Korean Enlistment Resumes Back

Korean enlistment and re-ent standards for the Marines will be restored effectively 1. Practically, this means a return to former physical and mental standards, plus a return to the which prohibits re-enlistment of personnel below sergeant rank supporting minor details, with certain exceptions. Exceptions are: a man being re-enlisted to a higher grade; married applicants with service who are eligible for appointment or reappointment; a man may re-enlist at the same in which they were last discharged.

Ed Murrow Here April 23 To Shoot Maneuvers For TV

Edward R. Murrow, famed news commentator, will be here April 23 to film scenes of marines in action on LANTAGLEX maneuvers for his CBS television show, "See It Now."

Murrow will be flown to Lejeune after his April 23 broadcast. Camera crews will precede him and will shoot the preliminary phases of the huge operation.

MURROW

On the morning of "D" Day, April 24, Murrow will go aboard the USS Boffineau where he will join a platoon from the 2nd Bn., Second Marines. He will disembark and land Onslow Beach with them.

The tentative shooting schedule calls for filming sequences of Marine planes strafing the beach, a night shot of a Marine reconnaissance patrol on the beach, a night frogman action and LSMR rocket firing and DD gunfire support.

On the beach following the landing scenes, Murrow will interview Maj. Gen. George F. Good Jr., commanding general of the 2nd Division, who will fly in by helicopter from the command ship to the command post.

While at Lejeune the CBS party will be billeted at the Visitor's Bureau of camp housing set up by (See MURROW, Page 2)

Lejeune Troops Poised For Giant TAGLEX Games

Marines of the 2nd Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. George F. Good Jr., will complete loading Saturday for a hard-hitting amphibious assault.

The leathernecks will rendezvous with a naval task force off the Carolina coast. Moving up from final training exercises at Vieques, a regimental combat team composed of two battalions of the Sixth Marines will join their division companions at sea.

FMFlant Chaplain To Be Guest Pastor At Easter Service

Capt. Emil F. Redman, Force chaplain of FMFlant, will be guest pastor at the Easter Sunrise service at the Camp Protestant chapel at 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

Chaplain Redman will be at Camp Lejeune with the TAGLEX group.

The service will be held indoors because of the absence of the Division band.

Choirs from the Camp Protestant chapel and the Midway Park chapel will combine for the service under the direction of 1st Lt. Leland Stites. Assisting at the service will be Force Troops Senior Chaplain J. F. Parker, Eighth Marines Chaplain Vernon Tuxbury and Acting Camp Chaplain Robert J. Schneck.

Additional services will include an 8 a.m. Communion served by the Rev. A. W. Horstman, of Jacksonville. Chaplain Redman will be in charge of a special Easter Matins service to be held at 4:45 p.m. for personnel unable to attend other services due to TAGLEX.

There will be a three-hour Good Friday observance tomorrow at the Camp Protestant chapel based on Christ's last words on the Cross. The service will last from noon to 3 p.m.

A solemn mass will be held in the Catholic chapel at 8:30 a.m. (See EASTER, Page 8)

Labeled LANTAGLEX-54, the amphibious operation against an "enemy" shore is designed to test and evaluate the modern striking power of Marine troops against "enemy" defenses.

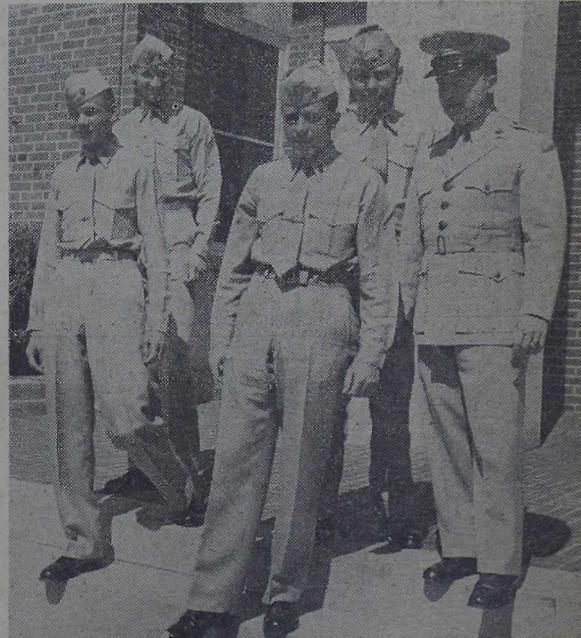

Backed by preliminary naval gunfire, Marines will hit the beach under air cover from the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, operating from Cherry Point which for problem purposes is an imaginary island at sea.

