PHIBTRAEX 1-58—Combat loading of the 2nd Division board ship at Morehead City in launching the amphibious exercise to be conducted in Puerto Rico. Ships left Port Tuesday and Wednesday carrying troops and supplies to the maneuver area. Others are scheduled to depart tomorrow and February 5 to complete the movement.

Morehead City for the Caribbean port, bearing thousands of troops to the Caribbean area and for intensive training.
Additional ships left yesterday and three others will sail tomorrow. Included in these are one transport, the Montro-via, three cargo ships, Capricornus, Thuban and Vermillion, and five landing ships, the Plymouth Rock, Hermitage, Walworth County, Shadwell, and the Casa Grande.

Infantry units, reinforced with artillery, tank, engineer and shore party elements, will conduct an assault across Vieques, P. R., beaches Feb. 3. The remaining personnel and cargo will then go ashore at Vieques and Roosevelt

Roads.

Other PHIBTRAEX 1-58 Marines including an infantry battalion and personnel and equipment of two tactical aircraft squadrons, are being air-transported to the exercise sites.

A rear echelon force will wind up the move to the Caribbean when it sails from Morehead City aboard the Military Sea Transport Service ship, General Hodges, on Feb. 5.

Upon arrival in the Caribbean, these units will join an advance echelon which was sent there earlier this month to prepare campsites and training areas.

Col. John P. Condon commands all PHIBTRAEX 1-58 forces. The exercise consists of combined air-ground-logistic training designed to increase the Marines' proficiency in amphibious warfare. Ground forces will be based on the island of Vie-ques, while aviation units will operate out of Roosevelt Roads, on the main island of Puerto Rico.

The tactical aircraft supporting the exercise are Marine Aircraft Group 24 including the Marine All-Weather Fighter Squadron 114.

NELM BN. TO RETURN

Personnel of the 1st Bn., Sixth Marines (Reinf.), are scheduled to arrive at Morehead City early next week after a five-month Mediterranean cruise.

The battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. E. M. Stimson, has participated in maneuvers and several amphibious landings with NATO forces in that area. They also joined with other battalions of their parent regiment in Operation Deepwater at Saros Bay, Turkey.

Reconnaissance Battalion became the first 2nd Division unit to be activated under the new Fleet Marine Force organization when Lt. Col. E. Kirby-Smith assumed command last week.

the old Reconnaissance Battalion as a nucleus, the battalion will expand to include three companies and a Headquarters and Signal Company. Strength of the battalion will be approximately 1,000 men.

Included in the reorganization plan is the addition of a Helicopter Group of the 1st Air Wing to specifically support the battalion in the accomplishment of its mission.

Changes in the reconnaissance structure include the almost exclusive use of automatic weapons and specialized personnel.

Starting from 2nd Shore Party, Lt. Kirby-Smith is a combat officer of Cape Gloucester, Peleliu Guinawa while with Recon Co.,
1st Division, during World War II. He also served with that Division during the Korean war.

FMFLant Commander To Review Leathernecks

Personnel of the 2nd Division will observe the 17th anniversary of the Division's activation Saturday with a parade, presentation of annual awards, a special noon meal and a party at the Hadnot Point Staff NCO club.

The Camp Lejeune Parade Ground will be the scene of the day's opening activities as all Division units and their colors pass in review and marksmanship re-qualification and the drill competition trophy are presented.

Lt. Gen. E. A. Pollock, commanding general of the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, will be reviewing officer for the parade.

General Pollock and Maj. Gen. J.
C. Burger, MCB and Division commander, will be joined during the review of troops by Maj. Gen. A. F.
Binney, commanding general of the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, and Mayor A. Joyner Lewis of Jacksonville.

Traffic Control Plan To Be Used During Saturday's Parade

Strict traffic control will be observed during the morning hours on Saturday, Feb. 1, when 2nd Division troops conduct a parade in honor of the unit's 17th birthday.

The traffic control pattern plan will close some roads intermittently from 8:25 a.m. until the last parade units have returned to Division areas. Base traffic will return to normal behind the last troop units.

Dependents reporting to the Family hospital during parade hours are urged to use the Brewster Blvd.-Stone Rd. route.

Parking areas for visitors witnessing the parade will be at the Central Exchange and the Woman Marine parking lot on Molly Pitcher Dr. When troop movement permits, visitors may also use the field house parking lot by taking Main Service Rd.

Directing visitors, military policemen will be stationed along the main routes of travel. Full cooperation of drivers and the use of arm and mechanical turn signals are urged.

which dependents and guests are invited, start at 10 a.m. After troops are formed and inspected, a Division history will be read, followed by an address by General Pollock.

The awarding of trophies to the units' commanding officers will follow. Receiving the annual marksmanship requalification awards will be the 2nd Service Regt., high regiment with 88.4 percent requalification; 1st Bn., Tenth Marines, high subordinate battalion, 90.8; 2nd Shore Party Bn., high separate battalion, 91.9;
and "B" Company, 2nd Shore Party, high company, 96.3.

India Company, 3rd Bn., Eighth Marines will receive the 2nd Marine Division Association's first annual company drill competition award. Men of the company won the award last week competing against nine other Division units.

As the troops pass in review VMO-1 aircraft will conduct a flyover, ending the Parade Ground activities.

Major Generals Paige And Bethel Tour Tri-Command

Maj. Gens. Henry R. Paige, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, Headquarters Marine Corps, and Ion
M. Bethel, Quartermaster General of the Marine Corps, toured the Tri-Command area last Thursday to observe various supply and maintenance installations, and to discuss current logistic problems.

The generals were briefed at headquarters, MCB, before proceeding on a tour of the 2nd Force Service Regiment's facilities. Highlighting the tour was a stop at the newly designated self service center.

Following lunch at the 2nd Division's headquarters, the visitors discussed various Division logistic problems during a conference with Maj. Gen. J. C. Burger, commanding general, MCB and 2nd Division. After the conference, they traveled to Camp Geiger, via helicopter, to tour the 2nd Force Service Regiment's area there.

The generals and their party, departed from the New River Air Facility at 9 a.m. Friday for the return trip to Washington.

JACKSONVILLE, N. C.

If you ask me...

WHAT WAS THE BITTEREST FIGHTING YOU PARTICIPATED IN AS A MEMBER OF THE 2ND MARINE DIVISION?

1ST SGT. JAMES P. WHALING, Sergeant Major, Second Marines —

For me it was the battle waged by the 1st Bn., Twenty-ninth Marines, in capturing Mt. Tapachou, Saipan. The fight lasted 24 days and when it was over, there were only 197 walking-wounded left in what had been a 1,000-man battalion. (Sgt. Major Whaling was a gunnery sergeant during this battle.)

CAPT. CHARLES W. WILSON, S-4, 2nd Tank Bn. —

As far as tanks are concerned, the campaign on the island of Saipan was the bitterest. It was a rough terrain, loaded with land mines and crawling with Japs armed with anti-tank guns. Our losses were probably the most severe of the war. (Captain Wilson was a sergeant and tank commander of an M4A2 diesel tank.)

SSGT. FRED ENGEL, "I" Co., 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines —

The campaign for Tulagi was the bitterest as far as I'm concerned. There was a dense concentration of enemy and undoubtedly more fire-fights per given area of land than during any other battle. (During Tulagi, Sergeant Engel served as a private first class with "C" Co., 1st Bn., Second Marines.)

CAPT. RICHARD M. DOEZEMA, commander, "A" Btry., 1st Bn., Tenth Marines —

The land size involved, concentration of enemy firepower, and heavy loss of life, make the battle for Tarawa the Division's bitterest in my mind. (Captain Doezema was a private first class serving with Tenth Marines' headquarters during the Tarawa campaign.)

