EDITOR'S NOTE: The following column is derived from FMFM 1, WARFIGHTING. It will be presented as a weekly series to enhance the professional military education of our readers.

Offense and Defense continues

Similarly, if we are to mount an offensive to impose our will, we must develop enough force to overcome the inherent superiority of the enemy's defense.

At least one part to a conflict must have an offensive intention, for without the desire to impose upon the other, there would be no conflict. Similarly, the second party must at least possess a defensive desire, for without the willingness to resist there would be no conflict. We can imagine a conflict in which both parties possess an offensive intention. But after the initial clash, one of them must assume a defensive posture out of weakness until able to resume the offensive.

This leads us to the conclusion that while the defense is the stronger form of combat, the offense is the preferred form, for only through the offense can we truly pursue a positive aim. We resort to the defensive when weakness compels.

While opposing forms, the offense and defense are not mutually exclusive. In fact, they cannot exist separately. For example, the defense cannot be purely passive resistance. An effective defense must assume an offensive character, striking at the enemy at the moment of his greatest vulnerability. It is "not a simple shield, but a shield made up of well-directed blows." The truly decisive element of the defense is the counterattack. Thus, the offense is an integral component of the concept of the defense.

Similarly, the defense is an essential component of the offense. The offense cannot sustain itself indefinitely. At some times and places, it becomes necessary to halt the offense to replenish, and the defense automatically takes over. Furthermore, the requirement to concentrate forces at the focus of effort for the offense often necessitates assuming the defensive elsewhere. Therefore, out of necessity we must include defensive considerations as part of our concept of the offense.

This brings us to the concepts of culminating point, without which our understanding of the relationship between the offense and defense would be incomplete. Not only can the offense not sustain itself indefinitely, it generally grows weaker as it advances.

Nonsponsored dependents can become financial burden in Okinawa, Japan

Globe Staff Report

Marines who choose to bring nonsponsored dependents to Camp Butler, Okinawa might find themselves in a financial bind upon arrival, a message released from Camp Butler Disbursing Office warns.

"Servicemembers, especially junior Marines, should be aware of the cost of establishing a household and what allowances they are entitled to," says Maj. Paul T. Filla, disbursing officer, Camp Butler.

Marines living off-base can expect to pay between $300-$900 a month to rent an apartment, the message states.

"Rent here is comparable to rates found in southern California and Washington, D.C.," Filla continues. "Utility bills are usually higher than in the United States, especially during the summer months."

About the only extra allowance a Marine rates by bringing an unsponsored dependent overseas is commuted rations. Though the Marine is living off-base, he will note rate variable housing allowance or family separation allowance. His cost of living allowance will be the same as if he were living in the barracks without dependents.

Marines should also consider the availability of schools in their area before bringing nonsponsored school children.

The cost for bringing dependents, setting up a household on the Japanese economy and paying out-of-pocket expenses... can be prohibitive.

"Unsponsored dependents are admitted on a space-available, tuition-free basis," says Dr. James M. Halley, Department of Defense Dependent Schools Okinawa District Superintendent. "Although it's rare that we turn someone down, the student may not be able to attend the school closest to where they live."

There are about 700 noncommand sponsored dependents belonging to sergeants and below, according to Filla.

Corporal David A. Clark has experienced his tour both with a sponsored and unsponsored dependent. "Before my unaccompanied tour was converted, I lived in town with my wife for seven months," says the engineer equipment mechanic from Marine Corps Base Motors, Camp Butler. "It cost about $700 to pay the deposits and set up a decent one bedroom apartment. Rent was about $320 a month, plus another $120 a month for utilities."

Although Clarke's financial burden eased since his tour converted, he does deny that it was difficult at first. "The biggest problem we had was a lack of transportation. We spent so much money getting settled, we couldn't afford a car. I had to take a bicycle to work."

For those considering bringing unsponsored dependents from Camp Lejeune, Lt. Col. Robert Blake, disbursing officer, 2nd FSSG, warns, "Don't do it." The costs for bringing dependents, setting up a household on the Japanese economy and paying out-of-pocket expenses unavailable medical care or schooling be prohibitive. Often times, a servicemember takes out an advanced loan to get them started in Okinawa and that they are financially strapped by the time they get back to the states because they are still paying for the loan and to pay for another plane ticket home according to Blake.

However, if a servicemember is committed to bring unsponsored dependents overseas, he should think ahead. Blake. He should find out what allowances he will not get and budget for it and plan accordingly. "Marine doesn't have the money when he comes to Camp Lejeune, he definitely isn't going to have the money in an economy like Japan's," Blake concludes.

PCS advance pay

A recent policy change involving the administration of PCS Advance Pay has been published and in effect.

The order, MCO 7220.21E, lists those requirements necessary for Marines seeking advance pay.

According to the order, all ranks must sign a statement indicating they understand the purpose of advance pay.

Advance pay should not be considered for use as payments or vacations, not can it be paid 30 days prior to detachment or 60 days after arriving at new command. The request must still be approved by a commanding officer.

The order includes other requirements and more information for servicemembers interested in drawing PCS advance pay.

For more information and specific guidelines, contact MCO 7220.21E.

Body found

The body of a female found in Knox Trailer Park, 18 has been identified as Brenda L. Salomon, wife of Staff Sgt. Paul W. Salomon, 32, 1st Bn., Marines, 2nd MarDiv.

Mrs. Salomon's body was found on a paved road in a secluded wooded area of the trailer park behind the Marine Corps Exchange facility. The body was discovered by Sgt. Jeffrey A. Ferkel and Staff Sgt. D. Stoll, both of MCSSS. Stoll and Ferkel were supervising student drivers from MCSSS.

The preliminary cause of death was a cutting wound to the base of the neck that resulted in a significant loss of blood, according to the Naval Hospital. There are no suspects at this time and the Naval Investigative Service is continuing its investigation.

