A C-17 Globemaster III cargo plane and crew from the Hawaii Air National Guard at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam evacuated more than 125 Department of Defense (DoD) personnel from Wake Island, July 14.

The evacuation was executed as Typhoon Halola, which at the time was packing sustained winds in excess of 100 mph, had a forecasted track that took it dangerously close to the isolated atoll, located roughly 2,300 miles west of the Hawaiian Islands.

Wake Island functions as a divert airfield or primary stopping point for cross-Pacific military flights. At any one time, more than 100 DoD personnel are on station to maintain and operate the airfield there.

It was planned to be a routine training day with roughly three hours of flying time around the Hawaiian Islands for the all Guard crew who reported for duty that morning. Upon learning of the real world assignment, the crew sprang into action.

“We train for the unexpected. When leadership tasked us with the emergency evacuation of Wake Island, so many things go through your mind. Are we ready for this mission? What dangers should we be aware of?” said Capt. Skip Saito, aircraft commander, with the 204th Airlift Squadron.

“All questions aside, we were confident and ready to execute anything that was brought to us. That is what we train for,” he said.

The crew of five took off from Honolulu at 11 a.m. and, roughly four and a half hours later, landed on Wake Island. With engines still running, Wake Island personnel and their personal effects were loaded onto the C-17. The C-17 was airborne just over one hour after landing, this time with a flight plan taking it to Andersen AFB in Guam, where the evacuees would remain until the storm passed.

“As a Hawaii Air National Guard crew, we are here for relief and humanitarian support in the event natural disaster hits the state of Hawaii. Expanding our support to the territories of the United States of America shows that we are not limited in what we do,” said Saito.

An evacuation mission such as this highlights Pacific Air Force’s flexibility to generate air response quickly across the theater, a key component to air power.

“This was an exceptional team effort utilizing Guard, active and civilian members of our Air Force to safeguard life and property,” said Air Force Col. Gregory Woodrow, vice-commander of the 154th Wing, Hawaii Air National Guard.

“We are all extremely proud of the professionalism and can do attitudes displayed by all,” Woodrow said.

Drivers urged to use caution as school starts July 29

Summer will soon come to an end for public school students as they start school on July 29. With schools back in session, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH) is reminding drivers to use extreme caution and be especially aware of children walking or riding their bicycles to and from school in the morning and afternoon.

There is always an adjustment period when classes resume, for both drivers and students. Also be aware that some children may not see you when they are entering the crosswalks, so please drive slowly and always watch for the children.

Student traffic will usually start just before 7 a.m. and continue through 8 a.m. After-school traffic normally begins at 2 p.m. and winds down after 3 p.m.

Because of the large number of families who arrived in Hawaii during this summer, there are many students new to JBPHH and the surrounding military housing community who are not familiar with the local traffic patterns.

“The best advice we can give is for drivers to slow down and give yourselves more time to get to your destination. The extra time is certainly worth avoiding accidents,” said Lt. Col. Karla Aliamanu Elementary School’s Falcon Safety Patrol assists students in crossing the street, helping to ensure students are safe from traffic.

Heren, deputy commander for 647th Air Base Group.

Likewise, parents and students should map out the safest route to school together, including any alternate routes, and should also discuss proper safety practices such as the use of crosswalks and proper bicycle safety. Additionally, please ensure your children wear bright clothing to increase visibility for drivers.

Finally, children should not walk to school wearing headphones or playing portable video games because this makes it difficult for them to hear the traffic around them. Let’s all do our part to ensure a safe and accident-free school year for all.

DARWIN, Australia (NNS)—The Arleigh Burke-class guided-missile destroyers USS Preble (DDG 88) and USS Fitzgerald (DDG 62) arrived July 20 in Darwin, Australia for a port visit, after successfully completing Talisman Sabre 2015 (TS15).

Sailors on both ships stood at parade rest in their dress white uniforms as they entered the port, as a gesture symbolizing respect and friendship otherwise known as “manning the rails.”

This port visit follows both ships' participation in TS15, in which Preble and Fitzgerald were among the 21 ships from the U.S., Australian and New Zealand navies that participated in the exercise that trained more than 30,000 U.S. and Australian Defence Force members in planning and conducting combined task force operations.

“Talisman Sabre was a very challenging exercise for us, but we emerged more capable than we were before we went into it,” said Cmdr. Jeffrey Heames, commanding officer of Preble.

“We’ve learned a lot, and we’ve reinforced the strong relationship we have with our Australian partners. We’re ready for the next challenge and the next contribution for us in terms of promoting regional stability in the area.”

Moored alongside Preble, is Fitzgerald. Having also played a large role in the rigorous TS15, they look forward to some time off and exploring Australia.