MSGT. BILL MAGER, Section Chief, Air-Naval Gunfire, Second Marines —

Securing a beachhead on the island of Saipan was to me the bitterest fighting done by 2nd Division troops. There was much confusion which was in no way lessened by the small arms and supporting fire tossed at us in an almost unending stream. (Sergeant Mager was a sergeant and machine gun section leader during this campaign.)

Local Navy Relief Assists With $209,524 In '57

The Navy Relief Society here spent $209,523.97 to help local Marines last year, according to the annual financial report, released this week.

Of a total of $236,532.92 receipts made available to the society, there was a cash balance of $10,289.89 at the beginning of the period. The total working balance included: payments from loans, amounting to $126,319.92; receipts from Headquarters totaling $42,000; net proceeds from the Navy Relief Drive of $56,427.16, and money from other sources.

Hospitalization loans amounted to $5,434.52, while more than 3,300 loans were made for other purposes and totaled $140,084.56. Financial gifts for hospitalization were $4,202.46 and other gifts amounted to $9,249.36. Of the $209,523.97 spent the rest went for refunds and transfers of credit balances, salaries and expenses of two nurses and a social worker, clerical and office help, remittances to headquarters and other miscellaneous expenses.

Cash balance at the end of the period was $27,008.95. There was $97,361.58 in loans outstanding. Net worth at the end of the period, with $473.43 in credit balances, was $123,891.10.

Career Facts

A liberal construction to the "highest pay" provisions of present military retirement laws has been given by the Controller General. Navy Times reported this week.

A man may retire under one law and draw pay under another, getting the most profitable rate of pay for which he is eligible, the paper said.

In the Controller ruling affecting a Coast Guard man, it was stated that he could retire on disability and still get paid under the Coast Guard's 20-year voluntary retirement law, which pays an extra 10 per cent bonus for good conduct.

Although cases of this sort come up less frequently in other services because the 10 per cent bonus is paid only for heroic conduct, military lawyers are studying the decision closely because it is the first word from the Controller on the very broad "highest pay" provision in the newly-passed Title 10, which came out in 1950.

Citing the Warrant Officer Act of 1954 retirement provisions, which are now merged in Title 10, about pay and grade, the Controller pointed out that it gives retirement in highest grade, but if the man held some lower grade that had higher pay he would get the higher pay in retirement.

Muscular Dystrophy

Muscular Dystrophy is a mysterious disease which attacks the muscles, eventually weakening and disabling victims to a point where a minor ailment could prove fatal.

The disease afflicts more than 200,000 Americans. Of these, two-thirds are children.

Research is currently being conducted by the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America. The MDAA has 90 research projects presently under way. In addition, the association is establishing a $3,000,000 institution for the study of muscular disease. Here leading scientists will conduct research into MD and related muscular ailments.

Local Marines can help victims of this disease with a contribution to the MDAA through the National Health Agencies.

The Old Corps

Five Years Ago: Nearly 500 Camp Lejeune Marines marched in review at Raleigh during inauguration ceremonies honoring the new governor of North Carolina, William B. Umstead.

Ten Years Ago: Maj. Gen. Franklin A. Hart assumed command of the 2nd Division here. His last assignment was commanding general of Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island.

Fifteen Years Ago: A personnel classification unit was set up for the first time at Camp Lejeune by order of Maj. Gen. Julien C. Smith, Camp commander.

Home Address Should Be Used In Reporting Taxes

The Secretary of Navy in a recent communique urged all Navy and Marine Corps personnel to use home addresses in reporting Federal income tax information.

Post offices are receiving a large amount of envelopes from the Internal Revenue Service with insufficient addresses to assure delivery.

will feature a steak dinner, climaxed by cake-cutting ceremonies. Dependents and guests of enlisted personnel are invited to the noon meal.

In the evening the Hadnot Point Staff club will feature "2nd Division Night." Cutting of a 100-pound cake at 8 p.m. starts the activities, highlighted by an evening of dancing.

Chaplain's Corner

If, out of the pages of history, the saints of Christendom were to come walking before us today, we would marvel at their certainty, their assurance, and their devotion. If we had the privilege of asking them how they attained to these saintly qualities, they would surely reply with one accord, "We are the results of a life of constant prayer."

When we examine the life of Jesus from any viewpoint, be it critical, historical, devotional, or otherwise, we always find that his power lay in his prayer life.

It must have been through prayer that he overcame the temptations in the wilderness. It was through prayer that he was able to face death upon the cross for the redemption of mankind.

Yet, in spite of Jesus' clear example, how much do we pray? Is it any wonder that we so often fall before temptation? Could this not be the reason that our lives are not examples of the saintly qualities?

Certainly if our lives are to contribute anything toward the building of God's Kingdom, they must be conditioned through the holy habit of prayer. To "pray without ceasing" is an exacting discipline, but it is also the most rewarding in life.

Proud ... Proven ... Prepared

Those three words best describe a local organization known as the 2nd Marine Division.

Formally activated on February 1, 1941, Sixth Marines as a nucleus, the division is celebrating its 17th anniversary Saturday.

Built around the proud traditions displayed by Teau Thierry, Belleau Wood, and Meuse-Argonne, the division has since added to and enriched the history of our nation, its people and the Corps.

Thousands of young men fought and died in the "spearhead" patch during World War I. With their deeds, they have added names such as Saipan, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa to the list of distinguished battles following Lexington and Gettysburg.

Saturday, some of the men marching in review are veterans of the battles fought by the division. Not all are the same type of Marines who fought in the division's frozen beaches in 1941, and waded ashore the Tarawa pier through "impassable" enemy fire.

It is not the division which should be honored, but rather the men who comprise it. They are the men who have been proven, and they are prepared to defend their Corps' traditions, their division's deeds and the democracy should the need arise.

If another conflict does occur, the first to follow will be the men who shout, "Follow me."

Base School Board Studies Stepped-Up Program In Science

A far-reaching program to step up science and math courses within the Lejeune school system has been proposed by a special advisory committee of the Camp Lejeune school board.

Slated to back President Eisenhower's plea for more such studies within the nation's schools, the special committee recommended several major changes and areas of improvement. They called for immediate action to increase laboratory facilities at the high school.

Most significant long-range recommendation is revision of the present curriculum to incorporate an introduction to science, math and foreign language courses in the eighth grade to build confidence within students before they undertake the subjects in high school.

The report, subject to further study and approval by the school board and commanding general, was submitted by Col. Roger C. Power Jr., chairman of the board's administrative committee and head of the special advisory committee on curriculum standards.

Legal Office Lists State License Laws

Requirements for the licensing of motor vehicles in North Carolina, regardless of the individual's legal residence, were outlined by the Base legal assistance office earlier this week.

A Marine who claims another state as his legal residence may license his automobile in North Carolina, and remain exempt from the Tarheel state's personal property tax. This same individual will be liable for taxation in his home state provided it has a personal property tax on its residents when the property is located outside the state.

However, the serviceman who claims North Carolina as his legal residence must pay this state's personal property tax, regardless of where the vehicle is registered. In most cases, he must pay only if the vehicle is in the North Carolina county which he claims as his legal residence.

Judge Latimer To Deliver Address At Officers Club

Judge George W. Latimer of the United States Court of Military Appeals will speak on, "A Judge's View of Current Problems in Military Justice," February 3 at the Paradise Point club. His speech will follow a dinner at 6:30 p.m. Judge Latimer will be the guest of the Camp Lejeune Bar Association.

The American flag was raised for the first time over the Japanese fortified island of Iwo Jima on Feb. 2, 1945, when members of the 28th Marines planted the standard on Mount Suribachi.

