CAMP LEJEUNE, NORTH CAROLINA

British Decoration Brig. Gen. Henry D. Linscott, presently Assistant Division Commander, 2d Marine Division, is appointed an Honorary Commander of the Military Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, by the King, on the recommendation of the New Zealand Government. Sir Carl Berendsen, New Zealand Ambassador to the United States, made the award at the New Zealand Embassy. General Linscott, who was presented the decoration in the name of His Majesty, the King, was Chief of Staff to the commander of the 3rd Amphib Force from September 1943 to March 1944, during which period the Force was engaged in various amphibious operations in the South Pacific Area. During these operations General Linscott rendered exceptionally valuable services to the 3rd Division, 2d New Zealand Expeditionary Force on Vella Lavella, Treasury, and Green Islands.

Marines 'Invade' Charleston; Find Outstanding Hospitality

By Corporals Allen G. Mainard and Richard J. Murdoc, Jr.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Feb. 16—The City of Charleston experienced its first large scale "Invasion" by the Marine Corps last week when three Naval transports loaded with Leathernecks from Camp Lejeune steamed into the harbor. Always famous for its hospitality, Charleston took a deep breath and accomplished the impossible in little or no time at all by providing the most outstanding round of entertainment to be received by elements of the famed Second Marine Division in many a day. Five days of dances, guided tours, concerts and general all-round entertainment began to unroll before the astonished eyes of the Marines.

Red Cross Fund Drive Starts Tues.

Next Tuesday, March 1, an estimated 2,000,000 American Red Cross volunteers in communities throughout the United States will begin the task of raising $60,000,000 needed to continue Red Cross services to the nation during the coming year.

At Camp Lejeune, plans have been formulated for conduct of the local drive and campaign officers have been designated. Colonel William W. Davidson has been named chairman for the Marine Barracks and Capt. Elwood E. Gebhart will be Treasurer. Publicity to aid the concerted effort to raise funds at this giant base will be handled by WO William B. Kohl, Camp Public Information Officer, who has been designated Publicity Chairman.

Pointing out that the 1949 campaign goal is materially less than last year's, Red Cross President Basil O'Connor explained the reduction was made possible by rigid economy in operation and by use of uncommitted surplus funds.

"Today, in the 68th year of its existence," Mr. O'Connor said, "the American Red Cross is still 'on the scene' everywhere in the United States. Its 3,746 chapters provide Red Cross service in every county and every community. See RED CROSS On Page 2

President Truman Proclaims Red Cross Month

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—President Truman recently proclaimed March as Red Cross Month and appealed to all Americans to make generous contributions to the $60 million Red Cross fund drive.

The President, commenting on one major activity of the relief organization, said of the Red Cross blood collection program that it was intended "to insure eventually the availability of life-saving blood to the entire Nation." This drive, the President added, is to help meet a growing post-war need, which "would be multiplied in the event of national emergency."

The President announced that the Red Cross had in the last fiscal year spent $12 million to help 312,000 individuals.

Selection Board Meets At HQMC; Cols., Lt. Cols.

A board to select Marine officers for temporary promotion to grades of Colonel and Lt. Colonel, is now meeting at Marine Corps Headquarters, the Army-Navy Journal reported this week.

The board, headed by Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., Commandant of Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, may recommend 76 lieutenant colonels for advancement to colonel. This number includes three for supply duty. For advancement to lieutenant colonel, the board may recommend 98 majors including three for supply duty and three for limited duty.

Promotion zones for the two boards include all Lt. Colonels down to and including William L. Bates, Jr., and all Majors down to and including Victor H. Streit.

Promotion zones have also been established for officers to be selected for promotion to the ranks of Major and Captain during the current calendar year. The last See SELECTION On Page 6

The Marines, Sailors and members of the Canadian Army serving with the Second Division aboard the three ships that docked at Charleston, numbered more than five thousand and literally occupied the city which really laid down the Welcome mat to the USS Bexar, Noble and Okaloosa. Dances at the Citadel Armory were held Friday, Saturday and Monday nights; two legitimate theatres, the Dock Street and Footlight Players, gave several performances; and twelve guided tours of the city were made, each ending with an informal luncheon and dance at one of the civic or church centers in the city.

The first two ships arrived at the Columbus street docks on Thursday; and, by 1 p. m. most of the men were spruced up in their best uniforms. Drivers in a fleet of taxi-cabs carried the men into town. Numerous boot-blacks were soliciting business, but had few takers. As a Charleston newspaper commented: "The Marines had already shined their shoes to a mirrored polish that only Marines seem to achieve." By late afternoon there were Marines on the streets, Marines shopping in stores, Marines taking pictures on the Battery, and See 2D DIVISION On Page 3

The Wisest Investment

Last Week Sgt. Gordon A. Campbell, NCO in Charge, Depot troops, Marine Corps Supply Depot, invested $14,500 of an inheritance in U. S. Savings bonds; and, in a short time, he will put another $15,000 in bonds. Col. R. H. Jeschke, Chief of Staff, Marine Barracks, is shown below congratulating Sgt. Campbell on making such a wise investment. During the remainder of this month, an intensive bond program is being conducted throughout Lejeune and it is particularly appropriate that a Marine should, at this time, keynote the campaign in such an exemplary manner. It is a well-known fact that, as Sgt. Campbell says, "investing ready cash in U. S. Savings Bonds is the best investment I know of." (Photo by Sgt. Powers).

