Dances Are Set Tonight At Marston, Montford

Dance-goers around Camp Lejeune will be provided musical entertainment at the Marston Pavilion by the popular "Divisionaires" and at Montford Point by Allen Craig and his fine orchestra.

Allen Craig and his orchestra have played at Camp Lejeune dances several previous times and have always scored as a big hit with the audience. If the personnel at Montford Point are planning to spend a dull evening in the barracks, here's a chance to have a good time and hear lots of good music.

For Pavilion enthusiasts, the popular "Divisionaires" will afford the dancing entertainment. The "Divisionaires" have played at many dances around the base and will live up to their reputation tonight.

Allen Craig's orchestra will feature pretty songstress Betty Jo Wells and the Dreambeams.

Change Regulation About Shipping

Enlisted Navy and Marine Corps personnel of the fourth pay grade for the first time now are entitled to shipment of their household effects at government expense when a permanent change of duty station is involved.

Authorization for such shipments is but one of a number of major changes governing transportation or household goods of members of the Air Force, Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and Public Health Service. Executive Order 10053, signed by President Truman 20 April and made retroactive to 1 February, liberalizes such shipment.

Halsey and Saltonstall Have High Praise for Corps

By Cpl. RICHARD J. MURDOC, JR.
The nation's capital was the scene of one of the Marine Corps' largest reunions last Friday and Saturday as former members of the "Fighting" Fourth Marine Division, that had participated in the assaults of Roi-Namur, Saipan, Tinian and Iwo Jima, met for the second time since the cessation of hostilities.

The two day reunion featured a moonlight cruise on the Potomac, dinner at the Marine Barracks, Washington, sightseeing tour of the city, memorial services at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and was highlighted by a Saturday morning parade.

Appearing immediately behind the battle standard of the Marine Corps was the Commandant of the Marine Corps, General Clifton B. Cates and Major General Franklin A. Hart, Grand Marshal of the parade who was also ending his period of service as President of the Fourth Marine Division Association.

As the parade reached the reviewing stand, the Commandant and General Hart joined Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., on the stand to review the remaining elements of the parade.

THOUSANDS WATCH PARADE
Thousands had gathered to watch the first "All-Marine" parade to be held in the nation's capital since 1924. They saw, appearing in the order of March, the U. S. Marine Band and Drum and Bugle Corps, the Ceremonial Battalion of the Marine Barracks, Washington; Battle Standards of the Fourth Division; disabled veterans of the Fourth Division; uniformed members of the association; and the Second Marine Division Marching Band and Drum and Bugle Corps, consisting of all three complete band sections, which "sounded off" with "Aloha", after playing four ruffles and flourishes in honor of the reviewing officer, Fleet Admiral Halsey.

Following the Second Division band were the Marine Corps Schools band from Quantico, Va., the 22nd Marines also of Quantico appearing with combat equipment which included "Able Mable," a heavy tank once used by the Fourth Division from Maui, T. H. to Iwo and the 5th Infantry Battalion, USMCR of Washington.

A squadron of helicopters from the Marine Corps Air Station, Quantico, flew over the parade route during the entire parade.

HALSEY PRAISES CORPS

After the parade, the crowd assembled at the Sylvan Theater where they were addressed by Admiral Halsey. In his address the

Plan To Come Back

There is a constant harping on the subject of accidents this year, more so than ever before, primarily because of the condition of the drivers and their automobiles. In Westways, the magazine of the Automobile Club of Southern California, the emphasis is on the vacation traveller but the statistics and dangers are the same for a driver going around the block. In that magazine, however, there was an article well worth while quoting for the brief clearness of its message. "If You Go, Plan To Come Back" is the title of it—this is the text:

"No story on the coming vacation season would be complete without a few words of caution. Like the story of the wonderings of Homer's hero, Odysseus, a motor trip this year will be beset by ever-present perils. Odysseus and his men were troubled by Circe, Cyclops, and the lotus eaters—the 1949 motorists can substitute in their place Carelessness, Speed, and Worn Tires.

Much has been written on the statistics of the mounting American traffic death toll. Motorists have been warned that cold figures prove that our highways are more deadly than the beachheads at Tarawa or Iwo Jima. Yet the American motorist speeds on to his death and destruction—and his going takes others with him.

Many of you have probably noticed the safety sign placed on the right side of the road leading to the main gate. It was placed there to remind you of the number of accidents Camp Lejeune is marking up on the Devil's scoreboard.

Statistics are always alarming—Camp Lejeune Accident Totals so far this year is 109! Three were killed and 84 injured. Twenty-Two escaped injury but 84 didn't. Figure the percentage of that!

