Corps Seeks 6-Hr. Liberty for Lejeune

Marine Corps is taking steps to provide leathernecks at Camp Lejeune, Cherry Point and other "remote" bases with some extra liberty, according to the "New York Times".

The Corps plans to place on desk of Navy Secretary Robert Anderson soon a revision of regulations permitting commanding officers to grant as much as 96 hours.

The Chiefs of Naval Operations and Naval Personnel have cleared the way by giving their approval to the idea. The Navy's Judge Advocate General has declared change does not violate the Armed Forces Leave Act of 1946. Longest liberty period that may be granted under existing regulations is 72 hours.

Purpose of the new plan is to give troops in areas with inadequate liberty facilities a break. Lejeune and Cherry Point, with their thousands of troops, are considered the bases headquarters especially had in mind.

The Corps also feels the extended liberty will cut down the number of men killed in highway accidents. A total of 165 leathernecks died in accidents last year. Extended liberty will give them more time to visit and return from liberty spots, Headquarters said.

Lejeune and Cherry Point were extending extended weekends last until the commandant order-halt when it was discovered procedure was illegal.

Camp Lejeune 2nd MCI Requests

Camp Lejeune is second among the mailing areas in requests for mail from the Marine Corps, while a recent MCI request announced that 35 Lejeune men have successfully completed courses.

Quarterly poll by the Institute showed Camp Lejeune with requests, with the Fleet Post Office, San Francisco leading with 40 requests.

First WR's 'Flabbergasted' Marines Here

CPL. BECKY CARPER
Even candles will gleam Saturday on the birthday cake of the new Marines. To the "old" and the new "boots," each represents a year of valiant service and unceasing struggle to live and keep the name of "Marine".

September, 1952, the Women's Reserve was no more than a note scribbled on the memo pad of a Pentagon official. Five months later, the dream was a reality. The Women's Reserve, shortened to "WV," was born and Mrs. Ruth Steyert, who had fought the idea of a woman's part in service, became the first director with the rank of major.

"Free a Marine to Fight" was the name of the campaign launched in February, 1943, and the nation snapped to the call. Girls from every walk of life rushed to enlist and received their boot camp at Hunter College in the Bronx, N. Y.

As the Reserve grew, the need for a larger recruit depot became apparent, and Major Steyert came to New River, N. C., to look over the situation.

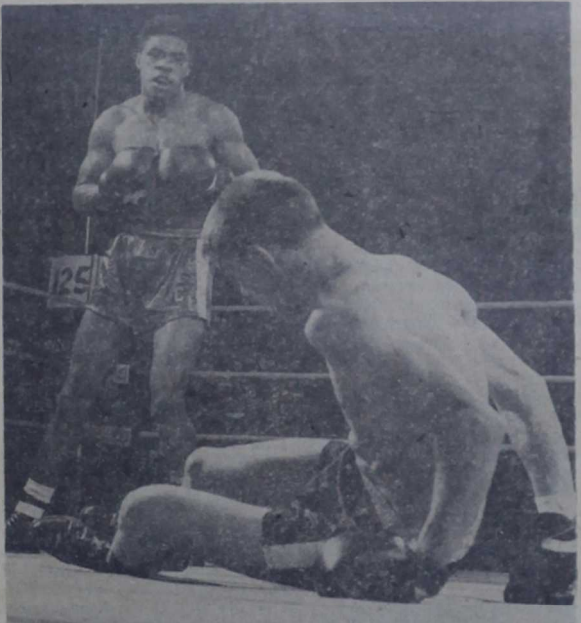

Move To New River
She liked what she saw and made plans to construct Women's Reserve battalion quarters at New River.

In May, the first lady leathernecks landed.

To say that the men were surprised is an understatement. They were flabbergasted. Dainty little girls with glamorous clothes and long hair emerged from training with spit-shined shoes, trim green uniforms, and determination to knock the "Y" off of can't.

