

IMO-1 Man Commended For Action At Roosevelt Roads On Recent Atlantic Fleet Exercises

Pfc. Joseph Manning of Marine Observation Squadron 1, was awarded a Letter of Commendation at presentation ceremonies at Peterfield Point; Camp Lejeune, last Friday, saving another Marine's life, and extinguishing a fire at Sevel Roads, Puerto Rico during the recent Atlantic Fleet Exercises.

le Commendation signed by r General Field Harris, Com-ding General, Aircraft Fleet ne Force Atlantic and Second ne Aircraft Wing, was present-
y Maj. Wallace J. Slappey, manding Officer, Marine Ob-ation Squadron One, and reads
art:

On 17, February 1949 you are a member of the security chain your squadrons material storage area at Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico. At that time another member of the watch spilled fuel on his trousers while refueling an auxiliary power unit located in the area. This mans trousers were subsequently set ablaze by sparks from the power unit. At that time this man became dizzy and ran. Disregarding personal safety, you promptly overtook the runner, and extinguished the flames on his clothes and caused the call for an ambulance. Immediately thereafter you extinguished a fire that, in the meantime, had started in the material storage area. Your alert and decisive action averted serious injury to another Marine and extensive damage to government property. For your quick action, fearlessness and lack of regard for your own safety is in keeping with the best traditions of the United States Marine Corps, and merit receive my highest commendation.

Onslow Beach Opened For Summer Season

Since the official opening of Onslow Beach and all its bathing facilities last Monday, only a trickle of bathers have been seen on the sands and in the water. With good weather, a large number of Marines and civilian workers of Camp Lejeune are expected to take advantage of the Carolina sun and surf, and make this weekend, the first of the summer season, a gala affair of swimming and sun bathing.

Military personnel, their families and accompanying guests will be permitted to use the beach and facilities. Identification will be required by the sentry at the Inland Waterway Bridge.

Civilian employees, their families and accompanying guests will be permitted to use the Civilian Recreational facilities. The Employees Onslow Beach Pass, together with some personal identification, such as Camp Drivers Permit, will be required by the sentry.

The kids have probably been looking forward to the opening of Onslow too. Those who have been to the beach before know that it has nice warm water and miles and miles of sandy shore. They know it means they may run and frolic, build sand houses and splash in the water, and have all kinds of fun. It means tonic, weiners, and picnics, too. If you are under 16 years old, kids, you'll have to be accompanied by an adult who will be responsible for your conduct and safety.

There will be good times for all at Onslow. By exercising almost all the muscles, swimming tends to build a healthy, formful body. That suntan is something to acquire too; it looks equally well on both boys and girls. Get out to the beach, when the opportunity affords, and have a wonderful time, but be careful.

Swimmers are cautioned not to go beyond the point where the surf breaks because of the danger of the presence of sharks, barracuda and other aggressive and dangerous fish. Because of the undertow, surf bathing at Onslow Beach is dangerous in waters unprotected by life guards. Life guards will be on duty daily from 1000 until sunset on weekdays and from 0800 until 2030 on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. Swimming outside these

Varsity Nine Splits First Home Game Double Header, 6-0, 5-6; Commanding General Throws First Ball

Camp Lejeune's Baseball Team whitewashed the Henderson Hall Marines six to nothing in the opener of a twin bill last Sunday to celebrate their first home game of the season. Our heroes' rally in the nightcap fell short as rain, washing out the game in the eighth, found Lejeune on the small end of a six to five count.

• Before a good sized crowd, Major General Franklin A. Hart opened the game by tossing the first ball from the mound to Col. W. J. Whaling, Chief of Staff, MB. In the Commanding General's stand with General and Mrs. Hart were their guests Mr. and Mrs. Wing, Whitehouse Plantation, Green Pond, S. C.; Mr. Samuel Hopkins Adams, Auburn, N. Y., and Mrs. Atherton Harlan, New York City. Col Whaling and Capt. Walz, aide to the general, were also in the group.

"Blood" Burns pitched the first home win of the season striking out ten and allowing only five hits, while his teammates gathered seven off the Henderson Hall chucker. Hampton led Lejeune at the plate with a double and a triple for four times at bat.

In the second game, the home nine found no easy pickings. Krebs, the HQMC pitcher allowed 8 hits, but kept them well scattered. The Washington Marines had two big innings, the 3rd and fourth, scoring three each frame. They held the lead comfortably until the eighth when Nofsinger and Spencer singled with one out, and the game was called as Cawley came to bat.