In 1948, Camp Lejeune totaled 227 accidents. Ten persons killed and 92 were injured during the "racing" season last year.

Chaplain's Corner

Pay day is one of the days in the month we like best. I think this can safely be said for most of us. We like this day best because it means something in particular to us. And yet, while it means something particular it also means something essentially different to each.

To some, pay means the chance to go to the bar for another drink; to some, it means a few more games of cards. Some look forward to pay day so they can get that gift they saw in the window for someone they love. Pay day offers the opportunity for to meet our responsibilities; pay for the rent, the groceries, the utilities. Pay day means one payment nearer ownership of the car, the home or the furniture. The greater ones responsibility s—the more urgent his needs—the more eagerly does he look toward pay day.

Pay day has a great deal more significance than what we are going to be able to do with what we draw. Pay day represents our investment in life; it is the recognition of our contribution to the progress of the world.

Is it any wonder then that we sometimes feel that we should hand back our pay—that this month we didn't earn it? Ostly though, I expect, we all feel we didn't get all we had coming! We all feel we worth more than we are being paid. There is not a Marine but feels should be rated, and not a rat man but feels he could wear a better than some who are present wearing it, and not an officer I thinks he could handle another stripe. The prevailing reasons the desired advancements have do, primarily, with the added come and the more joy come day.

Those who have the great satisfaction when pay day come are those who have learned to and to know that they have done they could at their job. They have experienced the real meaning the slogan on the shoe cobbler wall in a mid-western town "Not we can get for what we do, but we can do for what we get."

How do you feel come pay day? Have you that deep down feeling satisfaction, or do you feel compelled to go out and drink it off? I final pay day will be the most exciting and exacting of all. Then shall stand before the pay-mas and reckon with Him our lives vestment, and our contribution His kingdoms growth. "And I first shall be last and the last shall be first, and each man shall as he has sown."

Lt. W. A. Taylor, ChC, U.

Father's Day

A Toast To You, Dads

Sunday, which is Father's Day, produces a little of the sentimental outbursts and reactions which Mother evokes.

And this is the right order of things.

Father is no fit subject to be rhapsodized. He is not at home among white and red roses, boxes of candy, the rich literature of love and the noble verses lyrically proclaiming his virtues.

In fact, when he has any virtues worthy of respect and recognition he prefers to reserve them for his own secret meditations rather than to have them made the occasion of a festival.

All too often, his sentimental impulses have been dulled and calloused. Circumstances do that to him. His is a way of life which, by the compulsions of necessity, give him a practical and work-a-day complex. His capacity for the amenities have not been so driven out as much as they have been driven in so deeply that they are subdued and repressed.

He is a pretty fellow from morning to night, from year to year. Often his nose is touching the grindstone, if, indeed, it has not worn off by his cruel revolutions.

The job of making a living for family is a rather consuming occupation with him. He would probably be sentimental if he had a time for it and if his contacts was a world of grim realities had not rested his capacities for emotion exhibition.

Still, Father is rather an important person about the place.

He probably is recognized, such by his family more than thinks. Usually gone as he is from his home for much of the time, is known to be out on a mission service and sacrifice, for those whom he is responsible.

And whether he hears any shout of acclaim or is aureoled with a of the glamour of a hero, he is a of the doghouse as often as complains of more than he serves. One of the major laments of a Father is that he knows little about those of his own whom he should know so much.

Circumstances have contrived too often to make him a stranger about the house except at eating and sleeping time.

Busy here and there with occupations and pursuits which exhaust his energies, burn up his resources.

Camp School Graduates 18 Youths; I. C. Official Makes Finals Talk

The Camp High School held its graduation exercises last Monday evening at the High School Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The Commencement address was given by the Honorable Kerr Craige Ramsey, Speaker of the North Carolina House of Representatives.

The programme opened with the graduating class marching in to Elks Processional, "Pomp and Circumstance." Lieutenant Commander R. F. McManus, Chaplain, U.S.N., then read the Invocation. It was followed by the high school choir's rendition of "Beautiful Savior" under the supervision of Mrs. Dorothy Hoskins.

Mary Esther Duke, valedictorian, read thanks and appreciation to members of the faculty on behalf of the entire graduating class.

Lieutenant Colonel Goldberg, I.C. and Chairman, Camp Lejeune School Board, then presented Ramsey as the guest speaker of the evening.

RAMSEY SPEAKS

Ramsey's address was filled with many helpful suggestions to young graduates. He told them that the sweat and toil that they had expended during the past years in order to attain the which they had achieved this evening, was not in vain; that in time to come they would realize the stage they had just passed through as a memorable one which would be most helpful to them.