They took their place in motor transport as bus drivers, repaired typewriters, became cooks and bakers, and freed the men to fight.

Bond Rallies

KNOCKDOWN — Lejeune's Joe Davis stands ready to do it again as Dink McManus, open middleweight champ struggles to get off the canvas. Davis, who won the Service middleweight championship the night before, dropped McManus twice and won an easy decision last Saturday night in the Charlotte armory. Davis earned a trip to the regionals in New York in March.

Words To The Wise Rising Accident Toll Proves Death Never On Liberty

To all Marines shoving off on liberty this weekend:
Take a look at the record.

Jan. 22: A Camp Lejeune marine dies as his car strikes a telephone pole and overturns while attempting to outrun a state police patrol car. Cause: speeding 80 to 85 mph.

Feb. 1: A Lejeune marine, passenger in a car driven by another marine, dies as the car in which he is riding strikes the rear of a bus two miles from the main gate. Cause: speeding... driving with defective equipment.

Feb. 2: A Camp Lejeune marine is severely injured in an auto accident in Wisconsin. Cause: unknown.

Feb. 6: Three Lejeune marines die as their auto skids on the icy Pennsylvania Turnpike and strikes an on-coming truck. Cause: driving too fast for highway conditions.

Feb. 7: The Camp Lejeune marine injured Feb. 2 is dead. Last week the Camp Provost Marshal predicted at least three deaths from traffic accidents during the entire month of February. Already there have been five. One death in January makes a total of six for the year.

There were but six deaths the entire month of February, 1953. Said the provost marshal's office: "Most of the deaths have resulted from trying to go too far in allotted liberty or leave time. If you think you can better enjoy your liberty by going somewhere else, the best way to enjoy it is to get there..."

Cop 5 Titles, Team Trophy; Enter N. Y. Scraps In March

Camp Lejeune's boxing team has punched its way to New York.

The still undefeated sluggers had little trouble as they out-classed a star-studded field in the 22nd Annual Carolinas Golden Gloves tournament in Charlotte last week.

Reserve Officers May Get Release

All Reserve officers serving their initial tour of active duty and scheduled for release before Sept. 1 are eligible for early release, according to a just-released all-Marine directive, dated Feb. 9.

Officers who request release can expect to go off active duty between Feb. 15 and April 1. Overseas personnel should begin return travel by March 15.

Caused by budget reductions, the directive does not apply to three critical fields: naval aviation, lawyers, and electronics officers.

Stumped By Forms? Tax Experts Here Next Week To Help

Hold on to your W-2 form. That's the white slip you got with your pay last month. It lists the total pay you received. And it lists the total amount of taxes withheld from those earnings.

Each marine, as well as every other person who earned $600 or more in 1953, is required to file an income tax return.

He may file either form 1040 which is a "long" form for a detailed itemization of income, or form 1040a, which is a "short" form on which the person merely lists his income and the tax collector figures the tax—and mails a bill or refund.

To assist Camp personnel in the preparation of their income tax returns the Internal Revenue bureau is sending representatives here next week.

The representatives will be at:
Hadnot point, from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Feb. 15-19 in Bldgs. 1 and 425.
Camp Geiger, from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Feb. 15-16 in the library, Bldg. 301.
Montford Point, from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Feb. 17-18 in the Technical library, Bldg. 420.
Courthouse Bay, from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Feb. 15-16 in the area library.
Rifle Range, from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Feb. 17, only, in room 213, the second deck of Bldg. 11.

The Marines won the team championships with 32 points and took five individual championships and three runner-up titles. The five winners will move on to the Golden Gloves regionals in New York the first week in March.

Fort Jackson took second place in the tourney with 17 points and Fort Bragg's 82nd Airborne Division took third with seven.

Additional glory fell Lejeune's way when Coach Mike Capriano got the Wilton Garrison award as the tournament's outstanding coach. Lightweight Champion Walt Byars was voted the Tresco Johnson Sportsmanship award.