This is how it started.

NAVY RELIEF

The Navy takes care of its own.

The annual drive of the Navy Relief Society opened yesterday, in commemoration of the Battle of the Coral Sea and the Battle of Midway. Contributions may be made to Navy Relief until June 6.

All of us are familiar with the mission of the Society which is to assist financially or with other forms of services, members of the Navy and Marine Corps on active service and the dependents of those personnel in emergencies due to sickness, death, non-receipt of dependency allowances and other similar circumstances which cannot reasonably be met from current resources of the person concerned.

The Navy Relief Society is a private agency founded and incorporated in 1904 by a group of Naval officers, wives of naval officers, and civilian friends of the Navy. Originally its activities were confined to aiding "indigent" widows and orphans of officers and enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps. However, down through the years, as necessity arose, and resources increased, the cope of it work gradually broadened.

Let's take a brief look at the societies' record for the year 1948 right here at Camp Lejeune. The North Carolina Auxiliary granted 1066 loans amounting to $57,635.96 to our service personnel. These figures indicate the need for a worthy organization such as Navy Relief Society. In many cases the society made gratuitous loans to persons in dire need who could not repay the amount.

Camp Lejeune Marine and Naval personnel generously contributed $6,088.08 last year to this praiseworthy cause. Eighteen officers' wives donated their services to the auxiliary as interviewers, visitors and case workers. These volunteer women attended a Navy Relief Society Course to better acquaint themselves with the method of handling the problems confronting the society.

The Marines and Naval personnel of Camp Lejeune have always given generously to this organization "which takes care of its own."

All contributions are voluntary and, no matter how large or small the individual donation, if all of us do our part, the total contributions will enable this splendid organization to carry on its outstanding work.

Your donation will help a fellow service man, SO GIVE GENEROUSLY.—W. B. K.

Fire Chief Sez---

It is not only a life hazard but a direct violation of Camp Regulations for motorists to fail to give fire apparatus the right of way. A siren and red light are for a specific purpose. If you aren't a fireman, stay clear of the fire area.
Thanks to you and you and YOU, fire loses on this reservation are practically nil due to the wholehearted cooperation of all hands in fire-prevention practices. Keep up the good work.

Gripe Of The Week

This week the gripe goes back to the movies. The little article appearing in this column a few weeks ago did some good, but there are still a few individuals who persist in displaying their uncouth manners every time a movie queen appears on the screen. Evidently it takes some people longer to "wise up."
However, "the kick" this week deals with the characters who scream every time a section, state, or city of the country is mentioned. A visitor to the theater couldn't help but be impressed by the number of Brooklynites in the audience; or is that roar, set up when Brooklyn is mentioned, caused by men trying to make others think they're from Brooklyn instead of the farm? Show pride in your home town by keeping silent, secure in the knowledge that mention of your community needs no further support. If everyone does this, the dialogue will be audible to all, and everyone may enjoy the show.

Chaplain's Corner

At this particular period of the year, the season of Lent having been concluded by the joyous feast of Easter, it is apropos that we should check ourselves to find out if all is well with us as regards our spiritual state of health. During Lent we had the opportunity to reflect upon our virtues and shortcomings in a spirit of mortification. In short, by depriving ourselves of some things which could have been ours legitimately, and suffering slightly therefrom, we could observe ourselves in a more accurate light. For how many times did we fail in what we had silently promised to do? On how many occasions was it driven home to us that we lacked the manliness and character we thought we possessed? Our every retrogressive step was indicative of our weakness. We failed, perhaps many times, and each time had to miserably acknowledge that we were not what we imagined ourselves to be. With Lent ended are we going to continue to be failures in an even worse manner?

It is not the part of an intelligent man to do this. When errors are noticed in our daily work, do we not correct them? We certainly do, for to continue to commit the same mistake time and again gives indication of the grossest stupidity. An advancement and progress in our work is predicated upon the supposition that we possess intelligence by which we can learn to avoid making the same mistakes. If we can and do correct our work then why cannot we correct ourselves once the recognition of personal failure is impressed upon us? Not to do so points to only one thing: stupidity and weakness, neither of which is commendable for a man.