He quoted from Emerson as follows: "The one thing of great value in the world is the active soul." He spoke of the great expense expended towards the education of the American girl and boy.

He cited that marginal line mentality does not insure security and he spoke of the great value of competitive enterprise in the best of security.

Ramsey also complimented Duke on her inspiring address. At the close of his remarks, he wished the graduates success in their future ventures and thanked them for the honor of inviting him to the exercises.

In the conclusion of Mr. Ramsey's speech, the High School Choir under the direction of Mrs. Hoskins rendered "Serenade" by Schubert. Lieutenant Colonel W. W. Buchanan, USMC, President of the Parent-Teacher Association presented the Parent-Teacher Award. The first prize scholarship of $350 was presented to Mary Esther Duke, and the second prize of $150 scholarship given to Miss Helen Sue Bunn.

Representing the Class of 1949, B. A. Barringer, Supervising Principal said, "We know and are sure that these young people have learned something in the past four years, and in future years they will give and show their knowledge upon the school in which they have received the foundation of their educations." Mr. Barringer introduced Colonel William

Maj. Auchmuty In Address To Wilmington B.P.O. Elks

On Tuesday, Major John H. Auchmuty, Assistant Public Information Officer, Provisional Reserve Training Battalion, Camp Lejeune, was guest speaker at the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks traditional Flag Day Ceremonies at Wilmington Lodge No. 532. The Major delivered an address entitled "Citizen Marines." The ceremonies took place on the lawn of the Elks lodge in Wilmington at 6:00 p. m.

Major Auchmuty was accompanied by the Camp Lejeune Public Information Officer. The first observances of Flag Day took place in 1895 and on this Flag Day, members of Elks lodges throughout the country re-dedicated themselves to the principles of loyalty, humanity, and citizenship which constitutes the foundation of America.

The ceremonies were arranged by Dr. R. J. Spinharney, chairman of the Flag Day committee. Lieutenant Commander H. D. Callahan, USN, Inspector-Instructor of the Naval Reserve in Wilmington, was also present for the occasion. Invitations to attend the ceremonies were sent to all City and County officials, Civic and Fraternal Organizations in Wilmington, Wrightsville Beach, and Carolina Beach. All Elks

Paging 17,000 Second Marines

The Marine Corps is trying to locate about 17,000 of the 90,000 marines and naval personnel who served with the 2d Marine Division between 7 August, 1942 and 2 Sept., 1945.

No, they are not wanted for anything they have done, but rather for something they have not done. They have moved without leaving forwarding addresses or have failed to acknowledge "gift offers." Consequently they cannot be located to receive a free copy of the division's history, "Follow Me."

The history is on sale at leading bookstores, or may be obtained without charge by eligible veterans by writing to the Second Marine Division History Board, Room 4008, Headquarters, Marine Corps, Washington, 25, D. C.

First Engineering Class Is Recently Graduated At Bay

Last Friday at 1400, the 1st Engineering graduating class Commencement exercises took place at Courthouse Bay. Colonel W. J. Whaling, Chief of Staff, Marine Barracks, was the guest speaker.

The Engineering school's mission is to give the students the basic technical knowledge required of an individual in that functional field. January 1 of this year was the activation date of the school. The school now numbers 360 officers and men and has a 12 week course. The present class convened March 21.

The school can handle 180 students at a time, in 3 separate classes, which are the basic Equipment and Mechanical Course, the basic Construction, and the basic Utility course.

DRAW ASSIGNMENTS

The graduating class, numbering 46 one year, men and regulars, will be assigned to choice of duty according to their scholastic standing in their class. The men will be assigned to duty in Brooklyn, Boston, Camp Pendleton, San Diego and other stations.

The class' top men are Pfc. Elias G. Gaylor of Basic Equipment and Mechanics, Pfc. Thomas R. Bohner of Construction, and Pfc. Philip J. Gotterup of Utilities.

Gotterup has an interesting background. He came to America in 1946 after serving in the Danish underground during the war. Pfc. Gotterup said he would like to stay in Camp Lejeune at the school as an assistant instructor for the next class.

The Invocation was given by Chaplain G. Feider, Jr. Captain G. W. Ellis, Jr., made an introduction to the class emphasizing the point that the school was primarily interested in trying to give the men a general understanding of basic engineering and not to qualify them as experts.

WORK IMPORTANT

Colonel W. J. Whaling, Chief of Staff, Marine Barracks, the guest speaker, spoke on the importance of their work and the opportunities afforded them by the school and the Marine Corps. He made his point by mentioning "Edison, who succeeded without the opportunities we have today."