IT CAN BE DONE—In an actual demonstration, an HR25-1 giant helicopter lifts an HUS 'copter during a dummy run at the New River Air Facility. The experiment was a prelude to an actual lifting of a helicopter that went down in the swamps near Orlando, Fla., after developing engine trouble on its way to Miami. The downed helicopter was scheduled to be rescued from its soggy marshland Monday. The demonstration was the first time a helicopter had ever been lifted by its gigantic brother.

MCB Units Lead Drive At End Of Second Week

At the end of the second week of the current fund drive for National Health Agencies and International Agencies, a total of $7,096.41 has been reported by the fund drive committee.

Of this total, MCB leads Tri-Command units with $3,332.50, while Division is second with $2,212.70. Force Troops follows with $1,144.11.

Two other units, Air Facility and Civil Service have donated $189 and $218.10, respectively.

To date, no other small unit has topped the Rifle Range donation of $163. Rifle Range went over their quota during the first week of the drive with 100 per cent participation.

A further breakdown of the donations shows that a total of $4,987.88 has been designated to the 12 National Health Agencies with $2,108.53 designated for the two International Agencies, CARE and Crusade for Freedom.

The 12 National Health Agencies participating in the drive are: American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, the Association for Mental Health, Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, National Sclerosis Society, National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, National Tuberculosis Association, and the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Local contributors may contact unit keymen for envelopes. They may then either mail donations direct to the agencies' headquarters, or return drive envelopes to organization keymen.

Class Planning For Off-Duty Students

Dr. Ralph Brimley from East Carolina college will aid Lejeune off-duty college students with program planning today and tomorrow at the Base Education office.

Dr. Brimley will be at the office for counselling from 1 to 4:30 p.m. today and from 7 to 9 p.m. this evening and from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. tomorrow.

In addition to counselling enrollees in the off-duty college program, Dr. Brimley will talk to students interested in setting up graduate courses in the area.

Unit Representatives Receive Tax Briefing By IRS Agents

Helpful hints in preparing income tax returns were given to representatives of the major commands at a tax-briefing session in the Camp theater Tuesday.

In the day-long session, two representatives from the Internal Revenue Service office in Wilmington, N. C., explained in detail the preparation of Forms 1040 and 1040A.

The agents, Jordan A. Sloan and Raymond J. Wildman, stressed the point that more than 90 per cent of enlisted Marines would be filing on Form 1040A and also showed the benefits of joint income tax filing for husbands and wives.

Because the tax agents will not be available during actual filing periods, representatives from the various organizations were given a full rundown on the forms in order to help those within their commands.

Although the final date for filing returns is April 15, the agents stressed that taxpayers who wait until the last minute often make costly mistakes, both to themselves and the government. They urged that returns be filed early and correct.

Every citizen or resident of the United States who had $600 or more gross income in 1957—whether an adult or minor—must file. Anyone who had less than $600 income should file a return to get a refund if tax was withheld from his salary.

Maj. Addison Garland established a Marine Corps Post on Mare Island in 1862, while on a parole granted by the Confederate Army.

EDUCATIONAL BOOST—The current nationwide shortage of some school science teachers, and scholarships for able math students as well as the lack of facilities resulted in school Board proposed program to spur on science student Michael Harris. A National Honor Society student at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

MCB Revise Warrant Officer-LDO Programs

Marine Corps announced recently a composed Warrant Officer and Limited Duty Officer selection program for fiscal year 1959.

The program will drop both Warrant Officer and Limited Duty Officer applicants will be replaced by sheets, a special fit and an appearance of before a command.

For the first time, both reserve Warrant Officer and Limited Duty Officer will be considered by board. Competing individuals and reserves for the rank must be strong and sincere mood must possess the to be successful officer.

During consideration for program must submit an to their commanding immediate superior for Limited Duty Officer.

FESTIVAL VISIT

Drum And Bugle Corps Journey To Tampa Festival

Fifty-five members of the 2nd Division's Drum and Bugle Corps are scheduled to journey to Tampa, Fla., for participation in the annual Gasparilla Pirate Festival Feb.

Each year, thousands of Tampa and tourists have attended the colorful celebration, which is a reenactment of the "taking of Tampa" by the pirate Gaspar.

This will be the third festival for the division musicians, and for their drum major, Leonard Lanier. The drum major is from Washington, D. C., and will have three previous assignments.

The military musical units, including the U. S. Army Band, are to participate in the nation's largest musical festival.

The band will board "flying boxcars" and travel to the McDill Air Force Base. The trip will be made February 10.

SEEKING PERFECTION—TSgt. Leonard Lanier, 2nd Division Drum and Bugle Corps' drum major, puts the musicians through their paces during intense practice session, in preparation for their participation in the Gasparilla Pirate Festival at Tampa, Fla., February 10.

Divvy Reenlistment NCO Talks To Wives About Civilian Life

"Civilian Life isn't always as rosy as one thinks," stated SSGT. William H. Hebert, Division Reenlistment NCO, as he spoke to a group of wives about service benefits versus civilian responsibilities last week.

Lecturing to the wives in a program sponsored by the 3rd Bn., Eighth Marines, Sergeant Hebert continued, "Most men join the Marine Corps when they are 17 or 18, right out of high school. When they return to civilian life they are 21 or 22, with more responsibilities than they had previously. A married Marine has even more."

Education, net income, living expenses, chances for travel, and medical benefits were discussed and compared with that of personnel in other types of work.

At the conclusion of the presentation, coffee and cake were served while Lt. Col. L. G. Ditta, Battalion commander, held an informal discussion with those present.

FRA Auxiliary Plan White Elephant Sale At Tarawa Terrace

Final plans for a white elephant sale to be held at 8 p.m., February 3, at the Tarawa Terrace Community Center were outlined by members of the Board of Directors of the Ladies Auxiliary, Fleet Reserve Association, Unit 208, at a meeting recently in the home of Mrs. Jacquelyn Jones.

All donations from the sale will go toward purchase of an American and a unit flag to be presented at formal dedication ceremonies at 8 p.m., March 3. Mrs. Josephine Weygint, regional vice-president of the East Coast region, will dedicate the flags.

In addition to urging members to bring wrapped donations to the white elephant sale, Mrs. Lonnie Conner, president, reminded members to think of the forthcoming nominations for new officers of the auxiliary. The nominations will be made in April.

Special Guest Night Held By Paradise Point Toastmasters' Club Last Monday

Paradise Point Toastmasters' meeting Monday evening was presided over by Toastmaster John Greiner. Many guests were on hand to enjoy the activities and this special guest night was an unparalleled success.

Toastmaster Ellsworth B. Cook (MSC) USN, conducted table topics on the subject of "Integration of the Armed Forces." Imagined Toastmaster politicians, justices, joint chiefs of staff and even the CDS voiced their views. Naturally, the Marine Corps won out. Many opposing generals' fighting this battle ran true to form and just "faded away."

Jim Massey, acting as ringmaster, spoke in terms of leading gladiators into an arena to do battle with words.

Riding high in his stirrups, Toastmaster Dave Jones showed his supremacy in the duel of talk. His knowledge of cavalry tactics and especially "The Charge of the Light Brigade" was carried to a gripping climax as the winning speech.

The business portion of the session ended in somewhat of a haste of parliamentary finagling. Discussion on the crediting of outside speeches was finally ended by the sole passing motion which, in effect, called time out until the next regular meeting February 10.

CARE

In a land of abundance, "hunger" is a word that appears only in a dictionary as far as the vast majority of people are concerned. Yet, in this world, hunger is real. It gnaws at the stomachs of millions of people.

Millions of people throughout the world need food, not only to live, but to make use of the freedoms they have recently obtained.