Auction sale

A local auction sale will be held on Wednesday

Staff Sgt. Lee J. Tibbets

DING OUT— Elements of the Naval Surface Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet and FMFLant left Wednesday for training exercises in the waters of the Atlantic Ocean. These exercises involve Amphibious Squadron-6 (PHIBRON-6), whose ships are home-docked in Norfolk, Va., along with the 24th MEU which is commanded by Col. R. Matthews. These exercises test the ability of participating units to quickly respond to a crisis situation on short notice, execute contingency operations and exercise the Amphibious Squadron-6 in limited special operations. The operations are part of ongoing amphibious training by the Navy and Marine Corps. They will include limited air and sea operations and last about two weeks.

Manpower 'road show' comes to Lejeune

By Sgt. Jim Fitzgibbons

Lieutenant Gen. John I. Hudson, deputy Chief of Staff, Manpower and Reserve Affairs, HQMC, will be bringing his manpower "road show" to Camp Lejeune Aug. 31.

The general and his staff will visit the Camp Lejeune/MCAS, New River area to let Marines know just what they can expect as far as changes in the enlisted structure of the Corps during the next few years.

"The information we will present is essential for all Marines, corporal and up, who plan on staying in the Corps; and for all commanding officers, executive officers and administrative officers who must deal with personnel matters," said Capt. Curt Powell, enlisted career force planner, HQMC manpower. "Our presentation covers a variety of subjects, from promotion and duty station incentives for reenlistment to selective reenlistment bonuses and career force controls."

The "road show" as it's being called is a 30-minute presentation followed by a question and answer period.

It is designed to give enlisted Marines and officers an idea of what changes will be initiated in the immediate future.

"In the past it's been more us presenting and the audience listening," Powell said. "This year we want to field the questions that are on the Marines' minds, and talk almost entirely about the subjects that are pertinent to them."

Powell expects the sessions to last for about 1½ hours. There will be two sessions at the base theater for enlisted Marines and separate sessions for officers. During the officer sessions, specific information will be given about augmentation, promotion and the officer management review.

For enlisted Marines from II MEF, 2nd MarDiv. and 6th MEB the session will go from 8 to 9:30 a.m., while enlisted Marines from MCB, 2nd FSSG, MCAS, New River and SRI Group are scheduled from 12:30 to 2 p.m.

The officer session for MCB, 2nd FSSG, MCAS, New River and SRI Group is scheduled from 9:45 to 11:30 a.m., while II MEF, 2nd MarDiv. and 6th MEB officer's session will go from 2:15 to 3:45 p.m.

Also during the day, the Road Show team will talk with career planners and civilian supervisors at the Central Area Enlisted Club. The team will meet with career planners from 9:45 to 11:30 a.m. and with civilian supervisors from 12:30 to 2 p.m.

Anyone who would like more information about the visit should call Maj. D. J. Wherry, base personnel officer at 451-3040 or 451-3048.

at 9 a.m. in Bldg. 906. Bidder registration will begin at 8 a.m. Property may be inspected from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. beginning Friday until the day of the auction (excluding weekends). The property is located in Bldg. 1117 and TC864, Camp Geiger.

Bidders must be present to participate. Neither a bid deposit nor a partial payment will be required. Payment must be made in cash or by certified check. For more information call 451-5652 or 451-2303.

2nd FSSG graduation

The 2nd FSSG NCOBC Class 8-89 will hold graduation ceremonies at 3 p.m. Friday at the Base Theater. The guest speaker will be Sgt. Maj. W.S. Sims Jr., Sergeant Major, 2nd FSSG. Uniform is uniform of the day and the public is invited.

Sgt. Maj. Beck retires

Sergeant Maj. G.C. Beck, base sergeant major, was relieved by Sgt. Maj. R.S. Cromwell during a Post and Relief Ceremony at W.P.T. Hill Field Aug. 23. Beck, who has been sergeant major for two years will be retiring after 30 years of service to the Marine Corps.

Sgt. Maj. Henderson retires

Sergeant Maj. Sam T. Henderson, 2nd Marines, will be relieved by Sgt. Maj. R.A. Chamberlain during a Post and Relief Ceremony at W.P.T. Hill Field on Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. Henderson is retiring after 30 years of service to the Marine Corps. The public is invited to the ceremony.

Suspect apprehended

A Marine lance corporal was taken into custody at 2:14 p.m. Aug. 21 by military police after he was seen leaving a home in the 3100 block of Paradise Point housing.

The Marine is a suspect in the reported assault at Marston Pavilion and rape at Midway Park on July 28. He is not a suspect in the Aug. 18 homicide in the vicinity of Knox Trailer Park.

The arrest followed an extensive search by military police, CID and NIS personnel in the vicinity of Stone Street Elementary School.

An earlier incident caused military police to increase patrols in all housing areas. PMO units were called to a residence on Garapan Street, in Tarawa Terrace II at 9:34 a.m., after a report of a suspicious black male in that area. PMO did not apprehend anyone at that time.

The suspect's name is being withheld pending charges and he remains in custody.

County tax notices

The 1989 Onslow County Tax Notices were mailed out in the latter part of July. These notices were based upon what the taxpayer listed as being owned as of Jan. 1, 1989 and are due Sept. 1.

Anyone who listed real and/or personal property with the Onslow County Tax Office and has not received a 1989 Tax Notice should come into the tax office, located at 39 Tallman St. or call the office at 455-9700.

School physicals

The Pediatric Department at the Naval Hospital here will be doing school physicals on Tuesdays and Thursdays through Sept. 7. Call at least two weeks in advance for the Tuesday and Thursday appointments. Call 451-4503 for more information.

A/V operators classes

The Training and Audiovisual Training Aids Library is conducting audiovisual operators licensing classes. The classes are to ensure trouble free operations between personnel requiring the use of A/V gear and training aids. They will be held on Fridays, 8:30-11:30 a.m. at Bldg. 54. Only licensed operators will be allowed to check out A/V equipment from the TAVSC Library starting Sept. 1.