We can excuse for a time a wrongdoing person who does not know any better. It may be that his whole past environment has been such as to incur rather than decrease ignorance. But once in the service, where he meets others not only like himself, but some who are better, how can he help but increase his knowledge, if he has any intelligence at all, of the distinct difference between right and wrong.

good and bad? Yes, we can understand such a man's profession continuing evil habits—but not long. For if he continues proving to everyone that he is capable of learning, that he isupid, or, what is worse, that he not have the courage to change ways, that he is no man, but a being of whom even his friends are ashamed.

The weakling arouses in us contempt. We know of the strength which are in us by son of our will, we know of many opportunities we have given to refuse to avail ourselves of the endowments because of the seditic or veiled remarks of companions the surest possible evidence of moral cowardice. The cowardly— and deserves — his reward: aloofness and disgust of courageous men.

There is no reason for our sitting in discouragement. We have will by which we can determine what we shall do, and we have even more powerful weapons: grace of God working in us to the courage we pray for. With a mighty aid, how can we help overcome the bad habits we make us so obnoxious to others: finer sensibilities? We need never be failures to ourselves, may never hold a position we demands respect from others but we command respect because what we are as individuals, possessing intelligence and courage in convictions, then no man can say we have not been a success in life.

music business at the age of ten, collecting tickets from patrons at his father's ballroom in Hendersonville, North Carolina. Jimmie's dad was the first promoter of note in North Carolina and is credited with having started Hal Kemp in the business. Kemp was a college band leader at the time Livingston senior brought him to Hendersonville for professional dance dates.

Working on the door or in the box office, Jimmie soon decided he would rather "be up there where Hal was" than play front man for daddy. With money he saved he bought himself a saxophone and by the time he was thirteen was playing dance dates with a band of his own.

Jimmie did a thorough job on his "home" territory before venturing into parts unknown. He played successful engagements at the Hotel Charlotte, the Tutwiler, the Henry Grady in Atlanta, and every hotel of note in the southeast. Once his reputation had been established and his RCA Victor records released, he felt strong enough to take his band on a nationwide tour.

As a result of his tours Jimmie Livingston is a name to be reckoned with most anywhere in the nation. He has made thousands upon thousands of friends over the length and breadth of the land, and many of the musicians who accompanied him on these tours, such as Johnny Blowers, M. T. Cousins, and Bud Schlegel, are today on top of the musical heap.

The present Livingston band is, as always, a "sweet, commercial type band." Jimmie believes in music for dancing and that is where he places the accent. However, he has a keenly developed sense of showmanship, and the public is assured that when Livingston is on the stand you not only get your share of ear and dance appeal, but there's a little something extra added in the way of "eye appeal." That's the 1948 edition of the youngest "old timer" in the music business, popular Jimmie Livingston.

The popular Second Division Orchestra will make their bi-monthly stand at MPC tonight. Dancing will begin at the usual time.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(AFPS)

—An electric "umpire" which specializes in calling bowling fouls will soon be a familiar sight on many American alleys. The device located at floor level on the foul line, makes use of the "electric eye" principle to indicate when and on what alley a foul has been made. An interesting feature of the detector is its ability to "recognize" the bowling ball so that the foul signal is not activated as the ball passes the foul line.

Servicemen's Families Rate Housing Parity

Most American servicemen and their families today do not have the privilege of living "comfortable and normal lives insofar as military duty permits on a reasonable parity with the average American citizen," Secretary of the Air Force W. Stuart Symington declared this week.

He told members of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, considering legislation to encourage construction of rental housing at or in areas adjacent to military and naval installations, that many Servicemen and their dependents "are forced to slum areas or makeshift dwellings too inadequate to have been considered a part of the available and livable housing facilities of the community in the first place. Moreover," Secretary Symington continued, "any adequate accommodations that may be available command a price far beyond their means."

He said priority would be given to junior officers and non-commissioned officers if the housing legislation is adopted.

Speaking on behalf of the entire National Military Establishment, Secretary Symington warned, however, that the "housing created as a result of this legislation would not alone solve our entire housing problem any more than an adequate housing alone would suffice to attract into service the number of competent engineers and technicians that are urgently needed."

But he explained that the measure "is designed to provide immediate relief." The problem, said Secretary Symington, is "immediate and pressing," and added that "this legislation would operate, in the shortest possible time, to provide an invaluable aid in easing this grave difficulty."

The necessity for the legislation which would insure private builders against losses as a result of the sudden closing of a military facility was emphasized by General Muir S. Fairchild, USAF, Vice Chief of Staff. He revealed that the Air Force now has only 17,954 housing units of all types, of which but 6,397 are considered adequate. General Fairchild said the Air Force has need for housing 121,000 families.