“Talisman Sabre provided a great opportunity to improve individual ship and strike group readiness in a complex multi-warfare environment with our Australian counterparts and serves to strengthen ties and improve our overall ability to work together,” said Cmdr. Christopher England, “Fitzgerald’s commanding officer. Pulling into Darwin after the exercise provides a chance for the crew to unwind and enjoy the local Australian culture.”

Preble is homeported at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam. Preble and Fitzgerald are currently deployed to the U.S. 7th Fleet area of responsibility in support of security and stability in the Indo-Asia Pacific region.

JBPHH Safety Office offers back-to-school traffic safety reminders

Safety tips for bicyclists, drivers

Daniel Bertubin

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Safety Office

With the expected increase of youth bicyclists on the road as school begins, drivers of motor vehicles can take steps to be vigilant in the months ahead.

Defensive driving techniques include being courteous, such as allowing at least three feet of clearance when passing a bicyclist on the road, looking for cyclists before opening a car door, and especially when pulling out from a parking space.

It is important for drivers of motor vehicles to yield to cyclists at intersections and as directed by signs and signals.

Drivers, especially those with big vehicles, should be cautious and watch for cyclists when making either left or right turns.

Bicyclists should wear properly fitted bicycle helmets when they ride. Safety officials say that a helmet is the single most effective way to prevent head injuries resulting from a bicycle crash. Statistics show that hundreds of bicycle fatalities occur each year and that head injury is the leading cause of those bicycle fatalities.

The following Joint Base Traffic Instruction (JBPH-HINST 5100.1) lists 11 tips for bicycle safety:

- All persons, including minors, riding bicycles on JBPHH will observe the same traffic rules as are required of a motor vehicle operator.

- All persons operating bicycles through any JBPHH installation gate should avoid the normal flow of vehicle traffic whenever possible and utilize available bike paths and side streets.

- Sidewalks may be used by bicyclists when bicycle riders do not pose a hazard to pedestrians. All bicyclists under the age of 18 will dismount their bicycles at intersections and walk the bicycles across the street, whether or not a crosswalk is present.

- All riders will wear approved ANSI or SNELL

Memorial Foundation-certified bicycle helmets.

- Every bicycle when in use at night (from 30 minutes before sunset to 30 minutes after sunrise) shall be equipped with a white light on the front which shall be visible for at least 500 feet ahead and a red reflector or red light on the rear which shall be visible for a distance of at least 600 feet.

- Bicyclists are highly encouraged to equip their bicycle with a bell or other device capable of being heard for a distance of at least 100 feet. Sirens and whistles are prohibited.

- All bicyclists shall wear light colored clothing. During restricted visibility conditions, reflective clothing or vests will be worn by all bicyclists.

- Bicycles will be properly parked and secured by use of a chain and padlock or bicycle cable lock to an approved bike rack.

- No bicycle will be ridden on any sidewalk within business areas (i.e., base exchanges, commissary, bank, credit union, etc.) or on the Mokulele pedestrian overpass.

- Bicycle operators are prohibited from using any crosswalk, sidewalk, driveway or any other area not designated as a traffic lane for the purpose of passing a traffic control device, to circumvent the flow of traffic, or to cross over lanes of traffic unless already legally operating on a sidewalk.

- Bicycles are prohibited on any portion of the Kuntz Avenue overpass or on O’Malley Boulevard from the Air Mobility Command (AMC) Terminal Road to the Kuntz Avenue exit. Children traveling to Hickam Elementary should avoid the busy roads of Fox Boulevard, Signer Boulevard and 11th Street. If children are using Porter Avenue, they should stop for traffic at Porter Gate before proceeding to Hickam Elementary. Children traveling to all other base elementary schools should consult with school officials regarding the best routes to take.

Back to school, back to promoting summer safety

Rear Adm. John Fuller

Commander, Navy Region Hawaii and Naval Surface Group Middle Pacific

I believe we build partnerships by establishing common ground. The most common of common grounds is how much we all care about our loved ones. We all show it by keeping them safe, within our power to do so.

As we prepare for another school year here in Hawaii, I ask everyone to be extra vigilant and engaged when it comes to safety. I often hear the question, "What keeps you up at night?"

Well, here's a vision that would increase the quality of everyone's slumber—seeing drivers slowing down and looking out for pedestrians and obeying traffic rules in housing areas, at crosswalks and near schools and child development centers; and seeing drivers paying attention and choosing to not be distracted by their smart phones, etc.

The Coalition of Sailors Against Destructive Decisions (CSADD) is playing a big role in getting the word out—waving signs on roadsides and offering timely reminders. Great work!

Good leaders show by example. They instill pride, share information and lean forward. They demand excellence. I see all of those qualities in our proactive military and civilian leaders who are taking safety and security seriously no matter where they are.

We re-focus on safety and security every back-to-school season, but, in fact, we need to be energized year-round. See something, say something. Know something, do something. Being vigilant and staying engaged only helps the community if we make a commitment.

