Supply School Bn Holds Exercises for 63 Students

Graduation exercises for sixty-three Supply School Marines were held last Friday in Building No. 51 in recognition of their successful completion of studies within the Supply School Battalion.

Seventeen of the graduates, members of Basic Supply Course No. 56, will be dispersed throughout the Marine Corps to handle supply matters. Another function of the Marine Corps, the messhalls, will be eased by thirty-one men who completed the Basic Cooks Course No. 76.

Motor Transport, another logistic element of the Marine Corps, will be reinforced with well trained mechanics, graduates of Course No. 11 in Diesel Mechanics and 3 engine experts graduated from the Carburetor and Ignition Course No. 11.

arrant Officer D. R. Lebsack, in Charge of the Cooks and Mess Schools division in the Supply Schools Battalion, made the following remarks in the ceremonies:

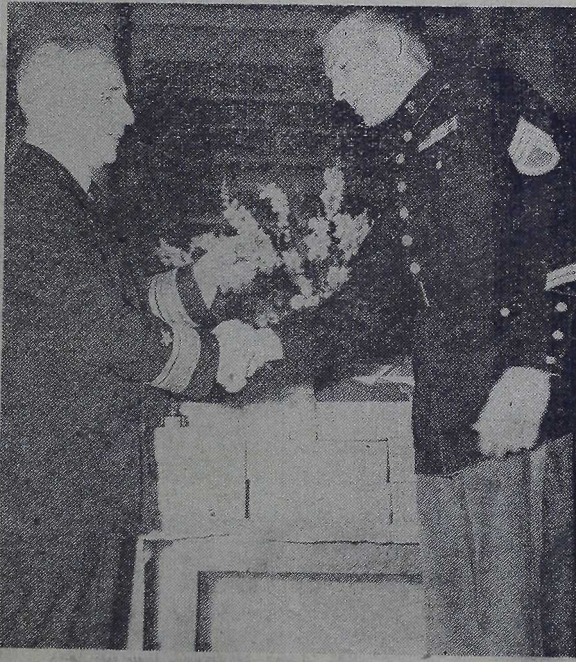

"You have been advised the men to continue their studies. 'You have been equipped with the basic fundamentals. It's up to you to continue learning. Learn your job and do it,'" concluded Mr. Lebsack.

Captain M. D. Grush, Officer in Charge of the Motor Transport on the Supply Schools Battalion, followed Mr. Lebsack on the speakers stand and said, "Always keep in mind the opportunity you will have in the future if you advance yourself and your unit."

Captain V. A. McNeill, substitute instructor in the Supply School division of the Supply Schools Battalion, contrasted the trained personnel with the who had been trained under excellent program here at Camp Lejeune. He concluded his remarks with a few congratulatory remarks to the students.

Lieutenant Colonel C. W. Shelton, Commanding Officer of Supply Schools Battalion, was the next speaker and commented on the importance of the graduation. (GRADUATION On Page 2)

Well Done

'49 Football Squad Feted For Outstanding Season

By First Lieutenant Walter T. Zamojo

Last Friday evening at the Marston Pavillion, King Football was the theme, as the great Camp Lejeune football team of 1949 was feted with a banquet for the wonderful season the team had just concluded. The occasion called for refreshments, steaks, guest speakers, awards, cigars, cigarettes, and more refreshments.

Adding to the already gay atmosphere of the pavillion, the music of the Divisionaires and vocal renditions of Carl Caudell filled the banquet room with a festive air.

Shortly after the arrival of the guests, dinner was served and more than 150 persons took seats for the steak dinners. Appropriately, Chaplain Robert S. Sassaman said the invocation and then the entree was given due justice by those present.

Following the dessert course of cake and ice cream, Col. John F. Hough, toastmaster for the evening, started the procession of outstanding speakers for this memorable affair.

First to make an appearance at the rostrum was the likeable head coach of the Camp Lejeune team, Maj. Bruno J. Andruska. To the major, it was heartwarming to be with his team again at the banquet that was honoring them for their fine and impressive season. Knowing that many of the players were going to college upon discharge from the Corps, Maj. Andruska stated, "I am grateful to see my players going on to greater fields of football."

Continuing, he added, "Speaking for the team, I extend my heartfelt thanks to Major General Hart, who through his great love of sports, has done much to place Camp Lejeune football on heights never before attained. His encouragement has done much in producing champion teams here, and my only wish is that next season our players will be imbued with the same spirit and will strive to go on to greater victories."

Second speaker for the evening was Big, husky, personable and a fighting Irishman, Corp. Joseph M. Ward, tackle on the 1949 team and spokesman for the entire football team. Big Joe truly was happy to be doubly honored this night and also extended the team's utmost appreciation for the support given by Major General Hart and his staff in making the 1949 season so successful.

Big Joe capped his brief talk by stating that "although we played Quantico twice, we sure gave them—!"

Colonel Hough next introduced Major General Hart. The general spoke for only a short time, and in speaking congratulated the squad for the excellent job they had done in such a short period of training. "Next year," he stated, "we are going to beat Quantico every time."

The introduction of the next speaker was done by General Hart himself. As a friend of 37 years,

CG Birthday Message To Director MGI

"I extend my hearty congratulations on the occasion of the Thirtieth Anniversary of the Marine Corps Institute.