With jets flying close support assault troops will endeavor to secure a beachhead from which elements will fan out to gain control of "enemy" coastal communications, overrun and take over nearby "enemy" airfields and capture the port of Jacksonville.

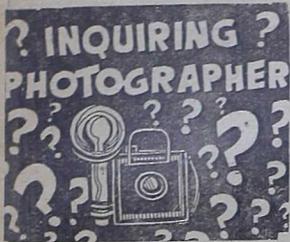

Helicopters and fixed wing squadrons will be used to airlift men into the New River Air Facility area. Helicopters will also be utilized to evacuate wounded.

Once the beachhead is established and the "enemy" ports taken, the task of the division assault forces will turn to developing the captured beaches and off-loading facilities as rapidly as possible to facilitate the subsequent landing of Army units.

The role of the "Aggressor" will be handled by elements of Force Troops. These forces will be presumed to have air power and the use of the A-bomb, and their defense of Onslow Beach and the interior coast will be carried out with full tactical use of modern methods and firepower.

WHAT MOMENT IN HISTORY DO YOU WISH YOU COULD HAVE PARTICIPATED IN?

PFC DALE LEWIS, GUARD CO., NO. 1, H&S BN., MCB — I would like to have participated in the Civil war. I might just as well have fought then, because half the people down here insist on fighting it all over again every chance they get. If I had fought in it I wouldn't have to listen to these people talk about it.

CWO HERBERT CAVIGNAC, PUBLIC WORKS DEPT., MCB — I believe our present day and age is more exciting and interesting than any past period in our history. The event that I would like to have been present for is the Japanese surrender aboard the USS Missouri.

CPL. MARTHA ROBINSON, WM CO. — I would like to have sailed with Columbus. Why? Well, this opened new worlds for the adventurous people of the old world to conquer. It also marked the beginning of the most powerful nation of all times—the U.S.A.

SGT. JOHN H. SMITH, JOINT LANDING FORCE BOARD — I think that the flag raising on Mt. Suribachi, Iwo Jima, is the event I would like to have participated in. I wish I could have been one of the fellows that raised the flag. Whenever I see a picture of this event, it just sets me to wishing...

SSGT. BOBBI LEONARD, WM CO. — Off hand I really can't think of any moment in history that I would rather participate in than the present time. We of today are living in the most exciting and dangerous age of all time. Never before in history could one wrong move completely destroy the world. Yes, I'll take the present day to the past.

It's Double Vision For This Marine: He's Father To Two Sets Of Twins

By PFC EMIL DANSKER

Seeing double is an everyday occurrence for SSgt. Charles E. Ellett, late of Camp Lejeune, now on his way to join the 1st Division in Korea.

Matter of fact, Sgt. Ellett sees double twice. Needs a medical survey, you say?

Nope. His kind of seeing double can happen to any father of two sets of twins, in Sgt. Ellett's case, four-year-old Connie and Debbie and eight-month-old Judy and Jean.

Twins are rare, but two sets in a single family—that's going the books one better. And, when one family has two sets of identical twins, that's something!

So alike are the two girls in each pair, that, according to Sgt. Ellett, "When you doctor one, you might as well doctor the other, because she'll be sick in a day or two." The two older girls won't dress any other way but alike. The two younger girls sleep together, and when one awakens, so does the other.

Caring for the twins and their eight-year-old brother, Ross, can be quite a chore, the sergeant said, adding proudly that his wife "had and raised them all by herself. She never had any help."

Connie and Debbie are old enough now to help out a little, though. Each picks a younger twin and takes care of her during the day.

Brother Ross is "crazy about the twins," according to Sgt. Ellett, "but he's just like me. Surrounded by all these girls, he gets a hard time and has to give in to 'em." Said Ross: "I'd like to have some boys."

