 records forcing a post-season roll-off. Headquarters Battalion concluded with an impressive 54-2 mark; seven games in front of the second place Motor Transport contingent. The National League has another round of play slated for this week; however, these games will have no bearing on final team standings.

Late Season Surge

Fourth Battalion, Tenth Marines, maintained a winning pace to finish in third place for the campaign while 2nd Anti-Tank Battalion continued their late season surge to wind up in the number four position.

First Battalion, Second Marines, and 3rd Battalion, Tenth Marines, finished third and fourth, respectively, in National League proceedings. Headquarters Battalion, National League champions, will meet the winner of the Service Battalion vs. Medical Battalion roll-off at a later date to determine the Division champion.

'Hap' Spuhler, Player-Coach, Hangs Up Baseball Spikes

One of the "Old Pro's" of the Marine Corps sports world has decided to "hang up his spikes." Lt. Col. Raymond "Hap" Spuhler, player-coach for the past 18 years in the Corps, made this decision as he left Hawaii Jan. 16 for assignment to the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va. Strangely enough, it was in these same Hawaiian Islands, back in 1944, that "Hap" started his coaching career. He was player-coach of the 18th AAA Gun Battalion on Kauai when they defeated the 96th Infantry Division for the Island baseball championship and won the right to play in the Bill Dickey Navy All-Star game. One of the players on his team was a guy who is known the world over for his diamond prowess, Gil Hodges of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Lt. Col. Raymond 'Hap' Spuhler

Inter-Service Crown

"Hap's" latest victory in the Islands came when his Hawaii Marine nine beat out the SubPac Raiders for the 1959 Inter-Service Crown and also downed the Okinawa All-Stars for the Pacific Ocean Area Marine Championship and a chance to play in the All-Marine Tourney at the Honolulu Stadium. The Hawaiian nine wound up third, behind Camp Lejeune, N. C., and Camp Pendleton, Calif.

His last coaching chore before leaving Hawaii was assistant coach to Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson in the West's unsuccessful Hula Bowl bid. "Hap" says the only football team he ever coached went to a Bowl game but he retired from football with a W-0 and L-1 record.

NCAA East Coast Crown

A native of Johnstown, Pa., Colonel Spuhler got his early playing experience at Westmont High there in both football and basketball and began his baseball career at Staunton Military Academy. Later he played three years of baseball and basketball at Duke University.

He began his service athletic career at Quantico, Va., as a second lieutenant on the basketball squad that took the NCAA East Coast crown in the 1942-43 season.

Hap has coached eight years of baseball and six years of basketball in the Marine Corps. His teams have claimed 17 baseball championships and 12 basketball crowns. He boasts 419 wins against 154 defeats on the diamond and 250 wins against 111 losses on the hardwoods.

The Devil Pups will face a strong Swansboro High quintet tomorrow night at Swansboro and Wednesday night they will play a return game with Jasper High. Swansboro defeated the Pups in their first game 72-52 with Swansboro's Mike Miller hitting the nets for 38 tallies to take the game scoring honors.

Local Boy Scouts Host District Court Of Honor

The Onslow District Court of Honor, Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by Paradise Point Troop 490, was held last Thursday evening at the Camp High School. Honor ceremonies were conducted, commending the Scouts for outstanding leadership abilities, Scout spirit, and participation based on the practices of the basic principles of world brotherhood. Court of Honor members were: Maj. Gen. James P. Berkeley, honorary chairman; Mr. O. B. Roberts, Scout Executive, East Carolina Council; Mr. Carl Knott, Field Director, East Carolina Council; Mr. Joe Tyson, Scout Executive, Onslow District; Col. R. D. Strickler, Camp Lejeune Institutional Representative for Scouting; Col. G. H. West, Troop Committee Chairman, Troop 490, and Col. K. A. Jorgenson, Base Chief of Staff.

As Honorary Chairman and principle speaker of the evening, Major General Berkeley spoke on the "why" of scouting, stressing the importance of long-range benefits that will produce better citizens and individuals.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of two Eagle Scout Awards, the highest honor in scouting, to Paul E. Becker III and William Silliman. Among the many qualifications for the Eagle Scout award is a minimum of 21 merit badges.