For more information, call 451-1516/1972.

Nature provides cover for recon patrols

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third story in a series of articles on the Reconnaissance Indoctrination Platoon, 2nd Force Recon. Co., 2nd SRI Group.

Cpl. F. E. Charles

In late afternoon, a small group of Marines sat among Long Leaf Pines in the middle of nowhere. No one uttered a single word. They just sat under the cool shade, absorbing the sounds of nature.

It was far from a "back-to-nature" class of meditating and learning Hindu mantras for these Marines from 2nd Force Reconnaissance Company, 2nd SRI Group.

The Marines were mentally preparing for a patrol. For a successful mission they must tune into nature because it is their best defense.

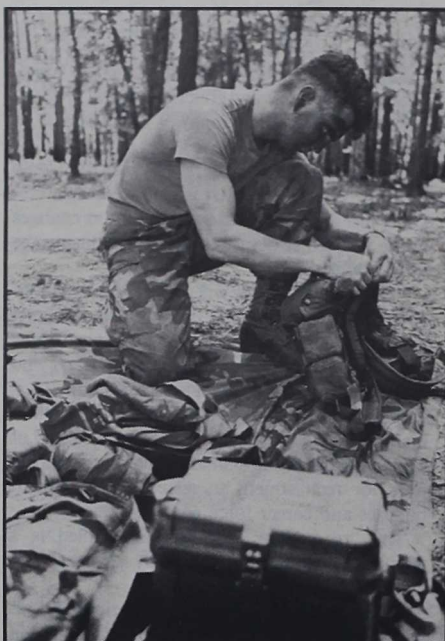

"It's important to get a feel for the environment you're in," said Staff Sgt. Bud Boney, platoon sergeant, Reconnaissance Indoctrination Plt.

Patrolling is an information gathering process. It's also the primary means of moving a reconnaissance team to their objective. It requires moving undetected through an area in small four- to six-man teams.

In preparation for patrolling to the objective, Boney instructed his students to listen. Listen to the wind. Listen to the birds and animals. Listen for vehicles.

Patrolling also requires a certain amount of stealth, according to Boney.

"We concentrate on individual patrolling techniques, how to organize a reconnaissance patrol, write patrol orders and how to walk," he said. "Cover and concealment is also a factor."

GEARING UP—Lance Cpl. Steven Ellis, 2nd Force Recon. Co., readies his gear for a night patrol. Ellis is part of the company's Reconnaissance Indoctrination Plt.

This sounds like basic combat infantry skills; it is, but isn't. The primary skills must be thoroughly mastered before a reconnaissance Marine can complete his mission of observation, information gathering and reporting. The main difference between a combat and reconnaissance patrol to Lance Cpl. Steven Ellis is responsibility.

"Everyone must know the jobs of the other team members," Ellis said.

Ellis went on to explain how exact the preparation for a patrol is.

"All your equipment and supplies have to be in a certain place. For example, your map has to be in your right cargo pocket," he said. "And it's in the same pocket on everybody."

The purpose for this close coordination of gear among team members is for safely completing a mission, without compromising it. If one team member goes down, the others can extract the information he carries immediately.

Successfully completing a patrolling mission is a 2nd Force Recon. Co. Marine is a "sense of accomplishment and pride," according to Ellis.

"We're doing this for an entire landing force," Ellis said. "They're counting on us to get important information."

Reservist recalls Chosin Reservoir

Cpl. Kim Buckner

Gripping his M-1 rifle with frostbitten fingers, Pfc James W. Snyder scanned the frozen Korean hillside. With night coming quickly, the temperature plunging to 20 below zero; gusting winds made the cold even more devastating.

At the same time, three divisions of the People's Liberation Army, about 30,000 Chinese troops, were already in the hills overlooking Yudam-ni. They were ready to swoop down that night upon the Marines.

Snyder, with motor transport, knew that something was going to happen soon. He could almost feel the presence of the enemy. Pulling his collar up to protect himself from the biting wind, he waited.

Snyder had made his choice months before when he enlisted in the Marine Corps on January 20, 1950.

After completion of basic training at Parris Island, S.C., he attended motor transport school at Camp Lejeune. The Korean War had already begun.

After completion of his school he was awaiting orders when, during noon chow one day, he was told he would be leaving for Korea at 1 p.m. It was 11 a.m.

He boarded a train at Camp Lejeune and headed for Camp Pendleton. During this time he was attached to 7th Motor Transport, 1st MarDiv. The Marines arrived at Camp Pendleton, gathered the equipment they would need and headed to Korea.

On September 15, 1950, Snyder and his fellow Marines hit the beach in South Korea and headed inland to Inchon, fighting all the way. They took Kimpo Airstrip and made their way to Seoul. At this point the Marines turned around, went back to the beach, boarded ship and headed for North Korea.

When the Marines landed in North Korea, instead of facing enemy troops, Bob Hope was there giving a USO performance.

Soon afterwards, the Marines prepared themselves to go to the Chosin Reservoir to aid the U.N. troops that were already there.

When Snyder arrived at the Chosin, a sign greeted him with "Have No Fear, The 5th is Here," referring to the 5th Marines. They set up camp for what was to be their home for the next few months.

These events took place many years ago and Pfc. Snyder is now 1st Sgt. Snyder. He is attached to reserve unit, Det. 1, Comm. Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind. He considers himself lucky to have survived an ordeal that had almost 7,000 casualties, about half from frostbite.

"We made up our minds that they weren't going to beat us," said Snyder, "everyone was fighting."

"All you could do was shoot at the thousands of Chinese troops coming toward you. There was no place to go."

He remembers that it was so cold he wore an Army officer's shirt and whatever else he could find to keep warm. When they got down to a precious few Marines, they had to pull out. He left early in the morning with the last convoy to leave. They fought all the way.

When they got to the bottom of the reservoir the Army had a tent with coffee waiting for them. They told them the road to the beach was secure, so they didn't expect anymore fighting. As they headed toward the beach they were ambushed by the Chinese.