For the Army, it was reported that only 33,500 units of all types of public quarters are available for 134,000 military and civilian personnel entitled to such facilities. Only 8,787 units are permanent type quarters.

The Navy told the committee that its estimated housing needs are 28,041 units for personnel assigned to shore stations and approximately 16,000 units for men assigned to fleet units who are based ashore and therefore eligible for housing. It was explained that this does not take into account 39,842 temporary low cost rental units, of which 14,000 should be replaced within the near future by permanent housing of standard size with modern facilities.

Lejeune Boxers Take Three Firsts; Return To Charleston For Crack At South Carolina And All-Navy Trials

By CPL J. E. GRIFFITH

Red Davis, Chalky Fears and Willie McClendon punched their way to district boxing crowns in the Sixth Naval District boxing tournament last week, winning a trial in the South-Central tournament, being fought at Charleston, S. C. this week to decide All-Navy competitors.

Camp Lejeune was top-team in individual titles, but the Cherry Point MAS pugs placed seven fighters in the finals who garnered 25 points to take team honors. The locals followed with 19 points, and Pensacola NAS took third place with 13. Cherry Point won two individual championships, as did Pensacola, while the remaining title was copped by a lone entry from Jacksonville (Fla.) NAS.

Fighting before a packed house, numbering over 1800 at the Charleston Naval Receiving Station, elusive Red Davis drew first blood for the Lejeune team by wrapping up the flyweight title in the first bout of the finals last Thursday night. Davis drew a bye to the deciding clash, when he cleanly outpointed a game but outclassed A. Fortin of Pensacola NAS.

The next bout saw Lejeune's Chalky Fears, who also drew a bye to the finals, climb through the ropes and outpunch Cherry Point's G. J. Vivknair in decisive fashion, to cop the bantamweight crown and add another five points to Camp Lejeune's score.

Willie McClendon, light-heavyweight, accounted for Lejeune's third individual championship with a convincing decision over Cherry Point's D. E. Spencer. Spencer, no stumblebum as attested by his semi-final knockout

Major General Franklin Hart, Commanding General of the Second Marine Division of Camp Lejeune opened ceremonies with a short address in which he said, "I've seen your work, and I've seen you give me what you can do, and I'm proud of all of you."

Master of Ceremonies, 1st Lt. Robert S. Robertson, introduced speakers Colonel George F. Good, Jr., Chief of Staff, Second Marine Division, Lt. Col. Glenn R. I. Major Anthony Caputo, Coach of the team, and the guest speaker, Mr. Everett Case, Coach of the North Carolina State's famous "Wolfpack" squad.

Coach Case who served 18 months in the Navy during World War II has been keenly interested in the Camp Lejeune squad since the beginning of the season and voiced his pleasure in following the team's successes in 1948. He emphasized that coordination and teamwork are the key factors to successful basketball and in his opinion these qualities have made the Marines equally successful on the basketball court as well as on the field of battle. He said, "It is always a pleasure to visit a Marine establishment where neatness and discipline is always obvious."

An interesting highlight in Colonel Case's address was when he stated that in a recent meeting of the basketball authorities, an agreement was reached on rules standardizing courts and backboards. The board of the future will be ready to see BASKETBALL On Page 5

Cherry Point Game Postponed; Many Home Games In Near Future

The Camp Lejeune Baseball Team was scheduled to meet the Cherry Point Marines on the Point's diamond last Friday afternoon but due to inclement weather, the game was postponed.

over Memphis' Bob Schexnayder, fought stubbornly, but couldn't cope with McClendon's consistent hard punches and obvious ring experience.

McClendon was equally impressive in his semi-final bout with Bill Canty, Cherry Point FMF. Canty, who is well-known as a glutton for punishment, was so groggy in the second round from the punishment dished out by the Lejeune boy, that the fight was stopped and a TKO awarded McClendon.

Named by many as the outstanding fighter of the tournament, Lejeune's Lee Damon took runner-up honors in the lightweight division, his loss being inflicted by Cherry Point's J. Biancaneillo, National AAU runner-up. Looking like two bread-and-butter fighters, Damon and Biancaneillo put on a hotly-contested exhibition that was the talk of the tournament.

The opening round went to Biancaneillo by a slight margin, though Damon fought warily and countered nicely at every aggressive move of his opponent. Damon came on strong and showed a world of boxing savvy to even matters in the second round, and in the third they stood toe to toe slugging it out. From start to finish, the fight could have gone either way, and the judges' decision came as a surprise to Damon-followers, who saw the Lejeune boy as the victor.