For every dollar donated to the Food Crusade, CARE will pack and distribute one package (average, 22 pounds) to those who need food most.

CARE is one of the two International Agencies included in the fund raising drive that is currently being conducted at Camp Lejeune.

7TH ANNIVERSARY-2ND MARINE DIVISION

C.A. Price

2nd Division Has Rich Heritage

Many Commanders Have Successful Combat Careers

Gen. J. C. Burger, who won the Distinguished Service in Korea and the Bronze Star Medal and Letter of Merit in World War II, is commanding general of the 2nd Marine Division.

...serving his second duty with the Division, Burger was assigned as pre-war unit when it was formed. He assumed his duties after serving for one year as Commanding General of the Marine Corps Base.

Burger graduated from the University of Maryland and received his appointment in the Marine Corps in 1925. Prior to World War II he served at various stations in the United States and on expeditionary duty in the Pacific. He served in the 173rd Airborne Brigade, 1st Airborne Division, and in the 1st Marine Division during World War II.

...World War II he saw action at Guadalcanal and Bou-

...was an observer at Guadalcanal. As a battalion commander and executive officer in the 24th Marines, 4th Division in World War II, General Brunelli fought at Kwajalein, Saipan, Tinian and Iwo Jima. During the Korean War he served as Chief of Staff, 1st Marine Division.

His post World War II duties include several important assignments at Quantico, followed by two tours of duty on the Staff of Commander, Amphibious Forces, Pacific Fleet. He also served as Chief of Staff, 1st Marine Division, in Korea and at Marine Corps Schools and on duty with the Joint Chiefs of Staff before reporting to the 2nd Division in October, 1956.

CMC Message

It is my privilege to extend heartfelt congratulations and best wishes from the entire Marine Corps to every member of the 2nd Marine Division upon the occasion of the seventeenth anniversary of the establishment of your famous organization.

The career of continuous service of the 2nd Marine Division since activation on February 1, 1941, is a most distinguished one and at all times in keeping with the highest traditions of our Corps. It will always be remembered with the deepest pride by all Marines. The deeds of members of your Division during World War II at Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Saipan, Tinian, and Okinawa are inspiring pages of American history. Today the 2nd Marine Division, poised on the East Coast and afloat with the Sixth Fleet, is a highly trained striking force, needing only the command to fulfill any assigned mission. Thus, in its past history and in its present readiness, the 2nd Marine Division exemplifies the role of the Marine Corps as our Nation's Amphibious Force-in-Readiness.

With deep gratitude for the contribution of the 2nd Marine Division in the past and full confidence in your instant readiness to bring your traditional qualities of competence, courage, and teamwork to bear against any would-be aggressor, I am proud to salute your Division on its seventeenth anniversary and extend my warmest personal regards.

R. McC. PATE,
General, U. S. Marine Corps,
Commandant of the Marine Corps.

The 2nd Marine Division, formed in 1941, was composed of units already steeped in honor and glory. Endowed at birth with this rich heritage, the Division—in World War II—went on to win near-impossible battles and new admiration and fame for the Marine Corps.

Built around the famed Sixth Marines that had helped to establish combat records known to fighting men throughout the world, the 2nd Division enclosed the reactivated Eighth, Second and expanded Tenth Marines—all rich in history.

In August 1942, when the 1st Marine Division launched the Allies first offensive, reinforcing units of the 2nd Marines joined in the fight... and were the first to land to meet the enemy.

The Eighth Marines, stationed on Samoa to prevent further Jap aggression in that part of the Pacific, joined in the fight for Guadalcanal. Later, the Sixth Marines, who had been sent to Iceland to guard the sea lanes to Europe, returned to Division control. Fighting for the first time as a unit, the 2nd Division remained on Guadalcanal until all enemy resistance was overcome.

In November, 1943, the Division added fresh laurels to its fighting record by seizing in 76 hours the heavily defended island of Tarawa.

When the attack on Saipan was launched in June, 1944, the Second landed in assault across the beaches and continued with the capture of Tinian. The war ended with the reinforced Eighth Marines fighting on Okinawa.

Tri-Command Area Occupies Quarter Of Onslow County

Covering 173 square miles of swamps and forest between U. S. Highway 17 and State Highway 24, Camp Lejeune occupies approximately one-fourth of Onslow county in Southeastern North Carolina. Beginning at the city limits of Jacksonville, the Camp straddles all but a short stretch of the New River as it extends 20 miles seaward to the Atlantic.

Construction of Camp Lejeune began in April, 1941. As the Camp was built, farmers and fishermen many of whom could trace their ancestry to pre-Revolutionary days were uprooted. In all, about 600 families were affected.

Barracks, school and service buildings rose as Marines trained in the forest and swamps for their eventual meeting with the enemy. As civilian workers built a new base, an endless chain of young Marines received the best of combat training.

Today, one of the most beautiful bases in the country, Camp Lejeune houses three commands: Marine Corps Base, 2nd Division, and Force Troops, Atlantic.

COVETED MARKSMANSHIP AWARD—Maj. Gen. J. C. Burger, Division commander, accepts the Elliott Trophy from Capt. R. M. Winter, team captain, during an informal presentation at Division headquarters. This was the second time the 48-year-old trophy was won by 2nd Division marksmen.

The 2nd Marine Division — America's East Coast "combat force in readiness" — strengthened and stretched its muscles during the year in varied size maneuvers extending from Camp Lejeune to the strategic Dardanelles in Turkey.

In all training the latest concepts of nuclear warfare were emphasized, making the Division a versatile combat force ready to meet both conventional and atomic-age demands of warfare.

A reinforced battalion stayed afloat at all times in the Mediterranean as the amphibious arm of the Sixth Fleet. This duty was rotated by the 2nd Battalion, Sixth Marines; 1st Battalion, Second Marines; 1st Battalion, Sixth Marines; and 1st Battalion, Eighth Marines.

Training as an amphibious landing force of the Sixth Fleet, the battalions landed in NATO countries ranging from Spain to Turkey. After each landing small forces of that country were included in the exercises.

In September the 2nd Division representation in the Mediterranean grew to regimental landing team size when the reinforced, Sixth Marines landed at Saros Gulf, Turkey, in NATO's largest amphibious landing to date. Employing the latest Battalion Task Groupments, the Marines displayed these new concepts for NATO officials and newsmen.

Amphibious Training Group 1-57 departed for Vieques exercises last February. With the reinforced Eighth Marines serving as the principal ground forces, the group participated in both Puerto Rico and Panama exercises before returning to Camp Lejeune.

Vieques' rugged training site was used throughout the summer by small units. During this period the 3rd Battalion, Sixth Marines; 2nd Battalion, Second Marines; and 4th Battalion, Tenth Marines conducted small unit tactics there.

Amidst the field training activities, marksmanship on the rifle range and in competition was stressed, and in May the Elliott Trophy was won by a Division team. The return of the trophy to Camp Lejeune marked the second time it was won by Division shooters.

A new punch was added to the Division in April with the arrival of the first ONTOS. As additional big guns arrived, these tank-killer weapons were checked out and added to the infantry battalions' defensive firepower.

Inspection tours by Commanding General, Fleet Marine Force Atlantic, and the Commandant found Division troops in a high state of readiness. This was confirmed by visiting dignitaries and high ranking foreign officers who inspected the troops and facilities during the year.

Whether it was in a distant foreign land, as the sign in the sand at Saros Gulf showed, or at Camp Lejeune, the 2nd Division always reflected its combat readiness.

Second Division Units Are Poised And Ready

Eighth Marine Regiment Shakes Hollywood Title

With one of its battalions now serving in the Mediterranean, the Eighth Marines has the distinction of representing the 2nd Division and the Marine Corps in NATO exercises with the Sixth Fleet in Europe.

