What Was Your Childhood Ambition?

CPL. ANTHONY GALLO, HQ. CO. H & S BN., MB.—My ambition as a child was to be a photographer. I began my lessons at the age of 12, building my own lab and darkroom. Then I went to a photography school for three years. I was working as a commercial color photographer when I entered the Corps and now work at the Field Medical Research Laboratory as a photographer.

SGT. CHARLES WILLIAMSON, H&S CO., 2D BN., 6TH MARINES. Believe it or not, my childhood ambition was to be a Marine. My uncle first gave me the bug by telling me sea stories about his experiences in France during World War I—John Wayne's portrayal of a good Marine and other Gung Ho films added to the urge. I'm not sorry. I've been to Labrador, Vieques, and twice to the Mediterranean.

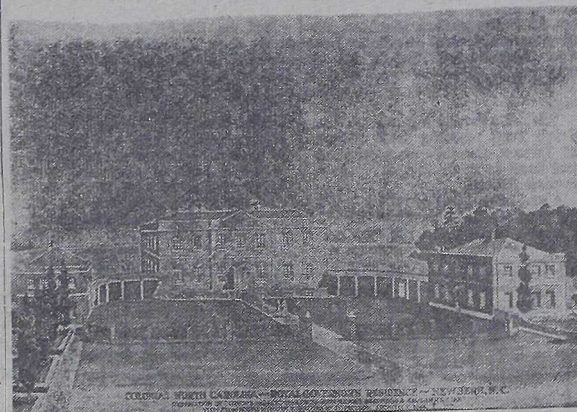

CPL. HAROLD SWAFFER, I CO., 6TH MARINES.—I've always had an ambition to be a good baseball player. Babe Ruth was my boyhood idol, and I still think he was the greatest player of all. Not much luck so far. Every time the ball season comes around I'm off some place. Twice to the "Med," plus Vieques, and right now on my way to the West Coast and Korea.

MSGT. GEORGE BRACK, MT SECT., MCSD.—My childhood ambition was to get married. This may sound silly but my ambition was spurred by the look of utter contentment on the faces of newly married couples. I figured there must be something to it if it made people feel and act so silly, especially during courting time. You guessed it—I'm still single.

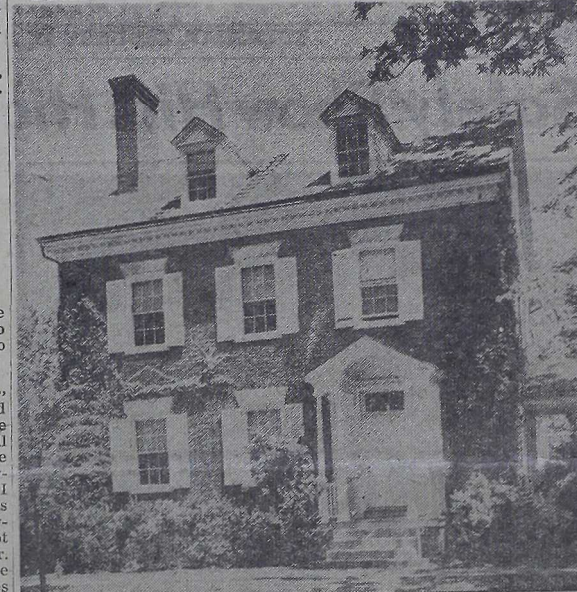

J. ROY KELLY, CIVILIAN SUPERVISOR, MCSD.—To have a family, the necessities of life, and a reasonable amount of security. Life can be very uncertain at times and, at the best, a constant struggle for survival. I have the family, a good position, reasonable security in a retirement pension, and own sufficient property, a car, and a boat, to make life pleasant and interesting.

CPL. ROSS L. WELLS, MT SECT. MCSD.—I've always wanted to be a success. My conception of the world is home, wife and children, and security. Being married and in the Corps is the first step toward that goal. The experience I gain here as a diesel mechanic will stand me in good stead anywhere. If I do so desire, I can assure myself of security by being a 20-year man.

New Bern's Famous Sites Being Rebuilt

TRYON'S PALACE figured prominently in the turbulent years leading up to the American Revolution. The structure will be restored at its original site in New Bern, N. C., and will house many valuable relics of early and late colonial days (North Carolina News Bureau Photo).