The Colonel told of the great engineering feats including the Brooklyn Bridge, which he said "was a great success leaving a mark for its builder after he returned to dust, for from dust you came and to dust thou shalt return." He mentioned the Washington Monument, a great engineering feat "well done that remains forever as a mark to mankind."

Colonel Whaling pointed out that "things done best are those which remain on." He said to "do little jobs well and the big jobs will come later." This again holds the truth of the adage "trivialities make perfection, but perfection is no triviality." The Colonel ended by advising the graduates to "do a job well." He then presented the diplomas to the men.

The closing remarks were made by Captain J. T. McFadden, Jr., who then told the men to report for their new assignments.

Lejeune Takes Third Place In Track Meet

The Camp Lejeune Track Team placed in the upper three teams entered in the 2d Annual All-Marine Track meet held last Friday and Saturday, the 10th and 11th of June, at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Lejeune's 9 athletes won 10 medals and one trophy. Every man from Lejeune got at least 3rd place or better in the meet. This is a record as this meet was the only one for Lejeune this year, while other teams participated in 14 to 20 meets.

Quantico had 30 men entered and took 1st place, El Toro taking second place with 31 men and Lejeune took 3rd with 9 men in the unofficial scores. Twenty-four Marine teams were entered all together.

Two records were broken at the meet. Corporal Harry E. Bare of H&S Battalion, Camp Lejeune broke the record for the shot put with a 43 foot 11 3/8 inches throw. Shargus, formerly of Lejeune, now with Quantico, made an outstanding collegiate feat by breaking the record with a 141 foot disc throw.

The Commandant of the Marine Corps, General Clifton B. Cates, was pleased with the scores and presented the trophies to the winning teams. General Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., Commandant of Marine Corps Schools served as host. Approximately 2,000 people attended the meet.

As told by Lieutenant (jg) Edward M. Grosse, USN, from Medical Battalion, chief coach of the team and manager HM3 Hyman Hankin, USN, Medical Battalion, a new method of starting track meets was introduced at the meet. The invention, called the Ben Odgen, is similar to the horse race starting gate. The men stand inside a gate and at the sound of the gun all the men start off at once, eliminating former mishaps of track meets.

Swimming Team Dives Into Summer Training

The long water phase of swimming has started for the Camp Lejeune swimmers. From now until the end of the summer season in September, the team swimmers will be engaged in a strict training routine.

The water phase begins with emphasis on swimming for form and style. Much attention is given to stroke and kicking fundamentals. Long distance workouts are covered every day, thru which one swimmer gets the "feel" of the water, builds his endurance and gets correct form. Fundamental things such as racing starts, turns and pushoffs are stressed considerably. Each man must receive individual attention to insure correct, efficient swimming for his build or stature and speciality of swimming. No speed is used in this initial water phase, but through long distance swims, the swimmers muscles condition and become long and elastic so that later in the training, when speed is required, there will be no sore or injured muscles, from the terrific strain imposed on them by sprinting.

WORKS ON FUNDAMENTALS

The average swimmer on the Lejeune team at this time is swimming 3 to 4 hours a day and covering about 1 1/2 miles. Within a few weeks, some of the swimmers will be swimming 4 to 6 miles daily plus hours of start and turn drill each day. The swimmer develops power in his arms and legs by swimming daily hundreds of yards using only his legs, or using only his arms. The divers are at present working

Lejeune Baseballers Run Into Tough Opposition

By PFC. DAVE SHARPE

The Lejeune Marines won two games while dropping three during last week's baseball action. The "Boots" of Parris Island whipped them twice in a Sunday doubleheader, 21-4 and 6-1, but they came from behind to win 6-5 at Charleston, then lost, 3-0 in a second contest, and finished out the week's schedule with a 6-4 win over the Naval Air Station nine from Norfolk, again coming from the short end in the late innings.

The "Boots" of Parris Island were held in close check for five innings, with Washington, Lejeune hurler, cutting them down with amazing rapidity, giving up only two hits and allowing only one run, while the locals were grabbing four. But in that sixth inning, Lejeune's three-run lead was blasted into oblivion as the South Carolinians banged Washington for their third base knock of the ball game. A walk and an error loaded the bases, and Washington left the contest. Three more pitchers worked the next two and one third innings, and when the smoke had cleared, Parris Island had themselves a ball game, by a 21-4 count.

Dallas Huddle worked the second game, and worked it well, but the Lejeuneers could find only four hits in the slants of Freeman, the "Boot" pitcher, and the Islanders swept the twin bill with a 6-1 win.