Although the Eighth was originally activated for World War I duty, the regiment spent the entire war in the unspectacular job of guarding the Mexican border against a possible German invasion. Deactivated in 1920 after brief action in Haiti the Eighth was reactivated in 1940 as one of the infantry regiments of the planned 2nd Division.

Formed around a reserve battalion from Los Angeles which had furnished martial backgrounds for movies, the Eighth, from its reincarnation in 1940, was known as the "Hollywood Marines." However, friendly rivalry between regiments was the order of the day and the Eighth took its training seriously.

It was a highly trained combat unit that guarded Samoa in the early months of 1942, while its members strengthened their combat muscles in the island's jungles. The first test of battle came on Guadalcanal Nov. 4, 1942, as men of the Eighth moved into the sea-saw battle area of the Matanikau River. Within a fortnight the Eighth had won a place alongside other combat-experienced units—and had lost its Hollywood title.

The regiment received its greatest test at Tarawa as Landing Team 2/8 attempted the shore in the first waves. Other battalions, following in reserve, were also chewed unmercifully by enemy fire as they neared the beach. At Saipan and Tinian, in the summer of 1944, the Eighth again played an important part in the victory.

COL. ROBERT C. BURNS
... Commands Eighth Marines

To the Eighth went the signal honor of making the last landing in the Pacific fighting of the war. Their amphibious assaults, which were unopposed, sent occupation forces to the islands of Iheya Shima, northeast of Okinawa and to Aguni Shima, due west of Naha.

With their initial mission accomplished, the Eighth Regimental Combat Team landed on Okinawa to relieve the 7th Marines of the front lines. Four days after the Eighth passed through the lines the island was officially declared secured. However, sporadic fighting continued for several days while patrols flushed the remaining Japs from hiding.

Action in the Okinawan campaign wrapped up the war's start and finish for the 2nd Division. Just as a unit of the Division, the 2nd Marines fired the first shot of the war in the Solomons, another unit, the Eighth, ended it with the last assault landing and later, with the last great infantry drive against the same enemy.

exchanges, laundry and shower facilities.

Formed from elements of Headquarters, Ordnance, Service, Motor Transport and Engineer battalions, the regiment grouped these activities into four companies, with each having its own special function. In November, 1956, a fifth company, the 2nd Dental, was activated and brought into the regiment.

Headquarters and Service Company, besides being the normal administrative element of the unit, contains the Division Disbursing section, the Communication-Electronics platoon and the Engineer Service platoons. These two platoons have their own supply and maintenance sections.

The versatile General Supply Service Company covers a number of fields, ranging from issuing rations to running PX's and the Division's textile and shoe repair shops. Ordnance Service and Motor Transport companies supply and maintain equipment in their respective fields. The Dental Company is equipped and staffed to perform all types of dental treatment in the field.

COL. JOHN J. GORMLEY
... Commands Second Marines

Second Marines Formed 56 Years Ago In Philippines

Currently engaged in Puerto Rican maneuvers, the 2nd Marines have returned to the tropical climate in which the regiment was born. The unit's rich heritage goes back some 56 years to the Philippines where the first "Second Regiment" was activated to fight the Insurrectionists.

Through periods from reactivations to disbandments the 2nd Marines performed major roles in protecting American interests in the Far East and Latin America. And when America's first offensive shot of World War II was fired, it came from a platoon of "B" Company, 1st Battalion, 2nd Marines on Florida Island in the Solomons.

Missions of the Second grew and kept pace with the expanding influence of American power. The regiment turned up in Panama when that country broke from its parent republic; it restored law and order in Cuba on two occasions; and it watched the death throes of the Manchu dynasty while on duty in China.

In 1913 the Second was formed as a permanent regiment under the command of (then) Colonel John A. Lejeune. A year later it landed at Vera Cruz, Mexico and finally settled for a 16-year stay in Haiti after brief action in the Dominican Republic.

Returned to the United States and disbandment in early 1931, the Second was again reactivated in 1940 to become an integral part of the planned 2nd Marine Division. In the summer of 1942, detached from its parent organization, it sailed for a rendezvous with the 1st Marine Division and the invasion of the Solomons.

Rejoining the Division during the Guadalcanal fighting, the Second continued the bloody path across the Pacific to Japan.

Ever mindful of their regiment's proud past, men of Sixth Marines maintain a high state of combat readiness to meet today's exactness in warfare. In keeping with this renewal of training, the regiment recently participated in maneuvers in European Turkey where its members displayed the Marines' latest concepts of nuclear warfare to NATO officials.

Activated July 11, 1917, at Quantico for service in France, the Sixth Marines in less than a year showed the world that Bismark's Germany, built with 50 years of "blood and iron," was not invincible. Along the road to victory lay Belleau Wood, Chateau Thierry, Soissons, St. Mihiel and the Meuse Argonne.

Occupation on German soil followed until July, 1919, when the Sixth returned home for deactivation. Reorganized in 1920 to re-enact various Civil War battles, the regiment soon sailed for the Dominican Republic and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to protect American interests. Disbanded in 1925, the regiment was reactivated in 1927 and rushed to Shanghai to defend the International Settlement.

After two years of duty in China the regiment was returned to the United States and again disbanded. With the formation of the Fleet Marine Force in 1933, the regiment was again reactivated at Quantico. Maneuvers took the Sixth Marines to the Pacific after which they were stationed in the San Diego area. In the summer of 1937 they were again rushed to Shanghai for the protection of American lives and property.

In early 1938, the regiment returned to its permanent base in San Diego where it assumed an inactive status. Reassigned as an active unit in March, 1940, the Sixth became the principal infantry unit of the 2nd Marine Brigade. A year later the designation was changed to the 2nd Marine Division. Germany, by the summer of 1941, had again invaded Europe and the Sixth Marines were called to help defend sea approaches to England, Italy called for duty in Iceland and the regiment departed from States in June, 1941, under cloak of secrecy.

Returned to San Diego in 1942, the reinforced regiment soon on its way to meet the new challenge in the Pacific. The fighting the Sixth met the 2nd Division for the campaign at Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Saipan, Tinian. Nine months of occupation duty on the Japanese home followed the surrender.

The regiment was transferred Camp Lejeune with the 2nd Division and shortly afterwards assigned to the 1st Division Camp Pendleton. It again became a part of the 2nd Division in

Supporting Units Become Integral Part Of Division

Seventeen years ago the activated division consisted of such supporting units as the Antiaircraft Machine Gun Battalion and the 2nd Chemical Company, signal, and motor transport units were of company size.

During the Pacific fighting units took new shapes; some dropped from the rolls, others were enlarged. The Shore Party Battalion evolved from the engineers by way of "Pioneer Battalion". Headquarters Battalion grew into being to include Headquarters, Communication, Military Police and Maintenance companies.

Engineers and medical personnel were of battalion strength when the Division was formed with motor transport and pushing toward battalion size. The 2nd Service Battalion was formed at that time, retaining its original size until 1954.

These battalions and 2nd Regt. today are all integral of the Division, backing Second's three infantry and artillery regiments' combat battalions. Detached units of these support units can be found wherever Division sends its landing and task groups.

Eight 2nd Division officers won the Medal of Honor for the Pacific fighting. Seven recipients were killed or later of wounds.

Born In 1918

Tenth Marines Is Corps' First Artillery Unit

Organized in 1918 as the first artillery regiment in the Marine Corps, the Tenth Marines, since 1941, have been a vital part of the 2nd Division.

The history of Marine artillery is comparatively short, with organizations undergoing many changes before reaching today's peak efficiency. Probably the first units, especially trained for employment with land troops, were units of the Mobile Artillery Force, formed at Vera Cruz, Mexico, in 1914.