For the last three decades the Marine Corps Institute has contributed in a large way to the educational and professional development of our Marines. Many men of the Corps have had the opportunity to complete high school, study courses in college and vocational fields, and prepare for entrance examinations to the service academies.

The educational development and professional proficiency which the Institute has endowed our Marines has certainly contributed in a large measure to the efficiency of all in Peace and in War.

Please extend my sincere congratulations to your staff for the splendid work they are performing. We Marines hope for another thirty years of continued success in the service educational field."

MC Announces Zones For 1950 Promotions

The U. S. Marine Corps will convene a selection board for promotion of officers to fill vacancies in the grades of colonel and lieutenant colonel in early February.

Also, a selection board to recommend captains and first lieutenants for promotion to the next higher grades will be convened on or about March 2.

Officers to be eligible for consideration by these boards are those lieutenant colonels who will have completed five years of service in grade as of June 30, 1950; majors and captains who will have completed four years of service in grade, and first lieutenants with two years of service on June 30.

The number of officers to be selected within each promotion zone will be determined when the boards convene; however, present indications are that Lieutenant Colonel Roy L. Kline (05211) will be the last in his respective zone for promotion to colonel, and Major William H. Junghans, Jr., (07415) will be last in the zone for selection to lieutenant colonel.

Captain Joseph H. Lewis (09103) and First Lieutenant Joseph Northrup (032164) will be the last in their respective zones for selection to the next higher grade.

Quarterly Reception

The quarterly reception will be held Tuesday, February 7, from 1700 to 1900 at the Commissioned Officers Mess, closed, Paradise Point. This reception will be held in honor of the visiting reserve unit commanders and inspector-instructors who will be at Camp Lejeune during the week of 6 to 11 February, and to welcome newly arrived officers. The uniform for the occasion will be "Undress Blue" for Marine Officers and "Service Blue D" for Naval Officers. Officers not required to have blues and or visiting officers may wear the uniform of the day with coat.

Colonel G. F. Good, Jr., Div. Chief Staff Selected For Promotion

Colonel George F. Good, Jr., of Staff, Second Marine Division, was one of five Marine Corps officers whose selection for promotion to Brigadier General was announced by President Truman on 24, according to a recent Department of Defense announcement.

Selection for general officer status climaxes a brilliant career which began in 1923 when Col. Good was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduating from the Naval Academy. In the ensuing 26 years, the colonel's service included operations against the Japanese in the Pacific, the Saipan and Okinawa campaigns in World War II, and occupation duty in continental Japan.

Colonel G. F. Good, Jr.

Awards were made by a board headed by Major General Keller E. Rockey, Commanding General of the Department of the Pacific. Actual promotions will be made when vacancies occur, the Department of Defense announced.

Other officers selected for Brigadier General were Col. John Crawford, Col. Raymond Paul Coffey, Col. James Austin Stuart, and Merrill Barber Twining. Selections were made by a board headed by Major General Keller E. Rockey, Commanding General of the Department of the Pacific. Actual promotions will be made when vacancies occur, the Department of Defense announced.

Davidson College Biologist Speaker At Camp Hospital

Dr. William O. Puckett of the Department of Biology of Davidson College, addressed members of the Camp Lejeune Medical Society in the auditorium of the United States Naval Hospital last week, on "Wound Ballistics." The lecture was illustrated with slides and moving pictures.

The audience was shown the slides immediately after the lecture, and were briefed on each scene by the Doctor. Dr. Puckett, a member of the Princeton group, who did such outstanding work on this subject, explained the procedures of filming this interesting and astonishing research using the medium of high speed cameras.

All of the pictures shown were made by the group at the Princeton laboratory, where the intensive work was conducted.

a person he had known when he was a junior officer in the Marines Corps; as the next speaker of the evening, General Hart was happy to present with the greatest of pleasures, a man who has been associated with Marines all his life, a man who had a son in the officer ranks of the Corps and also a son-in-law in the Marine Corps; this man was Dr. Harry C. Byrd, LL.D., President of the University of Maryland.

The grey and curly haired Dr. Byrd spoke of his close associations with the Marines for many, many years, and how "the Marine Corps gets things done." He praised the sportsmanship of Marines.

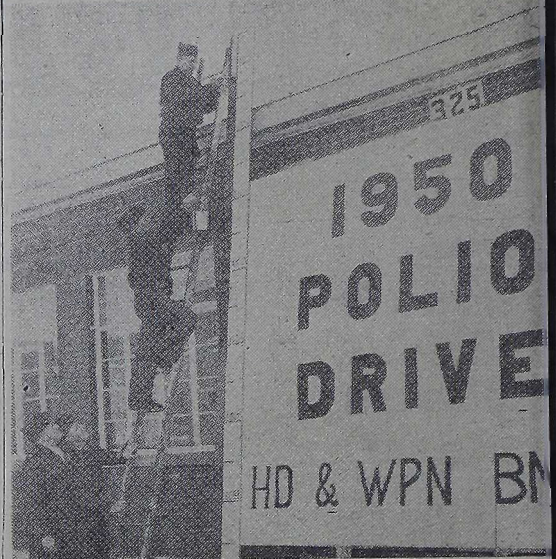

Continuing, the Doctor stated, "The object of football is not so much to turn out winning teams but to contribute something to the building of greater men."