GEORGIAN ARCHITECTURE was the keynote of the late colonial days and the Smallwood-Ward house on Front Street in New Bern, N. C., is one of the best-preserved examples of this form of design in America (North Carolina News Bureau Photo).

Greed And War Give North Carolina Second Oldest Town A Stormy Past

By CPL. S. C. SOMMER

"Revolutions are not about trifles, but they are induced by trifles."—Aristotle.

Sixteen thousand pounds sterling isn't a trifle in but compared to the vast cost in blood and gold of the American Revolution, it's an infinitesimal figure.

Yet it amounts like this in taxes squeezed from the British-subject colonists during the late colonial era in aggregate which made certain men decide that "the course of human events" in America had become unbearable under the Crown.

Governor William Tryon of the Royal Crown Province of Carolina levied taxes, suppressed assemblies, squeezed every ounce of reserve energy and wealth from the people under him. Even that was not enough to break the spirit of the settlers, and it was not until he proposed to spend 16,000 pounds for the lavish Tryon Palace in New Bern, that they rose in armed protest.

Leading Attack

Tryon rode out to Hillsboro, where the heart of the insurrection was located, and personally led the attack which wiped out the opposition of the Orange Regulars. Then he returned to New Bern to build the fabulous palace.

Coincidentally, and symbolically, the edifice was razed by fire in 1798, the accepted date of the French Revolution. Only one wing was left and that has, until recently, been used as a rooming house by its owners.

The Department of Conservation and Development of North Carolina, through generous grants by private capital and State funds, is now in the process of rebuilding this historically important home of royalty in America.

Palace Particulars

Tryon Palace was started in 1767 and completed in 1770. It consisted of a two-story main building, with a wing on either side. Connecting the three structures were elaborate colonnaded "breezeways." One wing housed servants, while the other was used as a granary and hayloft.

The furnishings were elegant and elaborate gardens surrounded the house and the huge lawn, which sloped toward the Trent River.

Restoration will take a long time. Houses will have to be moved or destroyed, streets will have to be relocated, and some land remains to be bought.

Donations To State

The state has already received gifts of furnishings of the period to be placed inside the completed palace. These range from $800 chandeliers to kitchen utensils and serving dishes, some of which were saved from the original palace when it burned.

New Bern is the second oldest town in North Carolina and always has been historically prominent in the state. Here was the site of the colonial government at the time of the Revolution.

Cannon, still standing on the edge of Trent River with shadows of a new and a bridge, are mute testimony of the royal government the drums sounded in 1775. ever, they were never fired. Americans and were removed from the front of the government by a "New Bern of tee of Safety" in 1775.

History - Filled

Thirty or more historical are marked off on the town many of them being well-kept houses of fine Georgian texture.

Some of them are said to have been occupied by the star rate, Edwin Teach, who operated under the name "Blackbeard" name is said to have been with another famous governor of North Carolina. Edson also located in New Bern is said to have given the operating permits in return definite percentage of taken marauding trips along the coast.

Places Of Worship

Old churches in New Bern include the famous Christ Episcopal Church which still has a Bible, a Common Prayer Book, a silver communion service it by George II of England. Another structure, the Smallwood-Ward house on Front Street has been called one of the examples of Georgian architecture in the United States.

But the main interest of New Bern lies in the fact that for a short period of time the focal point of the whole of events which led to the American Revolution.

Ironically, an inscription on the door of Tryon's Palace reads: "A free and happy people, to cruel tyrants, has given no place to virtue. May the honest inmates, as an example to others, here cultivate order, justice, and the law."

men of the division's headquarters Bn. received decorations last week in formal ceremonies attended by Maj. Gen. McC. Pate, commanding general, 2nd Division.

Awards were: a Silver Star to Sgt. Vernon E. Firnstahl; an Air Medal to SSgt. E. Ponsolle; and a Letter of Commendation with ribbon and combat "V" to TSgt. H. Sadler.

Sgt. Firnstahl was awarded the Star Medal for conspicuous gallantry in action against the enemy in Korea. While acting as a rifleman, according to the report, he exhibited remarkable initiative and skill in his platoon was engaged in a strongly defended hill position.