Roots of the artillery-supported infantry are buried in the days when our navy boasted wooden ships and iron men, and sea-going Marines often laid aside their muskets to man ship-board guns. This was during the era of real "soldiers of the sea", when Marines thought artillery was good only as a sea-going or stationary weapon.

COL. GEORGE B. THOMAS
... Commands Tenth Marines

However as the size of landing forces increased and missions grew in proportions, artillery in direct support of infantry became a necessity. Some historians say the Leathernecks first used artillery support, if it can be called that, in Panama in 1885. This joint artillery-infantry venture consisted of one company of artillery, armed with 3-inch field pieces and Gatling guns, in support of a field expeditionary regiment.

Based on the experience of this special force at Vera Cruz, and meeting the requirements of land warfare, the Tenth Marines were equipped with 7-inch field pieces. After the Armistice the Tenth was cut to battalion strength and the mobile 75mm pack howitzer and long range field pieces 105's and 155's were added and were improved.

Battalion strength for several years, the Tenth reinforced Marines in Shanghai and Tientsin in the late '20's and again in Shanghai in 1937. The great importance of artillery support was emphasized in fleet landings and in 1935 another battalion was formed at San Diego.

The designation of the 1st Battalion, then at Quantico, changed to the 11th Marines on Nov. 1, 1940, a new Regiment was started at San Diego for the future 2nd Division. The Tenth were found scattered with regiments of the Division almost from the time they were activated.

The Camp Lejeune 1957 football season officially closed last week with Leatherneck's All-Marine selections. Coach Wil "E" Overgaard's locals, compiling a 4-4-1 record, placed six players on the first two squads comprised of 44 players. End Joe Fowlkes made honorable mention.

Center-co-captain Lou I
The 210-pound Hallow was an All-Sea Service first string selection, a Little All-American while at East Carolina college and is property of the Los Angeles Rams. He was also voted by the coaches as Lejeune's Most Valuable lineman.

Leatherneck quoted Coach Overgaard as stating that, "Lou is a tough center who is particularly outstanding on defense. His offensive play leaves little to be desired, and he is especially valuable as our team 'holler' man."

Tate was a second squad selection last year and moved up to the first string on the basis of opponents difficulty in blocking him plus his vicious tackling.

Voted to the second team were quarterback Ernie Brown, tackle Roger Beckley, guard co-captain Bob Callahan and halfback Willi Fjerstad.

Brown was on the All-Marine squad last year. This was his third season of service ball. Upon discharge from the Marine Corps, Brown will join the Rams' training camp. While here he received the coaches Most Valuable Backfield Man trophy two consecutive years.

The 197-pound Callahan was one of the outstanding linemen on Coach Overgaard's eleven. Beckley, before joining the local team, had played only one year of college ball.

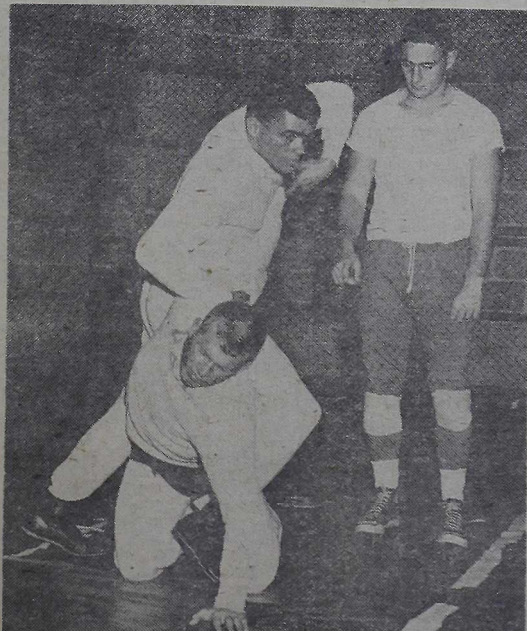

Fjerstad, although lost to the squad after the Quantico game, was a constant thorn in the side of opponents' lines. The big 212-pounder was a workhorse on the team from his halfback slot.

Fowlkes, in gaining honorable mention, was regarded as one of the most improved players on the club. He was a terrific downfield blocker for the backs.

A Black Powder club will be organized on February 5 at 7:30 p.m. in Bldg. 300 (Third Area Gym). Marines interested in musket loading and muzzle-type marksmanship are invited to the first club meeting.

Once formed the club will affiliate with the National Muzzle Loaders Rifle Association. When in operation, the club plans to offer competition with Civil War-type weapons firing black powder.

Additional information is available by contacting SSgt. R. H. Mace, 2nd Serv. Regt., Ord. Serv. Co., at 7-3643.

IN PREPARATION—Wrestling coach Fred Campbell, right, watches two of Lejeune's matmen go through their paces readying for their first match of the season against MCAF-Cherry Point on February 4. Dick Brittain, bottom, seems to be in difficult straits as Howard George attempts to throw Brittain on his back for the pin.

Eighth Engineer Bn. was backed out of first place for the initial time this year in the Staff NCO Bowling League when the red hot Cluster Busters defeated the Jokers, 3-1. The Engineers were inactive last week, and the Cluster Busters moved into the top percentage-wise with a 37-19 record, while the Engineers maintained their 34-18 mark.

M. Braun and Jake Uzbak paced the new leaders with a 212-539 game and series respectively while Bill Copes rolled a 204-577.

Upsets were prevalent in the rest of the loop action. The Pointers dropped the fourth-place Engr. Sch. Bn., 3-1, behind the combined efforts of Dave Davison and Joe Harless, who rolled series of 548 and 547 in that order.

Courthouse Bay upended the Shiltzers, 3-1. Jake Sasser led the winners with a 202-573 while Jake Woicek paced the losers with a 212-542.

In other league action, the Putts downed 2nd Engr. Bn., 3-1, and in the only shutout of the week, the Shamrocks took four from the Splitters.

Bob Armstrong manages the Camp Lejeune varsity basketball squad. Armstrong managed his high school team for four years.

RIFLE-PISTOL CLUB

The Camp Lejeune Rifle-Pistol Club will meet at 8 p. m. February 3 at the Community Bldg., Tarawa Terrace. Persons interested in Rifle-Pistol activity are invited to attend.

The approved pattern for medals that will be presented to this years winners will be displayed. The 1958 programs will be shown at the meeting.

Baseball Practice Begins Monday At Goettge Gym

The formation of the 1958 varsity baseball team will begin Monday when candidates for the squad report to the Goettge Memorial field house for the first day of practice.

The opening day's session will get under way at 2 p.m. Each prospective player must be equipped with gym shoes, sweat suits, towels and gloves from their unit Special Services. Weekday practice will commence every day at 2 p.m. and run until 4:30 p.m., while Saturday's schedule lasts from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Players will be issued a card signed by Base Special Services Officer identifying them as candidates for the team. Commanding officers will be requested to excuse all members of their units bearing these cards for practice at 12 noon weekdays and 8 a.m. Saturdays.

It is also requested of commanding officers that officer personnel selected for the squad and not issued TAD orders, be allowed to make all road trips.

This year's team will be coached by Hal Glasgow who directed his Hawaiian club to an 80-20 won-loss record last year. Coach Glasgow is due to report in the end of this month.

Hal Walters Paces Division Keglers With 202 Average

Although many bowling teams in the regimental leagues have not completed their slates, the Sixth, Eighth and 2nd Service Regimental leaders have moved far enough into first place to coast home for their respective championships.

Hal Walters, a veteran of Divvy, Tri-Command, FMFLant and All-Marine competition last year, currently leads the league with an overall 202 individual average.