Bloodiest Leatherneck Battleground

Iwo Jima

Four years ago fierce fighting was in progress on a little volcanic island in the Pacific. This tiny island had been converted by the Japs into one of the world's most formidable fortresses. The mighty fortress of Iwo Jima, which the Japanese didn't believe could be captured was the scene of the bloodiest, most deadly campaign in Marine Corps history.

Its area of only eight square miles was a network of yawning caves and caverns, connected by subterranean passages. It was honey-combed with tunnels. Its cleverly concealed gun emplacements could be reached and supplied from below, from the caverns beneath the rocks. Its machine gun pillboxes and mortar emplacements covered every foot of the island and every possible approach. It was garrisoned by 20,000 Japanese troops who fought with fanatical desperation, men who died rather than surrender.

The Marines knew there was no chance of surprising the defenders for they were prepared for everything. Their equipment was of the finest and their men were fanatics unto death. There was only one way to take Iwo—by frontal assault.

And so the Marines took over.

They stormed ashore in landing craft. They were hit by a murderous hail of defensive fire. They died in the surf and on the beach, but still they came on undaunted. Inch by inch they fought their way inland, digging out Jap defenders to get at them, burying them in their hidden caves, burning them out with flame throwers—moving forward, ever forward.

Brave Marines died by the hundreds, but still they advanced.

Sheer courage won them a beachhead, an airfield, and then they stormed up the rugged, treacherous slopes of Surabachi, to plant the Stars and Stripes on its summit. For more than three weeks it continued, fierce fighting to the bloody end.

Iwo Jima is a monument to Marine Corps courage—a never-to-be-forgotten testimonial which will live forever in the hearts of Americans.

Living Through Today

Today makes or breaks me; it is all I have. What I do with today determines my future yesterdays and affects all my tomorrows. It is the one unduplicated new thing over which I preside. In its use I stamp my choice, my habits, my pattern upon that portion of time called my life. Today is urgent. So soon it will be gone! I can poison it with horrible habits of former days; I can take it for granted and so miss it altogether. I can fling it away with a shrug, cynically, forgetting that it is my only arena, my laboratory, my opportunity to go a second mile. It does not seem accidental that we use the same verb we use in speaking of money. How shall we SPEND today?

Being adventurers, we seek that which is new. We should live freshly and with spirit, susceptible to unrealized possibilities open to truth not seen before. We should renovate our habits and canvass our moral assets that we may not fall into wickedness, slothfulness, cowardice or stupidity. The sources of our energy are limitless. With faith we can "mount up with wings as eagles and run and not be weary". What is the secret?

In practical language the secret is—discipline. If that word is not satisfactory, try another. "Creative regime" might do or "conscious habit forming". The person who knows how priceless is today, is concerned to bring under the scrutiny of God the totality of his being and of this day. This means his body, his reverie, his reason, his fears, his work, his play, his sleep. Does that sound dull? On the contrary, it is the vestibule to freedom.

Most of us live by that worn-out lie: "I am too busy." Every person has twenty-four hours daily, and mainly one does what he wants to do irrespective of his rationalizations. Today is all I have. This is the moment, this the freedom I want so much.

Wish You Knew?

By Armed Forces Press Service QUESTIONS

1. The following terms were in the news recently: (a) "de facto"; (b) "two-package approach"; (c) "haylift." To what did they refer?
2. Norway, Denmark and Sweden disagree on joining the North Atlantic Alliance. Which of these countries were neutral in World War I? In World War II?
3. Russia announced recently the forming of a "Molotov Plan" bloc including Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and Rumania. With which of these countries was Russia at war during World War II?

ANSWERS

1. De Facto is the form of recognition (a state in being) extended to Israel by several countries. The "two package approach" is the proposal for Congressional repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, followed by a separate measure amending the Wagner Act. The "haylift" is the operation for emergency feeding by air of snowbound Western livestock.
2. All three maintained their neutrality in World War I. In World War II Denmark and Norway were attacked and occupied by Germany. Sweden was technically neutral, although she was obliged to permit transport of German troops and material through her territory.
3. Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania.

Spearheading the national campaign, which will continue throughout the month of March, is E. Roland Harriman, well known New York banker and railway executive. Long active in Red Cross circles, Mr. Harriman served from 1944 to 1946 as volunteer manager of the organization's North Atlantic area, and at present is a member of the ARC Board of Governors.

"I have accepted this campaign task because I realize that the American Red Cross faces new challenges in the coming year," Mr. Harriman said in announcing plans for the nationwide appeal. "The American Red Cross is the chosen instrument of our government to assist in the fulfillment of governmental obligations under the Treaty of Geneva. The organization must not only continue traditional responsibilities to the nation, the armed forces, and veterans, but also must be kept ready to occupy a prominent place in the preparations now going forward for civilian defense."

Official Envelopes May Be Used For One Purpose Only

Attention again has been directed to the fact that official envelopes bearing the penalty indicia are not to be used for any purposes other than official mail for transmittal through the U. S. Postal Service.

Public Law 285 provides that envelopes, labels, wrappers, cards, and other articles, bearing the indicia prescribed by law, shall be procured or accounted for through the Postmaster General, and shall be counted for annually by the Government agency or department to which they were furnished.

Use of such envelopes for any of the following purposes is expressly prohibited: Personal Mail; not intended for injection into U. S. Postal System; Any Air Mail, either official or personal; mailings in excess of four ounces, which requires affixing of postage.

Attention has been particularly invited to the fact that the use of official penalty envelopes for message center traffic or guard mail is a violation of the above restrictions and will be discontinued immediately.