FREZZA GETS HOT

At Charleston, things again looked dark for the local nine, when, in the first game, Charleston went into the seventh inning with a five to one lead. Johnny Noble had relieved Huddle, who started the game, in the fifth inning, and was working well. Frank Frezza led off for Lejeune, and slammed the second pitch a "country mile." The towering home run wallop was still rising when it traveled 410 feet. McGee singled, but the next three batters went out along the ground. But the fuse was lit. Lejeune grabbed another run in the eighth, making the score 5-3. Noble set the Charleston Marines down without a hit in the last of the eighth, and Lejeune came in to bat for their last time.

Frezza, leading off again, slapped a line single into center field. McGee flew out to deep center field, putting one man down, but Gene Cheval singled, putting the tying run on first. Christ Theros, Lejeune first fielder took a two-two count, then slapped another base hit into center field, sending Frezza home. Ansani, fielding the ball, bobbled it, and Cheval galloped home. Theros went to third, and Joe Hubany brought him home on a squeeze play to put Lejeune ahead, 6-5. Noble filed out to Tanner, then walked out to the mound, suddenly given a ball game to win.

Pershing, leading off, singled, and Tanner came up to the plate with three hits in four times at bat. Noble got him on a pop foul to Frezza. Ansani came up with four for four, and Noble made him hit into the dirt, forcing Pershing at second. Galdwell came up, with the tying run on first, and Noble got him on a weak roller to Nof-singer to end the inning and the ball game. It was win number one for the 5' 10", 148 pound hurler, against no losses.

RHODES DOES IT

In the second skirmish at Charleston, Rhodes set the Lejeuneers down without a run, while the Charleston team was making up three. Frezza led the Lejeuneers at the plate, with a double and a single in four trips, and Spences also grabbed two base blows, to give them half of Lejeune's hits for the day.

WE WIN, TOO

The Leathernecks came back to Lejeune for the first time in ten days, and their home-re-opener was a 6-4 verdict over the Naval Air Station team of Norfolk, Virginia. Ted McCollum won his third game of the year, against one loss, to keep his pitching record right near the top, second only to Noble's 1-0 slate. Lejeune came from behind again, this time with two runs in the eighth when Gene Cheval's double scored Frezza, who had singled, and Cheval scored on Tiedt's error.

Seagoing Marines Outbox Bluejackets

With the clanging of bells and the hustle of all hands, "Happy Hour" was underway aboard the LST 980. Some sixteen days out to sea the Navy Bluejackets aboard the LST 980 under command of Lieutenant Robert J. Erickson, USN, met in the ring with the Marine's Fighting Devil Dogs under command of Captain Harold E. Neilson, USMC, Commanding Officer of Troops aboard.

The ringsiders were on the edge of their seats from start to finish. In the preliminaries "Sailor" Roper, USN, of McKeesport, Pa., met Mickey Mooney, USMC, from Jersey City, N. J., in the first bout which ended in a draw. "Duke" Loughlin, USMC, from Manchester, N. H., upheld the Marines by taking a three round decision from "Young" Martin, USN, of Grafton, Va., in the second bout of the day. Bout three showed some mighty flashy footwork and tricky boxing as "Kid" Phelan, USMC, and "Ebony Flash" Rotan battled to a draw. Devil Dog Phelan hails from New York and Navy Man Rotan calls Fayetteville, West Va., his home port. When "Wild Bull" Fortenberry, USMC, met Butch Maholtz of the Navy in the fourth bout the decision was a draw. Fortenberry hails from Mississippi and Maholtz from Bryndale, Pa.

Going into the semi-finals—In the second round of the fifth bout Shorty Linstrom, USN, pulled a TKO over "Killer" McKoy, USMC. Linstrom's home is Iron Mountain, Mich., and McKoy is from Hunting, West Va. "Battling" Russ, USN, of Beaver Falls, Pa., took a three round decision from "Sluggo" Schlup, USMC, of Columbus, Ohio, in the sixth bout. The Main Event for the afternoon featured "Cannon Ball" Bloomberg, USMC, 180 pounds of fighting devil dog from New Bern, N. C. vs. "Killer" Williams, 175 pounds of lightning-like Navy. Bloomberg toow the main event by a TKO in the third round. Intermingled with the bouts, singers, musicians and imitators entertained to the fullest extent. The Third Platoon "C" Co. presented a dramatic episode titled "Western Thrillers" and the Machine Gun Platoon "C" Co. produced a skit showing their impression of "A Morning in the Company Office."

All hands aboard joined in the Happy Hour making it a large scale success—demonstrating that clean sportsmanship and 'Esprit de Corps' produce an afternoon of outstanding entertainment.