Our job and our mission is to protect and defend our nation. We can do that only if we protect ourselves first. Here's a great life example. Did you ever wonder why airlines ask passengers to secure their oxygen first? You can't help someone if you are incapacitated yourself.

So, in addition to driving safely, we need to practice good habits off duty, on and off base, especially when we go hiking, swimming or boating—or when operating a motorcycle.

We are in the middle of the 100 days of summer (from Memorial Day weekend to Labor Day), a time when most off-duty accidents occur.

Do you have a shipmate or wingman when you go hiking? Do you read and comply with signs on trails and at the beach? Are you making good, responsible choices when consuming alcohol?

One of the saddest days any leader can experience is attending a memorial service with the family and friends of a young person who made an error in judgment and paid with his or her life. A few moments in time can change the course of a lifetime.

Can you tell the kids in your life—sons, daughters, nieces, nephews, brothers and sisters—"I did the right thing?"

Let's protect our shipmates, our families and our extended ohana. Promote safety and security year-round. Thank you!

Tips to help our children prepare for school

Col Renzi Smith

Deputy Commander, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam

It's hard to believe this summer is already drawing to a close and school starts again on July 29. To help ensure a successful start of the new school year, PBS Education and NASP Resources offer the following tips to help your child get ready for school:

- Meet the new teacher(s); if there is a school open house, make sure you attend it. Find out how they like to communicate (e.g., phone, email).

- Tour the school with your child if your child is starting a new school.

- Obtain the class supply list and take a special shopping trip with your child. After you get the basics, let your child get the cool looking notebook or a favorite-colored pen.

- Chat about today's events and tomorrow's plans, but don't spend the last weeks of summer vacation reviewing last year's curriculum.

- Ease into the routine a few days in advance by setting the alarm clock, going through your morning rituals, and get in the car or to the bus stop on time.

- For at least the first week of school, clear your own schedule so you will be free to help your child acclimate to the school routine and overcome the confusion/anxiety many children experience at the start of a new school year.

- After school, review with children what to do if they get home after school and you are not there.

- Review your child's schoolbooks and talk about what your child will be learning during the year.

Hopefully these steps can help you and your children transition back to school. Parents are a child's first and best teacher.

Decades of research show that parent involvement has incredible impact on student performance. Students earn higher grades, better test scores and graduation rates increase. When parents show interest in our children's education, we reinforce the message that education is a top priority.

As parents, it is our mission to partner with our schools and students to provide the support, environment and resources needed for our children to succeed in school.

Now that school is going back in session, what advice would you give children about staying safe?

Tech. Sgt. Todd Shak
Air Force Recruiter, HIANG

"My advice for children to stay safe in school would be to listen to their teacher's instructions when practicing drills because it will prepare them to react appropriately in a time of emergency."

SN Starlet Timmons
USS Hopper (DDG 70)

"I would say, be aware of your surroundings. Don't talk to strangers. If it's someone you don't know, don't talk to them. Always know what is going on around you."

Capt. Mia Holley
647th Force Support Squadron

"I would advise children to be familiar with how their school handles emergencies (such as lockdown, tornado/hurricane and fire drills). I'd also advise them to always keep a list of important contact phone numbers and personal information in the event of an emergency."

Personnel Specialist 3rd Class
Geness Napuli
USS Hopper (DDG 70)

"A lot of kids feel the pressure to fit in a certain type of group. I would advise them to be themselves and at the same time know what is right or wrong. Take advantage of the many programs available (at school) and not worry about trying to be cool by getting into drugs or alcohol."

Senior Airman Thomas Erskine
647th Security Forces Squadron

"Make sure you know who you are getting in the car with. Do not get in stranger's vehicles or follow strangers anywhere if they offer you anything."

Boatswain's Mate 3rd Class
Kade Wilson
USS Hopper (DDG 70)

"Pay attention to what your parents tell you to do. Your parents know what's safe and what's not. If they say don't go in a car with strangers, obviously you won't do that. If something feels wrong, don't do it."

USS Boxer sets record for Pacific crossing

The USS Boxer (CV 21) brings aboard United States Air Force F-51 Mustangs at Naval Air Station Alameda, Calif., for transportation to East Asia in July 1950 during the early days of the Korean War. On July 23, 1950, (65 years ago this week), the USS Boxer set the record of crossing the Pacific, bringing aircraft, troops and supplies for the Korean War, arriving at Yokosuka, Japan. It carried a load of 145 (P 51) and six (L 5) Air Force aircraft, 19 Navy aircraft, 1,012 passengers and 2,000 tons of additional cargo, all urgently needed for operations in Korea. In making this delivery, Boxer broke all existing records for a Pacific crossing, steaming from Alameda, Calif., to Yokosuka in eight days and 16 hours. On the return trip to the U.S. on July 27, it cut the time down to seven days, 10 hours and 36 minutes.

