Our Southeast Lions Clubs Visit Lejeune Last Week

Camp Lejeune acted as hosts to Lion club members from Weldonville, Richlands, Burgaw, and Morehead City, last week. The Lions made a tour of the base and facilities to which the training Leathernecks are receiving here.

Approximately 40 members made a trip to Camp Lejeune and were thoroughly pleased and delighted with the operations and maintenance procedures that make Camp Lejeune function smoothly.

The visiting delegation, headed by W. Hood and Lester Gould, district governor from Wilmington, zone chairman from Jacksonville, respectively, were welcomed to the base at 1200.

They were greeted by Colonel J. Whaling, Chief of Staff, Marine Barracks and other Lejeune officials. Also on hand to greet the Lions was the Second Marine Division marching band, who rendered a musical salute. A fifteen minute concert by the band followed the reception.

Immediately after the concert the Lions were taken to the main dining room of the Hostess House for luncheon.

The afternoon was devoted to sight-seeing. Places to be seen which were included in the itinerary are all of the classes of the primary school battalion, the industrial area, Hadnot Point with a stop at the water plant and laboratory, the Protestant and Catholic chapels where the famed stain windows are located.

The visit to Camp Lejeune was arranged after General Hart had extended an invitation to the Lions Clubs of the area to visit the base.

The members of the visiting party were pleased with the sights they saw in during their educational tour of the base.

The Lions were impressed with the house and expressed their desire to return.

The Lionesses were impressed with the cleanliness of Mess Hall.

The tour was arranged so as to acquaint the people of surrounding areas of Camp Lejeune with the base and the operating procedures which make it possible.

FLAG DAY

14 JUNE

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Flag Day Will Be Observed June 14; No National Holiday

Flag Day, although not a legal holiday, will be observed generally throughout the U. S. on June 14th. The annual date of patriotic observance was designated in 1895 as an occasion to celebrate the anniversaries of the adoption of the American flag June 14, 1775.

During American History there have been many forerunners to the flag as we view it today, but standardization of the "Stars and Stripes" began 14 June 1777 when the Continental Congress passed a resolution "That the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars (in a circle), white in a blue field, representing a new constellation (of states arising in the west)."

The flag continued in that design for several years, but with the admission of Vermont (1791) and Kentucky (1792) a Congressional act signed by President Washington specified "That from and after May 1, 1795, the flag of the United States be 15 stripes, alternate red and white; and that the union be 15 stars, white in a blue field." The 1795 flag had the stars arranged in three rows of five each instead of the circle.

The intention, apparently, had been to add a new star and stripe for each state to be admitted to the Union. However, with the continued entry of more states, Congress realized further modification was necessary. Therefore, in 1818 a new law was passed providing "That from and after the fourth of July next, the flag of the United States be 13 horizontal stripes, alternate red and white, that the union have 20 stars, white in a blue field. That on the admission of every new state into the Union, one star be added to the union of the flag; and that such addition shall take effect on the fourth of July next succeeding such admission."

The present flag has remained unchanged in 37 years, its field of 48 stars having been completed in 1912 with the admission of New Mexico (6 January) and Arizona (14 February).

Ceremonies Last Thursday Honor Memory Of 8 Marines

The plaque was presented to the Battalion Commander, Lieutenant Colonel F. E. Gallagher, Jr., by the Regimental Chaplain, Lieutenant J. P. F. Gallagher, (ChC) USN. Chaplain Gallagher presented the plaque on behalf of the men of "C" Company and Headquarters Company. The Marines whose memory was commemorated were members of these companies.

They were: Sergeant Joseph H. O'Prey; Corporal John L. Crowe; Privates first class Ralph E. Ascenzio; Steve Crooks, Jr.; Byron A. Darling, Jr.; Homer L. Norris; and Stanley E. Ragan, all of "C" Company. The eighth man was Corporal Rudolph J. Walsh of Headquarters Company.

Brief prayers by the Chaplain preceded and followed the presentation before the sounding of "Taps". The ceremony was climaxed with a parade and review by a unit of the Second Marine Division Band and "C" Company. Lieutenant Colonel Gallagher was the reviewing officer.

A copy of the plaque was made by the Camp Photo Lab and will be forwarded to the parent of each man concerned in the tragedy.

The ceremony, scheduled to take place in the early part of last week was cancelled due to inclement weather.

A WISE INVESTMENT

Next Monday, the "Opportunity Drive" campaign will start. The goal set for this bond drive is an over-all participation of at least 75% of all Military and civilian personnel.