"I was near the end of the convoy and was told not to move. They had attacked the middle of our convoy and had killed a lot of Marines. Some of them were dead behind the wheels of the trucks they were driving. They hadn't gotten a chance to defend themselves," Snyder said.

They continued fighting into night. By morning, they had fought their way out. Once they got to the beach a ship was waiting and they boarded.

When he got aboard the ship, there were so many Marines he could not find a place to lie down.

"I was so tired," Snyder said. "I made my way up each deck and found a room with a leather chair and couch. I was cold and muddy, but so exhausted I just lay on the couch and slept for hours."

He woke up when he heard voices outside the door. The captain of the ship came in and asked him if he had gotten a good night's sleep. He quickly slipped out the door.

Snyder was in Korea for 14 months. As a corporal, he reported back to Camp Lejeune to the Shore Party Bn. There he finished his tour. He joined the reserves in 1963 and volunteered to go on active duty for the Vietnam War. He remained on active duty for two years. In 1968, he joined the reserves again and has been there ever since.

"The Korean War is the forgotten war," says Snyder, "and as far as I know I'm the last Marine still in the Marine Corps who was at the Chosin Reservoir."

'All you could do was shoot at the thousands of Chinese troops coming toward you. There was no place to go.'

Superintendent's expectations high for new year

PREPARING FOR THE NEW YEAR— Dr. E. Conrad Sloan, superintendent for Camp Lejeune DoDD schools, prepares one of several agendas for the upcoming school year.

Globe Community Reporter

Dr. E. Conrad Sloan, superintendent for Camp Lejeune Dependents' Schools, is optimistic about the 1989-90 school year.

"We are looking forward to having as good a year as last year but with better things to come," he said. "Better things to come" include a new development program for both students and teachers, new school policies as well as a new high school building.

According to Sloan, the school expects 300 teachers and 3,800-4,000 students to return this year. "The overall goals for the school year are to improve instruction in student learning and increased professionalism from our teachers," said Sloan. In order to improve instructional methods, a kindergarten assessment was established this summer to help evaluate younger student's learning levels and styles. "We had excellent responses from parents regarding the assessment," added Sloan. Educators will be looking closely at how children read to determine their learning style.

So that teachers can have more input into school curriculum and decisions involving their students, schools are using groups to give teachers the chance to express concerns and thoughts on curriculum.

Further teacher development includes implementing an alternative plan between principals and teachers to enhance their professional growth.

"We will be expanding the foreign language program this year as well," said Sloan. The foreign language program teaches students in kindergarten and first grade the Spanish language. "This year, we will be adding the second and third grades to the program," added Sloan.

Additionally, the base school system has adopted a new policy regarding smoking. Last June, the Camp Lejeune Dependents' Schools Board of Education passed a regulation which prohibits smoking in schools. It will be implemented this fall and is the result of "concern for the health of the student—both for those who smoke and those who don't," emphasized Sloan.

The most anticipated change will be the move from Lejeune High School on Stone Street to the facility being completed at the corner of Brewster Boulevard and Stone Street. "We are looking forward to the change and are sure it will be an exciting thing for staff and students. We want to make the move with as little disruption as possible," said Sloan.

As the school system winds up for the beginning of another year, the changes in teacher and student development programs, policies and facilities are positive aspects to the new school year. "We believe we have an excellent school system and are open to parents suggestions and concerns, or if they should need our assistance," Sloan concluded.

First day in new school can be difficult

Each year, hundreds of servicemembers and their families change duty stations. This means changing areas, communities, homes, jobs and schools. For students of any age, changing schools can be a difficult experience. Unfamiliar teachers, students and curriculum can all make the new school an obstacle to be surmounted.

Being the new kid on the block offers challenges and presents problems. Students may have a hard time adjusting to a new area, a new school may not offer the same courses as the former school did and the student may have preconceived notions about the school. "A lot depends on the student's frame of mind about the move and the situation they left," said Larry McRacken, guidance counselor for Lejeune High School. "Students need to be patient and open to what we have to offer and not shut anyone out because of their mom's or dad's transfer," suggested McRacken.

One of the best things about transferring in the Marine Corps is that it is small enough that people usually meet again. "So many kids come to us new that they may know other students before they even step out into the hallway," said McRacken.

According to McRacken, Lejeune High School is a small school and the faculty is made up of mostly Marine dependents who can help ease new students into their new school. "Our folks know when someone is new and they help them to settle in because they know what they are going through," said McRacken.

Adjusting also depends on how long a family has been here and if they live in base quarters or not. "The longer they are here before school begins, the more chance they have of getting used to the area," added McRacken.

To make the transition easier, the high school has an orientation seminar with each new student and his sponsor. They explain about the school's curriculum and program offerings and encourage questions from the parents and student. "The orientation helps them to know what to expect," added McRacken. For a student having a really difficult time McRacken offers this advice. "If things aren't going well, come see us, we can't read minds but we can help." Guidance counselors and an advisory program can all aid in making a new student's transition that much easier.

"Students can look forward to finding a small school that has a closeness among students, look for support from returning students and an opportunity to participate in our school. They will find a curriculum that will compensate for their needs and a quality staff," said McRacken.

For the youngest and newest members of Camp Lejeune's schools, going to school is a first-time experience filled with fear of the unknown.

This may be the first time kindergartners have been away from home and they do not know what to expect. "Parents should try to be as supportive and positive as possible and put yourself in your child's place," said Anita Raynor, guidance counselor for Berkeley Manor Elementary School.

Parents can ease the youngster's fear by talking about classes and new experiences and showing the student the school, offers Raynor. Kindergarten students receive orientations and support from teachers as well as other students. "We try to be supportive and pair a new student with another child who is feeling more secure so that the new student learn the ropes," said Raynor.

For those children having a very difficult time adjusting, teachers will work with parents. If the child still is having trouble, an assistance team meets with the student to make new suggestions on how the student to cope better.