Scouts coming up through the ranks of Second Class, First Class, and Life Scouts were also awarded their respective badges.

A 50-mile hiking award was presented to Randy Johnson, who made the four-day hike with a camp-type patrol in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Another outstanding feature of the evening was the tapping out ceremony of the Order of the Arrow, a National Camping Order. Election is made by members of the home unit, the boys being unaware of their acceptance until the actual "tapping out." Those selected by secret ballot were: Troop 490

—Bob Walker, Kip Becker and Tom Paul; Troop 422—Cal Hoge and Robert Thomas; Troop 90—Tom Allen, Thomas Pearson and Ray Williams; Troop 370—Teddy Stephanow, Paul Powell, Mike Foran and Jess Eley; Post 370—Les Joslin and Butch Florie; and Capt. L. P. Day, Scout Master, Troop 370. Dr. S. C. Murrell, Croiton Lodge, is the Chapter Advisor of the Order of the Arrow.

Members of the 2nd Division Chorus, under the direction of Capt. R. Mundell, were on hand to join in the Boy Scout event.

San Francisco Supply Annex To Be Closed

The Marine Corps Supply Forwarding Annex, 100 Harrison Street, San Francisco, Calif., will be deactivated during Fiscal Year 1961, the Navy announced last week in San Francisco.

The exact date of the closing has not yet been established but is scheduled to take place sometime between July 1, 1960, and June 30, 1961.

Deactivation of the Annex, in the interest of economy and sound management, is part of an overall plan to concentrate major Marine Corps supply activities on the West Coast at the Marine Corps Supply Center, Barstow, Calif. Limited Supply facilities will be retained in the San Francisco area at other Marine Corps activities.

The Marine Corps Supply Forwarding Annex consists of a physical plant and a little over five acres of government-owned land. Owing to possible mobilization requirements, the Marine Corps will retain control of the facilities to be vacated. Surplus space will be leased, according to present plans.

Sport Parachute Enthusiasts Slate 'Breath-Taking' Events

Two "Marine Sky Divers" will fall for 7,000 feet before opening their parachutes for a pinpoint landing on the Hadnot Point Parade Ground as a part of a "Sky Diving" exhibition scheduled for next Thursday at 2 p.m. The event, a 45-second-delay free fall, will highlight a demonstration to be held by members of the recently organized "Marine Sky Divers" club of Camp Lejeune.

If winds are favorable a Marine Aircraft Group-26 helicopter will take Lt. (jg) John R. Moody and Act. Sgt. Thomas E. Hann to an altitude of 9,500 feet for the jump. If the winds do not favor the high altitude jump, the two divers will perform a 32-second delay jump from 7,000 feet.

The first such demonstration ever to be held at Hadnot Point, the parachuting exercises will be open to the public. "Drops" will be made to demonstrate all phases of sports parachuting, including static line and free-fall techniques.

Four of the jumpers will start the day's activities by parachuting from static lines at an altitude of 2,700 feet. These jumpers will demonstrate the methods used in the training of "Sky Divers."

The helicopter will then climb to 4,500 feet where five men will make free fall jumps. The first of these jumpers will make a completely uncontrolled free fall for 15 seconds, to show the spectators how an object would fall without stabilization. Then, from the same altitude, the other men of the unit will make 15-second-delay free falls, using the spread-eagle position to stabilize their bodies during the fall.

Following this demonstration of the effects of stabilization, the helicopter will take Lieutenant Moody and Sergeant Hann to the higher altitude for a jump which is expected to be the most spectacular event of the day.

All members of the Sky Divers club will be on hand for the events. Those not jumping will man a static display of equipment used by the club and conduct a demonstration of training techniques on the ground.

Camp Lejeune's "Marine Sky Divers" were organized last October, following sanction of sports parachuting by the Secretary of the Navy and the Base commanding general. Thursday's exhibition will be the first time the newly-formed club has jumped before spectators.

Activities of the "Marine Sky Divers" are governed by a constitution and by-laws, which have also been approved by the commanding general. The constitution and by-laws establish the basic safety regulations and general procedures for Camp Lejeune personnel participating in sport parachuting.