With the cancelling of the Cherry Point game, the Lejeune nine will stay on their home diamond for the next six consecutive games. Two of the games are with the Henderson Hall Marines from Washington, D. C., the other four are with ServLant on the 3rd and 4th of May and the last two are with the Campbell College nine this coming Friday and Saturday.

Wednesday and Thursday, the 11th and 12th of May, the Lejeune nine will meet the Cherry Point team in their first current season league tilt on the Varsity diamond behind the Hostess House.

Monday, the 16th of May, the Lejeune nine will meet the Canipe Lee squad in another league tilt on the Varsity's home field. The following Wednesday, Langley Field will travel to Camp Lejeune to meet the varsity squad in another league tilt.

At the completion of the game with Langley Field, the Lejeune nine will take to the road again and travel to Fort Monroe for another league contest.

A complete schedule of the Camp Lejeune Varsity Baseball Team will appear in the Globe each week during the current season.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AFPS)—Anything can happen in the blue grass country of Kentucky. Hashcamp, a six-year-old mare, surprised everyone recently by running a half mile in 0.51 seconds. And then returned to her stable to give birth to a colt. At latest reports, both mare and foal were "doing fine."

Civilian Personnel Guide

Disposal Of Used Fluorescent Lamp

The State of Connecticut Bureau of Industrial Hygiene calls attention to the need for exercising care in the breaking up and disposal of fluorescent lamps. Precautions to be observed were drawn up recently by the Technical Advisory Committee on Beryllium. This committee was appointed during the past year by an executive committee representing the beryllium industry.

Fluorescent lamps are coated on the inside with a fluorescent powder called phosphor. The composition varies, but the phosphor usually contains beryllium in amounts ranging from a fraction of a percent to approximately 4 per cent. The lamps also contain small amounts of mercury. While it is not believed that the occasional breaking up of old lamps will create any hazard, circumstances may exist among the large users of fluorescent lamps in which the breaking up and disposal of used lamps require a number of hours of continuous work.

The likelihood of illness from this cause is remote, but as a matter of good practice and for reasons given below, certain precautions are recommended. If particles of broken glass carrying phosphor powders get under the skin during the breaking of lamps, the phosphors will delay healing of wounds and lead to chronic inflammation. These recommendations, accordingly, are designated to reduce unnecessary exposure to phosphor dust and to prevent injury from broken glass with entry of phosphors beneath the skin. In connection with the latter, it is recommended that all used lamps be broken before disposal to prevent improper use or injury to children who may break them in play. In no instance should attempts be made to salvage or reclaim the used phosphors from lamps.

Recommendations are made to cover two general situations. In both, full protective goggles should be worn and operations carried out in such fashion or with such protection as to prevent the possibility of injury from flying glass.

Swimming Facilities

Civilian recreational facilities have been provided for civilian employees, their families, and accompanying guests, at Onslow Beach and will be open for the summer season effective 2 May, 1949.

New Onslow Beach passes must be issued for this season. Each civilian employee is entitled to two beach passes. One for himself and one for his dependents. The dependents' pass may be used by any of the civilian dependents whose age is sixteen or more. Children under sixteen years of age will not be permitted on the beach unless accompanied by an adult who will be responsible for their conduct and safety.

Civilian employees interested in obtaining Onslow Beach passes should contact their supervisor who can arrange for the issuance of the passes.

Volunteers Receive Diplomas

During the annual meeting of the N. C. Auxiliary Navy Relief Society in the Camp Theater last week, ceremonies were conducted for members of a volunteer class in Navy Relief policies and procedures. Major General Franklin A. Hart, Camp Commanding General, presented certificates to Mrs. Hart, chairwoman of the group, and 18 officers' wives for their achievement and unselfish devotion to a worthy cause. In the picture above, General Hart is shown presenting a diploma to Mrs. Hansen, wife of Col. Hansen, Commanding Officer of MCSD. There'll Always Be A U. S. Marine Corps

Extract from The Army, Navy and Air Force Journal of April 30, 1949.

Following the halt in construction on the carrier United States, published reports stated that Secretary of Defense Johnson intended, as his next step, to bring Marine and Naval aviation under control of other branches of the services.

Representative Carl Vinson, Chairman of the Armed Services Committee, on Thursday, placed before the House the following memorandum from the Secretary of Defense:

"I have been hearing the rumors about the transfer of the marines and naval aviation to some other branch of the service.