Sgt. Ellett said he used to look forward to boys, too. "The second set cost me a steak dinner," he said. "All the men at the post office had boys, so I bet them I'd have boys that time."

The dinner would have cost the sergeant more than the $20 check if he hadn't had a friend in the restaurant business, he said.

Speaking of cost, Sgt. Ellett said the first set of twins cost him more than $600, but the second cost but $16.50.

That's one reason he brought his family back into the Corps after seven years on the outside, he said. Judy and Jean were born at the Naval hospital here.

Sgt. Ellett spent four years in the Marines during World War II, taking part in the Saipan and Tinian campaigns with the 18th AA Bn. He has a brother, MSgt. D. B. Ellett, who's with MAG 32 at Cherry Point.

Before returning to the Corps, Sgt. Ellett was a postal clerk in Belzoni, Miss., his wife's home, and Memphis, Tenn., where his family will stay during his overseas tour.

How does the sergeant feel about his twins?

"Makes you pretty proud," he said.

But he added he isn't looking forward to any more children, not for a while, at least. Could be he's concerned about that uncle his wife has. The one with two sets of twins—and a set of triplets!

Highway Hero Commended

A Tenth Marine staff sergeant has received a letter of commendation for Stateside heroism.

He is Bernard M. Plant, "I" Btry., 3rd Bn., who saved two persons from death in a flaming automobile in December, 1952.

Plant was returning from liberty early one morning when the car ahead of his plowed into a filling station and caught fire. The marine reached the vehicle in time to drag two persons to safety before a wall collapsed, dooming a third.

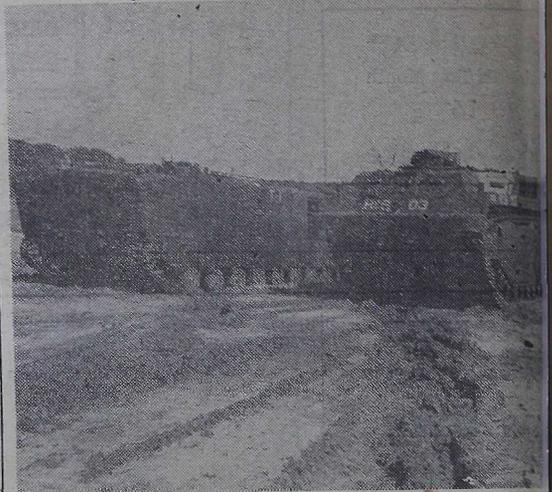

The citation, presented to him at recent ceremonies by Lt. Col. Francis W. Benson, battalion commanding officer, said:

"His presence of mind and heroic conduct in the face of great personal danger, were outstanding. . . ."

Plant entered the Corps in 1947 after graduating from Parkersburg High school, Parkersburg, W. Va.

NEW AND NEWER—A gigantic LVTP-5, left, looking somewhat like a miniature LST, poses with a 2nd AmTrac Bn. LVT-3 at Courthouse Bay prior to running through its paces. Corps' Newest Assault Boat Passes Tough Testing

By TSGT. BILL DAUM

A trio of hooded monsters at Courthouse Bay are growing on sandy beaches and into the surf as though determined to prove their potential striking power.

The latest in a series of similar monsters, the LVT-5 springs from such illustrious predecessors as the ALLIGATOR and the BUFFALO, used to haul assault waves to beaches throughout the Pacific.

At first glance, the new addition to the clan looks like a big, rectangular box and very awkward. This illusion is dispelled when the LVTP-5 roars into life and cavorts through the water.

"Old Number One" of the trio was one of the first experimental models and has been at Lejeune since November, 1952. Since then it has passed a series of grueling tests with flying colors.

One main difference from past models is a bow ramp, a complete reversal from the situation in the LVT3, reigning champ, which was first used at Okinawa. Many times a combat-loaded marine stepped from the rear ramp—into a six-foot hole!

When the new-style ramp is lowered, it reveals an interior where every inch of space is utilized and where over two squads may be loaded.

A top hatch, complete with ladders, makes unloading easier once the LVTP-5 hits the beach.