HONOLULU—A group of 20 service members, stationed throughout Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam, volunteered at the Honolulu Community Action Program’s (HCAP) food distribution center July 17.

During their volunteer service, the service members distributed fresh produce, along with other perishable and non-perishable food items, to disabled seniors and low income families and individuals of the Kalihi Valley housing area.

“Our relationship with the military volunteers is outstanding,” said Ace Tufu, manager of Kalihi-Palama District Service Center.

“We just do not have the staff to do everything we do. Without them, we would not be able to make this event successful.”

non-profit organization, which delivers need-based human services to the economically challenged on the island of Oahu since 1965. Currently, the number of individuals and families who receive food from HCAP each month continues to grow, averaging approximately 900 families a month.

Air Force Tech. Sgt. Britney Canzaro, assigned to 647th Logistics Readiness Squadron and first-time volunteer at HCAP, said she was surprised to see the line of people wrapped about the building needing food.

“I was surprised with the variety of food and the amount of people waiting in line,” said Canzaro. “The bananas were the first thing to go, then the candy.”

Ohana Produce works in collaboration with the HCAP, offering its services through four district service centers: Windward, Kalihi-Palama, Central and Leeward.

HCAP’s programs and services impacted more than 20,000 low-income individuals and families throughout the island of Oahu.

Feds Feed Families 2015 Campaign is underway

The USDA’s Feds Feed Families (FFF) summer food drive returned July 7 to Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH) and is scheduled to run through Oct. 30.

The annual campaign gives military and civilian federal employees an easy way to donate non-perishable food to families in need.

Employees here can donate at collection areas located in base chapels or use drop-off sites located in the administration buildings for Naval Surface Group Middle Pacific, U.S. Pacific Fleet, U.S. Pacific Command or other tenant organizations on JBPHH.

Arrangements for donations can also be made through the Feds Feed Families website, www.fedsfeedfamilies.gov.

Last year FFF collected just under 15 million pounds of food nationwide.

This year, organizers here anticipate advertising and convenient donation sites will help to collect at least 7,000 pounds of non-perishable food for local families.

“After food is collected in the Navy Region Hawaii area of responsibility, it is donated to local food banks in Oahu and Kauai,” said Chief Religious Programs Specialist Kimberly Bell, campaign organizer.

The Hawaii Food Bank website estimates 287,000 people received food assistance statewide last year.

For more information, call Bell at 473-4512 or visit www.fedsfeedfamilies.gov.

Navy announces contest to show what responsible drinking means

Chief of Naval Personnel Public Affairs

MILLINGTON, Tenn. (NNS)—This summer, the Navy Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention (NADAP) Office is hosting a contest for Sailors to submit their ideas for a new poster and slogan for the “Keep What You’ve Earned” (KWYE) campaign.

Now is your chance to put your creativity to the test, show the Navy what responsible drinking means to you, and help your shipmates make smart decisions.

The KWYE campaign recognizes how hard you have worked to be successful in your career. As a Sailor, you have made sacrifices in your life, including choosing a more responsible lifestyle than perhaps some of your peers outside of the Navy.

The campaign encourages you to celebrate all that you have accomplished during your time in the Navy and to protect your career, life and the lives of those around you by choosing to drink responsibly.

But what does responsible drinking mean to you?

If you have ever been at a bar with your friends and wanted to scream, “Stop embarrassing yourself!” or awoke after a night out and wished you had passed up on that extra beer, here’s your opportunity to remind others not to make the same mistake.

If you have ever been worried about a friend’s drinking habits but didn’t know how to speak up, this is your chance to have a voice. If you have watched a Sailor get in a car with someone who has been drinking, now is the time to get your message out there and encourage responsible decision-making.

The “Keep What You’ve Earned” campaign needs your help spreading these messages of responsible drinking to the Navy community. The campaign encourages all Sailors with creative and meaningful messages about responsible drinking to participate in the poster contest.

Please email your submissions and any questions to sara.sisung.ctr@navy.mil by Aug. 31. There is no limit on the number of submissions per Sailor, so feel free to explore all of your slogan and design ideas.

If you win, your poster will be featured on the NADAP website and will be available for download by our campaign partners. You will serve a pivotal role in helping the campaign find new, creative ways to promote responsible decision-making in the Navy.

To learn more about the KWYE poster contest and to read guidelines on how to submit your ideas, visit <http://ow.ly/Q0RrQ>, and go directly to the KWYE poster contest description and instructions for use.

As a Sailor, you make important decisions every day. It is in your hands to prevent instances of irresponsible alcohol use in the Navy and protect your fellow shipmates.