Reminiscing on "what is football," Dr. Byrd maintained, "The sport typifies American manhood by exemplifying those qualities necessary for a successful life. No other sport teaches the willingness to endure, to sacrifice, and to build courage in growing manhood better than King Football."

In his wonderful address, the university president recalled the days when he was coach at the University of Maryland and he had some young, healthy boys on the team that in later years were leading men in the battles of the South Pacific.

"These men," he said, "were taught to fight and to keep fighting—no matter what the odds.

uates job to the Marine Corps. Colonel Shelburne concluded by saying, "The Marine Corps needs well trained men in all fields and you men have been supplied with the basic knowledge with which to work to achieve this attainment."

Colonel W. W. Davidson, Camp Disbursing Officer and principal speaker at the ceremonies, offered his congratulations to the men and said, "You have had the opportunity to lay the keel for a future career in your chosen field. Today is the launching period. The future lies in yourself. Without special skills, the Marine Corps wouldn't be able to function." He concluded his speech by warning the men of the great need of trained personnel during wartime and the potent possibility of being called upon to lead other Marines in the march to victory.

Lejeune Marine Sergeant Discovers

It's the morning of Nov. 24, 1949, Thanksgiving Day, and in every mess hall at Camp Lejeune, cooks are carving turkeys and hams. The hymns of thanksgiving have been sung in the chapels, and all over America the

The man who succeeds is the man who has the courage to get up and go on."

Throughout the speech, Dr. Byrd had the listeners spellbound. Should anyone have diverted their attention, they could have heard a pin drop in the huge banquet room. The Doctor's talk was truly a stirring one and had the rugged Marines enthralled.

Other guest that addressed the gathering were Rear Admiral Robert W. Hayler, Commandant of the 6th Naval District; Lieutenant General LeRoy P. Hunt, Commanding General of the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic; Major General Lewis B. Hershey, USA, Director of Selective Service; Brigadier General E. A. Pollock, Director, Division of Plans and Policies, HQMC; and Mr. Earl Smith, football coach at Campbell Junior College.

General Hunt made the following remarks: "I do not know of a better avenue of approach to the good will of the people of America than through sports. Through clean athletics we can gain more respect of the American people."

Following the talk, he presented the jackets and sweaters to the members of the team.

Prior to presenting the Miniature footballs to our team, Rear Admiral Hayler extended his sincerest compliments and best wishes to all the team and hoped they would advance further in the playoffs next year.

In his talk to the guests, General Hershey congratulated the team, not for what they won but for the way they fought. He quipped that "undoubtedly he was the only man present that had a son on this great team." General Hershey is the father of Lt. Gilbert Hershey, fullback on the team.

The All-Marine award was then presented to Dick Stein by General Hershey.

This wound up the formal end of the evening, and as the tables were cleared, the teammates and guest discussed many happenings of the past season and what the future held for those contemplating college life.

Enfilade, dam of a C. V. Whitney two-year-old named The Veep in honor of Vice President Alben Barkley, was the winner of the Rosedale Stakes at Jamaica in 1945.

football stadiums will soon be to fill with happy, carefree people.

You think about things like and what the day means to people, but mostly you think of your 6-year-old daughter, Emily, and the doctors who are examining her, here at the Family Hospital.

Because there's nothing you do but wait, you pace back and forth and remember how it felt four days ago. It was a little then; just a cold your wife mentioned when Emily came home from school.

Your wife mentioned it casual along with the rest of the happenings, when the family dined for the evening meal. It would have to stay at home tomorrow, perhaps, and she hoped Francis, your son, wouldn't catch Emily's cold. Francis is just an over a year old, and colds are common on babies.

Emily didn't go to school the next day, or the next, and the day after that she was in the first grade at the Jacksonville school had seen her. She ran a temperature but it came down when you gave her aspirin so you didn't worry much. You noticed that she had trouble moving her right leg.

You began to feel a vague easiness; tomorrow, you would take her to the doctor.

So here you are at the Family Hospital on Thanksgiving Day, waiting for the doctors to tell you why Emily lies listlessly in her bed day after day and cannot move her right leg.

And the mess hall tables are beginning to load up with turkey, berry sauce, celery, and succulent mincemeat pies, and in a few more hours, the band will be thundering down the field to open the football game between Parris Island's team.

Until the doctor finally comes to tell you, there is still a faint hope that nothing really serious is wrong with Emily. But the doctor hesitates a moment, and something about the expression in his eyes and the set of his mouth snaps that hope away. Then, that something is wrong.

"I'm sorry, Sergeant; it's polio. What do you do when someone like that hits you? And what do you think and feel?"

"I wish I could find the cure." (See FRIEND On Page 1)

You Be The Judge Are You Next?

The current March of Dimes Drive is lagging far behind last year's drive, to date only $10,005.62 has been solicited. Many units haven't submitted their latest totals, however. As you know, we are trying to exceed last year's goal. The campaign has been extended to February 8 in order to permit more to participate.

All appeals printed so far in the Globe editorials have solicited your contributions by printing examples of how polio victims have been aided by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Now we are going to ask you to judge the case solely on its merits.