First Beach Party Marked Success

Despite the changing date and poor weather conditions, the first beach party for reserves was held and was a definite success. A large number of reserves from various organizations throughout Camp Lejeune attended. Athletic games were participated in by all hands. Refreshments, including beer, coca cola, and sandwiches were served.

There will be one beach party every two weeks for the remainder of the summer for all Reservists attending Camp Lejeune.

4th Division

Admiral said that "the Marine Corps has often been referred to as the elite corps of the country by the New York Times. I say that is a gross understatement. The Marine Corps is the elite corps of the world."

He further stated that "the Esprit de Corps of the Marines is unparalleled and had left its mark on every enemy-held island the Marines captured."

In regards to recent attempts to disband the corps, the Admiral told the Marines, "I believe that six per cent of the personnel strength of the Army, Navy and Air Force should be a flooring for the Marine Corps so we will always have a Marine corps of proper size. After that we will have no need for further legislation and we will have what the country needs, a perpetual Marine Corps."

The last event of the reunion was the banquet held at the Statler Hotel which featured a variety show, the appearance of the U. S. Marine Band, ceremonial drill team of the Marine Barracks, Washington and Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts as the guest speaker.

SO DOES SALTONSTALL
In his address, Senator Saltonstill praised the Marine Corps highly for their past achievements and mentioned, referring to any talk of abolishing the corps, "Don't worry about anything happening to the Marine Corps... the public wouldn't stand for it."

The Senator cited that the reason Congress hasn't written an official document designating the duties of each of the armed forces was that the country's forces must be flexible so that they can readily be adapted to meet any new types of weapons or warfare.

He reminded the audience that "the services must economize, but not to the point of rendering the forces useless. Approximately one-third of the nation's budget is devoted to being prepared and for that price the public expects the armed forces to be efficient and effective."

OTHER NOTED GUESTS

Among other noted guests at the banquet were, Under Secretary of the Navy Daniel A. Kimball, Congressman Walter K. Granger, Dewey Short, Clark W. Thompson, Fleet Admiral Halsey, the Marine Corps Commandant, General C. B. Cates and Major General Franklin A. Hart, Commanding General of the Second Marine Division and Marine Barracks, Camp Lejeune.

It was announced that the 1950 reunion is scheduled to be held in New York on June 1, 2, and 3 at the Hotel New Yorker.

The mess efficiency pennants, awarded to mess halls at Camp Lejeune for their neatness and cleanliness, have started something around the base. The fortunate mess halls to win the pennant three times in a row receive a handsome reward.

The Combat Service Mess halls have set somewhat of a record, racking up 11 mess pennants. Six of the coveted awards were awarded to the Supply Bn., 2d Combat Service Group mess hall number 221. The other Second Combat Service mess hall to win five pennants is mess hall number 122, who was awarded the pennant last week by Colonel H. D. Hansen, Commanding Officer, Marine Corps Supply Depot, Camp Lejeune.

EFFICIENCY RATING FORM
Employees at this camp should have had a preparatory efficiency rating discussed with him. It shows the monthly rating of each employee as given by his supervisor. The purpose of the supervisory rating form is to give more accurate evaluation of work performance of each. It should eliminate work heretofore used in rating, as the annual rating now be marked in each of the average element on the supervisory rating form at the closing period. This means that should only have to average element rating on rating sheet and for the Industrial Relations review by the Efficiency Committee.

What To Do

If Atom Bomb Hits, Use These Safety Hints

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—Would you know what to do if an atomic bomb burst near you? A recent publication issued to the Armed Forces has the answer to this and other questions concerning conduct in the event of such an attack.

Would you jump or run away? If so, to where would you run? Would you lie flat until the shock passed and then go to the aid of others near you?

If you follow the instructions contained in the Armed Forces pamphlet, you will do none of these things.

The pamphlet states that, if warned in advance of an atom attack, seek an air raid shelter, deep basement or a subway, as some measure of protection against both the blast and the bomb's deadly rays. If that's impossible find a ditch or ravine, protecting the eyes from the brilliant flash.

"Do not spread rumors. Enough confusion will exist without adding to it," the pamphlet warns.

Should an attack be a contaminating burst, cover up with a raincoat or even a piece of paper, to keep poisonous water or dirt from you. If it is raining stay out of the rain—it may be contaminated. Don't pick up souvenirs—for the same reason. "Take a shower, scrubbing completely after exposure," the book concludes.

270 Million Benefit

U. S. Spends Five Billions In Year To Aid Europeans

By Armed Forces Press Service

In a little more than one year the American people have spent some five billion dollars to help the 270 million people of western Europe get back on their feet.