PACFLT commander reaffirms U.S. and ROK Navy alliance

Commander, U.S. Naval Forces Korea, Public Affairs

SEOUL, Republic of Korea—Adm. Scott Swift, commander of U.S. Pacific Fleet, visited South Korea July 19-20, to meet with senior military and government leaders and reaffirm the U.S. Navy and Republic of Korea’s enduring alliance as a cornerstone of Indo-Asia-Pacific regional stability.

During the two-day visit, Swift met with leaders from both the U.S. and the Republic of Korea, to include U.S. Ambassador to the Republic of Korea Mark Lippert, Adm. Jung Ho-sub, ROK chief of naval operations, Adm. Choi, Yoon hee, ROK chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. Park, Seon-woo, deputy commander of the Combined Forces Command, to discuss the strength of the alliance between the U.S. and ROK.

“The United States and Republic of Korea navies have a long and storied history of working together,” said Swift. “The stability throughout the Indo-Asia-Pacific region is directly related to the strength of our alliance and I am committed to ensuring our strong partnership continues.”

Swift also emphasized the strength of the U.S. Pacific Fleet and assured ROK leaders the stability of the region is one of his top priorities.

“The only navy that is more powerful than the Pacific Fleet is the U.S. Navy ... So I am very confident that despite the uncertainty on the peninsula within the maritime domain we are fully prepared to support Gen. Scaparrotti and Chairman Choi and do whatever may be necessary as of the present and future.”

Swift also thanked the people of the ROK for their support of U.S. Navy forces who are forward-deployed on the Korean peninsula.

“It was no accident that one of my first stops during this trip was to the Republic of Korea,” said Swift. “The support we (U.S. Pacific Fleet) receive from the people here helps ensure we are able to remain forward-deployed where it matters, when it matters.”

Commander, U.S. Naval Forces Korea is the regional commander for the U.S. Navy in the Republic of Korea and provides expertise on naval matters to area military commanders, including the Commander for the United Nations Command, the Combined Forces Command and Commander, U.S. Forces Korea.

Air Force continues to work with DoD, OPM on cyber security incident

Secretary of the Air Force Public Affairs Command Information

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—The Air Force maintains its commitment to protect personal information from cyber threats by continuing efforts with the Defense Department and the Office of Personnel Management to assist those impacted by the recent cyber incident involving federal background investigation data.

OPM and an interagency response team, including investigators from the FBI and the Department of Homeland Security, concluded that sensitive information, to include Social Security numbers, was stolen from background investigations of 21.5 million individuals.

“We sincerely regret this has happened and that so many people were impacted by having their key information at risk,” said Secretary of the Air Force Deborah Lee James. “Cyber security and protecting personal information of our personnel will always be a top priority for the Air Force. We will continue to support the DoD and OPM to ensure our personnel are protected.”

While background investigation records do contain some information regarding mental health and financial history provided by applicants and people contacted during the background investigation, there is no evidence that health, financial, payroll or retirement records of federal personnel or those who have applied for a federal job were impacted by this incident, for example — annuity rolls, retirement records, US-AJobs.gov and Employee Express.

USNS Mercy arrives in Philippines for Pacific Partnership

Pacific Partnership
Public Affairs

ROXAS CITY, Philippines—The Military Sealift Command hospital ship USNS Mercy (T-AH 19) arrived in Roxas City, Philippines, July 18 for the first half of its mission stop in the host nation for Pacific Partnership 2015.

While in Roxas City, medical staff aboard Mercy will perform surgical procedures and will host community health engagements, and also provide direct care in seven locations throughout the province of Capiz. In addition to medical care, PP15 personnel will work and train side-by-side with the community on civic service events, safety topics, humanitarian assistance and disaster relief, water search and rescue, veterinarian care and community outreach projects.

“PP15 is such a wonderful opportunity for our medical teams because they get the chance to work side-by-side with the Philippine medical community. We learn so much from each other and this collaboration strengthens our international partnership and better prepares us to respond to natural disasters throughout the region,” said Capt. Melanie Merrick, the commanding officer of the medical treatment facility on board Mercy.

In addition, the Mercy crew will host partnership events such as a multilateral leadership forum on gender and development, partnered training with Barangay health workers, biomedical repair exchanges, and a disaster risk reduction forum intended to enhance international response to natural disasters.

PP15 participants on the ship and on the ground include personnel from the United States, Australia, South Korea, Malaysia, Japan and New Zealand. The hospital ship arrived with more than 900 personnel, including volunteers from non-governmental organizations.

In addition, several PP15 events will be led by the United States Coast Guard. All PP15 personnel will work together with the Philippine government and local community on various medical, dental, veterinary and civic action projects.

Mercy will depart Roxas City Aug. 4, and transit to Subic Bay to continue its mission in the Philippines.