Like any judge you want you to study all the facts in the case. Review the articles you have read concerning this dread disease. These stories won't be hard to find after last year's epidemic which was the worst in our nation's history. Canada has already suffered its first major polio epidemic in 1950. There is no assurance that we won't have a repeat of the '49 catastrophe.

As you study the case, try to picture the thoughts that go on in a youngster's mind as he lays there in agony, suffering from a disease he knows nothing about, quarantined from his family... And get all the facts as to where the money is spent. (One iron lung costs more than $1500.)

If you would still like more evidence, talk to Master Sergeant Shawler or Mr. Gurney Bryant at the Navy Hospital. They can tell you of how the Polio Foundation came to the aid of their children.

When you have all the facts before you, give the "case" proper consideration. If you decide the Polio Fund is not a worthy charity, don't give. But if your decision is that those suffering children, and adult victims alike, need your help... Then give and give generously. If you have already donated and find yourself in a position to give more, then by all means do so.

A dime isn't very much. Neither is a dollar. But to the polio victim, it's a lot. You see, his hopes of getting well rest with your decision.

March Of Dimes

In order to afford all personnel an opportunity to contribute to the annual March of Dimes Campaign, contributions will continue to be received until 8 February, 1958. Give today to this worth while cause.

Recently, four Camp Lejeune marines were killed when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a bridge ten miles south of Charlotte, N. C.

Last year, automobile accidents cost the lives of 11 marines. The untimely deaths of so many young men is appalling in itself. Add to this the misery, and grief suffered by the parents, families, and friends of the victims. There is some comfort for the parents of marines lost in battle in that they know their sons died for a great cause. But what comfort is there for the parents whose son met death needlessly?

The Commanding General recently initiated an intensive safety campaign. Regardless of these efforts, automobile accidents and resultant deaths continue. In fact, our 1950 record is far ahead of 1949. This in itself indicates that our average Joe Marine pays little heed to our preaching. It narrows down to the point that you, each of you, whether you operate a vehicle or are a passenger, must stop and give the matter some consideration. Is it worth risking your life and the lives of others just so you can snow your buddies with your tales of speed exploits? They never believe such stories and it is cowardly to risk the lives of others in these foolish adventures. Wise up, snap out of it, and drive carefully — you may save a life and it may be yours.

The next time you pass in or out of the Main Gate, stop your car and take a good look at the daily accident sign marker. It is posted there to remind you of the highway hazards. January's total alone has passed the 45 Mark. This large number of accidents is alarming. Your help is needed in alleviating the situation. DRIVE CAREFULLY. IF YOU DON'T, YOU MAY BE NEXT.

In considering the great works of the ages, many of us inevitably recall the story concerning the famous writer who, when on his death bed, said, "Bring me the book!" His friends, looking at each other inquiringly, at last asked, "Which book, you have written many?" His memorable reply was, "There is but one book!"

He was speaking, of course, of the book that has survived the ages; the Bible. Today in an era of best sellers containing fact and fiction, historical and prophetic, great works and near-great, the Bible continues to sell more copies yearly than any other book and remains the most widely read and quoted.

The outstanding figure in this greatest of all books was the greatest of all teachers. Christ was a master of the parable and used these short narratives often to point out a moral and spiritual truth when teaching. In such a way, He encouraged His listeners to think for themselves and yet led them to logical conclusions.

It is far from difficult for us to occasionally become absorbed in minor problems that seem to require such a major part of our time that we overlook the greater goals to be obtained in life. Not the least of these is the pursuit of knowledge. Christ knew of the evils of ignorance and one of His messages to mankind was "Seek ye knowledge."

The process of self-improvement should be a continuous one. The personal satisfaction gained in adding to our storehouse of knowledge is in itself reward enough for the time and effort involved. Many Marines find themselves with considerable spare time and they owe it to themselves to utilize it for their own benefit.

The Marines' own school, the Marine Corps Institute has a wide variety of subjects that will be interesting and helpful to every man. The courses are offered without charge and are designed in such a manner as to allow the individual to progress as rapidly as his time and ability allow. Take the advice of the wisest of all men, "Seek ye knowledge." Submitted by Lt. Robert A. Bonner, (ChC) USN.

MCI Celebrates Thirty Years Of Successful Operation Today

The United States Marine Corps Institute, the oldest school of its kind in the armed forces, today celebrates its 30th successful year of operation. During these years, nearly 275,000 Marines have availed themselves of the opportunities to further their education.

The broad objectives of Marine Corps Institute courses, namely, completion of high school education, earning college credit, attaining greater proficiency in military duties and others equally as advantageous, should be a proud effort of every Marine.

One fourth of the Marine Corps is now enrolled in the Corps' school, and a 100% average is all-out-drive of the Institute. Marines are encouraged to take full advantage of the educational facilities offered by the new Marine Corps Institute.

Working in conjunction with the MCI, is your Camp Education Office, which offers among other facilities, high school and college level General Educational Development Tests through its Testing Center. These tests are designed to measure the extent of which all of the educational experience of the serviceman, particularly his informal or self-education experiences, have contributed to his ability to "earn" in a program of general educational development. His school diplomas and college credit may be obtained through the medium of these tests according to the educational standards of the state in which you live.

The Camp Education Office, which is currently testing about 50 men per day, has on hand selected United States Army Forces Institute courses, and stock of college and university catalogues, which are available for inspection by interested personnel.