Cut Off

When his squad leader was cut off from the squad, Firnstahl ran on from a half of enemy fire from a man, directing fire so effectively that the squad was able to gain fire superiority and move to a more advantageous position.

Sgt. Ponsolle received an Air Medal for meritorious acts in participating in aerial operations over enemy territory. As a member of a helicopter patrol in Korea, Ponsolle participated in 20 reconnaissance flights in slow, unarmored aircraft at extremely low altitudes over areas where enemy aircraft fire was received or expected.

These pins are given in recognition of 100 hours of voluntary Relief Work (Official USMC Photo).

See Marine Corps Using Draft Again

A draft call of 50,000 men for the Marine Corps has been predicted by the "Navy Times" Washington service publication.

"The Marine Corps," says the "Times," "long proud of its 'all-volunteer' tradition, apparently isn't going to make the grade with recruiting and re-enlistments alone. They've already taken 80,000 draftees, and it looks as if they will need some 50,000 more over an eight-month period starting in July."

The Army will get the other 550,000 men to be called this year, while the Navy and Air Force are expected to continue on volunteers alone.

Tighten Up

Draft officials are attempting to tighten up qualifications for service exemptions since their figures show only 680,000 men will be available for new enlistments or induction this year. All of the 13,093,000 others registered with Selective Service are either in service, exempt, or deferred.

Selective Service chiefs propose a four-way plan of attack on leaks in the military manpower pool: cut the number of deferments; lower physical requirements; recheck men rejected when physical and mental standards were higher; and fix the present law so they can change the categories of many men now exempt or deferred.

Under the present law, many men with college deferments have become fathers; and thus are free of any draft obligations.

Tax Refunds Due Those Hospitalized By Korea Injuries

Servicemen and veterans who have been hospitalized for Korean combat injuries, are eligible for federal tax refunds if withholding taxes have been deducted from their service pay.

The Revenue Code frees from Federal tax all of an enlisted man's basic pay while he is in a combat zone or hospitalized because of injuries or diseases. Warrant officers have the same exemptions while commissioned officers are exempt only in the first $200 of any month's pay.

These exemptions apply to combat patients regardless of whether they receive hospitalization in the United States or in the combat zone.

In order to recover money withheld, a claimant must apply directly to the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue where he regularly files his annual federal income tax returns.

Claimants should produce documentary evidence from the service confirming the date of hospitalization in order to verify the refund. The earlier a claimant files, the sooner he will get his money.

Award Navy Relief Volunteer Workers Pins For Services

Five Navy Relief volunteer workers received 100-hour pins for services at a meeting of the Auxiliary last week. These women are a part of a committee of 34, which has dedicated much of its time to social work for Camp Lejeune personnel, having given more than 5000 hours during the past year.

A report submitted by the chairman of the volunteer women, Mrs. C. B. Galloway, outlined the service exhibited by the committee and submitted the names of Mrs. Albert Halliwell, Mrs. M. C. Hereford, Mrs. Walter Daggett, and Mrs. Marian Yates as recipients of the award.

Maj. Gen. Henry D. Linscott, president of the Navy Relief Auxiliary, made the presentations, while Chaplain Abbot Peterson Jr., vice-president, congratulated the women and thanked them for their service.

Java To Lejeune—Surabaya Scout Asks Favor Of Corps

"Be prepared," the national slogan of the Boy Scouts, probably was in Theo Stucken's mind when he wrote a letter to an organization whose motto is "Always Faithful."

Theo Stucken was faced by a problem. So he called on the Marine Corps.

But he had trouble finding where Camp Lejeune was located. So he wrote to the "State Information Division, Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh, N. C."

The Department of "Conversation" forwarded Theo Stucken's letter here. It reads:

Theo's Request

"Dear Sir, I am a boy scout of the St. Bernardus group in Surabaya. I am now leader of a patrol of that group and I would ask you if it is possible, if you can send four straps of this model (web belts) and one axe. We have need them so much when we are on camp on a hike etc. Especially the straps (web belts) are needed to hang the canteens on it."