Making changes can be difficult but a positive attitude and encouraging words as well as being supportive will help ease the transition of new students for the new year.

Safety Caution

Motor vehicle drivers will see a lot of fall on Aug. 29—school buses going to and from work. Extra care when driving between 7-9 a.m. and 2-4 p.m. when most school buses will be on the roads, according to the Motor Vehicle Division of North Carolina. Every year, drivers are reminded of the rules and regulations concerning school buses but "people will do what they want to do and not take advantage of the situation," said Keenan Shephard, traffic specialist with the Division of Motor Vehicles. There are several regulations that drivers need to be aware of. Drivers need to be careful, pass slowly and give the school bus absolute priority at all times.

"One should ask, 'What if the bus is in my lane?' People get lazy and why it's important to review the regulations again," said Shephard. Drivers on both sides of the road should take a complete stop when a

As the school year begins, students are both on foot and on bicycles. Camp Lejeune students ride bikes to school on the bikers and automobile drivers should exercise caution.

Early, an estimated 40,000 bikes are on the road while at least 1,000 cyclists are on the road. Awareness are the keys to safety. A bike that is the right size for the rider is the right bike, said Sgt. Raynor, a police officer.

Safety:

Caution urged as buses head back to school

By Helen F. Pratt

Motor vehicle drivers will see a familiar sight of fall on Aug. 29—school buses. Drivers going to and from work should exercise extra care when driving between the hours of 7-9 a.m. and 2-4 p.m. That's when most school buses will be on the roads, according to the Motor Vehicle Laws of North Carolina Handbook.

Every year, drivers are reminded about rules and regulations concerning school buses but "people will do anything to get ahead or around a school bus and generally take advantage of that bus," Keenan Shephard, traffic education specialist with the Division of Motor Vehicles. There are several rules and regulations that drivers need to be reminded of.

Drivers need to be careful, pay attention and give the school bus absolute consideration at all times.

One should ask, "What if the bus were picking up my child?" People get lazy and that's why it's important to review the regulations again," said Shephard.

Drivers on both sides of the road must come to a complete stop when a school bus is picking up, dropping off passengers or if the stop sign is displayed. Drivers on the opposite side of the road from a school bus do not have to stop if the road is a major highway or there is a physical barrier separating the lanes.

Buses with flashing red lights will be yielding or stopping for railroad tracks—so be prepared to stop. School buses carrying children do not operate over 35 m.p.h. unless it is a chartered activity bus—be patient!

Drivers should also be aware that children waiting for a bus may unexpectedly run out in front of a car—drive defensively. School zones with flashing yellow lights will also be a familiar sight both on and off base. The speed for these designated school zones is 25 m.p.h., according to Staff Sgt. James Krebs, PMO traffic accident investigator.

The hours of school bus operations start earlier and last later than the handbook states, so be extremely careful, said Krebs. Motor vehicle drivers can report other drivers violating school bus rules to the Provost Marshal's Office, according to Krebs.

In order to ensure a safe school year for bus drivers and students, heed the rules of the road concerning buses. It may make the difference.

Students also walk, ride bicycles to school

As the school year begins, students will be more on the road both on foot and on bicycles. Hundreds of Lejeune students ride bikes to and from school. The bikers and automobile drivers should use extreme caution.

Each year, an estimated 40,000 bike related injuries occur while at least 1,000 cyclists are killed. Prevention and awareness are the keys to safe bicycle rides. Choosing a bike that is the right size is the first step toward a safe bike ride, said Sgt. David Wager, military police officer.

Next, check to see that the bike's parts are tight. Make sure the tires have the correct amount of pressure and that the back tire has a reflector. The pedals should be tight and have reflectors; the seat and handlebars are adjusted and screwed in tightly; the brakes stop evenly, and, there is a headlight on the front of the bike making the cyclist visible from 500 feet at night.

Protecting your bike from theft or loss is important too. The Provost Marshal's Office located in Bldg. 3 will register a bike and engrave the social security number of the owner's sponsor so that it can be identified. "Remember to lock it up," said Cpl. Sherry Landry, military police officer, "Already we have more than 200 lost or stolen bicycles at PMO."

PMO holds bike jamborees throughout the year to help bicyclists learn the rules of the road and register their bikes. They offer these tips for bike riders. "Ride with the flow of traffic and be observant. Drivers should not drive right up behind bicyclists and honk their horns—it can startle the biker and cause an accident," said Landry.

"We try to teach kids to control the left shoulder glance," said Wager. "If a child looks over his left shoulder he will probably pull the bike in that direction into a car."

According to Landry, during the school year, motorists should watch for the military police or teachers near the school streets and intersections. "People should always pay attention to the MP before a sign or light," said Landry. All students may want to consider wearing helmets as an added measure of safety. At night, they should wear light or reflective clothing.

Hand signals motorists should be aware of are: the left hand extended means a left turn; the left hand bent downward means a stop, and a new regulation on right hand turns is in effect. Previously, only 40 percent of motorists recognized a right hand turn so a change was adopted to increase right hand turn awareness in motorists. The right hand extended now means a right hand turn.

Automobile drivers should drive defensively especially around bikers and watch the children on bikes. "Children don't always pay attention to what they're doing, especially on bicycles," said Wager. "So watch for them."

A bike rider should never carry anyone else on the biker, tow someone or ride hanging onto the back of a car. "They are all illegal and extremely dangerous," Landry stressed.

The MPs cautioned to be careful of the intersection at the hospital and the new high school and to watch for high school students finishing after-school activities. "They are often more dangerous than the younger bike riders, because they travel in groups and just cross where they can without a light. They think there is safety in numbers and in this case they are wrong," emphasized Landry.

SAFETY DISPLAY—Pfc. C. Kimmel, PMO, explains a bike safety display during a Bike Jamboree by PMO to teach bicyclists the rules and regulations of bike riding and safety.