The engine itself is something new and is comparable to the engine now used in the M48 tank. It pushes the LVTP-5 over land and

Retaking Of Guam Described In New Marine Monograph

Headquarters, Marine Corps last week announced publication of "The Recapture of Guam," twelfth of a series of Marine Corps' historical monographs on World War II.

The 214-page, hard-cover book, by Maj. Orlan R. Lodge, includes maps, photos, statistics and accounts of the campaign from both the American and Japanese points of view. The Japanese account was supplied by a lieutenant colonel in that army who was operations officer for the headquarters defending Guam. The American aspect covers the operations of the 1st Provisional Marine Brigade, the 3rd Division and the 77th Infantry Division (Army).

Purple Heart veterans of the Guam campaign may obtain free copies of the new monograph by writing to the Commandant of the Marine Corps (Code AO3D), Headquarters, Marine Corps, Washington 25, D. C. Others may purchase the work (catalogue D214.2:G93/2) for $4.25 from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing office, Washington, 25, D. C.

If you wanted to fill the tank on the LVTP-5, you'd be thirsty. In fact, you'd be carrying 12 tanks in all with 420 gallons of water.

This new offspring is a descendant from the ALLIGATOR, which boasted a 210-horsepower engine and carried about 18 men.

The first LVT was the brainchild of a Florida manufacturer who had an idea that the hurricane season in those parts called for a vehicle which could be used in water and in the swamp-laden erglades as well.

Seeing the weird-looking craft in its Florida habitat, some sighted Marine planners selected two of the adaptable vessels, the Culebra in 1941. They were used by the doctor ordered, and the lowing year ALLIGATOR was gorged troops at Guadalcanal in the initial assault on enemy territory.

The newer BUFFALO was used at Tarawa and succeeding in carrying troops to beaches from Jima to Inchon.

With the new LVTP-5 now in production with improved speed and maneuverability, the Marine Corps takes another step in the right direction—Forward!

"See It Now" is perhaps the best known program of its kind in the country. Filming the LANTAGLEX-54 operation is in keeping with its policy of showing its tremendous audience people and views of national and international importance and significance.

LANTAGLEX 54 was chosen because it is a planned amphibious assault under the most modern conditions of warfare and utilizes the latest tactical weapons.

No definite date has been set for showing the filmed scenes to the public, but it is expected the near future.

Four Korean veterans were decorated and 16 newly promoted captains were honored by Force Troops' Aggressor Regiment during a formal parade and review at Camp Geiger Friday.

Capt. David S. Tolle, 8th Tank Bn., received the Bronze Star for meritorious achievement against the enemy while serving with an infantry battalion in Korea. Wilson, 8th Signal Bn., received the Letter of Commendation with Combat "V" for their "outstanding ability and professional skill against the enemy in Korea while serving with the 1st Division."

Col. Walker A. Reaves, Force Troop's chief of staff, and presently serving as commanding officer, Aggressor Regiment, was commander of troops. Col. Earl S. Piper, commanding officer, 2nd Combat Service Group, presented the awards and was reviewing officer.

Red Cross Drive Crosses Finish Line With 8 100% Units

The most successful Red Cross fund drive held here since 1945 ended this week with a total collection of $17,188.75.

The 1945 figure was more than $21,000.

The three largest of the eight units to reach the 100 per cent goal were the 1st Bn., Sixth Marines, the 2nd Tank Bn. and the Tenth Marines.

Other 100 per cent units were: The Rifle Range detachment, which went four times over its quota, the Reserve Trng. Bn., the First Infantry Trng. Regt., the 8th Tank Bn. and the 2nd Amphibian Reconnaissance Co.

Highest percentages among the main area units was the 2nd Division, which reached 70 per cent and a total of $5,990.98. Force Troops reached 59 per cent and Marine Corps Base reached 53 per cent.

House Sub-Group Approves Stop-Gap Integration Bill

A one-year stop-gap extension of Navy and Marine Corps officer integration authority has been approved by a House Armed Services subcommittee with an amendment prohibiting transfer of Naval officers above lieutenant and Marine officers above captain.

The Navy expects to integrate 500 a year for five years. The Marine Corps plans to integrate 150 Reserve and 150 temporary officers in the coming year.