Two of the Service title bouts found Camp Lejeune boxers paired. In the lightweight division, Walt Byars, 1953 All-Marine featherweight champion, won a decision over Lejeune's Dave Gonsalves.

The bout between Richie Hill, 1953 All-Marine middleweight champion, and Duke Belton which Hill won by a decision, was marred by boos from the crowd as the teammates sparred. Coach Capriano was trying to protect an eye cut that Hill received in his first bout of the tournament so he would be ready for his fight in the grand championships.

In the other Service championship matches, Don Daniels won the Service flyweight championship with a split decision over Antonio Ortiz, 82nd Airborne Division. Basil Blackson won the Service bantamweight championship with a second-round TKO over Ray Yuson of the 82nd Airborne. Joe Davis won the Service middleweight championship with a unanimous decision over Art Turner of Cherry Point.

Two of the runner-ups lost split decisions which were close all the way. In the welterweight division, in a bout that won the hearts of the crowd, Lejeune's Nick LaRosa lost a bloody fight to Fort Jackson's (See BOXING, Page 6)

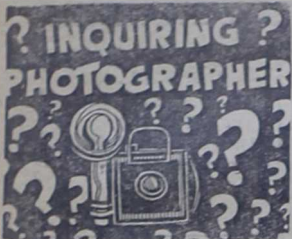

VA Representative To Speak Monday

David Pemberton, VA representative from Wilmington, will lecture on "Veterans Benefits" at the Camp theater Monday from 10 to 11 a.m.

Mr. Pemberton will be in the Camp Educational office the rest of the afternoon to answer requests for information.

Mr. Ernest Elliott, VA representative, from New Bern, will be here February 24 for consultation.

NO PASSING ZONE
The section of Sneed's Ferry rd., between the Main Service rd. and Marines rd., in the Magazine area has been declared a NO PASSING zone, according to the Camp Provost Marshal's office.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE WOMAN MARINE UNIFORM?

CHIEF D. W. HALL, CAMP INFIRMARY — The uniform is very unflattering and ordinary. Most Women Marines do office work, and short sleeved shirts would be more practical and comfortable. The uniform also tends to eliminate the actual appearance of a person.

It gives the appearance of shortness and overweight. The hat of the uniform is very well designed and flattering.

PFC JACK PONTHEUS, M.P. CO., MCB — I don't really care for the winter uniform at all. But the new summers that are just out look real nice. I think that's a sharp-looking uniform. The new winter one is all right.

CPL. GENE SADOWSKI, H&S CO., 6TH MARINES — Whoever designed the winter uniform should have done away with the tie, or made a different style. The tie on the new winter uniform is a lot better than the old field scarf like the men wear. But there could still be improvement.

PFC ELVIN STRINGER, BRIG SECTION, MCB — I think that the uniform should be changed. One nice change they could make is to have a jacket instead of a blouse on the winters. They could also make short sleeves on the shirts. That would be more comfortable.

SGT. TOM MURPHY, GUARD CO., 2, MCB — The color of the old shirt is much better. This new blue shirt doesn't go as well with the uniform as the old shirt and field scarf. I don't care for the new green tie. It doesn't fit the uniform at all.

H. P. BEHRENS, HM, CAMP INFIRMARY — The uniform is fairly nice and I like it. From what I've observed they are sharp looking and the girls carry themselves very nicely while wearing the uniform. I like the new blue shirt and tie, with the new winters. The hat is also good-looking.

Flying 'Mr. Fixit' Versatile As Ever; Doubles As Butcher, Barber, Radioman

BY PFC EMIL DANSKER
They called him "Mr. Fixit" in the Pacific, and the title still fits.

Besides serving as a meat-cutting instructor at the Food Service school at Montford Point, versatile MSgt. Howard L. Young still works part-time as a barber, tailor, radio repairman, and flight instructor. In addition, the sergeant operates "ham" radio units in his home and car.