Signs of the new school year are everywhere. Teachers have cleaned and decorated their classrooms; children have shopped for new clothes and school supplies, registered for school and gotten their school physicals.

Both new and returning students will have new programs, a new high school and new policies to look forward to and be a part of. Camp Lejeune Department of Defense Dependents' school principals and superintendent are anticipating the new developmental kindergarten to be implemented in September.

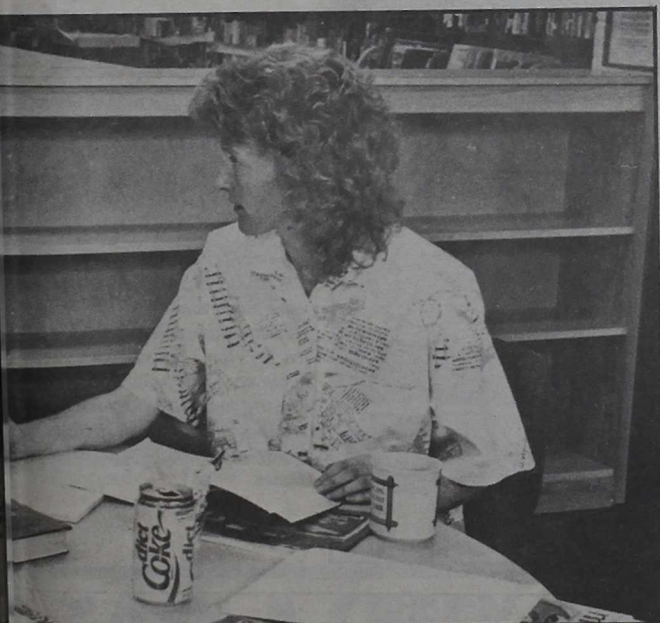

The Spanish program for students in kindergarten and first grade will be extended this year to include the second and third grades as well.

The new Lejeune High School scheduled to open after the Christmas break means that the old Lejeune High School will be home to Brewster Middle School. The Superintendent's office will move to Brewster Middle School.

Effective this year is a policy banning smoking for high school students. The new policy is born of concern for the health of smoking and nonsmoking students and the influence their habits have on the younger students within the school system.

Many of the changes are taking place to make this school year at Camp Lejeune a success.

Career planner scores near perfect

Cpl. F. E. Charles

Many Marines strive for perfection while attending military schools, but Gunnery Sgt. Kenneth J. Zahn, career planner for 2nd Radio Bn., 2nd SRI Group, went much farther than just striving.

While attending the Career Planners Course at the Naval Fleet Training Center in Norfolk, Va., Zahn missed two questions on his final exam to drop his thus far perfect average to a 99.49 percent average for the course.

"It was the highest score ever attained in the course," said Master Gunnery Sgt. J. Nelson, the senior Marine instructor at the school. "The previous high was 97.6 percent."

The five-week course is described as one of the toughest in the Marine Corps. The course teaches sergeants and staff NCOs from any MOS how to be career planners.

Zahn, a signal intelligence specialist, volunteered to become 2nd Radio Bn.'s career planner since an in-house planner was needed to deal with the battalions many specialized MOSs. For Zahn, this was a chance to help Marines in an MOS he loves.

"It's an interesting MOS," the 13-year Marine said. "The nice thing about our work is you get to see the effect your work has."

Zahn began the assignment as career planner in January. When Zahn went to school May 1, he was looking to learn more about his job and was confident he would do well.

"I went up there to gain information that I hadn't gotten on the job," Zahn said. "Career planning is a bit of a challenge because nobody wants the same thing. Every case must be treated differently."

Even though Zahn is proud of his accomplishment, he doesn't think it's very important.

"It doesn't matter what the score was as long as I can help Marines make the right choice," Zahn said. "If I can help a Marine make the right decision, then I've done my job."

'Career planning is a bit of a challenge because nobody wants the same thing. Every case must be treated differently.'

Gunnery Sgt. K.J. Zahn

PLANNING—Gunnery Sgt. Kenneth J. Zahn works with Sgt. Remardo Samson, 2nd Radio Bn., adjutant section, to get him Marine Security Guard duty.

Normally, when we think of dentists envision a small operatory, a contour chair, bright lights and tooth dust. For 1 Dental Bn. here that is only part of the big picture.

Last week the 2nd Dental Bn. had its commanding general's load-bearing march inspection. The dental officers and their support people stepped off at 1 a.m. to take advantage of the cooler temperatures. Their packs consisted of standard field equipment including 9mm pistols. There was an air of quiet determination as the group began their 15-mile march. Capt. Peter Lynch, 2nd Dental CO, provided leadership.

"Safety is our primary concern," said Lynch. The CG inspectors will be checking our organization, road guard placement, proper care of personnel during breaks, uniformity of equipment and any litters. Rest stops were called every 50 minutes. The corpsmen checked the marchers for dehydration, sore feet and injuries every 10 minutes, then the march resumed. The mission completion guidelines required the 15 miles to be finished in five hours, 50 minutes.

These exercises began in November 1987. It is part of the "return to basic skills and warrior training for all" philosophy Gen. A.M. Gray, CMC espoused to improve operational readiness.

According to Capt. J.A. Fady, Bn. CO, conditioning for the marches begins with a five-mile non-loadbearing hikes, with distances and pack weight as endurance increases.

The important mission of providing 2nd MEB with dental care in either garrison setting or an operational deployment requires skills that include nuclear, biological and chemical warfare training, use of side arms, personal protective measures, knowledge of mines and booby and general field skills.

"For these reasons, when we are assigned to duty with Marines, we become Marines," said Fady.

The successful completion of training maneuvers instills confidence in the dental battalion people.

NIGHT MARCH— Personnel of 2nd Dental Bn. show they have what it takes as they complete the final leg of a six-hour march.