The Mercy crew will be in Subic Bay Aug. 5-14, continuing Pacific Partnership subject matter expert exchange events and community relations projects while the ship undergoes routine maintenance.

“We value the knowledge and best practices we will exchange in the coming weeks and also the friendships we will undoubtedly make,” said Capt. Christopher Engdahl, Pacific Partnership 2015 mission commander. “Preparing for natural disasters before they happen is vital to the stability of the Pacific region. PP15 allows our nations to better prepare now so that we are able to respond and seamlessly integrate during future relief efforts.”

Now in its 10th iteration, Pacific Partnership is the largest annual multilateral humanitarian assistance and disaster relief preparedness mission conducted in the Indo-Asia

Pacific Region.

While training for crisis conditions, Pacific Partnership missions have provided medical care to approximately 270,000 patients and veterinary services to more than 38,000 animals.

Additionally, the mission has provided critical infrastructure developments to host nations through the completion of more than 180 engineering projects.

SAILORS JOIN IN FISHPOND RESTORATION

Navy Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC), Sailors, Native Hawaiian Civic Clubs, Boy Scouts and community members gathered July 18 at McGrew Point Housing pavilion to clean up the local ancient fishpond, Loko Pa'aiau.

The participants geared up with gloves and bags to clear out trash and mangrove seedlings growing in the area. Locally, the mangrove tree is an invasive species, according to Rebecca Smith, the natural management specialist at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam and Naval Facilities Engineering Command Hawaii.

"In other areas around the world, it's an awesome plant to have around," said Smith. "They filter and clean water and can provide a great habitat for nursery fish species. Here, it has taken over a lot of the shoreline and has outcompeted the native plants that would normally be found in the area."

Smith said once the mangrove has been removed, it will provide an opportunity for the existing seed bank of native plants to germinate and regrow in the area.

The restoration project, which has been ongoing for the past six months, has benefited the local community, according to Jeff Pantaleo, archeologist at NAVFAC.

"This project is kind of doing a whole community restoration," said Pantaleo. "The houses along the edge here were flooded because of the vegetation. Now that it's all opened up, people are not having floods in their back yards."

According to Chief (Sel.) Yeoman Victor Langston, assigned to United States Pacific Command, the project provided an educational experience for him.

"Everything is a melting pot," said Langston. "I got to learn about the area, the culture and about what it was before our time here. It was great working alongside the natives who have been here, who know the history of this pond, and being able to give back and help preserve it."

The volunteers removed approximately 80 bags of mangrove seedlings and 25 bags of garbage, according to Pantaleo.

The restoration process started last year. It took six months to complete the first phase of the project, which was to clear the mangrove trees obstructing the pond. The long-term goal is to restore the pond to its original function.

Fishponds in early Hawaiian history were used to farm fish, providing food for the surrounding communities. There were originally 22 fishponds in Pearl Harbor; now only three remain. Of the three, the fishpond at McGrew Point was the most accessible and in the best condition.

Pearl City Peninsula controls net to beat Pound Town

Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

Pearl City Peninsula hitters Logistics Specialist 2nd Class Greg Shedlock, Navy Diver 2nd Class Andy Engelhardt and Navy Diver 1st Class Mark Larribas led a hard-hitting charge in the frontcourt to take two sets in a row and defeat 647th Security Forces Squadron (647 SFS) Pound Town, 25-17 and 25-11, on July 16 in a Blue Division intramural volleyball game at Hickam Fitness Center, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

Both teams entered the show-down with undefeated records, but it was PCP that controlled that action from midway of the first set all the way through the second set to improve to 3-0 and keep within a game of league-leader and defending champions Hawaii Air National Guard (HI-ANG).

“I think we had some really good sets,” said Engelhardt about the team’s ability to hammer down kills at the net. “She (Masako, spouse of Larribas) was able to position the ball in a spot where our big guys could make their hits.”

In the first set, both teams came out on fire with the game being knotted up a total of seven times before a side-out by Engelhardt put PCP up by a point at 14-13.

Clinging to the small lead, Shedlock picked up the pace and started to pummel the ball with regularity.

A kill by Shedlock secured the ball for PCP and handed his team a 16-14 lead.

A hitting error by Pound Town put PCP up by two before Shedlock smashed three kills in a row to take a 20-14 advantage that led to the first-set victory.

“They (PCP) were hitting real good,” said Pound Town hitter Staff Sgt. Jose Lopez about Pearl City’s play in the frontcourt. “Unfortunately, our timing was a little off. At times, we were able to get a couple of blocks, but their hitting, they had a lot of guys that could hit.”

After seizing momentum in the first set, PCP continued their torrid pace in the second set and dominated from start to finish.

A kill and side-out by Engelhardt gave PCP a seven-point lead at 12-5, which grew to 10 points on a side-out by Larribas at 19-9.