The veteran of 13 years with the Marines won his title on Koror island in the Palaus in 1946 when he built and helped operate a movie theater—he spent two years as a projectionist before World War II—and served as a tailor for the island.

"We were short of clothing," Sgt. Young said. "Until I found out I could make a pair of shorts and four G-strings out of an old pair of khakis."

The sergeant's varied career began after his graduation from high school in Spokane, Wash. "Those were the days when you had to make a job to get one," he said.

Sgt. Young said he worked as an elevator operator, window trimmer, show card writer, steam-fitter's helper, managed a cigar store, and drove a truck. In between he found time to work as a projectionist and to pick up radio.

In 1935 he got a job as a meat cutter "and decided to stick with it." He opened his own shop in 1940—and closed it 27 days later when his Marine Organized Reserve unit was called to active duty.

Reporting to what is now Camp Pendleton, Calif., the unit found only barracks and a messhall, according to Sgt. Young, who by this time had been shifted from communications to mess sergeant "because somebody had to bring the cooks down."

The sergeant "became" a barber "when we found out there was going to be a personnel inspection. There was only one barber shop in Oceanside and it had only two chairs—for a whole regiment. So I bought some barber tools and went to work."

Later he served as barber to various units during his tour in the Pacific. The 46-year-old marine served on Guadalcanal and was with the first troops to land at Sasebo, Japan, after the war's end.

His first tailoring also was done out of necessity in Hawaii. "There was a lot of work to be done and there weren't enough shops around Camp Whalen," Sgt. Young said. "So I borrowed a sewing machine from Mrs. Roy at the Kona tavern and went to work. The first shirts I cut down were for Colonel Craig (Col Edward A. Craig, who, as a brigadier general, took the 1st Provisional Marine Brigade into Korea.)"

Sgt. Young took up flying after his return to the States. He has more than 1,000 logged hours and holds rating as a commercial pilot and as an instructor.

The sergeant said he has taught both his son—a corporal with the 1st Marine Air Wing in Korea—and his daughter—who works at the Camp Lejeune Central library—to fly. An instructor at Jacksonville airport, the sergeant has soloed 18 students since coming to Camp Lejeune in August, 1951.

Sgt. Young said he plans to serve out his 20-year tour as a Marine, then make aviation his full-time job.

10th Marine Cook Now U.S. Citizen; Native Of Ireland

Another Lejeune Leatherneck has begun a new life.

Cpl. William A. Henderson, cook with H&S Btry., 4th Bn., 10th Marines, became an American citizen January 13 at Quantico.

Born in Portadown, Ireland, 27 years ago, Henderson in 1949 went to Canada where he and his fiancée, Dymna, were married. After two years in Canada Henderson decided to come to the United States and look forward to American citizenship. His father obtained citizenship in 1949 while a sergeant in the U. S. Air Force.

Henderson lived in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for a time, then joined the Marine Corps in March, 1952. He received his "boot" training at Parris Island and has since served at Camp Lejeune.

"The best reason for my liking the Corps is the good chow we have," Henderson said, "even if I am a cook."

PLANS CHANGED

The bachelor officers will hold a tea dance in the River room of the Commissioned Officers mess from 4 to 7 p.m. Sunday instead of the buffet dinner originally scheduled for 8 p.m. the same day.

OUT 'N IN—On his way with his discharge in his pocket at 9 a.m., Sgt. Arthur T. Royal is shown at 11 a.m. after he changed his mind and returned to accept his signed and sealed re-enlistment papers from Col. Leroy Hauser, commanding officer, Marine Corps Supply Depot. Looking on as her turn-about husband extends for another two years, is Mrs. Royal. Royal is unit supply clerk at the Depot (Official USMC Photo).

Men Of Eighth Marines Visit Foreign Legion's Boot Camp

BY SGT. WILLIAM E. MOORE

WITH THE SIXTH FEET — In the village of Sidi-Bel Abbes, Algeria, some 82 kilometers southeast of the old pirate port of Mers-El-Kebir, is located the headquarters of the French Foreign Legion.