Previous authority expired Dec. 31. The stop-gap is an interim measure pending Defense department efforts to work out an integration bill for all three services.

Marine Spokesman Brig. Gen. Nels H. Nelson said the Corps intends to return to the Officer Personnel act during and after 1955.

At the request of the two services an amendment was added to allow Reserve lieutenants to integrate without loss of seniority.

A good idea is only the beginning—you must stick to it until it proves to be one.

4 Camp Marines Naturalized In Ceremonies At New Bern

Four Lejeune marines received their naturalization papers and took the oath of allegiance to the United States Tuesday at New Bern, N. C.

The group began with five but dropped to four when Pfc Ulysses E. Legere, re-checking his records, discovered he had been born of American parents. Legere will receive a certificate of citizenship instead of naturalization papers.

Three of the new citizens are from Europe: Pfc Algimantas L. Galinionis, Supply School Bn., Lithuania; Pfc Jeremy Blok, "C" Co., 2nd Tank Bn., Germany and Cpl. Theodor T. Ruchti, Wpns Co., 3rd Bn., Second Marines, Switzerland. Pfc Aurele A. Godard, Supply School Bn., is from Canada.

Blok, 18, has spent four years of his life in German prison camps. He was removed from Poland in 1941 at the age of six and confined until the liberation in 1945. Asked of his experience while confined, Blok answered, "There is nothing more to tell. You know that they treated us badly. My experiences were the same as thousands of others."

First Lt. Robert F. Boyd, Camp Legal Assistance officer, room 117, Bldg. 1, is available for those who wish to inquire about naturalization immigration.

NEW CO—Lt. Col. H. F. Woodbury, above, has assumed command of the 1st Bn., Second Marines, relieving Lt. Col. Julian V. Lyon. Colonel Woodbury reported here from the American embassy in Ankara, Turkey, where he was assistant Naval attaché (Official USMC Photo).

HQMC Declares 60 Marines Dead

Sixty marines previously listed as missing in action in Korea have been proved or declared dead by Headquarters, Marine Corps.

The move left 55 still listed as missing. The 60 figure brings to 438 the total of marines missing and proved or declared dead. None are listed as captured.

Uniform WO System Gets Unanimous OK By Representatives

The House of Representatives last week unanimously approved a bill to provide a uniform warrant officer system throughout the services.

Passage by the Senate is expected before the current session adjourns.

The bill provides for promotion based on standing rather than specialty. Consideration for promotion from W-1 to W-2 would come after three years, on a "fully qualified" basis. WOs would be up for W-3 after six years in W-2, and up for W-4 six years later.

The final two grades would be on a "best qualified" basis, with 20 per cent forced attrition at each step. Enlistment would be the only recourse for a twice passed-over WO with less than 18 years service.

- In addition, the bill:
 1. Permits WOs to be appointed in any permanent WO grade in the regular service.
 2. Permits retirement after 20 years service.
 3. Makes retirement mandatory, with certain exceptions after 30 years service.

CONFIRMED—Sixteen people were confirmed at the Camp Protestant chapel Tuesday last week. The Rt. Rev. Thomas H. Wright, Bishop of the Diocese of Eastern North Carolina, officiated. Among those confirmed were, kneeling, Lr, Patricia DeLaHunt, Jack Stokes, Jane Horner, Michael Hudnell and Sharon Hering; standing, Lr, Donald DeLaHunt, J. W. Stokes, James Hudnell, Mary Jo Horner, Pamela Jones, Mary Ellen Paige, Walter Robinson, Mary Weller, Mrs. Walter Robinson (hidden), Mrs. Erik T. Smith and E. J. Morgan (Official USMC Photo).

- Short Rounds -

The Defense Dept. has asked Congress to give career servicemen another six months to put in their bids for participation in the contingency option system. The request is now under study by the House Armed Services committee. The present cut-off date is the last day of this month. The Defense Dept. would like to see it stretched to Nov. 1.

The system concerns annuities to be paid survivors of servicemen from deductions taken from retired pay.

The system is entirely new, the Defense Dept. pointed out, and those electing to take it are making an all but irrevocable commitment. Secretary of Defense Wilson feels most servicemen haven't had time to make a full study of the plan.