There is no finer investment than U. S. Savings Bonds! For every three dollars you invest you get back four on maturity—for every three hundred, four hundred! Buying bonds is the finest method of regular, automatic savings, ever devised.

Money piles up fast when you salt away a bit regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds. For example: Only $18.75 saved regularly each week grows to $10,828.74 in ten short years.

Don't be like Gwendolyn who thought it was too hard to save her money systematically. "Gwen," a lovely blonde stenographer spent most of her time at her desk doing her nails and dreaming of Van Johnson and Mink coats. One day she was having a sandwich with her friend Shirles. "Gwen," said Shirle, "its nine years since you got your last raise. What do you do with all your dough?"

"Gosh, I don't know!" said Gwendolyn, munching away. "Djever try saving some?" queried Shirles. Like buying U. S. Savings Bonds, I mean?"

"Honestly, Shirle, the THINGS you say! Everybody KNOWS how hard it is to save money!" Gwendolyn protest-

And so she went back to the office, planning to get an ermine jacket to wear while her mink was at the cleaner's.

On February 17, 1981, the City Council tore down the building where Gwendolyn worked to make a landing field for interurban helicopters. And there, on the 11th floor, they found Gwendolyn still at her desk.

They picked her up tenderly and carried her off to the home for Aged and Indigent Females. And there she still sits, peering through her bifocals for the first happy sight of her Dream Prince, coming to Take Her Away From It All.

MORAL: The grimmest thing about this story is that so many people do nothing but dream—like Gwendolyn. They honestly believe that it's hard to save money—and so they go on, year after year, with nothing to show as they get older except additional wrinkles.

There is no safer, surer way for the typical American to get ahead financially than by saving regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan. You owe it to YOURSELF, to your FAMILY, and to your COUNTRY, to take advantage of this AMERICAN OPPORTUNITY. — W. B. K.

Always Good

Some years ago a famous automobile manufacturer popularized the slogan "Ask the man who owns one." That made a hit—because a satisfied customer is ALWAYS a company's best salesman.

Why not do the same for Savings Bonds? "Ask the man who owns some"—the man who's been buying them regularly every payday on the Payroll Savings Plan where he works? HE'LL tell you how safe they are, how secure, and how easy it is to buy them through automatic Payroll Savings—the only partial-payment plan for their purchase HE'LL tell you that Savings Bonds are YOUR best bet for future security. PAYROLL SAVINGS IS SURE SAVINGS!

Chaplains' Corner

"I believe that those who pray do more for the world than those who fight; and if the world is going from bad to worse, it is because there is more fighting than praying. I firmly believe that if there were a single hour of a single day when earth directed no prayer heavenwards, that day and hour would be the last for the universe."

A man by the name of Cortez wrote those words over a hundred years ago, and they are as true now as then. Unfortunately a great many people have become too sophisticated to pray. It is rejected as an emotional thing, nothing but poetry, something too idealistic for practical people and too weak for strong men. A childhood practice to be outgrown, like belief in Santa Claus. But if there was one fact the last war brought to our attention, one fact that all veterans of combat will admit, it is this; when men are face to face with the stark realities of life and death, they shed their sophistication and instinctively turn to God. When the chips are down, men pray. The memory of those fundamental truths learned in childhood comes back to strengthen them in their hour of need. If anything is practical, it is prayer—it is eminently practical to ask God for help when He is the only one who can give it. Prayer may or may not be emotional, depending on the person's temperament — but the essential element is truth, I truly need God. It is realism—the recognition of things as they are—I depend on God for everything.

in our lives it is only expected that there would be a little embarrassment in approaching Him. The more we pray, the easier it becomes. One thing is certain—4 minutes a day in prayer will be clean wind freshening our souls, will put us in touch with a source of strength we sorely need in our daily difficulties of life.

2d Marines Fire Against British Units While On Mediterranean Duty

The island of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea resounded with the echoes of rifle fire recently in one of the most unusual shoots held in past years. Two dozen U. S. Marines pitted their skill and arms against British soldiers, sailors, Marines and commandos on a British course with British rules.

Maj. Gen. J. C. Fegan Succumbs In California

Major General Joseph C. Fegan, USMC, Retired, who commanded the Department of Pacific before his retirement in August, 1945, died Thursday, May 26, at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Oceanside, California, from injuries received in an automobile accident.

The accident occurred Saturday, May 21, at Carlsbad, California where the general resided. He was 62 at the time of his death.

General Fegan, a native of Dallas, Texas, was first commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps in 1909.