Recently a group of U. S. Marines (Reinforced), now on duty with the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean theater, were invited by the Legion to tour its headquarters.

Although it was Saturday afternoon, an air of excitement and activity prevailed at Sidi-Bel-Abbes, for the next morning, some 1,500 Legionnaires were to board ship to French Indo-China, where five regiments of the Legion are engaged in the war against the Viet Minh Communists.

"Boot Camp"
The Legion Headquarters at Sidi-Bel-Abbes serves a dual purpose. Half of the post is a "boot camp" for new recruits, the other half a headquarters and replacement center.

Many Marines recalled their own "boot camp" days at Parris Island and San Diego as they watched the Legion "boots" drill and prepare for maneuvers on the high plains and mountains of that North African region.

Recruits undergo an intensive four months of basic and combat training before they are assigned duty with an infantry regiment, or at one of the many Legion posts.

Men from the four corners of the earth make their way to France or North Africa to join the Legion. The backgrounds of the Legionnaires are as varied as the men themselves. Some are "men without a country." Others seek adventure. Still others are professional soldiers of the world.

All begin their initial five-year enlistment at the post in Sidi-Bel-Abbes; where they are molded into the superb combat soldiers that for the past 123 years have commanded the respect and admiration of the world.

The French Foreign Legion was founded in 1831 following the French conquest of North Africa. By order of King Louis Philippe, all the foreign regiments, at that time incorporated in the French Army, were formed into one and named "La Legion Etrangere."

Since that time, under the leadership of other three of the "white kepis" have fought in the four corners of the world.

Legion Museum
In their Museum of Honor Marines saw displays, trophies and relics of the far-flung battles that witnessed to the valor and esprit of corps of this famous and colorful fighting body.

Pictures of Legionnaires
Paintings of famous engagements, and weapons of yesteryear adorn the museum walls.

On display hangs a huge Chinese battle flag captured in Indo-China in 1893. Across from it, four smaller Chinese flags recently captured from the Viet Minh forces.

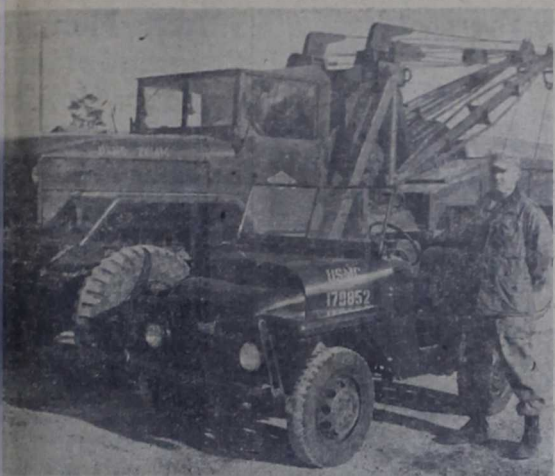

The Marines also saw the "Books of Gold". The names of each Legionnaire killed in action are inked on a page in one of the volumes.

Inside the yellow-walled museum, Marines and Legionnaires met and exchanged greetings. Veterans of the Korean war and veterans of Indo-China fighting swapped stories, when an interpreter was handy, about their battles and experience with the Chinese.

Thus, high on the Algerian plain in Sidi-Bel-Abbes, fighting men of probably the most two famous and colorful fighting outfits in the world met—men of the United States Marine Corps and the French Foreign Legion.

GOLDSBORO DANCE

The Goldsboro Service club held its regular weekly dance on Friday night at 8 p.m. at the Goldsboro Municipal Golf Course clubhouse.

THIS FOR SIZE — Between SSgt. Robert F. Orren, driver, and crane, stands Lejeune's first Mighty Mite, the Marine Corps' new 12-wheeled jeep designed for use with helicopters. The Mite will go to TRAEX maneuvers soon with the reinforced 6th Marines (Official USMC Photo).