"About the canteens my patrol possesses two of them. We can't get these goods here what we want. The goods that are made here are two week and go quickly to pieces. The military equipments are the best of all. We have also some of them, as a shovel and a compass, the last is used by the whole group consisting of five patrols."

"These equipments we got from the Netherlands Marine Corps placed in Surabaya. They are also trained in Camp Lejeune U.S.A."

Why The Letter

"And so I thought: Let I ask these equipments to the training base of them and I write this letter. I hope you will not be angry with my indiscreet question."

"When you will send other equipments, we shall jump at an offer."

"Yours respectfully, Theo Stucken, Dji Raja Perak 263, Surabaya, (Java), Indonesia."

Theo Stucken's wants are few and his country far away. However, he showed enough initiative to contact the Marine Corps and the GLOBE hopes his initiative will not go unrewarded. Anyone who wishes to send Theo Stucken and his patrol "equipments" are requested to contact the GLOBE, phone 5522.

Perhaps Marines here can prove that "Always Faithful" is more than a motto.

New Landing Craft Now Developed

The Navy has developed a new, unsinkable, glass-and-plastic, 36-foot landing craft at the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard and has announced that it is about ready to go into limited production.

Produced in one piece without seams, the LCVP won't rot, dry, corrode, split, or splinter, and needs little maintenance and no paint.

The plastic boat is powered by a single engine, mounted on a heavy bed secured to the ribs. It is built from the inside out. The bottom mold is covered with one thickness of glass cloth. Then, three layers of glass matting and another layer of glass cloth are molded to form the inner hull.

Another series of glass cloth layers and glass matting form the outer hull. The upper part of the mold then is sealed in place and the injection of resin begins.

High scorer for the Jackson outfit in that tussle was forward Bill Sandstrom, who bucketed 22 points. Other standouts for Jackson include Bill Hoeland of Seton Hall and Jack Gradman of the University of North Carolina.

The other games on tap for the local quint this week are on the road.

On Saturday they will be at Langley AFB in Virginia, while Tuesday they tackle strong Fort Lee there. The next day the Lejeune Marines tangle with Fort Eustis in the series' headliner.

Like the Jackson game, the Eustis fracas will be a return match with the locals seeking revenge for an early-season loss to the Army quint.

John Hennessy, Al Haddad, Don Cramer, Larry Thompson, John Spanbauer started and led the contest without the Flyers, and four of them the double figures.

Cramer was high for the night with 29, followed by Smith, who dumped 25.

The Flyers ran away with the game at the opening whistle, although they rallied several times in the fracas, the local overcame the 37 to 22 lead owned by the Pointers.

Slow Start It took Lejeune well over minutes to score in the first while Cherry Point racked up markers. Finally Smith started with his deadly jump shot, but Lejeune scoring remained all through the next periods.

The local Leathernecks, who came within six minutes to score in the third quarter, Cherry Point was being led by an eight-mark lead in the fourth. But the Flyers, time out, took stock of the situation, and came out firing.

They rolled up three quick pointers to put the game away. Lejeune's reach, spiking a line, engineered by Smith and Diggs.

One of the highlights of the contest was clean play. On personal calls were called in Lejeune hit a 92 percent mark the line, while the Flyers scored 75 percent of their opportunities.

The loss leaves Lejeune with an 8-10 record, while Cherry Point now has 15 wins against 4 losses.

Ramage Named P.I. Baseball Manager

Parris Island started its baseball plans recently by naming Art Ramage as temporary manager. Ramage, who is due for release in June, will start screening prospects and formulating a schedule. P.I. has only one returning player, Bob Shutt, a righthander who had a 1-1 record last season. The "Boys" won 50 and lost 12, and were runners-up for the Marine championship in 1952.

Women Golfers Complete Tour

The Lejeune women golfed a Crier or Throw-out tournament here during the past weeks. The winners of the playing the outgoing line were: Class "A," Mrs. R. B. Murphy, 40; Class "B," Mrs. A. M. Ringmen Cop Two Boxers Lace Ft. Jackson 3-2 Saturday

Heavyweight Bud House unleashed a tremendous left hook to the body in the second round, knocking out Dave Sutton and giving Lejeune its third win in five bouts over the Fort Jackson Golden Arrows here Saturday.