Prior to World War II, he served in Panama, Cuba, the Philippines, Santo Domingo, Haiti and aboard ships of the Navy, as well as at posts and stations in the United States.

At various times in his career, he was Marine Corps Officer in Charge of Recruiting; Athletic Officer; and Marine Corps Public Relations Officer, at Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

During the last war, he commanded the huge training base at Camp Joseph H. Pendleton, Oceanside, California; the Fleet Marine Force, San Diego Area and finally the Department of Pacific.

Among those surviving are the general's widow, Mrs. Doris S. Fegan, Route 234, Carlsbad; and a son, Captain Joseph C. Fegan, Jr., USMC, serving with the Fifth Marines on Guam.

Unification Move May Save Billions For Armed Forces

WASHINGTON—(APFS)—A bill to strengthen the Armed Forces and to effect a savings of more than a billion dollars has been passed by the Senate and now awaits action.

The bill had been recommended by the late James V. Forrestal, the Secretary of Defense. It unifies the Army, Navy, and Air Force one step nearer full unification.

Principal features of the bill include: Strengthen the powers of the Secretary of Defense over the three services to eliminate duplication of effort.

Place a civilian comptroller in charge of the purse strings of all the Armed Forces and set up an accounting system aimed at saving at least a billion dollars a year.

Prohibit the Defense Secretary from reassigning combatant functions or personnel in such a manner as to abolish one branch of the service.

Create the post of Deputy Secretary of Defense. He would rank below the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Place civilians in control of the National Security Council and the Vice-President a member of that body.

Create the position of Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff but prohibit him from exercising military control over the Armed Forces. He would preside over the meetings but would not vote.

Increase the size of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to 210 officers. It now has 100.

Strengthen the relationships between the Secretary of Defense and the Munitions Board.

MCI Offers Course In Psychology

Recent advances in psychology, especially noticeable in the investigation of ability, intelligence, learning, development and personality, make a knowledge of this field more desirable than ever.

Psychology plays a major part in the daily lives of everyone. The salesman will testify to the importance of being capable of determining an individual's reaction to varied situations. Mass psychology is the basis of sales promotion and programming in the advertising, radio, television and entertainment world.

The Marine Corps Institute's course, PSYCHOLOGY, is a practical study of human behavior in personal and social relationships. It is a college-level course and should be of special interest to Marines who are planning to enter college.

Many Marines have undoubtedly become accustomed to hearing the word psychology used in everyday conversation and yet are unfamiliar with the actual aims and application of the science. The course offered by MCI will clarify these questions and point out the value of a personal knowledge of the subject.

Psychology focuses its attention directly on the individual. It is the individual that loves, hates, succeeds and fails. By analyzing the conditions, motives and stimuli that produce human reaction the student gains a better understanding of himself and others.

In addition to psychology, the Marine Corps Institute Handbooks contains a listing of accredited college-level courses which may be applied toward a college degree.

'Red' Davis And Chalky Fears Commended For All-Navy Titles

By CPL. MURDOC

In a memorandum issued by the Acting Commanding Officer of the Second Marine Division, Colonel George F. Good, Jr., Myrven "Red" Davis and Dorsey "Chalky" Fears, All-Navy boxing champions, were commended for their achievements upon returning from Oakland, Calif., where the All-Navy finals were held.

Further, the memorandum cited Davis and Fears for having contributed much to the furthering of organized competitive sports within the service.

Davis, no newcomer to Navy and Marine Corps boxing, having been runner-up for the title in 1948, defeated last year's champion, Jimmy Quinn of the West Coast in the quarter-finals. This, followed by the second round knockout of Danny Ignacio and a unanimous decision over Price of Hawaii, won the 1949 All-Navy Featherweight title for Davis.

"Chalky" Fears, entering competitive service boxing only a short time ago, had already garnered the 6th Naval District and South Central championships before leaving for Oakland to compete in the All-Navy events.

Henry Biggert, West Coast champion was "Chalky's" first victim, as he lost in the quarter-finals. "Chalky" then went on to defeat Floyd Taylor, Far East champion and Al Glover, Pacific Fleet champion for the All-Navy Bantamweight title.

The Lejeune All-Navy champions have boasted a record of winnings comparable to almost any service fighters to date.

"Red" Davis has tried to cop the coveted All-Navy championship for the past three years but didn't break the ice until he entered the ring in the finals at Oakland, Calif.

Some of "Red's" previous fights are reprinted from past issues of the Globe so the readers can judge for themselves the power-packed redhead's record.