Policy Concerning Marines In Veteran Organizations Stated

It has recently been brought to the attention of all hands that there are certain responsibilities and obligations which attach to the status of an individual in the naval service and must be fully recognized. A Marine Corps Bulletin identifies the policy concerning Marine Corps personnel on active duty holding office in Civic and Veteran's organizations.

It is not intended or desired to discourage or restrict such off-duty-hour activity. To the contrary, Marine Corps personnel can do much that will benefit both a community and the Marine Corps, and such participation to this extent is commendable.

Federal statutes and Navy Regulations prohibit and limit action which may be detrimental to the Government, however. Certain of these are noted as follows:

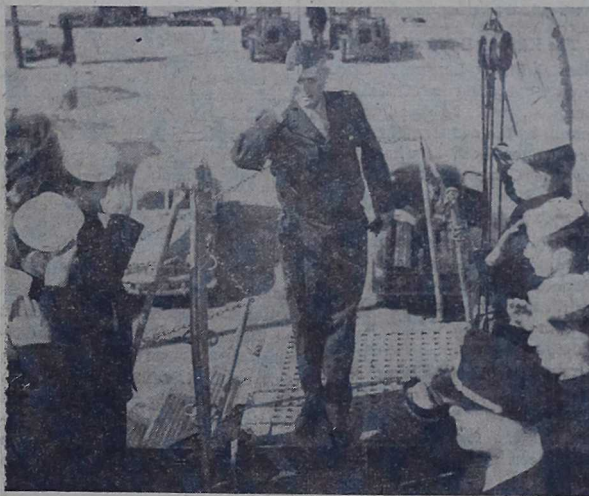

Criminal Code, Section 109 (18 USC 198) provides that any person serving in a place of profit or trust in connection with the United States who acts as an agent, or in any manner or means, other than in his official duties, shall aid or assist in the prosecution or support of a claim against the United States, or receive a share or interest with intent to aid or having aided in the prosecution of such claim shall be fined not more than $5,000 or See POLICY On Page 6

2d Marine Division Sailing Southward For Amphibious Invasion Of Vieques

WASHINGTON, D. C.—February 18—Amphibious invasion of Vieques Island, off Puerto Rico, was a step closer today as Marine-laden transports sailed southward for Atlantic Command Caribbean Exercises. D-Day at Vieques is March 2, when the Joint Expeditionary Troops, commanded by Lt. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, will strike the island in simulated amphibious assault.

Piped Aboard

Commanding General, 2d Marine Division and Commander, Landing Force for the Atlantic Command Exercises, Maj. Gen. Franklin A. Hart, is piped aboard the USS Mt. Olympus at Morehead City last Thursday. The 2d Division is scheduled to assault the "enemy-held" Island of Vieques next Wednesday, D-Day, as part of one of the largest joint Army, Navy, Marine Corps peacetime exercises. (Photo by Sgt. Powers).

The attack is high point of Vieques Phase, 1949 Exercises of the Atlantic Fleet, and climaxes the Caribbean maneuvers.

Embarkation of the Second Marine Division, (Reinforced), commanded by Major General Franklin A. Hart, was completed yesterday at Morehead City, North Carolina.

Also in the landing force are the 65th Infantry, U. S. A., Antilles Command, a regular Army unit composed principally of Puerto Ricans and based at Puerto Rico, and three Canadian Army platoons. General Hart is Landing Force Commander for the landing on Vieques.

The Second Marine Aircraft Wing, commanded by Major General Field Harris, will give shore and carrier based air support to ground units in the maneuvers. The wing moved its entire headquarters from Cherry Point, North Carolina, to the Caribbean February 15.

A highlight of the air-transport phase will be the lifting of a Marine battalion with equipment from Camp Lejeune to Vieques, with staging at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. These troops will be eighteen-year-old Marines who enlisted for one year. They will act as airborne reinforcements for the Second Marine Division in the seizure of Vieques beaches. This 450-man battalion will return to Camp Lejeune by Marine aircraft, stopping off in Bermuda for two days of recreation.

Activity at Vieques, already speeding up, "Enemy" forces who will oppose the assault troops have turned the otherwise peaceful island into a virtual fortress with simulated equipment and installations.

Marines of the Troop Training Unit (Reinforced), Amphibious Training Command, Atlantic Fleet, commanded by Brigadier General W. A. Worton, USMC, have been busy at Vieques since January 8 coordinating "enemy" defense planning and preparing a ground umpire plan.

Opposing forces and umpires were provided to evaluate combat efficiency of the attacking troops. General Worton commands the "enemy" forces and is chief umpire ashore at Vieques.

The "enemy" consists principally of Army units of the Aggressor Forces, Fort Riley, Kansas, and the Caribbean Defense Command. See MANEUVERS On Page 6

Marines in practically every place in town.

Saturday saw the arrival of the ship and the entertainment reached its peak, the afternoon be-filled with tours of the historic city.

A typical tour was guided by E. Burton, director of the Charleston museum. The itinerary included the Powder magazine built during the revolutionary war. At Battery, Mr. Burton and the group got out of the buses and he gave them a thorough briefing about the harbor. Pointing out sights while speaking, he described various engagements connected with Fort Sumter, Fort Moultrie, and Fort Johnson. He placed emphasis on the historic amphibious operations, and this seemed to cause considerable interest.

The final visit was to the Citadel, where the corps of cadets was just beginning a dress parade. The trip ended at the Grace Protestant Episcopal parish house, where Ashley Hall girls were on hand to entertain. Here, the men danced, ate supper and generally enjoyed themselves.