Pearl City then closed out the set and game by outscoring Pound Town by a margin of 6-2.

While the team’s hitting dominated the action, Engelhardt said that PCP’s ability to spike the ball hurt Pound Town in more ways than one.

Not only did the team’s hard slams rack up points in bunches, they also kept Pound Town’s attack stuck in neutral.

“It definitely changed their game plan,” Engelhardt said. “It makes them become reactionary instead of making them set up their passes.”

Lopez said although PCP seemed to have cruised to their third win of the season, he thought that Pound Town played well despite the final score.

Against PCP, Pound Town got solid contributions from Lopez and hitter Nixon Collins, who is a military family member.

“I thought we put in a really good fight,” Lopez admitted. “They (PCP) ended up getting the win, but we’ll come back next time.”

Meanwhile, the excellent play of PCP didn’t stop with their hitting or their ability to pass the ball.

Engelhardt said he believes that PCP’s serving also played a huge part in the team’s straight-set victory.

“That’s a big deal,” said Engelhardt about the team’s consistency while at service. “The more you can minimize mistakes, the better success you’re going to have.”

Open house events to showcase base housing

Hickam Communities

Military retirees, Department of Defense employees, and members of the Guard and Reserves have an opportunity to live at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

Hickam Communities will host open house events July 25-26 and Aug. 1-2 to showcase its homes, services and amenities, and rent rates that include utilities. The open house events will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 1306 Porter Ave. on the Hickam side of Joint Base.

“We receive calls nearly every day from retirees and DoD employees asking if they can live on base,” said Stephen Quinn, Hickam Communities director of property management. “They recognize the value our communities offer — from the convenience of living close to work to being part of a friendly community with great amenities — and they know that an affordable home in the Honolulu area is hard to come by outside the gate,” Quinn said.

Rent includes all utilities, front and side yard lawn service, maintenance support, and access to Hickam Communities community centers and facilities. Two-, three- and four-bedroom homes are available, and units are partly furnished with major appliances, including washing machine and dryer, and have central air-conditioning.

For more information about the open house or Hickam Communities, call Hickam Communities leasing office at 423-7788 or log on to communities.com/openhouse.

15th Maintenance Group topples Asheville

Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

Staff Sgt. Chris Voight scored two goals and added an assist to lead 15th Maintenance Group 15 (MXG) to a 4-0 victory over USS Asheville (SSN 758) on July 18 in an Afloat Division Summer Soccer League game at Earhart Field, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

The win keeps the 15 MXG tied with three other teams for first place in the division with identical records of 2-0, while Asheville now holds a record of 1-1.

After a slow start, Voight got things going against Asheville, when he hit Staff Sgt. Jason White with a pass, before White shot it in from the left wing for a 1-0 lead.

"It actually just worked out perfectly," Voight said about his pass for goal to White. He made the perfect line. He's just a phenomenal player."

White said that the goal was one of those bang-bang plays that seemed to have appeared out of nowhere.

White said once he got into position he had no time to think and had to react right away to make it work.

"I just came in on a substitution," White recalled. "He (Chris) threw it in, I made a run down the sideline and he made a perfect through ball. I struck it as hard as I could and it found its way to the goal."

The goal seemed to open the floodgates for the 15 MXG, which has gained a reputation as being one of the top soccer clubs at Joint Base.

While the goal by White was the only score in the first half, Voight threw down goal number two off an assist by Airman 1st Class Louis Delavara shortly after the break.

Although several members of Asheville claimed that the shot should have been ruled no good due to an offside violation, Voight said that he thought the kick was perfect.

"It was a good play,"

Voight claimed. "While I don't think the pass was intended for me, I held even with Louis and when Louis put it up at the cross, I feel like I stole Louis' goal."

Voight got another goal on a shot down the middle of the box to make it 3-0 with time winding down on the clock.

Then with the game just about to expire, Airman 1st Class Robert Bechstein popped in the final tally for the 4-0 win.

Voight's outstanding game may have seemed out of the ordinary, but for the veteran striker, his presence around the ball and goal has been a constant thorn in the side of team's opponents.

White said that while it may be frustrating to compete against a player of Voight's caliber, he is happy for the opportunity to play with Voight.

"Chris is a phenomenal player," White acknowledged. "He has good vision on the field and he knows where to put himself position wise."

After falling short of the Joint Base intramural soccer championship for the past two seasons, White said that he couldn't think of anything better than to finally break through and walk away with the Summer League title.

If everything goes well, Voight said this could be the very season that the team finally gets its wish.

"This season, we're really trying hard," Voight admitted. "We've just come short of it almost every season, which robs us because I think we have a really good and talented team. But, again, the mission, sometimes, we lose half of our team. Sometimes it happens during the play-offs, which is critical because you lose one and you're out. This year, we're 15 deep and we're all talented. Even if we lose five or six, we still got a squad to play in the play-offs. That's our goal."