(The GLOBE is currently running a series explaining the system. See Page 8. For further help contact Lt. Misenhimer, Camp Education officer. He's in the Camp theater.)

Two boot platoons have already been deactivated at San Diego. Now Parris Island reports a drop in the number of recruits and has asked permission to close down the 7th Bn. May 1. General Shepherd told Congress last month that personnel needs of the Corps can be met through recruiting alone. . . . The Navy Times for April 10 quotes Charles A. Weaver, commandant of the Marine Corps League, as saying unification of the Armed Services is turning marines into "a bunch of powder puff soldiers." He blamed it partly on draftees, saying, "We have half-way soldiers in the Corps today who have completely ruined the esprit de corps." . . . A recent 3rd Division directive said all boots and field shoes must be shined with a dark, mahogany polish for preservation and appearance. The directive added, "A high gloss is not intended."

The Showman's Trade Review, leading theater managers' magazine, says 75 pictures have been lined up for Cinemascope. Most of them include top stars. Seems Hollywood no longer has time to bother about old-fashioned theaters with narrow screens. All of which explains the recent rash of old movies at Lejeune. And it's only the beginning. Some current movies which cannot be shown on narrow screens are "How To Marry a Millionaire," "Prince Valiant," "King Of The Khyber Rifles," "Beneath The 12-Mile Reef," and the super musical, "Rose Marie," with Fernando Lamas, Howard Keel and Ann Blyth.

Ten years ago this week: Lejeune marines gave a total of $19,623.45 to the Red Cross drive which ended this week. The Women's Reserve battalion led all units of the Camp with donations totaling $5912.72.

Headquarters announced new insignia for warrant officers, the ones in use today. Outmoded were the old bursting bombshell of the gunner and the crossed quills of the pay and quartermaster clerks.

Professional Golfers Gene Sarazen and Joe Ezar teamed up to stage an exhibition on the Paradise Point links for the opening of the spring season.

Infantry Bn. here conducted a bayonet and physical training course which gave instructions in bayonet, club and knife fighting as well as judo. They went on hikes too. On one of them they traveled 28 miles in only six hours and 50 minutes.

The University of North Carolina Woman's Glee club came aboard to serenade the troops.

Movies showing at Camp theaters included:

"Charley Chan In Secret Service," with Sidney Toler; "Union Pacific," with Barbara Stanwyck, Joel McCrea; "Jack London," with Michael O'Shea, Susan Hayward and "The Cat People," with Simone Simone.

Chaplain's Corner

THE PROMISE OF ETERNITY

Easter Sunday, the Feast of the Resurrection of our Lord, is again here. We, at Camp Lejeune, together with millions of Christians throughout the world, will reverently observe this festival in the Christian church year. As we leave altar and church, we will take with us, if our worship has been sincere, inspiration and grace. Our hearts will quicken to this great miracle; our faith will be strengthened.

Thinking people have, in the past few weeks, pondered the new developments in our age. Thermonuclear explosions have not only rocked the atolls of the Pacific and filled the skies with activity, they have stirred up the innermost thoughts of man. It has been concluded that man now knows how to destroy himself. It has also been concluded that the development of man's destructive forces. Now, then, is the time to seek God's will for mankind, by its own hand and by its own will, destruction of God's hand. Now, then, is the time that faith must be kindled. From the sepulchre in Jerusalem, walked the Son of God. He, Who has revealed to us the mystery of this life. He pointed the way for creatures of this world and spoke the promise of a new world.

Let us join the millions this Easter in ardent prayer, not only our thanksgiving for His Resurrection, but praying for the love of God and the love of all mankind may be resurrected in our hearts—yours and mine.

Locals Cop 4 Fleet Bouts; Navy Wins

Lejeune's Basil Blackson, Joe Davis, Richie Hill and Bud House won championships in the Atlantic Fleet boxing tournament at Norfolk Friday night but the team trophy went to the Destroyer Force which, by placing more men in the tourney's finals, scored 32 points to the Marines's 30.

The finals were marred by five split decisions, three of which were unpopular, even with the highly partisan crowd of about 5,000 spectators which overflowed the Naval Base auditorium.