THE ATTACK— Camp Lejeune United's Cpl. Roy Filipucci prepares to launch the ball downfield as Army Staff Sgt. Schumann of Fort Myers, Va., closes in during soccer action Aug. 19. The United went on to register a 6-0 victory.

Gaitan, United roll to 6-0 win

Cpl. Dave Mundy

Eddie Gaitan scored two first-half goals and completed a hat trick in the second half as the Lejeune United Club blanked a mixed-services team from the Quantico, Va. area by a 6-0 score Aug. 19 at Liversedge Field. Gaitan booted a penalty kick past Cpl. Gutierrez of Camp Lejeune, playing goalie for the Quantico squad, at the eight-minute mark of the first half. He took a nifty assist from Cpl. Roy Filipucci that converted into a 2-0 halftime lead for the United.

In the second half, the Lejeune squad attacked almost at will on the Quantico team, which included Marines, soldiers from Fort Myers, Va., airmen from Andrews Air Force Base and even a dependent husband.

Midway through the second half, Cpl. Augusto Rios lined a shot into the net for a 3-0 lead, followed a few minutes later by Cpl. Mario Farfan's solo charge for a goal.

With four minutes left, Gaitan completed his hat trick for a 5-0 edge. Lejeune closed the scoring with less than a minute remaining when Cpl. Mauricio Castrillon banked in a crossing kick from Lance Cpl. Larry Young.

Lejeune, Sailors bag title

Globe Staff Report

MAYPORT, Fla. — A team of Camp Lejeune naval personnel claimed the title in the Navy Southeastern Regional softball tournament Aug. 4-6.

The Lejeune Sailors dropped only one game in their seven-game title hunt, an 11-8 loss to the host team from Mayport. Lejeune rallied, however, to beat the team from Atlanta 8-6 before stopping Mayport twice, 7-6 and 10-7, to claim the crown.

The Lejeune team picked up a nickname during the tournament: the "Senior Citizens." Five of the squad's 13 players were chief petty officers. The team included one Marripe, Sgt. Kurt Verrico.

Chief Petty Officer Randy Fincher sparked Lejeune's efforts at the plate and in the field.

"He batted about .800 in the tournament," said Chief Petty Officer Harvey Colleton, Lejeune's player-coach, who shared managerial duties with retired master chief Carl Johnson. "He did a super job in the field, too, starting several double plays at shortstop."

The championship game entered the bottom of the sixth inning tied 7-7 before Lejeune's "senior citizens" went to work.

Chief Petty Officer Ron Williams drew a walk to lead off the inning and Petty Officer 2nd Class Jack Estes followed with a single. Colleton followed with a home run and Lejeune sent Mayport down in order to seal the victory.

Devil dog makes big splash as Devilfish

By Cpl. Kevin Doll

Marines are supposed to be amphibious, then R. Davis is unquestionably a fish.

The 21-year-old communication center operator from Co., HQ Bn., 2nd MarDiv., recently participated in the 1989 North Carolina State Games and swam his way to winning six gold and two silver medals in the swimming group.

Davis took first place in the 800-meter freestyle, 1:14.00; 1500-meter freestyle, 1:14.00; 100-meter backstroke, 1:14.00; 50-meter backstroke, 33.95; 100-meter backstroke, 2:39.13; and the 200-meter backstroke, 2:15.92. He won second place honors in the 400-meter freestyle, 28.07, and the 100-meter freestyle,

Last year in the '88 games, he came home with a total of seven gold, three silver, and one bronze.

The Fairfield, Calif., native began swimming at a young age, beginning in the Junior Olympics and proceeding to his junior high and high school swimming programs.

"My high school water polo team placed fourth in the California finals in 1986," he said.

Davis went through a two-year dry-spell when he joined the Corps, not swimming or training competitively, which makes his achievements in the last two years all the more impressive.

When Davis came to Lejeune, he discovered the swimming club here, the Devilfish, and began training with them. Although the team is primarily for Lejeune dependents, Davis enjoys working with them. He is also the oldest of the group and sometimes takes a leadership role in the training.

"The little kids are fun," he said. "They want to learn but they like to play around a lot too."

"I love to exercise and swimming is one of the best exercises there is. It's relaxing and fun and the improvements you make at swim meets makes it worth all the training," he said.

Davis recently graduated from the Water Safety Survival Instructor Course here and finished second in his class.

To whom it may concern,

When he returned back to Japan, they wrote this article about his boxing career in the Marine Corps.

I am his wife Cathy E. Michael. I would appreciate it very much if this article could be published in The Globe so his fellow Marines in the States can read about this fine Marine.

Thank you,
Cathy E. Michael

By Master Sgt. Marv Price

It was not until 10 years later that Robert Michael, while watching boxing on television, decided that it was the sport for him. Stationed at the hotbed of Marine Corps boxing, Camp Lejeune, Michael had little difficulty turning his decision to become a pugilist into a reality.

A change of duty station stalled his boxing career in 1988. "I was an instructor at MCSSS school and could not work the all-Marine tryouts into my schedule," explained the 30-year-old Marine sergeant.

In the Interservice championship the decision of one judge gave the flyweight title to Michael's competitor and the Marine had to settle for second place.

"In my heart I know I won that fight," Michael remarked with a contorted look on his face as if a blow

Prior to the U.S. Nationals in Colorado Springs, Michael acquitted himself well in invitational tune-ups. His toughest battle seemed to be keeping his fighting weight down to the 112 pound limit for flyweights. Normally he carries about 125 pounds in his frame.

Later he competed in the Carolina Gloves championships in Charlotte and again a close decision went against him and he lost on points.

For many people, the rash of second place finishes might become discouragement or reason to quit.

Michael seems to be the kind of person who thrives on making the best of second opportunities. He tried life as a Marine once, from 1977 to 1980, but left, before returning for good in 1982. It took two tries to finally join the all-Marine team and now he has set his sights on a much better performance the next time around.

"I plan to climb two steps high the next time around," explained the boxer, who is nevertheless proud of his selection to the all-Marine team and the competition which follows.