The Camp Personal Affairs Office, which is combined with the Education Office, is another section of Camp Special Services. This section is well staffed with competent personnel who are well versed in such subjects as GI Service Life Insurance, the GI and other non-military subjects, a personal nature. This office disseminates information on stonobuses, Prisoner Of War Claims and other forms of a similar nature.

Each organization in the command has an Education Officer and a Personal Affairs Officer who after being counseled by the Camp Education and Personal Affairs Officer, is able to render competent service to members. His organization and their dependents, on all matters pertaining to education or personal affairs. If the matter cannot be solved by the organizational officer, it is then taken up with the Camp Office.

Staff NCO Club Activities

Friday night the 3rd of February is to be a gala evening. The House Committee has arranged some entertainment in addition to our normal dance. Billy Arthur, well known to all Marines at Camp Lejeune, and owner and publisher of the Jacksonville News and Views, will act as master of ceremonies. Mr. Arthur is well known for his talent as a comedian and vocalist. He will be supported by Jim Tanner. If you have never seen these two performers you sure have missed something.

There will be a six girl chorus, a juggler, and a singing trio. The Divisionaires will supply the music for Billy Arthur and his show. They will also play for your dancing feet.

Come early so you can get a good table.

Saturday and Sundays is your chance to practice your bowling. I know yours truly can stand some practice.

Monday night is Bingo night. I don't have to tell you to come to that as we usually pack the Mirror Room. Remember, no more players will be allowed in the Mirror Room on Bingo nights after 2115.

Tuesday and Thursday evenings are League nights for men. If you don't bowl, come and watch some keen competition.

Wednesday evenings are for Ladies League bowling. The gallery is usually filled that night.

I don't have any personalities to put in this column because I looked into the box and it is empty. Be seeing you next week.

SPORTS HI-LITES

By PFC. HORACE MYERS

WONDERFUL HOSTS

The friendly citizens of Kingston, N. Y., opened their hearts and their city to the Lejeune Boxing team last week during the matches between Lejeune and the A.A.U. All-Star team. The slightest wish of a Lejeune boxer was taken as a responsibility by this town of 24,000 people. Due to transportation delays the Lejeune team was late in arriving, but the welcoming committee were still on hand to greet them. Two representatives of the Marine Corps League of Kingston were among the first to welcome the team to town.

The Sands of Iwo Jima was playing at the local theatre and the team was rushed down town for a picture of them in front of the theatre. They were also invited to be the guests of the theatre staff for the day.

The good citizens of Kingston took a personal interest in making our Marines feel right at home.

A crowd of 2,000 cheering fans packed the sports arena to watch the bouts on Thursday night. In the opening matches the fans cheered lustily for the native sons, but soon after that they switched their backing and were giving the Marines a rousing hand. Many remarks were heard about it "being the best bouts this town has seen in many a year."

Open house was held after the fights, by the B'NAI B'RITH sponsors of the match, at their local lodge in honor of the Lejeune team and the Lejeune fighters were given a "well done" for their fine performance.

We thank the fine citizens of Kingston, New York, for their outstanding hospitality. It will long linger in the minds of our boxing team.

QUANTICO SUFFERS DEFEAT.

Quantico's hard playing basketball team suffered a surprise defeat at the hands of our quintet last week. Cy Waldrop, Quantico's high scoring center, was held in check by the zone defense in the first half, but came into his own in the last half, too late to stop the hard fighting Lejeune aggregation.

ALL MARINE HONORS

Two of Lejeunes outstanding football players were chosen for the Leathernecks' All-Marine First Team. Dick Stein, Lejeunes efficient and crashing fullback, and Ernie Hargitt, brilliant playing end. Both of these players well deserved the honors. Congratulations are in order to both of them.

Local Cagers Stop Powerful Quantico In 64 To 57 Tilt

The mighty Marines of Quantico, home of many All-Navy Champion teams, bowed to a Lejeune powerhouse, 64-57, at Camp Lejeune Wednesday night for their first loss to a service team this season.

The Quantico crew was trailing Lejeune 31-22 at halftime.

The local basketballers grabbed an early lead and at 8:30 minutes of play, were ahead 11-6. They never relinquished their lead, though pressed by a deperation drive during the final 10 minutes of play.

Quantico has trampled all service opposition this year and now sports a high 27-8 average for the season. Seven of these losses were against college crews, the eighth being the loss suffered at the hands of Lejeune.

Cy Waldrop, who is one of the leading scorers in the nation with over 500 points in 32 games, was held to 20 points for the contest.

George "Mac" McNaughton, ace center of the Lejeune squad, spearheaded the local attack with 21 markers. Forward Bob Hurst added 20 points to the local team's drive.

The nimble Nobby Nofsinger, was responsible for breaking up the Quantico defense in the last quarter, stealing the ball two times in the last three minutes of play.

Hurst and McNaughton put the game on ice with 1:45 to go as the lanky center made a tip-in and Hurst added two more free throws in the final 10 seconds to end the game, 64-57.