Another dance at the Citadel and a three act comedy at the Dock theatre completed the day. Sunday saw more tours of the city, presentations by Footlight Players Theatre, an informal dance at the Jewish Community Center and one of the highlights of the visit, an all-musical program by the Hormel All-Girl Orchestra.

More than 60 smartly uniformed WRs, WACS, WAVES and SPARS were on the stage of the Memminger auditorium when the curtain parted. Nineteen of the girls wore red carnations in their hair in recognition of the 19th birthday of the founding of the Womens Marine Reserve. Lt. Cpl. Betty Domm, who had served at Camp Lejeune was the first-talking Mistress of Ceremonies in the hour and a half show. The unit is divided into two groups, the orchestra and the vocal chorus.

Adventure Stories Dominate March Leatherneck

Adventure stories, both fact and fiction, dominate the March issue of Leatherneck Magazine which goes on sale at the Post Exchange the first of the month.

"Jivaro," a horror tale of the secret rites of a savage people, is the fiction offering by Marine Lieutenant Clifford E. McCollam, who is well known to Leatherneck readers. And matching it in interest is "Angel's Fairy Tale", a story of the "lost world" of southern Venezuela "where there is a river of gold—a place where one can pick up handfuls of gold nuggets", according to the author, Kenneth H. Dieffenbach.

Also on the fiction adventure side is another Sergeant Pzrnovski story, "Out Post on 608", in which Ski's platoon finds new angles in combat security.

Understanding Of Law Valuable In Daily Business Deals

"Hand over the keys, Mac, we're taking your car back," commanded the agent of a used car company.

Put yourself behind the wheel in this case—one of conditional sale where the company retained title pending receipt of full purchase price. Payments were made and the man had fulfilled all contract requirements.

What recourse have you in the eyes of the law? As a conditional seller, is the agency liable to you? These are problems that arise everyday. What man hasn't signed leases, obtained a loan, endorsed a friend's note or otherwise involved himself in similar legal transactions.

The law is based on the assumption that the "reasonable man" knows the answers to the above questions. Human conduct often causes friction and certain rules restricting manners and social conduct are needed. A knowledge of See MCI On Page 6

Special Entertainment At Charleston

One of the highlights of the special entertainment afforded 2d Division Leathernecks during their five-day visit to Charleston, S. C., was an all-musical program at Memminger auditorium by the Hormel Girls' Corps composed of more than 60 smartly uniformed former service women. Visiting Charleston briefly, the all-girl radio band and chorus broadcast their Mutual network program from that city Saturday night and entertained the visiting Marines, Sailors, and members of the Canadian Army Sunday. This was just one feature of the outstanding entertainment program provided by the hospitable citizens of Charleston.

Lejeune Cagers Take Sixth Naval District Title

ComSix Cup Presented After Thrilling Victory Over Pensacola In Final Game

By PFC. JACK SELLE

The Camp Lejeune cagers won the Sixth Naval District Basketball crown last Saturday when they took Pensacola NAS 55-50 in the final game of the District Tournament at Cherry Point. Their victory earned them the right to represent the 6th Naval District in the South-Central Group Tournament now in progress at Cherry Point.

Lejeune Five Loses Group Tourney Tilt To Corpus Christi

Playing the first game of the South-Central Group Double Elimination Tournament at Cherry Point on Sunday, the Camp Lejeune Marines lost a heart-breaker to the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station quintet when they failed to net a single point in a five minute overtime period while the Texas team hit the hoops for three points to gain a 50-47 victory.

The Lejeune five represents the Sixth Naval District in the three-team tourney. Corpus Christi is the representative for the 8th Naval District, while the 9th Naval District is represented by the strong Great Lakes Naval Station team. The winner of the South-Central Group play will meet the champions of the Atlantic Fleet to decide one of the four teams which will compete for the All-Navy title in Pearl Harbor in March.

Lejeune will have another chance to gain the Group title when they meet the loser of the Great Lakes-Corpus Christi game, and if they play the Texans again, it will be a battle.

For almost the first time this season, the Lejeune squad was overcome by superior height. Two men on the Corpus Christi squad were able to outreach Westphal and Kubiskey, local giants. These two men, a lean forward named Hartung and high-browed center Gilmore, were also the high scorers in the game. Hartung was good for 16 points, Gilmore 14.

See CORPUS CHRISTI On Page 5

The Sixth Naval District Tourney was a hard-fought group of games between the top ten teams in the district. The Marine Corps was well represented with Lejeune, Cherry Point, Parris Island, and Marine Barracks, Charleston, all fighting for the title. The Navy supplied six good teams for the tournament; NAS, Green Cove Springs, Florida; Atlantic Reserve Fleet; NS, Key West, Florida; NAS, Atlanta, Georgia; RecSta, Charleston; and the strong NAS, Pensacola, Florida team.

The competition evolved into a struggle between the Lejeune, Cherry Point, Parris Island, and Pensacola fives. The Pensacola fly-boys defeated the Parris Island Marines in their first game, and then had to whip the boys from boot camp again to decide who would play Lejeune for the championship.

Camp Lejeune cagers entered the finals by taking successive wins over NAS Green Cove, Cherry Point, Key West, and Pensacola.

Cherry Point, after losing to Lejeune the second day of the tourney, went into the losers bracket and edged out all competition there until they played the PI hoopsters.

On Friday afternoon Pensacola used their reserves to hand Parris Island a 45-36 beating, and then went on that evening to avenge their previous loss to Lejeune by squeezing past the local lads, 47-44.