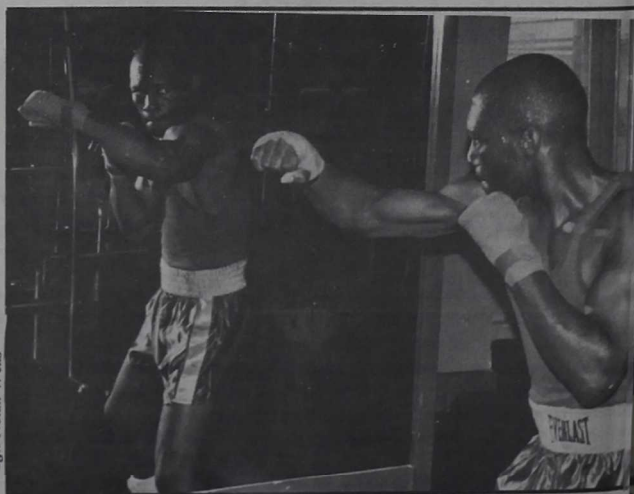

That pride is evident is his voice. When he speaks of his bouts and also of his red and gold, all-Marine jacket he wears. Pins from the various international tournaments and the other championships in which he boxed adorn the front of the jacket.

Over the years, Marine boxer has established a proud tradition and Robert Michael is determined to add on that tradition, every chance he gets.

When he returned back to Jan. they wrote this article about his career in the Marine Corps.

WINNING FORM— Sgt. Robert Michael, MWSS-171, works out in the MCAS Iwakuni, Japan, gym to keep his boxing prowess.

RIGHT JAB— Sgt. Robert Michael practices his punching technique about Iwakuni, Japan.

"The training was hard, with a lot of running and stamina training. We went through about 200-250 four-count fluterkicks a day."

The winning swimmer learned from the course and said he can apply some of the training to his swimming technique.

"They stress balance, buoyancy and speed, all of which are not only important in water survival, but can be used in competitive swimming."

Davis enjoys swimming so much he would like to work as a water survival or swimming instructor.

"The Marine Corps doesn't sponsor a swimming program but I'd like to continue in that direction. I think I would make a good instructor. I love to swim and coach and I think I'm in the best shape I've ever been in," he said.

"MFCU provides many free and convenient services which are important to me. They have checking, and there is no cost per check written. I love the idea of Touch Teller, again it's a free service and so convenient. One can do just about all their banking needs through Touch Teller. I never have to travel to the credit union first, I simply call and go right to my errands. Also their new ETC. account is a great idea. MFCU has polite and friendly employees which is important to an institution. My biggest pleasure is how they will occasionally post DDM early. It's great!! It tells me MFCU is a sound institution capable of providing a unique service many of the other banks and credit unions are not able to provide. I would and have recommended MFCU to many individuals."

What Kind Of Long Distance Phone Service Did You Get Stuck With?

Where's all that money you were going to save? What happened to that great service that was supposed to be "right at your fingertips"? And why is it that your long distance operator seems to have put you in a holding pattern?

If the great long distance service you were promised by some other long distance company has left a sour taste in your mouth, it's not too late to switch to Carolina Telephone Long Distance.

Carolina Telephone Long Distance Gives You Service You Can Count On

Exclusive Services:

- Complete customer service from one source, the local phone company.
- One phone bill for local and long distance service.
- One place to call for assistance.
- Your inquiries are handled locally, not by some out-of-state service center.

State-Of-The-Art Long Distance Services:

- Direct access across the country and around the world.
- Fiber optic transmission for crystal clear connections.

United Telephone System

Carolina Telephone Long Distance

• Discount rates with savings for night and weekend calling.

- Special calling plans for high volume long distance users.
- Complete operator services 24 hours a day for assistance with collect, person-to-person, and third number calls.
- Instant credit for misdialed numbers.
- No charge for busy signals and no-answers.
- Use of all major long distance credit cards.

We'll Sweeten The Deal By Giving You $5.00 Worth Of Long Distance Calls, Free!

If you make the switch to Carolina Telephone Long Distance now, we'll give you $5.00 worth of free long distance calls, to cover the charge the local company may bill you to switch. Call us for complete details.

To find out how you can switch to Carolina Telephone Long Distance, simply call 1-800-962-2853, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 AM until 5:00 PM.

If you're tired of empty promises and the runaround from your current long distance company, switch to the team that brings home a little closer. Carolina Telephone Long Distance. The Home Team.

SWITCH TO CAROLINA TELEPHONE LONG DISTANCE!

Go far in the Marine Reserve.

You'll have the opportunity to go far in the Marine Reserve. See exciting places you've never seen, or revisit a favorite or two. On your two weeks of annual training duty, you'll visit different parts of the country and the world.

The advanced training can also take you a long way. You'll keep your skills sharp, and learn new ones. The experience you get in the Marine Reserve could lead to better jobs and promotions in your civilian career.

You'll be well paid for your one weekend a month and two weeks of annual training duty, and get great benefits including college tuition assistance under the Reserve G.I. Bill, retirement and limited PX and commissary privileges.

There are other special benefits too, like the pride you'll take in being back on the winning team, working with other Marines from your hometown.

So, if you've left active duty or are about to, plan to go far in the Marine Reserve. For more information on how to reserve your place on the team, call 1-800-MARINES.

CCCC GRADUATE

Betty Foster Made A Great Decision

After graduating from White Oak High School, I enrolled at Coastal Carolina in their Medical Secretary Program. I worked as a Medical Secretary for four years and am presently working for the Onslow County Board of Education.

Now, Betty has re-entered Coastal Carolina in the College Transfer Program and plans to get an elementary education degree. "Working with the teachers at the Board of Education caused me to develop an interest in education. I am using what I learned at Coastal."

So make a great decision like Betty. Call Coastal Carolina Community College today and ask about our Medical Secretary Program and our College Transfer Program — Full-time, part-time, day or night!