Now, with Congress considering another five billion for the same purpose this year, Armed Forces Talk 277 asks "What Progress European Recovery Program?" and supplies this answer:

"Reports on ERP for one year all point to one fact—that it's working. Most of the countries have largely recovered from the physical impact of war. They are now moving toward the basic industrial changes necessary to restore European prosperity."

And America, too, is benefiting in two ways:

First, the Talk declares, "by putting Europe on its feet and making it an effective business partner in world trade, we are helping to keep our own industry running, and our own workers, farmers and businessmen prosperous."

Second, "to the extent that ERP stiffens the ability and the will of the people of Europe to resist Communist totalitarianism, we are helping to maintain free institutions in the world and preserve them in our own country."

Furthermore, this European Recovery Program born in the now-famous Harvard speech of former Secretary of State George C. Marshall in 1947 definitely is not a one-way street.

The Talk explains that European nations have spent 30 billion dollars of their own on the program—six times our contribution—in their struggle to reach three main goals:

"Physical rebuilding from the immediate damage of war. Readjustment of western European economy to fit its changed position in world trade. And long-range development of European industry to raise the living conditions of its people."

According to the Talk, "the first stage, on the whole, is nearing completion. But the coming year will be the most crucial. For it marks a turning point in most of the participating countries."

They must go beyond their

Enterprising 'Mac' In Good Business

LYONS, Kan. (AFPS)—Giers of this latest Tale of the South Pacific is ex-soldier Thomas L. Davis, who's doing a profitable stateside business today because he discovered during the war he could out-native the natives on Manus Island.

Outt here on the island Davis spent a lot of time shopping for a souvenir that would capture the spirit of the place for the folks back home. But the search only convinced him he could turn out better gifts himself.

That's when Davis went to work with a file, tin snips and a nail on the metal from some old ammunition boxes and a bit of mother-of-pearl he picked up on the island. The result—a bracelet fit for the most beautiful girl that was left behind—had such a South Pacific look that he has developed a thriving business.

current achievements in rehabilitation to modernize old industries, create new ones and increase the productivity of both industry and agriculture."

To do these things, the Talk concludes, Europe needs more help from the United States.

"It is generally believed that none of the problems facing western Europe can be solved without some continuation of American aid."

Sir Dusty, AWOL Six Days, Found Famed Camp And Divi- sion Mascot Return- ed To Base, Run Up For Office Hours And Restricted

Private Sir Dusty of Dreadnaught has been restored to duty after a futile search for him which lasted six days.

Thanks to the help of Billy Arthur and Associated Press, Private Sir Dusty was located.

Private Dreadnaught disappeared from his kennel last Friday and when his handler searched for him the next morning he could not be found. The Provost Marshall dispatched Military Police to all parts of the base, but no sign of Sir Dusty.

The Marines of Camp Lejeune who are proud of their mascot and fellow Marine also aided in the search.

On Thursday, Mrs. A. D. Cashwell, Jr., of Route 3, Jacksonville, had finished her morning chores and was getting ready to feed the stray Bull dog she had found roaming around her property, when she picked up a newspaper and noticed the account of Sir Dusty of Dreadnaught being AWOL.

Mrs. Cashwell compared the description noted in the paper with her new found friend and discovered that he must be the Marine prized mascot. She immediately phoned the Provost Marshall's office at Camp Lejeune and described her new boarder to the Desk Sergeant. That started the ball rolling towards the end of the hunt as the Sergeant was sure it was Sir Dusty from her description. MP's and Sir Dusty's First Sergeant rushed to her home and sure enough her star boarder was their lost or AWOL mascot. Sir Dusty knew a good home when he saw one and had been Mrs. Cashwell's star boarder for five days.

A much chagrined Private Dreadnaught was up for office hours before a perplexed CO who could not determine whether or not Sir Dusty had voluntarily or involuntarily gone over the hill. In justice to Private Dreadnaught and Navy Regulations, he was given thirty days restriction to his compound.

The Marines of Camp Lejeune hope that Sir Dusty will have learned a lesson as going over the hill is a serious offense.

Marines Must Pay Taxes On Jewelry

Hearings by a House Armed Services subcommittee investigating post exchange operations came to a temporary halt late this week as Assistant Secretary of the Navy John T. Koehler revealed that an inter-service agreement has been made which would eliminate cause of complaints from retail dealers.

The plan calls for the collection of Federal excise tax on PX items to start not later than 1 Aug., establishment of a $300 limit, including tax, on special orders, and the placing of all military resale activities, aside from Army and Air Force commissaries, on a self-sustaining basis with respect to the purchase of operating equipment and supplies and payment to the Government for heat, light and other utilities.