"1. Under the law this cannot be done.

"2. It has not been under contemplation, and from time to time numerous statements have been made by me to that effect.

"3. There are no such studies being carried on in the National Military Establishment. Further, I want you to know that before any step of this kind would be seriously considered, I should ask permission to discuss the matter before the committees of both Houses of Congress."

Representatives Smathers, of Florida, Jackson, of California, and Keating, of New York, then took the floor and expressed hope that no alteration in the present status of the Marine Corps be affected.

Twice In A Row

For the second consecutive week, Mess Hall 107 wins presented each week for mess efficiency. Colonel Whaling, Chief of Staff, Marine Barracks, repeats his performance in awarding the pennant, and MSgt. B. R. Corrick, (left) Sergeant of 107 follows through with a repeat in accepting by Cpl. Ayers.)

First Marine Division History Available In September

The history of the First Marine Division is almost ready to go to press. First copies will be available about September 1949 but all former members of the Division might not get their copies until December.

The text will consist of approximately 90,000 words, 100 pictures and 20 maps. George McMillan, former TSgt. and combat correspondent, will write the text and Roland James, former Sergeant and combat artist, will illustrate the book. Both men were in action with the First Division. The maps will be composed by a top ranking staff artist of Fortune Magazine.

Recently retired General A. A. Vandegrift, former Commandant of the Marine Corps, will write the foreword of the book. Written in a language that Marines will be able to understand, the book catches the true spirit of men who were in the Division. Containing many anecdotes, the book will be of interest to every reader as well as those men who served with the Division.

Starting with the formation of the Division in Cuba the history includes a complete text of combat activities throughout World War II and finally presents the China Occupation and the Division's activities there.

Former members of the Division will be mailed copies free of charge. However, the purchase price for non-members and where the book may be purchased has not as yet been decided.

hours is prohibited.

Sun bathers should be ever mindful that the sun is at once your friend and your enemy. Its rays are beneficial if you don't try to absorb too many of them at one time. If your shoulders or feet turn a little pink, get into the shade. If they look a lot redder there (which is highly probable), you've had sufficient sun for awhile. There will be more sunny days, don't try to get your tan all at once.

All persons, with the exception of the beach guards and officers occupying beach quarters overnight, will be required to clear the beach by the time the last bus leaves at 2100.

All persons using the beach facilities are required to exercise adequate care pertaining to cleanliness, sanitation, and non-interference with the pleasure of others by boisterous or unseemly conduct.

Marine Corps 'Lift' To Carry Reserves To Training Camps

WASHINGTON (APFS)—A Marine Corps airlift will operate this summer to transport approximately 12,700 ground troops of the Marine Corps Organized Reserves to and from training camps.

Marine Corps headquarters recently announced that the airlift will provide indoctrination training in air movement for ground troops and increase the number of training days available by reducing travel time. Plans call for the movement by air of 38 East Coast and nine West Coast units.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (APFS)—Preliminary work has begun on the enlargement of Pennsylvania State's football stadium to make it one of the most modern in the East. When completed, the stadium will seat 30,000.

This Is Arbor Day; Nation To Plant Trees

Today is Arbor Day, the national tree planting day. Each year thousands of trees are cut down and turned into lumber so people may have the many things made of wood. In order to replace those trees, one day in the year is set aside so that Americans throughout the nation may plant a tree. This insures them, and posterity, against a treeless tomorrow.

The first Arbor Day in America was observed in Nebraska April 10, 1872, on the initiative of J. Sterling Morton. "More than a million trees were planted in the state on that first Arbor Day."

After this start all the states over a period of years provided by law for an Arbor Day, and it has now reached all the dependencies of the United States, Canada, and a number of foreign countries.

The celebration has broadened in scope with increasing interest in the wise use of all natural resources. Conservation groups, women's clubs, sportsmen's organizations, farmers, and civic groups as well as schools, now take part in its observance.

Lejeune's First Tally Rounds Third

A few minutes after the above photo was snapped, Grivas, Lejeune second sacker, pictured above rounding third, streaked across the plate to score the first run of the ball game, and of the year on the home diamond, for the Lejeune nine. Grivas reaching first on a free pass, zipped all the way around to score, when the Henderson Hall club completed a series of miscues on Coach DeJohn's grounder. The visitors third sacker is shown above, impatiently awaiting the ball, (arrow), from the outfield. (Photo by Pfc. Durie.)