Blackson, Marine 119 pounder, scored a tko over Virgil Kesler, MineLant, in 1:07 of the third round and thus became the first marine to be crowned in this annual boxing carnival.

In the 125-pound class, DesLant's Ray Whorton was awarded a split decision over FMF's Bob Riggsby. The fight was very close and Whorton, although stopped by a straight right by Riggsby in the third, appeared stronger at the finish.

Randy Horne, Lejeune welterweight, dropped another split decision which had the crowd howling. He lost to DesLant's Lawrence Barrett.

FMF's Davis had too many guns for Jimmy Gross, BatCruLant, in their light middleweight title clash. Gross stayed on his feet until the end of the second when Davis caught him on the ropes and dropped him for a nine count.

The attending doctor examined Gross between rounds and refused to let him come out for the third, awarding the bout to Davis on a tko.

Hill won the decision for middleweight crown, outpunching Freddy Townsend, DesLant. It was all Hill as the marine threw every punch in the book at Townsend without being able to floor him.

In the heavyweight battle, House decisioned DesLant's Roy Louson in a repeat performance of their 1953 title clash.

Lejeune Nine Stuck In Mud As Robins Score 7-3 Victory

BY CPL. JACK HAVER

Lejeune's Devildog nine dropped their third contest in a row Sunday at Rocky Mount.

Putting on their traveling gray uniforms for the first time this season the Leathernecks were outmanned by the Robin semi-pro team 7-3.

The game was originally scheduled for Lejeune's diamond but was moved to Rocky Mount because of bad weather. The weather there proved to be just as bad.

Under rainy skies Lejeune picked up a run in the first frame. Ken Ranier walked and slipped and slid his way to third base on Farrell Mitchell's single. When Robin Catcher Hugh Laughridge let a pitched ball get by him Ranier scampered home.

Lejeune's ace righthander, Chuck Chronopoulos, put Rocky Mount down in order in the first inning, but in the second, two hits, one walk and two errors sent five Rocky Mount players through the ankle-deep mud around home plate to score.

The Marines scored again in the third when the Robin's Lewis Spencer had a siege of wildness and walked four men to force in a run.

By the fifth the rain was coming down in torrents but Rocky Mount put together two hits and an error for two more runs.

In the ninth, with one man down, it looked as though Lejeune might have a rally started when Rodriguez, McKernan and Ranier hit back to back, but Rocky Mount put down the uprising, allowing only one run.

Spencer gave up seven hits while Lejeune's Chronopoulos yielded eight. Chronopoulos raised his season's strikeout total to 23, and shouldered the defeat.

Everyone has heard of flying squirrels, but did you know that they are plentiful here at Lejeune? Not native to the state, you say? Ahh, but they are. They are seldom seen, however, for the daylight hours are spent in a hole in a tree. At dusk some evening you might see one make a long, soaring glide from one tree to another. They are brown, furry little chaps that seldom get over eight or nine inches long. The flat, bushy tail-rudder adds another four inches. A leap into space and then a 30-yard glide is accomplished by spreading all four feet. The skin between the fore and hind legs is loose and capable of being stretched out to form a parachute. The glide is downward with little change in direction, and a final graceful up-swing just before alighting. Seeing these little parachuters in operation is a sight to remember!

Question: Can fish smell? Answer: Yes, they can smell and taste. A catfish, for instance, smells food from a distance but will not eat it until one of its whisker-like taste buds comes in contact with it.

Did you get a good look at that cat that didn't make it across the road? It may not have been a cat. One of the local inhabitants of the forest is the size of a cat with thick, whitish gray fur, a pointed nose and a rat tail. Fit that description? If so, it was Bre'r Possum, nature's moron, and America's only member of the marsupial family. The female opossum like Australia's kangaroo has a pouch on its lower abdomen in which the young are nursed for five or six weeks. A litter of 18 weigh less at birth than a half-dollar. Hand over hand through the mother's fur these little fellows, the size of a honey bee, make their way to chow. The first 13 that affix themselves to a feeding station usually survive, but the rest perish. Some 50 days later the youngsters are fully developed and ride piggy-back while mother scampers over hill and dale looking for food. Food is anything from berries to meat, fresh or rotten.