Lejeune lost only one match out of six in Kingston, N. Y., last week and it came in the opening bout, as Bob Hornbeck of Poughkeepsie, (covering up) won by a split-decision from Lejeune Jose Jane, (set for punch), Hornbeck came back strong in the final round to win the slim decision. Cagers To Seek Win In 6th Nav District Playoffs Next Week

The Camp Lejeune basketball team will seek its second Sixth Naval District championship next week when playoffs begin at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, on Monday, Feb. 6.

According to word received at this office eight teams will participate in the tourney. Among the teams competing will be the following outstanding cage teams: Camp Lejeune, Cherry Point, Pensacola, LantResFlt, Charleston, NAS Jacksonville, NAS Green Cove Springs, NB Key West, and the host team, Parris Island.

The winner of the Sixth Naval District tourney will represent this area in the playoffs for the Eastern All-Navy Title.

The double elimination system of play will be used. Under this system, a team must lose two games before it is declared out of the running for the championship.

Boxers Score Impressive Victory Over N. Y. Squad

Fighting in the same sports arena where Ray Robinson and Lou Ambers began their boxing careers, Lejeune Varsity Boxing Team clinched their third straight victory last Thursday night, as they defeated handpicked A. A. U. All-Star team at Kingston, N. Y. 5-1.

The local scrappers left their names carved in the minds of the 2000 fans, who were on hand for the matches, as they came rolling back, after dropping the opening match, to take the last five in a row over some of the highest rated fighters in upper New York State.

Bob Hornbeck, of Highland, N. Y., was given the nod in a split decision over Lejeune's Jose Jane in the opening match. Jane, spotting Hornbeck 12 pounds, batted his more experienced opponent toe to toe for the first round, connection with several jabs to the face. Hornbeck had Hornbeck in trouble. Hornbeck tried persistently to work his way into Jane's jaw in the second round, but Jane cagily tied him to keep him at bay. Jane took a second round mainly due to a committed by Hornbeck early in the round. Coming back strong in the final round, both boxers at it hammer and tong for the tire round, but Hornbeck saw Jane in this stanza to cop a decision.

QUICK KNOCKOUT

Lejeune's 1949 All-Navy weight Champ, Red Davis, scored his third knockout in his last fights in the second bout, opened the round with jabs to the face almost at will and followed one of the jabs with a crashing right to the jaw which sent Colucci of Hudson, N. Y., spinning to the canvas in one minute and 54 seconds of the first round.

KEYES WINS DECISION

Howard Keyes, who will leave last year defeated on the local Kingston boxers for the bantamweight title of the Adirondack A.A.U., and went to the quarter-finals in the national tournament in Boston, added another point in Lejeune's favor when he decided Reggie Anderson of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in the bantamweight bout. Both fighters were cautious feeling each other out in the opening round with neither landing serious blows. In the second round Keyes opened up and poured Henderson severely. After taking lefts and rights to the face, Henderson started pouring punches into Keyes' midriff in an attempt to slow him up, but his effort was wasted as Keyes bounced back in the third round still Henderson with lefts to the face. Keyes won by a unanimous decision. See BOXING On Page 7.

the face drew blood in the opening round and Tuttle showed signs of being puzzled at Jones' style of boxing. The second round was a repeat of the first as Jones stayed on top of Tuttle pounding away at his already battered face. Tuttle tried to catch up with Jones in the third, but the game fighter couldn't stop Jones' jabs and hooks to the body and face. The fourth and fifth rounds saw Tuttle trying to work inside to Jones' midriff. Jones kept that steady jab to Tuttle's face and took another decision.

MAIN EVENT

In the main event of the evening, Lejeune's Pat Lowry won a split decision from Willie Smith of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Smith, using a Tony Galento stance with his body close to the canvas, made it hard for Lowry to connect with any serious blows in the first round. Lowry sent Smith down for the count of nine during the second round after a barrage of rights and lefts to the face and body. Lowry changed from slugging to boxing in the third round and kept Smith away with jabs to the face. Smith tried to reach him, but couldn't, due to the outstanding cover up job Lowry was doing. Smith, still fighting close in, caught Lowry with a hard right to the face that sent him into the ropes, early in the fourth round, but (See KINGSTON On Page 8)