In addition to "Red's" many victories and trophies, Chalky Fears, Lejeune All-Navy champion, has

Lejeune Nine Drops Two To Soldiers Last Week, 2-0 And 4-2

The Lejeune Marines dropped a pair of two-run decisions last week, losing a 2-0 game to the Langley Field Flyers in the eighth inn and dropping a 4-2 tilt at Camp Lee. Coach Cronk's hurling crew worked perfectly, with Dallas Huddle pitching a four-hitter against Air Force nine, and "Wash" Washington throwing a five-hit game against Camp Lee.

2nd Prize—Virginia Ann Schroeder.

In the Junior Group the winners were:

Asks U. S. Consideration' for People

Truman has called American people to give 100 military men "the treatment they would get if they had stayed."

President told the opening of the National Conference on Community Responsibility for Peacetime Service Women that the military contain "future citizens" more than half of whom are under 21, and "who in the future will run this country." He said this with the nation's military strength of 300,000 in 1939, most of whom were 20.

President asked that these men now "fighting for the welfare of the whole world" be given as much consideration as we were spending $100,000,000 a year to win the war.

"I want your sons, and your daughters, and they are away from home," he said, "They need the Armed Services."

Secretary of Defense George L. B. Acheson. Early asked the conference to face the inadequate housing problem squarely." The conference called for 10 per cent of the military housing with that morale is breaking down," he explained.

He called to cities and towns to provide installations to provide personnel from rent-free space for them in private homes.

Service housing problem is being attached by the reactivated Service Organizations

PIPES

Your Camp Exchange has received a new shipment of pipes. In many new shapes and sizes, these excellent pipes will lend themselves to the need for inexpensive gifts and furnish new interest for pipe collectors. See them at Central and your Area Exchanges.

VACUUM PACKED CANDY

To combat Lejeune's hot summer and still satisfy the cravings of that sweet-tooth, your Exchange is this year stocking chocolate candy in Vacuum-seal cans. Because candy is impervious to heat when packed in this manner, vacuum candy will be a staple item during the warm months. Boxed candy will also be stocked in limited amounts, and received in small shipments to guarantee its freshness and fine condition.

BOOKS AT CENTRAL

Many books are now on sale at Central Exchange to add enjoyment to your leisure hours. Chosen with a view of filling the greatest demand, Central now lists several types of lasting interest: cook books, dictionaries, Bibles, baby books, and many fiction and non-fiction best sellers are now available. Stop at Central's book counter on your next visit.

CAMP EXCHANGE SERVICE STATION

The Camp Exchange Service Station is fully equipped to care for the needs of all military-owned automobiles at Camp Lejeune. Expert and courteous service is a feature of this fine activity and your service station is open until five in the evening to help fill your requirements.

MEET THE PRESS

An unrehearsed "press conference of the air" in which four reporters from the nation's leading newspapers question the most prominent person in the news that week. No punches are pulled—the personality interviewed is asked to explain or justify his position and statements on subjects of national interest.

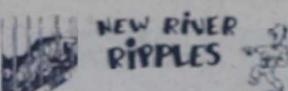

Off-the-record material is often revealed. "Meet the Press" has attained the signal distinction of being covered every week by A.P., U.P., and INS. The program is moderated by Albert Warner, Mutual's Washington News Chief.

With the exception of the moderator, the programs personalities change from week to week—both in the persons of the interviewing reporters and in the person of the interviewed guest. Fridays 10:00-10:30 p. m.

TWENTY QUESTIONS

A famous personality joins regulars Fred Van Deventer, Florence Rinard, Bobby McGuire and Herb Polesie in a radio version of the "animal, vegetable or mineral" game. The panel, presided over by master of ceremonies, Bill Slater, tries to guess subjects and objects suggested by listeners by asking not more than 20 questions.

Subjects range from the characters of literature and the sports world to those of fact and fiction in this educational and entertaining quiz program, which appeals to a wide variety of ages. Saturdays 8:00-8:30 p. m.

"What's all those names?"
"That's a list of the guys I can whip."
"But you can't lick me, you know!"
"OK, OK, then I'll take your name off the list."

"These rock formations," explained a guide, "were piled up here by glaciers."

"But where are the glaciers?" asked a curious member of the party.

"They've gone back, sir, to get more rocks," said the guide.

"Has your son's college education been of any value?"

"Oh yes; it cured his mother of bragging about him."

Joe: "Okay, we'll meet at the Post Library. But how will I know when you get there?"

Bill: "I'll make a mark on the sidewalk."