Playing possum? This is the stupid little animal that does just that. Although this act saves its life on occasion, they are often killed without any sign of pain. Tread by a hound dog and shaken out, they lie as if dead, suffering any amount of torment without blinking an eye. Don't turn your back on his feinting spell, however, or you'll find a good possum dinner has left the premises. Possum dinner? Yes, sir! Possum baked and served with sweet potatoes is considered a delicacy.

The local "Hood" robin our deer is a-poaching trouble. It's a good bet too, that he's pretty Dan Cupid! (Watch your spelling, Mr. Linotyper.)

OUT TO SEA—A day of deep sea fishing fun is in store for these marines heading seaward in the recreation craft Corsair, maintained for Camp Lejeune personnel. Parties up to 12 may use the craft on scheduled days; an officer, warrant officer or master sergeant must be included. Based at Caspar dock, Swansboro, the craft runs during the week from 6:45 a.m. to 6 p.m. Units must provide their own food, bait and gear. Contact Camp Special Services at least two days in advance of scheduled time (Camp Memo 71-54) for information and to register (Official USMC Photo).

Skeet Team Blasts Way To Victory

Camp Lejeune's Skeet team made it four straight Sunday by winning the Fifth Annual Greensboro Skeet open at Greensboro, N. C.

In addition to annexing the fourth title of the season to their record the local shooters added another name to their list of stars.

Dave Stage, son of Col. and Mrs. J. W. Stage, won the Junior Championship and Class D with 93x100. Stage began his shooting activity just one year ago and climaxed the 1953 season by winning the North Carolina State Junior championship.

MSgt. Vern Mull won the individual championship of the shoot with 99x100 while Capt. Henry Stowers took the class AA honors with the same score.

In the two-man event Capt. Billie Loos teamed with Capt. Stowers to shoot a 98x100 and give Camp Lejeune a clean sweep of all the top honors in the open.

Carpenter, Cox Cop Firsts In Western Rifle, Pistol Meet

While Southeastern Division marksmen ready themselves for the firing at Lejeune at the end of this month, results are already in from Western Division matches held at Camp Matthews, San Diego, Calif., last week.

CWO T. R. Carpenter, 3rd Division, won top honors with the rifle by scoring 571 of a possible 600. He outshot a field of 450 contenders.

SSgt. O. R. Hinstd, 3rd Division, took second place with 569.

What Does Annuity Cost Serviceman? It Depends On Which Plan He Selects

(This is the third in a series of articles explaining the benefits of the Serviceman's Annuity Plan.)

"How much will it cost me?" This is an important yardstick in most of our everyday operations so let's apply it to the Serviceman's Annuity Plan.

In general, the cost will depend on which of the three arrangements you choose and how large a payment you wish your dependents to receive each month. Option Four will raise the cost a little when added to one of the three arrangements.

The cost also will depend on your age and the age of your dependents when you retire. A physical disability retirement also will affect the rate.

Your payment into the plan will be deducted each month before you receive your retirement pay. You do not pay anything before you retire and payments stop upon death.

It is well to remember here that you will have to give up part of your retirement pay for the rest of your life if you have chosen one of the first three options and have not added Option Four—even if your dependents die, marry or otherwise become ineligible to benefit.

Your personnel or administrative office can give you the exact amount your dependent will receive and exactly how much it will cost you. Your dependents can receive a little less than one-half, one-fourth or one-eighth of your full retired pay per month.

If you retired before joining the plan, you cannot change the arrangements you make and can drop out of the plan only under the terms of Option Four.

If you are going to retire in the next five years, you cannot change the arrangements and you can drop out of the plan after you retire only under the terms of Option Four.

You can change the arrangement.

ments or drop out at any time while you are in the Service or a reserve component as long as you have at least five years remaining before retirement. No changes will be effective until five years after you make them and they will be made only before you retire. You can never rejoin the plan once you drop out.

To get the best use out of the plan, get advice from someone who can help you with your individual case. If you are on active duty, consult your unit personnel, legal assistance or administrative officers.

If you are retired, inquire at your old reserve unit, at the nearest military installation, or write directly to The Adjutant General or the Chief Bureau of Naval Personnel (AFPS).