Final Game

Saturday, then, was the big day and the Camp cagers came out on the court determined to settle the game as decisively as possible. The strong Pensacola team used a tight defense to hold Lejeune down, but the Lejeune defense was fully as tight as that of the airdales.

The fast-breaking Lejeune squad pulled out in front at the start of the game, and they were never topped, though often threatened, for the remainder of the game.

High-jumping Howie Westphal, control of the backboards and "Whiz" Bishop's sharp hook shot combined with the playing ability of Ed Kobza and Ralph Nofsinger to give Lejeune the Championship.

Bishop was high point man, scoring 23 points, while Westphal was second with 12. James Riley, smooth Pensacola guard, was high for the losers with 10 points.

Lejeune led 30-27 at the half and they stretched their lead to 2 points during the final period. The Pensacola club breathed down their necks right up to the final whistle.

Camp Lejeune 65 Key West 59

Camp Lejeune cagers took the third straight game in the Sixth Naval District Basketball Tournament last Wednesday when they overrode the Key West Naval Station sailors 65-59 at Cherry Point.

The Key West team put up a spirited fight before going down to defeat, trailing the Lejeune for the most of the game, but ways within striking distance of victory.

"Whiz" Bishop went on a scoring spree, as he poured in 27 points, taking high honors by a wide margin. Pete Paulson, Key West guard, was second in the individual scoring race, hitting the hoops for 14 points.

TOURNEY BULLETIN

Camp Lejeune eliminated Corpus Christi from the South-Central Group Tournament at Cherry Point on Tuesday when the Lejeune quintet easily took a 79-50 victory. The win sent Camp Lejeune into a game with the undefeated Great Lakes five on Wednesday night, and if Lejeune won on Wednesday, the two teams will meet tonight at Cherry Point at 2000 for the Group Championship. Results of last night's game may be obtained by calling 5528 (Camp Special Services). Buses will be available to transport personnel if there is a game tonight. The buses will leave from the Hadnot Point bus terminal commencing at 1800, first come, first served.

One Armed Golfer To Play Exhibition At Paradise Point

Jimmy Nichols, the amazing one-armed golfer, will be at the Paradise Point Golf Course for an exhibition match on Sunday, March 13.

Nichols, who had never played golf before the accident which cost him his arm, can play on even terms with the best of golfers who have the use of both arms.

The lean Texan uses the same technique as a right hander in all phases of the game except putting. A fuller body turn and more pronounced follow-through are the only variations from the normal performance of a two-handed golfer.

Once on the green, Jimmy changes his style. He actually putts like a left hander. While his drives and approach shots are hit off the left foot, his putts are lined up opposite his right foot. He putts like a left hander, because in his estimation, putting Former Lejeune Men To Play Baseball For Kinston, N. C.

The Kinston Baseball Club of the Coastal Plains League, a Class D circuit operating in central North Carolina, will be bolstered this season by the addition of two former Marines, both of whom played for the Camp Lejeune nine last year.

The Kinston club has recently completed construction of a new stadium, and President J. K. Wooters announced that along with the new stadium Kinston would field practically a complete new team.

Lejeune's heavy-hitting catcher of last year, Dick Woods, and the fancy fielding Bill Mesenheimer, are the two former Marines who have been signed by the Kinston outfit.

Woods led the Lejeune club in home runs and RBI last season, and Mesenheimer was one of the top three hitters on the team. Woods, an experienced catcher, is employed in Indianapolis at present; and, along with third baseman Mesenheimer, who is a student at Michigan State College, will report to Kinston during March for training.

LONDON (RFPs) — Bill Porter, Northwestern University Olympic star, has been awarded the John Thornton Trophy for the best high hurdle performance in the United Kingdom this year. The U. S. star set a new record of 13.9 seconds in winning the Olympic high hurdles last August.

Athletic Contests Mark Charleston Visit By Marines

By CPL. J. E. GRIFFITH

The Eighth Marines represented Marine Corps sportsmanship at its best during their recent visit to Charleston, S. C., while en route to the Caribbean for maneuvers.

Two basketball games were played in the hospitable city, and the Marines came out even, losing a hard-fought contest to the Citadel of Charleston, a military academy, 51-45, and beating the sailor five of the USS Okaloosa, 54-44.

Eighth Marine keggers ended up on the short end of a bowling match with the Okaloosa sailors, but the boxing team of the Eighth punched their way through the NOB, Charleston pugs, taking four out of seven bouts. Preceding the smoker, exhibitions of weight lifting, table tennis, and wrestling were presented to the packed house of Charleston residents and sailors and Marines from the transports.

points, while Gilmore made 15 points to tie with "Whiz" Bishop of Lejeune.

The Lejeune squad held a 22-21 half time advantage, and for a while at the start of the third period it looked as if they might increase their lead easily, as little Ralph Nofsinger showed that if the tall men couldn't go over the opposition, he could go under. Nofsinger connected with three quick baskets to send Lejeune ahead, but the Corpus Christi team soon caught on and held Nofsinger down.

The Navy team caught up with Lejeune at the start of the fourth quarter and stayed with the Lejeuners for the rest of the final period. The teams went into the overtime period tied at 47 all, and in about two minutes of the overtime Hartung connected on a set shot from the sidelines. Gilmore pushed through a charity toss, and then the sailor five froze the ball until time ran out.

of Howie Westphal and the ball-snatching tactics of Ed Kobza, slender guard. These two played an outstanding game as they set up Bishop and Kubiskey throughout the game.

The win over Key West sent the Lejeune five into Thursday night's game against Pensacola NAS with three consecutive wins.