Brigalex 1-60 Phase Closes With Assault

A three-day vertical envelopment assault exercise on Vieques, Puerto Rico, involving Navy and Marine Corps elements, is expected to end tomorrow, closing an integral phase of Brigalex 1-60, now in progress.

The exercise is being conducted jointly by the 8th Provisional Marine Brigade, commanded by Col. S. S. Nicolay, and Amphibious Squadron 10, in command of Capt. Herman J. Kossler, USN. The Brigade is composed of an air-ground infantry team, helicopters, and jet aircraft.

Serving with the Brigade is the 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines, (reinforced), based here; Marine Helicopter Squadron-264, New River; and Marine Attack Squadron-224 from Cherry Point, N. C.

BRIGALEX 1-60 is the first of a new series of exercises to be conducted through the spring and summer months. It is designed to provide tests of new techniques in helicopter assault resulting from recent modifications in the amphibious assault ship USS BOXER and from studies of similar exercises conducted last year.

Enlisted Planning Board Now Convened

A new long-range Enlisted Personnel Planning Board, headed by Maj. Gen. Donald M. Weller, assistant chief of staff, G-1, has been convened at Headquarters, Marine Corps.

The board's mission is to review current enlisted planning procedures, policies, and criteria and determine what changes or innovations are necessary to implement an optimum system of long-range enlisted planning.

The goal of the extended planning will be to achieve and maintain the highest possible level of personnel readiness, stability, flexibility, and efficiency during periods of actual or potential fluctuations in over-all Marine Corps numerical strength.

In accomplishing its objective, the board will consider and, where appropriate, make recommendations on the following:

The procedural development and adequacy of the specific numbers for each pay grade, E-4 and above, based on a sliding scale of enlisted end strengths as outlined in a proposed Personnel Continuum Plan.

The specific actions and requirements necessary or desirable to implement the "sliding-scale" concept of long-range personnel planning. This would include consideration of current and proposed Marine Corps job structure, occupational fields, and military occupational specialties; enlisted promotion patterns, policies, and procedures; and enlisted classification, testing and assignment procedures.

Also under consideration are enlisted procurement programs, policies and procedures; fiscal considerations and implications; enlisted individual training programs, policies, procedures, and responsibilities; data processing techniques; current and proposed tables of organization and allowances; functional or organizational considerations at Headquarters or in the field; and Marine Corps publications, orders and directions.

The board began its work December 17. It is expected to remain in session about four months.

Credit Union Elects Officers At First Annual Board Meet

At the first annual meeting of the Marine Federal Credit Union held Tuesday, new officers were elected and the annual report was given to the Board of Directors by outgoing Vice President Capt. Jordan B. Peck, Base legal assistance officer. Elected to the Board of Directors were Col. Roy J. Batterton, commanding officer, Hq. Bn., MCB, president; Col. P. R. Colmer, chief of staff, Force Troops, vice president; and Act. MSgt. A. C. Everett, Force Troops, secretary-treasurer.

Other new members of the Board are Lt. Col. L. T. Bryan, executive officer, MCAF; Capt. John B. Lipard, Base informational services officer; Mr. M. A. Califano, Industrial Relations officer; and Mr. C.

D. Browncombe, Marine Corps Exchange.

Elected to the Supervisory Committee were Lt. Col. R. M. Burrill, Base disbursing officer, chairman, and Maj. S. F. Leader, Division disbursing officer, vice-chairman. New Credit Committee members were also elected and Capt. K. W. Singleton, disbursing officer, Force Troops, was named chairman of the committee.

Annual Report

In his message to members of the Board, Captain Peck extended special recognition to the two men initially responsible for the Credit Union origination. This recognition went to Lt. D. W. Winne, formerly Base legal assistance officer, and Mr. C. D. Browncombe, Marine Corps Exchange.

Captain Peck's address brought out the success of the Credit Union in the form of service it provides its members. "The Union is presently assisting its members in saving to the extent of over $55,000 in member's share accounts and more than $60,000 in members' loan accounts."

"The real point of efficiency in operating the Marine Federal Credit Union has been our ability to pay dividends. Based on last year's experience and a reasoned outlook upon the coming months, the Board of Directors has declared a five percent dividend," Captain Peck added.