Last week, Tony Matthews carded a 210 game and 567 series as Provisional downed 3rd Battalion 3-1. With only two games left on the slate, Provisional has wrapped up the regimental crown with a 17-3 record.

Eighth Marine bowlers watched 3rd Battalion maintain its first place lead with a 22½-5½ record, as Composite Battalion edged into second place Monday, defeating third-place 2nd Battalion, 4-0. John Woicsek rolled high individual game of the night as he carded a 203. Composite now lies second with a 15-17, trailed by 2nd Battalion with a 6½-21½ record.

Paced by Jim Ashwell with a 163 game, and high 561 series Monday night, Dental Company of Service Regiment sewed up the league title blanking third place General Supply, 4-0.

Although Al Salustro's 4th Battalion, Tenth Marines, team rests in third place, he became the star Cannoneer bowler of the week by carding three high series scores, topped by a 580. Leading the league is 2nd Battalion with a 16-4.

Group I got underway this week with the Engineers sinking Shore Party 4-0, and Shore Party then turning around to shut out Tank Battalion 4-0. Vic Panico rolled the highest individual game, a 214, while Shore Party's Arthur Dooley carded a 552 high series.

Maplemixers Lose To League Leaders

The Lucky Strike keglers maintained their lead in the Staff NCO Wives Bowling loop by winning 3-1 from the last place Maplemixers.

The winners were led by O. McCarville with a 176 high game and 481 series. Helen Wayne's 414 series were tops for the losers.

In other action, the second place Pinhitters took 3-1 from the third place Hotshots. B. Sutt's 142-401 paced the Pinhitters, while Nell Alford rolled a 199 high game and high series of 474 for the Hotshots.

WHAT TO DO!—Parris Island's Leon Luckey seems lost as Lejeune's Marv Leggett guards him. Partially hidden by Leggett's hand is Rick Benson, while Ed Peterson, left, moves in to assist. The local Marines downed their opponents, 62-75-61, in an all-important two-game clash at the Goettge Memorial field house.

Locals Take Two From P. Stopped By N.C. State, 98-

The Camp Lejeune quintet faced their toughest test of the campaign last week they squared off against Parris Island Thursday and Friday evenings and then journeyed to Raleigh to face Coach Everett Case's powerful N. C. State five. When it was all over, the locals had taken the two Island frays, 63-58, 75-61, and dropped the college game, 98-

The P. I. win threw the East Coast championship running into a two-way tie Quantico and the locals. Each boasts the identical record of 2-1, while P. I.'s ledger stands at 1-3.

The Marines were extended in the first encounter of the series as they only used five men throughout the game. The lead changed nine times and was tied an equal number. Coach Donald E. Spencer's cagers managed to hold a slim four-point margin at the half, leading 28-24 in the low-scoring game.

Parris Island, playing without the services of coach-player Bill Aldridge who had suffered a serious eye injury in the Quantico game, knotted the score at 43-43 with six minutes to play. Ed Peterson broke the ice with a jump shot from in front of the bucket and the locals went on to take the game from the visiting Devil Dogs.

Peterson paced the Marines with 23 markers, hitting on eight field goals and seven free throws. Marv Leggett chalked up 16 on four from the floor and eight from the free throw line. Dean Nicholson led the losers with 23 points.

The following night, the Marines snapped out of their jitters to lead by a substantial margin throughout the fray. Paced by Terry Telligman's 20-point first half, the locals went ahead, 37-25, at intermission.

Coach Spencer substituted freely in the second half as the visitors never threatened. Telligman paced all scorers with a 25-point production while Rick Benson took the runner-up spot in the tally department with 17.

Dave Foltz led the losers with 23 while Bernie McLaughlin and Nicholson had 12 apiece.

Saturday night, North Carolina State, the tenth ranked team in the nation, proved to be too much for the Marines in the final outcome, but not before the locals gave a good account of themselves in the first half.

The Wolfpack took an early two-point margin, but Benson hooked one in to tie the score at 2-2. State then sank seven straight with a minute and five registered on the clock the lead it never relinquished.

State was ahead at 41-25, and as play resumed Case substituted freely to the best of the contest.

Bernard's 30 Points Paces ITR's Upset Win Over MP

An alert ITR quintet took the steam out of MP Battalion, the previously undefeated team, 79-54, from the ranks in the MCB Intramural Basketball League. The had gone through six straight games without a setback and were in first place in the standings.

Paced by Elbert Pegues' 31 rebounds and Al Bernard's 30 tallies, the Infantrymen hit on 49 per cent of their floor shots and 63 per cent from the free throw line.

Bernard had a phenomenal 69 per cent average from the outside, hitting on nine of his 16 attempts and a 89 per cent average from the charity line, making eight of nine.

Coach-player Duane Miller dumped in 18 points to take ITR runner-up honors, while Dudley Burgess paced the losers with an equal amount of markers.

And, as if this wasn't enough, ITR came back Monday night to defeat MCSS, 63-55, to up their win-loss record to 7-2, losing one more game than MP Bn., who defeated USNH earlier in the evening, 2-0, in a forfeited game.

Bernard again paced the winning effort with a 27-point barrage, hitting on eight of 14 attempts from the floor and 11 of 13 from the free throw line.

Pegues, ITR's 6'7" center, had 16 rebounds in the work and was runner-up in winners' scoring column tallies.

The losers were paced by Slattery, ex-Naval Academy, who bucketed 20 markers.

FISH & WILDLIFE

BY THE "OLD ANGLER"

Phone 7-5522

NEW TYPE FISHING CONTEST?—The El Toro Angler's club made the news recently when they entered their first fishing tournament and pulled an upset victory over pre-tournament favorites, the Sea Horse Spin Fishing club from Costa Mesa, in the first Orange County Surf Fishing tournament recently.

The El Toro anglers picked up 12.25 points to the Costa Mesa's club's 8.25 to take the first round. Points were awarded to the amount and weight of the fish caught. Other clubs participating were the Fullerton Spinners from Fullerton, Calif., and the La Habra Valley Sportsmen's club.

The Orange County Surf Fishing trophy is a challenge cup with the losers having the option to challenge the winners after a 30-day period.

Sounds like fun. Maybe we ought to organize some different clubs around the Base or within the Fish and Wildlife club and compete against each other. Or, maybe some enterprising angler could contact the Cherry Point club and arrange a few small fishing tournaments with them. It's something to think about.

FOX HUNTING—The hunter who misses the excitement of the chase that comes only with fox hunting might be interested in taking in the 11th Annual Valentine Season Fox Hunt that will take place February 14-15 at Nags Head on the Outer Banks. It's here that the hunters "ride to the hounds" in jeeps and automobiles.

GOOD READING—In the February issue of "Sports Afield," now on the newsstands, Byron W. Dalrymple gives the lowdown on the South's 37 best bass rivers. In N. C. he mentions the Cape Fear, Roanoke, Neuse and the Tar—all within driving distance of Lejeune.

Another good article that makes good reading for every hunter and angler at Lejeune can be found in the December, 1957, issue of the "Marine Corps Gazette." The article by Fred T. Stolley is entitled, "Wildlife Conservation," and will reveal some of the things that can be done with a little work and some initiative on the part of the hunters and anglers. Camp Lejeune is mentioned in the article and the reading is well worth the time.

Golf Slices

By JIM BUTLER

The weather cleared up and old man sun came out for a beautiful day of golf Sunday.

Some of our best players got together for a four-man team. It was so enjoyed that they plan to do it again this Sunday. If you are interested, you can sign your name on the blackboard by the back entrance.

Mel Fleischer finished his tour of golf here at Camp Lejeune Monday by carding an Eagle (3) on the 18th hole for a score of 69.