HIANG keeps grip on division's top spot

Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

Some of the faces have changed, but it seems as though no matter who is on the court for the defending intramural volleyball champs Hawaii Air National Guard (HI-ANG), the beat stays the same.

Facing Combat Medics of the 15th Medical Group (15 MDG), HI-ANG opened with a bang with back-to-back kills from team captain Tech. Sgt. Stephen Lorenzo and never looked back, as the team took a straight set, 25-13 and 25-11, win on July 16 to remain undefeated.

The victory kept the HIANG one game ahead of Pearl City Peninsula for the top spot in the Blue Division with a record of 4-0, while the Combat Medics fell to 0-4.

While Lorenzo has maintained his status as top gun on the squad, the veteran outside hitter hasn't had to be a steady presence on the court as he has in the past.

Lorenzo said that if he is needed to play three sets, he's ready to do it, but so far his teammates — especially the newer ones — have stepped up.

"I'm actually doing it to give the guys a good chance to show what they got," he said. "And I'm trying to get them more reps so that they'll be prepared for the end of the season."

Although the season is only two weeks old, against the Combat Medics, HIANG looked every bit like a team in midseason form.

Tied at 3-3 in the first set, HI-ANG quickly took over and doubled the lead at 10-5 on a kill by Lorenzo.

Then up by a score of 15-9, HI-ANG went on another mini-run and finally grabbed their first double-digit lead at 22-12, before finishing off the 15 MDG by a score of 25-13 in the first set.

Tech. Sgt. Stephen Lorenzo (right) spikes a shot for a kill against the Combat Medics of the 15th Medical Group (15 MDG).

"Our confidence is high because we've played so long together," said Lorenzo about the HIANG's core group of players. "And with the addition of our three new pool players, they're actually excellent. They are way above what we expected from pool players. They come with a whole lot of experience and ability. That's the reason why I take myself out a lot."

Despite having Lorenzo sitting on the bench for most of the second set, HIANG still had enough veteran firepower to take control of set two from start to finish.

Up by a score of 4-1, HIANG kept a tight grip on momentum off the back of hitter Staff Sgt. Alan-Michael Warner, who picked up three kills and a block to give HI-ANG a big lead at 11-2.

After a short run by the Combat Medics reduced the deficit down to five at 13-8, Warner righted the ship back in the forward position with another slam and a 14-8 advantage.

"Playing at the net, you have to be aggressive at all times," Warner said. "I feel like when I'm out there, I have to lead my team. We have some new guys out there, so it's important for me to play my game and stick to my game."

Following the kill by Warner, HIANG got help from another long-time player in Lt. Col. Rick Cox, who controlled service with a seven-point lead.

When he was done, Cox had all but wrapped up the HIANG's fourth win in a row by helping to increase the lead up to 11 at 21-10.

"It takes us time to build," Lorenzo announced about putting things together for another championship run. "I would say that we're still learning. It's learning everybody's tendencies, habits so that we know what they're doing without even thinking."

For Warner, he said that the success of the season will rest upon minimizing all of the team's mistakes.

Lorenzo agreed with his long-time teammate, but said that there is only one way to do it.

"You have to take one game at a time," Lorenzo pointed out. "We make mistakes, but we try to do something new to help out. If it takes new strategies, we'll try it and if it doesn't work we'll make adjustments."

State Military Youth of the Year prepares for regional competition

Justin Hirai

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Morale, Welfare and Recreation

Annie Case, the state's Military Youth of the Year, is prepared to represent her Boys and Girls Club at the regional competition in San Diego next week. Speeches will be presented July 31.

Case represented Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH)

in the state competition and earned her title by submitting a winning essay packet and delivering a speech to a panel of judges in March 2015.

The Boys and Girls Club of America offers the Youth of the Year award to club members ages 14 to 18 years old. In order to represent their club, youth should embody the values of leadership service, academic excellence and healthy lifestyles.

Case received a $5,000 scholarship for winning the State Youth of the Year and will now compete for a $10,000 scholarship, which is renewable for four years up to $40,000 at the military regional competition. If she wins the military competition, she will advance to the National Youth of the Year competition and have a chance to win an additional scholarship of $25,000, renewable up to $100,000 for four years. The National Youth of the Year represents all Boys & Girls Clubs youth.

This will be the first time in years that JBPHH will have a representative in the regional competitions.

A sophomore in high school, Case is active at the JBPHH Teen Center, where the staff helped her prepare her essays and listened to her speech.

Case is a Keystone Club member and participates in the teen center's photography, cooking and gardening clubs. She also recently participated in the 2015 Navy Teen Summer Camp Scholarship Program's Hiking Hawaii activity.

Although the regional is a competition, there will be events and activities planned for the youth throughout the week.