Joe: "Okay, and if I get there first, I'll rub it out."

Athletic Officer: "Is that new Pfc. a fast runner?"

Track NCO: "I'll say! He's so fast the other contestants have to run twice as fast as he does to catch up with him."

Pay Hike Revised To Give Recruits Raise In Pay

WASHINGTON — (APPS)—The Armed Services pay bill recently sent back to the committee by the house, has been revived with several revisions, including a proposed pay hike for Recruits.

Under the earlier bill, Recruits would have been left at the present $75 a month salary but the revised measure may provide for a five dollar increase. While the bill is now being considered in congress it is still subject to change.

In a message to all members of the Armed Forces, Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson said, "the Military Establishment has full faith in merits of the pay reforms as recommended in the Hook Reports and approved by the President and will continue its effort to see favorable action by Congress based upon the logic of our position."

Generals, who had earlier been slated for pay raises up to $353 a month would get a top increase of $135 under the revised schedules. Equivalent ranks in the other services would come in for the same rates of increase.

The lowest enlisted grades would benefit mostly under the revised measure. The original bill increased their pay from three to 30 per cent, or from $80 to $82.50 in case of a private. The current proposal boosts the figure to $85.

Another important point in the revised bill would continue the wartime allowances for enlisted men's dependents for the duration of their current enlistment.

The new schedule proposes a 25 per cent increase for Lieutenant colonel's instead of about 22 per cent, and majors would receive a 30 per cent increase instead of about 23.

Captains, first lieutenants and second lieutenants would get the same advances proposed before—about 32, 28, and 22 per cent, respectively.

Untouched would be the old bill's restrictions on officer disability retirements. As provided in the earlier measure these provisions, in curtailed form, would be extended for the first time to enlisted men.

together in the finals with the men from Camp Lejeune winning a very closely contested match. Only one title remained upright on the British end of the butts when distinguished marksman TSgt. Max R. Beebe plunked over the tenth USMC target.

Our team was severely handicapped by unfamiliarity with the range, lack of opportunity to zero in and double-tiling back and forth over the range during the match. Despite such grave disadvantages, they defeated the British shooters who had every advantage over the Camp Lejeune Marines.

The victorious Lejeune shooters were 1st Lieutenant James H. Reid, Jr., of Marion, Va.; 2nd Lt. Henry F. Finney, Jacksonville, N. C.; TSgt. Max Beebe, Eumclaw, Wash.; Sgt. Kenneth R. Kipp, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Sgt. Vernon J. Moore, Oleott, Ind.; Privates First Class Max A. Perkins, Jr., Hanover, N. H.; Robert H. Coleman, Nashville, Tenn.; and Corporal John D. Abercrombie, Hodges, S. of American and English literature have been published in journals. His extensive collection of colored slides made during his years in Guatemala will be shown during this lecture here.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Howell, also a teacher of English at Guatemala, and who has assisted him in many of his lectures. She will display her large collection of native handicraft, especially textiles, silver, native costumes, dolls, and pottery.

All school children and members of this command are cordially invited to attend this most interesting and educational program.

Comparing the universities of Latin America with those in the United States, Dr. Howell said the Spanish universities are usually purely technical or professional. A liberal arts education as we know it taken cultural edification is practically unknown and a bachelor's degree in South America is awarded for what we would class as high school or junior college work.

Work While They Study

Students quite often have work which is connected with the profession they are studying in school. For example, Dr. Howell, explained, law students are found in the law courts serving as stenographers, clerks, or runners for the judges. Medical students usually select a doctor whom they follow about observing him in actual practice.

Students Live At Home

College students in South America generally live at home or have lodgings in the city. There are no dormitories for students, and consequently little organized student life as we know it from the college surrounding our large American cities.

Dr. Howell made the statement that most South American families that can afford it, send their children to the United States and other foreign countries to be educated.

These above excerpts from some of Dr. Howell's lectures are but a minute portion of the valuable information he can tell you on the educational facilities and habits of our southern neighbors.

Gen. Bradley Speaks In Favor Of Pay Bill

Washington — (APFS) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, recently emphasized the necessity of adequate pay and opportunities for promising young officers as a means of attaining the best national security possible.

"If we are honestly concerned for the welfare of the American soldier," General Bradley said, "our first consideration should be for the quality of the men who command him.

"It is the competence of this leadership and the quality of this command that may readily spell the difference between his life and death in battle.

"Inferior inducements attract second-rate men. Second rate men invite second best security. In war there is no second prize for the runner up," the General declared.