Camp Lejeune 54,

Pensacola 50

Camp Lejeune cagers took their fourth straight game in the Sixth Naval District Tournament last Thursday when they downed the Pensacola NAS five 54-50.

Both teams held the lead numerous times during the game, and it was not until the final minute, when Kobza scored on a lay-up shot, followed by a tap-in from Bishop, that the game was decided.

Bishop led the high scorers for this game, sinking 20 points on seven field goals and six charity tosses. Jack Riley of Pensacola, an excellent shot with either hand, was runner-up with 16 points.

Pensacola 47,

Camp Lejeune 44

The Lejeune five ran into the Pensacola NAS cagers for the second time on Friday in their fifth and what could have been the final game of the tournament at Cherry Point had the sailor flyers not been on the long end of a 47-44 score at the end of a thrilling game.

The Lejeune cagers trailed the fighting Navy team for the entire game. Everyone on the Lejeune squad seemed to be suffering from an allergy which was connected with the hoops, or perhaps it was the ball—at any rate, the local lads couldn't seem to find the range, and trailed the sailors 18-26 at the half.

Although they suddenly came to life in the final five minutes of the game, the comeback was not strong enough to overcome the lead held by the Pensacola squad. Ralph Nofsinger of Lejeune was the leading point maker for both teams, his shooting garnering 14 points. Jack Riley, Pensacola forward, hit the hoops for 12, and two of his teammates gathered in ten points apiece.

Last Wednesday Montford Point Camp met the Supply School Battalion in what was the first competition for both teams, and when the smoke had cleared and the sound of the shooting faded away, the Schools Battalion team was far ahead of Montford Point. The final score was 1771-1642.

Early this week Montford Point met Supply Depot in a match between losers. The Supply Depot rifle team had lost to H&S Bn, Camp, in the first match of the intramural program, but they came back against the Montford Point shooters to win by a large margin.

The final score was 1733-1617. The five high men whose scores were used in computing the totals are listed below:

MCSO—1733. MSgt. Glenn S. Harbert, 356; TSgt. Lon A. Walton, 353; TSgt. Charles E. McCuine, 347; Sgt. Doyle H. Stanley, 339; MSgt. Mabry A. Terry, 338.

Montford Point — 1617. Pfc. Thomas Porter, Jr., 344; CWO A. E. Johnson, 328; Pfc. Johnny I. Nettingham, 324; Pfc. Harry S. Walmsley, 318; Cpl. Timothy E. Brown, 303; and Cpl. Albert F. Hewitt, 303. Brown and Hewitt tied at 303, but only one score was used in computing the totals.

Depending on the weather, H&S Battalion and Supply School Battalion will shoot for the Camp Small Bore Championship during the latter part of this week or early next week.

Holly Ridge Cagers Defeat Dixon Jr. High Third Time, 62-54

By WILLIAM R. KOHL

The Wolverines of Holly Ridge, a basketball team composed of children of Marine families living in Holly Ridge, again defeated Dixon Junior High School, this time by a 62-54 score, in a game played on 9 February at Dixon.

After a tight first half, during which the two teams remained tied from the start, the Wolverines pulled ahead at the start of the third quarter and remained in front until the final whistle.

Forward Skipper Smith of the Wolverines was high point man, scoring a strong 30 points. Lack of the Wolverines was good for 22 tallies, followed by Teeche of Dixon with 21. Kohl and James Smith of the Wolverines each had four points, while Davis of the Holly Ridge team had two points.

MCI OFFERS SOLUTION

The Marine Corps Institute is offering two courses covering the subject of Business Law. These courses were specifically designed to give a good foundation of law.

Applied Business Law, a high school-level course, is an excellent introduction to the fundamentals of law. It covers the subject in a clear, precise manner. Legal terminology is used and explained with case examples offered. Extensive material is used dealing with the individual's business life. Such topics as conditional sales, insurance, checks, real property, landlord and tenant that are applicable to daily life are stressed.

The Principles of Business Law is a college course which surveys the subject from a higher level. A comprehensive course, it takes its framework from a text that is widely used by colleges of business administration.

Army. The "enemy" will simulate a defending force of about 6,000; will wear distinctive uniforms and use now-secret tactics.

The development of defense installations and targets for attack in the maneuver area was accomplished by naval construction battalions, assisted by Marines of the Troop Training Unit.

Portable pneumatic equipment, closely resembling tanks, trucks, artillery and anti-aircraft guns, have been installed in emplacements to make the fortifications realistic in appearance.

The construction personnel used thousands of sandbags and thousands of board feet of pre-fabricated lumber, for simulated pillboxes and gun emplacements.

They dug more than a mile of trenches, many foxholes, and rigged thousands of yards of barbed wire for beach defenses.

The defense is complete even to visual and sound effects of a "shooting war." An arsenal of flash and fire simulators and sonic equipment to reproduce weird sounds of ricochets and shells in flight, will be employed.

The job of General Worton's Marines has been made unique by another assignment, the training of landing force units in amphibious tactics, simultaneously building defenses against those same forces.

Since their arrival, the Marines have been training 65th Infantry personnel, using mock-ups to teach embarkation procedures, dry-boats for landing craft doctrine, and outdoor classrooms for over-all instruction in amphibious tactics.

KILOCYCLING FROM A ROYAL: Red Benson, master of ceremonies for the WJNC-Mutual "Take A Number" heard on WJNC on Saturday nights from 8:30 to 9, is compiling a new book based on boners pulled by studio guests participating in the quiz. But, after what happened on the night of February 12, he plans to include in the tome some of the boners he, himself, has pulled during broadcast sessions.