The 3-2 win won't go in the record books for Lejeune as Fort Jackson entered men in only two weight classes. Bouts must take place in eight or ten weight classes before the fights can be considered regulation team matches.

House started off by downing Sutton with the first punch of the fight for an eight-count but Sutton got up and weathered the round. In the second frame House stopped rushing, forced Sutton to head, and countered with the left that ended the fight in 1:15.

Gene "Spider" Spady registered his second knockout in two days, belting out Jim Gossett in 1:40 of the second with a right cross to give Lejeune the first bout of the evening. Spady was in command all the time, and had Gossett reeling on a number of occasions.

Tommy Jackson gave the Golden Arrows their first win, jabbing his way through two rounds and staggering Don Davis in the third for the win. Davis fought back gamely but couldn't cope with the heavier punching Jackson.

Fort Jackson made it two in a row when Leon McCollin outpointed Fred Newman despite a third-round rally by Lejeune's 145-pounder.

Lejeune's Art Durden squared the count by blasting George Kelly for three rounds. Durden used a hanging left hook to the body and followed with a right cross to the head but couldn't down Kelly. Whenever Durden staggered his foe, Kelly would take the offensive and come back.

Lejeune's next match will be against Mitchell AFB here, a week from tonight.

Lejeune Stages Fast Fistic Finale To Down Quantico

Camp Lejeune's ringmen came from behind here Friday night, copping the last eight bouts, five of them knockouts, to hand the Quantico boxers a 9-3 lacing.

With the contest even-up at three bouts apiece at the intermission, Lejeune started blasting, racking up three first round KO's, one decision, and two TKO's.

Julius Griffith, Lejeune's welterweight, started the punch parade by pulverizing Bill Peoples with a right cross in 1:30 of the first, after setting up the Quantico mitter with a barrage of sharp punches.

Likewise Ready Eugene Spady, following Griffith into the ring for Lejeune, kept pace, belting out Rudolph Daily, also in 1:30 of the first. Spady knocked Daily down twice, the second and final time coming via a short left hook.

Art Durden made it three in a row for Lejeune, decking Ed Terry in 2:45 of the first with a right cross.

Al Hood, Lejeune middleweight, put a short interruption in the K.O. string, outpunching Charles Little over the three-round route. Hood had Little in trouble a couple of times with left hooks to the body.

Joe "Pepper" Davis and heavyweight Ed Gustin both notched T. K. O.'s in the final two bouts. Davis raked Dick Gibbs until the ref put a stop to the bout in 2:20 of the first, and the Gustin bout was stopped when Don Frank was out on his feet in two minutes of the third.

Quantico did better in the lighter weights, winning three of the first four bouts. Don Daniels outpunched Lejeune's John Ortiz. Hal Conklin worked over El Galligan and Dick Hillard dropped TR Bradley three times to take a one-sided decision.

Arizin Leads Quantico To Hoop Victory

It was Arizin, Arizin, and more Arizin here Thursday night, as the Quantico five walloped a good Lejeune cage team, 110 to 83.

The All-American from Villanova and the Philadelphia Warriors scored 35 points for Marine Corps Schools, and took more rebounds off the boards than anyone else on the court.

Leroy Smith played his usual excellent game for the locals, tallying 27 markers, but it wasn't enough to beat the Virginia powerhouse.

Arizin had help from some of the biggest names in basketball. Jim Phelan of LaSalle tallied 14 points for the winners and was a major source of trouble for Lejeune with fine play-making.

Jim Walsh of Stanford and Frank Fuqua of Washington's (D.C.) DeMatha Catholic High School also were outstanding for the high-flying Quantico quint. Fuqua tallied 19 points, and used his six-foot, seven-inch frame to advantage under the boards.

Earl "Tiny" Fetzner, one of Lejeune's two holdovers from last year, disported himself well for the local Marines with fine rebound play and eight points.

Quantico started the fracas with a seven-point lead and was never threatened seriously. They had a 25-12 budge at the end of the first period; were ahead, 55 to 36 at the intermission time; and had their biggest lead at the end of the third quarter, 85 to 57.