IMPRESSIVE VICTORY

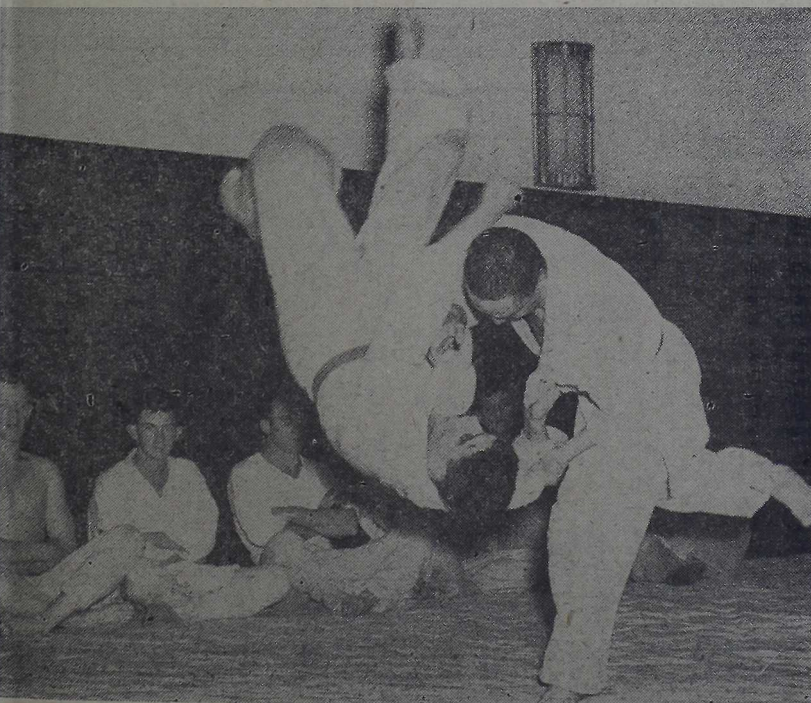

In his first five rounds of the fight, Flashy Pete Schiro won a split decision from a rated Harry Smith of Canada. The fans were quite surprised to see Schiro, a southpaw, complete control and hand his first loss in the Kingston Schiro, connecting with well timed rights to the head and body, and the highly rated New boxer in the opening round. Schiro fought back in a desperate effort, endeavoring to stave off Smith found himself in the round and had Schiro on ropes several times with body attacks to the body. Schiro changed his tactics in the next round, and regained command of the situation. The southpaw started hitting Smith with rights under the heart and lefts to the face in the fourth round and kept Smith backing away. Schiro came rolling back in the fifth and final round and keeping his right in Smith's face, caught him with a straight left that sent his mouthpiece flying leaving Smith in trouble the remainder of the round. Schiro was awarded the decision.

TUTTLE SURPRISED

Lejeune's Johnny Jones kept the ball rolling as he won a unanimous decision from A.A.U. Adirondack titleholder, Dick Tuttle, of Gloverston, N. Y. Jones' steady rights to

Up And Over --- Ouch!

During a recent Judo practice in Gym 401, Pfc. Mike Mok from the Armored Platoon, Amtracks, demonstrates the idea that size, weight and power means little in Judo. Mok throws Cpl. Cliff Meyer, US, 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines, with a "Hane Goshi" or "spring of the loins throw". This is but one of the many throws which utilize the assailant's own momentum to cause his downfall. JOE HOWARDS' SPICE OF LIFE

Thoughts while strolling . . . It looks as if the basketball team is beginning to find itself at last and more power to them. . . . From my informants I learn that there is now a "Small Theatre" Group here on the Post. They are in rehearsal now and are under the direction of Major "Dick" Glaeser. . . . Some of our fine,

"gravel crunching" officers have received word they may go to Marine Aviation as ground officers. . . . It is noted with deepest regrets in the Washington Post, the passing of Mr. Frederick Simpich, Ass't Editor of the National Geographic Magazine who was a friend of and to the Marine Corps. . . . It was just a short while ago Mr. Simpich was here gathering material on our Marines for the National Geographic. . . . He was a world traveler, diplomat and writer of renown. . . . Certainly things are looking up all over the Base these days—the 2nd Bn, 2nd Marines are home, the 2nd Bn, 10th Marines, won the Artillery shoot, and the Engineer School Co is looking like a fine sharp outfit that is really getting shaken down. . . . You can also add the fact that the Repro-Photo merger has squared away and they will continue to turn out fine work but on a bigger scale. . . . Coach Don Draeger is in the process of getting his swimming team squared away. . . . The date will be out as to time and place for try-outs.

Queries from clients . . . Q. When do they expect the field house to be completed? A. They are almost two months ahead of schedule and if the fair weather keeps up they may have it completed in June or July. . . . Q. When will the Azaleas bloom? . . . A. Scheduled for last two weeks in March.

I wonder . . . how many listened to the broadcast of the football banquet? . . . Those of you who did were privileged to hear one of the finest speeches these old ears heard in many a moon, and any time Dr. Byrd of Maryland wants to come down to Lejeune again, I'm sure he will get a tremendous welcome. . . . The magic the good doctor performed by keeping 150 Marines absolutely spellbound was amazing, and at one time he brought tears to the eyes of many with his down to earth simplicity and sincerity. . . . And don't think that Gen Hunt of FMF Lant or Gen Hershey of the Army had to take a back seat. . . . That was really a night. . . . My thanks to all who helped make it the success it was. . . .

Patient Of The Week

PFC Robert E. Knight of Burnsville, West Va. is our patient of the week. Bob is one of those rare few who knows what it means to make good use of one's leisure time. When he was 16 he left high school of necessity and went to work. At the same time he kept at his studies and attended night school. When he was 18 he joined the Marine Corps and was sent to Cherry Point. While there he enrolled in the Armed Forces Institute and continued his part time studies. Recently he took the high school equivalency examination and passed. Now, as a reward for his efforts, Robert will return in May to graduate with the 1950 class of Burnsville High School.

When Bob completes his Marine Corps tour of duty, he hopes to enroll at Georgia Tech for further schooling.

You have set a fine example to other service youths in your same position, Bob, and we hope you may realize your full ambitions.

to tell you," MSgt. Joseph A. Shawler, mess sergeant at Mess Hall No. 325, says. "There was the worry about Emily, of course, and for all I knew my wife and baby had it, too.

"Then, there was my home in Jacksonville that I'd just bought and begun to pay for. I didn't know much about polio, but I knew it meant weeks in the hospital and expensive treatments. It looked like the house and every dime I'd put into it would have to go."