On this particular aircast "Take a Number" jackpot winner was a cosmetologist named Robert L. Simmons, of Detroit. Red, after enumerating the many prizes Mr. Simmons had won, said jestingly: "Say, Mr. Simmons, you're a cosmetologist. Could you do anything with my face to make me better looking?" The guest paused for a moment, studied Benson for a moment, then replied seriously: "I don't think I can do very much with your face!"

After the broadcast Red opined to producer Sam Levine: "That's the last time I'll ever ask a question like that again. Did I look as red-faced as I felt?"

Agnes Moorehead, the noted actress who is featured on the WJNC-Mutual "Mayor Of The Town" series Sundays from 8:30 to 8:55 in the role of Marilly, the Mayor's housekeeper, tells everyone within hearing range of the Valentine Day sentiment Marilly received recently from a program fan. The gent who thoughtfully forgot to append his name to the greeting, wrote: "I will never be your Valentine. You will never be a pal o' mine. So go take a drink of turpentine." That's where I came in.

P-TA Notes

Our "Opportunity Shop" has been doing an excellent business. Beginning the first day of March it will be open every Wednesday afternoon from 1:00 to 9:00. Checks for items sold may be collected at the shop on the first Wednesday after the first Monday of each month. Come to the "Opportunity Shop" for all types of bargains.

The Parent-Teacher Association "Mother and Daughter Banquet" will be held on Friday evening, February 25th, at 6:30 p. m., in the Camp School Auditorium. The entertainment program will be in the form of a brief fashion show. Adult fashions will be shown by the Mary Anna Shop of Jacksonville. The Children's Shop of Jacksonville will present several junior styles. Miss Dorothy Hoskins will render a musical program.

On Thursday evening, February 24th, the Executive Committee will meet at 8:30 p. m. in the Camp School Auditorium.

Fire Chief Sez---

I'd like to say to that Pfc. Ellis (leastwise that's what the joker who turned in the false alarm for Building No. 501 last Sunday night called himself) that folks who play games like that usually get caught in the end.

Also it 'pears to me that people who thoughtlessly and needlessly endanger the lives of others by causing useless emergency runs by fire trucks must be subject to disciplinary action—and maybe that's the way they will get it when all's said and done.

1948 BENEFICIAL SUGGESTION PROGRAM STATISTICS

Over nine thousand employee suggestions, resulting in savings of more than six million dollars were adopted by the Navy during the fiscal year 1948. Initial awards granted for these suggestions amounted to a quarter million dollars.

Suggestions with initial awards of less than fifty dollars were four times as prevalent as those receiving higher awards. Furthermore, of the total award money paid out during the fiscal year, more than half went for suggestions receiving less than fifty dollars. The average savings per suggestion in this group was approximately two hundred sixty dollars. However, savings from such suggestions amounted to nearly two million dollars or over one fourth of total savings.

For the total Navy Beneficial Suggestion Program, each dollar of award money resulted in approximately twenty-five dollars of annual savings to the Navy. In addition to the significance of dollar savings, during the processing of suggestions there are frequent opportunities for communication between employees and management—an important phase of the employee relations program.

Have you submitted a beneficial suggestion lately?

SAFETY NOTES

A Mother's Plea
Dear Driver:

Today my son started to school as usual. He wore a dark blue suit with white shirt and his collar on the outside, black shoes and a cap on his pretty brown head. He is only seven years old.

His cocker spaniel stood on the porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as my boy waved good-by and started off to the hall of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. He told me about the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. He told me about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things and then we studied spelling, arithmetic, reading—and then to bed.

He is back there now—back in the nursery sound asleep with his little dog cuddled at his bedside.

You, Mr. Motorist, wouldn't hurt him, would you? You see, I'm his mother and he is the only child I have. When he breaks his little trains and cars, when he bumps his head or cuts his finger, I can fix it. But when he starts to school—when he walks across the street—then he is in your hands.

He is a nice little boy. He can run like a deer and darts about like a chipmunk. He likes to play with other boys and girls. On Sunday he likes to go hiking with his daddy.

But we just can't be with him all the time. His daddy has to work and I have to take care of the home. So please help us look out for him. Please drive slowly through our town and past his school.

And please remember that children dart across the streets and roads without looking. Look out for them—and him. Please don't hit or run over my little boy.

Officer Examinations Set For April; First Enlisted Tests In May, June

QUANTICO, Va., Feb. 17—The Testing and Educational Unit, which in addition to its other duties, constructs the officers' promotion examinations, announced that the first series of exams, running from CWO through Colonel, have been approved and will be administered in late April. Alternate officers' examinations are now being constructed and will be administered in August.

The first Enlisted promotion examinations on General Military Subjects will be administered in May and June. The use of these exams for enlisted promotions is part of the new policy of the Marine Corps to standardize promotion requirements throughout the Corps.

In addition to the GMST, specialist examinations are to be given in October for promotion from staff sergeant through master sergeant. This test will be given to approximately two-thirds of the personnel eligible at that time. These exams cover about fifteen occupational fields.

The Testing and Educational Unit not only composes the examinations, but also reproduces and mails them and upon return of the answer sheets, scores them on electrical machines.

The scoring facilities of the Unit have been made available to the Academic Group of Marine Corps Schools. The Basic School, Ordnance School, and the Extension Division of MCS will make use of machine scoring in varying degrees.