A single list is to be issued of authorized resale items for all Post Exchanges and Ship's Sales Stores located within the United States. An additional list will be prepared for similar activities located in Hawaii and Alaska. No other items would be stocked unless specifically approved by appropriate authority. Special permission would be granted for certain articles at isolated posts, but not for any near metropolitan areas.

2nd Division Band Impresses Audiences In All Appearances

The Second Marine Division Band as it is known today is an outgrowth of the 29 piece Camp Lejeune Band which was organized in 1943. In the summer of 1946 when the Second Marine Division returned from occupational duty in Japan, their musicians were merged with the old Camp Lejeune Band. Through this merger, there appeared one of the smartest and best performing military bands in the service.

During the period of service at Lejeune, the band diminished in size until 1947, when First Lieutenant Edward G. Dupe, Band Officer, increased the number of members so that at the time of his detachment from the Base, the complement consisted of 86 pieces. Under the present leadership of Warrent Officer Frederick A. Lock, the band has continued to expand and now comprises three complete band sections.

A Drum and Bugle Corps trains with the band and is composed of Field Musics (Drummers and Buglers) of the various battalions and regiments of the Second Division.

The band is capable of playing all standard marches, concerts, and dance music prescribed for an organization of its type. Incorporated within the band are several dance orchestras, combos, and specialty acts designed to provide entertainment for the men of the Second Marine Division and other members of the Camp Lejeune Base. Music as sweet as Guy Lombardo's orchestra or as hilarious as Spike Jones' cut-ups, is often capably produced at the dances at Marston Pavilion.

Training remains the "order of the day" with the band. Classes are scheduled in harmony, theory, and instruments. Another unique phase of training given the Marine Bandsmen is the instrument repair class instructed by Corporal Max Hume, a graduate of the Navy's Band Instrument Repair School in Washington.

In the recent Atlantic Command Exercises, as in the time of war, the band was charged with constructing and establishing a permanent defense of the command post, and providing entertainment necessary in ensuring the high morale of the troops.

Since returning from the Atlantic Command Exercises, the band has played for the Azalea Festival, the Memorial Stadium Ceremonies in Wilmington, the D.A.R. Building Dedication Ceremonies at Farmville, the Wallace Strawberry Jam-boree, and at Morehead City for the welcoming of the 9th Marines from China.

Forthcoming engagements include the Fourth Marine Division's Reunion at Washington, D. C. on 10 and 11 June, and the Department of North Carolina American Legion Parade to be held in Raleigh on 20 June.

Warrent Officer Lock, present Band Officer, joined the Corps in 1923. He participated in the defense of Pearl Harbor and saw duty in the Pacific during WWII. He was awarded the Good Conduct Medal with two bars; the American Defense Medal; the Asiatic Pacific Medal; and the World War II Victory Medal. During 1943-1944, Mr. Lock was the former Musical Director of the Marine Corps famous "Halls of Montezuma" radio show produced in San Diego.

Bond Drive Gets Going Full Swing

The Covered Wagon—mimetic symbol in our country, is steeped in American history. Vividly it suggests a nation march—thousands of men women leaving their homes streaming across the continent in search of the riches, the opportunity ahead.

DRIVE NOW ON

This year the Covered Wagon symbolizes the Treasury's Opportunity Savings Drive, which will run from through June 30. On that day, 30 covered wagons from Independence, Miss. travel across America. They travel through small towns, rural villages, and metropolitan areas. To whom they see them, these 30 wagons out of the past will come home as perhaps nothing else the essential differences of the 49er of yesterday and the modern counterpart.

Today it's possible for American—no matter who lives or what he does for a living—to "strike it rich" without home! At the present time four percent of our total population own U. S. Savings Bonds. As of June 31, 1948, individuals own $68 billion of Government bonds, of which a large proportion in the form of Savings Bonds. In E Bonds alone.

It is obvious that this so-called savings means to the individuals who own it, to the cities and towns where the money is saved, and consequently will be spent, and to the nation as a whole. Security for the individual must always mean security for the nation.

Three million volunteer salesmen are mobilized to spread the meaning of the Opportunity Savings Drive home to every man and woman in every town and city in the United States. They're prepared to call on YOU. When you are contacted, remember to take advantage of the opportunity they offer to buy Savings Bonds—to save regularly for your future welfare and that of your family.

The Opportunity Drive starts at Camp Lejeune the 13th June—don't let yourself down. Don't let your country down. Buy Bonds.