If no such organization as the National Foundation does exist, and it promptly swung into action to speed Emily by ambulance to the James Walker Memorial Hospital at Wilmington, N. C., shouldering all the costs of her treatment.

"The Foundation provides some of the best doctors and equipment in the country at James Walker Memorial," Shawler relates. "Emily was sick enough to require special nurses her first four days there, by the time we were released from quarantine and could visit her, she was on the road to recovery.

"Why, the last time we were down there she was able to walk all the way around her bed, and already she's talking about going back to school. I figure on bringing her home about the 10th of February—back to the home I wouldn't have if it weren't for the Foundation."

A less philosophical man than the sereant might consider that he had little to be thankful for on that Thanksgiving Day of 1949. Shawler doesn't see it that way.

"In the first place, that polio might have hit Emily a lot harder," he reasons, "and it might have struck another member of my family. In the second place—and a mighty big second—there might have been no Foundation to provide expert care for Emily and save my home for me.

"Nothing to be thankful for? The way I figure it, every man, woman, and child in America ought to be Barbershop harmony served up in good Gay 90's style, was the Hospital HiLites treat last Thursday evening. From the first strains of "I've Been Working on the Railroad" to "Show Me the Way To Go Home" the show marched along to the great amusement of the radio audience.

Vera Kirst's "She's More To Be Pitted Than Censored" was the bright light of the evening and the humorous pantomime of the entire cast brought many a laugh. Costumes too added plenty of sparkle. Complete with handle bar mustaches and with waiters aprons, the fellows truly portrayed the era of Gilbert and Sullivan.

If you were lucky enough to be in the hospital audience and early enough for the warm up, you witnessed the colossal operating room skit put on by Dr. Norris, Dr. Stocklein, Lt. Yount, and Miss Tryon. It was a masterpiece of "what shouldn't happen to the patient."

Next Sunday, Chaplain LeMay will start his first evening vesper service in the hospital auditorium. Services begin at 6:10 and are over at 6:45 in time for the evening movies. This first Sunday, Mrs. G. S. Roessner will play the organ.

Chaplain LeMay will also have a protestant communion service Sunday at 9:00 a.m. in the hospital chapel.

Catholic services are held daily except Sat. at 6:30 a.m. in the hospital chapel with Chaplain Welch officiating.

Variety is the spice of life you know and we have it at the U. S. Naval Hospital. We'd like to introduce you to Robert Edward Wilson of Pollocksville, N. C., who on March 14 will be 73 years old. Mr. Wilson is a civil service worker who was working near Onslow beach when some heavy piling fell on him and broke both legs. Hospitalized for the first time in his life, he says that the hospital, it's staff, and fellow patients are fine—he just doesn't like having to be in any sort of hospital.

Well, We're sorry too Mr. Wilson, that you had to have such a tough accident, and we wish you all the luck in the world for a speedy recovery. Meanwhile, we'll be seeing you.

Changes In Civil Service Retirement Act

Recently all employees of the Civil Service Retirement Camp Lejeune subject (War Service, Probationary Permanent employees) are to receive a Supplement to Certificate Membership, Standard Form 105. This supplement contains important changes in the Service Retirement Act concerning their rights and benefits.

Standard Form 105 is the Certificate of Membership for Civil Service employees subject to the Civil Service Retirement Act. One purpose of this certificate is to enable the employee to keep a personal record of deductions taken from salaries which would enable them to know at any time approximately the amount of their credit supplement mentioned in Standard Form 105 and kept with other personal papers of the employee.

If there are any Civil Service employees at Marine Barracks Camp Lejeune, who do not have a Certificate of Membership Standard Form 105, they should obtain same by request from Industrial Relations Office.

Lowry bounced back at Smith and battered him with blows to the head that had Smith groggy. In the final round, Lowry continued to box Smith and kept connecting with jabs to face and body.

AT THE RINGSIDE
Due to the weight limits, Lejeune still had such noted boxers as Willie McClendon, Jimmy Powell, and others watching the fights from the ringside. Joe Mahoney and Frank Jackson were not carded because of injuries.

Movie Review As It Appears This Week

DAKOTA LIL
There is no available information in regards to this picture except that it is a western and should be good entertainment.

CHAIN LIGHTING
This picture is a drama which takes place in England in 1943. It is the story of the first Flying Fortress to complete a tour in the European theatre. Heading the cast is Humphrey Bogart, Eleanor Parker and Richard Whorf. It is full of action which will keep the audience on the edge of their seats. Don't miss this picture.

BEAU GESTE
There is no available information for this picture.

PAID IN FULL
In "Paid In Full" producer Hal B. Wallis has come as close as it is possibly could to the soap opera. With a melodramatic story line that twists and turns in many directions, Mr. Wallis has, with William Dieterle as director, pulled out all the stops to provide a tear-jerking story about two sister who become estranged and are united in a long-drawn-out deathbed scene. It should be good entertainment for the entire family.

BORDERLINE
The picture is a story of a smuggling racket. Set in an interesting local and with plenty of action to keep it moving at a fast clip, this is a light-weight drama that should show up favorably to the audience. Humor and suspense are mixed with a sufficient dose of romance to make this a very good picture.