Lt-Col. E. C. Best, officer in charge of the Unit, estimates that about 10,000 exams will be given in May, and about 20,000 in October. The purpose of the General Military Subjects Tests for enlisted men is to sample the scope of knowledge on basic subjects, while the specialist examinations are designed to determine the individual's level of ability in his military specialty. It was emphasized that an individual's passing the promotion examinations makes him eligible for promotion, and that grades made on the examination are an important factor in the promotion procedure. However, other factors, such as SRB markings, disciplinary status, etc., are also important. For further details on enlisted examinations, especially the General Military Subjects Tests see Marine Corps Memorandum November 5-49, dated January 12, 1949.

For the information of those who are interested in the exams, Lt. Col. R. W. Hayward has written an article for the Marine Corps Gazette, which deals with this subject. It will be published in the next issue. The article concerns primarily the officers' promotion examinations.

A guardhouse lawyer didn't receive a spoon with his coffee at the Company Mess. "This coffee is too hot to stir with my fingers," he told the messman. Patiently, the messman picked up his cup and exchanged it for another.

"Here's some that's not so hot, Jack," he stated.

Veterans May Finish High School Through Local Night Classes

Discharged veterans who are interested in completing their high-school education and receiving a diploma are urged to attend a county-wide meeting at the Jacksonville High School tonight at 2000, Mr. B. B. C. Kessler Superintendent of the Onslow County Schools, announced Tuesday.

A program is being instituted in all six consolidated schools of the county to enable interested veterans to obtain a high school diploma. The meeting tonight will be of a general nature intended to acquaint all who attend with the scope of the program.

The course will provide the regular high school curriculum during the evening from 1600 to 2130. For those who cannot attend quite so early, half credits will be awarded for attendance from 1830 to 2130.

Veterans must be honorably discharged from one of the Armed Forces of the United States and must make application for the course with Mr. W. E. Baggs, Mr. Baggs is at the Welfare Department in Jacksonville every Friday and Saturday and will also attend the meeting tonight, at which time the application may be made.

Veterans will receive a certain amount of assistance from the Government. For instance, a married veteran with no children will receive the difference between his present monthly wage and the maximum of $270.

Tiny Radio With World-Wide Range Foreseen By Writer In 'Gazette'

It is quite possible that within the next two or three years military services will be able to get a radio weighing two pounds will work around the world at all times, according to the Marine Gazette. Miniaturization and subminiaturization of component radio equipment are an actuality which are now being incorporated in our communications equipment.

Lieutenant Colonel, Roger C. Power in his article, DO YOU WANT A SMALLER RADIO? writes "Most of us are familiar with the tubes, resistors, capacitors, etc., that go into the make-up of a normal military radio transmitter and receiver. In order to obtain a transmitter and receiver that would be of fuze-size (to develop the VT fuze), it was necessary to reduce all of these components to miniature and even what is now called sub-miniature size. These sub-miniature components of necessity, had to have the same, or very similar characteristics, to the normal size components. That is they must operate under the same external conditions, and must give the same power output, consistent with input as the larger components.

"As has been stated, this development was successful, and we obtained an effective weapon. "Since the last war, much more emphasis has been placed on continuation of a development sub-miniaturization technique previously developed with a view toward obtaining smaller and smaller components which would be smaller and smaller radio equipment. The use of circuits printed on paper laminations or ceramic resin plates has been one of the developments. While these circuits have not received spread military usage as yet, are being applied commercially such appliances as hearing aids, and, with further development, should lend themselves readily to production line manufacturing techniques. It is readily apparent that such printed circuits, in other words, have military applications, and are cheap to manufacture, since they cannot readily be repaired. In the event of a failure in part of such a circuit, it would have to be discarded and replaced by an entirely new one. This, of course, would be an advantage such circuits, because the maintenance problem would simply come a replacement problem which would not necessarily require specially-trained technicians.

"While the reduction in size and weight of any radio equipment is of paramount importance to any person in the Marine Corps, equally important are requirements that such equipment be sturdy, waterproof (preferably immersion proof), easily maintained or repaired.

"The very fact that miniature and sub-miniature components so small would tend to make less sturdy and harder to maintain and repair though their water-resistant characteristics might remain the same as the normal type components. This lack of sturdiness, difficulty in maintenance and repair naturally became a problem that had to be overcome prior to adoption of miniaturization techniques in the construction of military radio equipment. It is indeed fortunate that since the last war, to the efforts of governmental commercial laboratories, a new unique technique for the production of entire circuits has been developed. This technique is known as the potting of circuits."

Marines Leave Tsingtao Base

SHANGHAI, Feb. 9—Two ships pulled out of Tsingtao with 1600 U. S. Marines yesterday as part of a program drastically reducing American strength in China.

With most of the leathernecks leaving, the U. S. combat force in China is left at roughly one Marine battalion at Tsingtao and one at Shanghai (a total of about 1200).

Both the battalions are afloat; that way they infringe less on Chinese sovereignty than when ashore.

The liquidation last month of the joint military advisory group has taken out most of the U. S. Soldiers and sailors. And further reductions of U. S. Naval forces in China are ahead.

Naval sources in Tsingtao announced later that the troop transports Renville and Enrico would arrive in San Diego, Calif., with 1600 Marines about February 24.

These sources said the Marines would go direct to the United States. They sailed away from Tsingtao Tuesday with a Marine band playing "California, Here I Come."

Is there a "sure" thing?

In sports, there's always likely to be an "upset" to surprise the experts.

It's the same way with everything in life. The future looks like a "sure" thing and then . . . things go wrong.