Our club house is now under repair. The PX has been remodeled and is now opened for business. Bear with us until all this work is completed.

Please, help to keep the courses clean. They are for your enjoyment, so come on out and play golf.

Don't Gamble, Advises Reformed Professional

Don't play poker with a dealer wearing glasses—or with anybody for that matter—there is no such thing as an honest gambler.

This is some of the sound advice being given local personnel this week by Eugene Palmer, reformed gambler.

An excellent entertainer, Palmer reaches into his bag of tricks and does a magic show before foxing his audience with some of the gambler's favorite card and dice devices. A dealer wearing glasses, for example, may be wearing them so that he can read marks on the cards invisible to the naked eye.

Palmer says he is familiar with 70 different crooked decks of cards and 60 varieties of dishonest dice. Cards can be made with one end wider than the other. Turn a given card in the deck and it will stick out of the pack enough to be felt with the fingers.

As for dice, they can be loaded with one-third mercury and two-thirds honey. To set them for a certain number, a gambler puts that number downward, and stalls for time while the mercury works down through the honey to weigh them in the desired position.

For the past week, Palmer has been giving his demonstrations to various units and groups in the Tri-Command area in conjunction with the information programs.

Sea Urchins Elect Officers

In the regularly scheduled monthly "Dry Meeting" of the Sea Urchins club, 2nd Lt. George R. Walgrove, "D" Co., 2nd Tank Bn., was chosen president of the organization.

Others elected to office included Cpl. George R. Brown, 1st ITR, who was re-elected vice-president for his third term in that office; Mrs. Pat Burns, wife of MSgt. Rodney R. Burns, new club secretary; 1st Lt. James A. Miller, VMO-1, treasurer, and SSgt. Clodavald (Tony) Trujillo, 8th Tank Bn., as custodian of property.

Training officer will be Sgt. Bithel E. (Bert) Green, MAG-26, who will conduct the club's underwater and water safety classes.

Lt. Col. Robert R. Davis, former president, will continue to represent the club as chairman of the Skin Diving Sub-Committee of the Wallace Creek Boathouse Committee until Lieutenant Walgrove returns from Vieques in March.

FILM SERIES RESUMED

The film series, "Victory at Sea," has been resumed at the Central Area Service Club, MCB.

The series is shown each Tuesday and Thursday at 12:20 p.m.

Tri-Command Highlights

2nd Division

In H&S Co., 2nd Motor Transport Bn., SSgt. John P. Davis received a letter of appreciation during a Meritorious Mast January 23. The letter, signed by Maj. J. R. Wyatt, Jr., executive officer of the battalion, was for Sergeant Davis' diligent performance of duty in connection with the reenlistment program. According to the letter it was through his untiring efforts that the command moved from last to first place in reenlistments among the separate battalions of the Division, during the period August-December, 1957.

Pfc Martin R. Tierman of General Supply Service Co., 2nd Service Regt., was awarded a Meritorious Mast January 24, and was given a letter of appreciation for a "job well done" in completing a course at the Supply School, first in his class, with a 94 per cent mark.

TSGt. Efim Dukaz received a letter of appreciation during Meritorious Mast, January 24, for finishing first in a 30-man Supply School class. He is a member of General Supply Service Co., 2nd Service Regt.

Pfc William E. Lewis, Weapons Co., 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines, reenlisted January 24 for six years. He elected as his "shipping over" option a Florida duty station.

In "G" Co., 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines, TSGt. Edward E. Lee entered upon a first reenlistment January 28. He has requested retention for duty in the south.

HMC Andrew J. Hogue (USN), of the 2nd Medical Bn., reenlisted for six years January 24.

Marine Corps Base

Another 2nd Force Service Regt. Marine, TSGt. Jackie D. Moore, a warehouseman with Headquarters Co., Automatic Supply Distribution Bn., received his promotion recently, along with TSGt. Duane W. Zabel, of the same company.

TSGt. David E. Cleveland, engineer equipment mechanic foreman, Engineer Maintenance Co., 2nd Force Service Regt., was promoted to his present rank January 23.

For exceptional performance of duty during the past 18 months, Cpl. Joseph M. Davidson Jr., 1st ITR, was cited by his commanding officer. In a meritorious letter, his initiative, energy and accuracy were recognized as a distinct credit to the Marine Corps.

At Engineer Schools Bn., TSGt. Joseph LeBoeuf was elected vice-president of the Hadnot Point Staff NCO Bowling League.

Force Troops

For outstanding duty while serving as maintenance chief at the 8th Engineer Bn., TSGt. Chester J. Bahula received meritorious mastery.

Larry Elliott's Orchestra To Appear Wednesday

The popular dance band of Larry Elliott returns to Camp Lejeune next Wednesday after a four-month absence.

Always a favorite here, Elliott will bring with him an orchestra which has been tabbed as "America's Most Danceable Band" as well as several top flight comedy entertainers.

Headlining the featured artists is Elaine Powell, who not only does solo numbers with the band, but in dance music.

Wednesday evening, starting at 7 p.m., the orchestra will appear at the Camp Theater for a performance which includes orchestration and vocal arrangements.

At 9 p.m., the band will go to Marston Pavilion where they will play for the dancing and listening pleasure of sergeants and below until midnight.

Multiple Sclerosis

Multiple sclerosis and related disease afflict more than 500,000 Americans, mostly young adults. It is a crippling, lingering disability whose victims have an expected lifetime span about 85 percent of normal.

Until the National Multiple Sclerosis Society was founded in 1946, nothing was known about the cause of the disease or how to treat it. Its victims were regarded as hopeless cases.

It is now known that the disease destroys the myelin sheathing of the nerve fibers. It is called "multiple" because it usually affects many parts of the body, and it is frequently characterized by relapses after periods of partial or complete recovery.

The only hope for 500,000 Americans afflicted with this disease lies in the research and rehabilitation carried on by the MS Hope Chest, a member of the Federal Service Campaign for National Health Agencies.

Camp Lejeune Marines can contribute to the research carried on by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society by contributing to the current fund-raising drive.

ELAINE POWELL
... Featured Vocalist

is also featured with the group's vocal efforts.

Local dance-goers will find that the band can convey danceable rhythms and still retain a fresh and interesting style.

An added asset is Larry Elliott himself, who blends his Baldwin electrical organ in with the group on all of the arrangements.

Successful engagements at the nation's major ballrooms, colleges, hotels, private clubs, military bases and civic organizations attest to his new approach

PROGRAM NOTES

By TSGT. JACK MCCARTHY

Actually the great-great-grandson of Daniel Boone, recording star Pat Boone is following the pioneer tradition set by his famous ancestor. But the trail Pat blazes is in music and show business territory, rather than across the unknown wilderness.

His singing career began in Nashville, Tenn., when he was 10 years old. He was a regular for several years in the once-a-week show at the Belle Meade Happiness club, and everyone who heard him predicted a great future in music for the boy.

Pat's pronounced talent had no adverse effect on his personality. At David Lipscomb high school in Nashville, he was twice named "most popular boy," and became president of the student body. An enthusiastic athlete, he won letters for baseball, basketball and tennis.

When he was 17, Pat decided to broaden his singing activities. He found work in both radio and television at stations WSEX and WSM.

At 18, he entered, and won, the East Nashville Talent Contest, which gave him an opportunity to appear on Ted Mack's television "Amateur Hour." Pat placed first in three preliminary contests and qualified for Madison Square Garden finals. He was disqualified as a contestant because, in the meantime, he won first prize on "Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts" program.

From this point on, Pat moved into national popularity. Today, he maintains his position as America's brightest musical star. His recording of "April Love" is the number one song on the Hot or Hot of Hits in the nation.