Lejeune Gets Its First Mighty Mite; Will Be Tested On TRAEX Maneuvers

BY PFC GEORGE BRAGAW

The Mighty Mite can't fly—by itself. But that's about all it can't do, and even flying is possible with the aid of a Marine Corps helicopter.

The first of the small jeep-like trucks to be sent to Lejeune arrived last week. It is one of 12 in existence. The vehicle, in the experimental stage, was designed to be dropped by helicopter behind enemy lines and for operation on terrain inaccessible to standard jeeps.

The new light weight 4x4 vehicle is a miracle in performance and maneuverability.

Powered by a 44-horsepower, cooled, four-cylinder, German engine, the 1,496-pound d-made vehicle can churn up 60 miles per hour on land and put in its share of knots on water.

The Mite is now in the charge of Robert F. Orren and his assistant, Cpl. T. B. Barington, both of the 2nd Motor Transport Battalion. Orren's job is to run the Mite through the mill, while Barington handles the EX Caribbean maneuvers with reinforced 6th Marines. This determines its durability.

The vehicle has constant four-wheel drive and a dual-range transmission. Each wheel is individually steered and driven.

At a high-powered projectile to strike one of the wheels, the vehicle could still operate on the other three," Orren said.

The Mite can pull a trailer for a tank of 70 rockets or mount a recoilless rifle beside the driver.

The engine is almost completely waterproof. Pontoons, inflated with carbon monoxide from its own exhaust, make the Mite sea-worthy. Deflated, the pontoons are rolled up and placed in the trailer.

Adopted the "Mighty Mite" will be a Marine in every sense of the word—on the land, the sea, and in the air.

Special Training Courses Graduate New Officers

Officer candidates received bars at two commissioning ceremonies at the Supply School in the past two weeks.

The most recent group graduated from the 2nd Special Supply Officer course at ceremonies held at the Supply School last Tuesday.

ig. Gen. M. C. Horner, deputy commander, Joint Landing Force, presented the diplomas to the new 2nd Lt. Second Lt. Warner Bellows was the honor graduate. Twenty-eight graduated from the 2nd Motor Transport course last week. Maj. Gen. Henry D. Linscott, commanding general, MCB, gave the address before presenting the diplomas. Second Lt. Herbert W. Bellows was especially congratulated by the general as the honor

Pre-loading Begins For TRAEX 3-54; 6th Leaves Feb. 19

Pre-loading of equipment for the 4,000-man TRAEX 3-54 got under way yesterday.

The training group, composed of the reinforced Sixth Marines, will sail February 19 for Vieques for six weeks of amphibious training. On return to Camp Lejeune the unit will make an assault landing on Onslow beach.

Commanding the Lejeune TRAEX units is Col. Charles M. Nees, the first officer below the general rank to command a FMF Atlantic Task Group.

The Sixth Marines will compose the backbone of the landing force. The force will be implemented by other units of the 2nd Division, Force Troops, and H&S Battalion, FMF Atlantic. Support teams also will be added from the 2nd Marine Air Wing and the Atlantic fleet.

LANT TRAEX 3-54 will consist of two phases. Phase I will include an administrative lift and landing at Vieques, the providing of umpire and aggressor forces for Phase II of LANT TRAEX 2-54, now on maneuvers on the Caribbean island. A four-day naval gun-fire exercise will be conducted by Navy and Marine personnel.

Phase II will consist of a tactical outloading for an assault landing in the Onslow Beach area. The maneuver also will test new equipment and vehicles. The new Patton M48 tank and the "Mighty Mite", a new light weight jeep-type vehicle will see trial action for the first time.

Marines have been training in the Caribbean since the mid-30's but in recent years they have almost entirely limited the maneuvers to Vieques.

The island offers weather conditions and terrain features more suitable to amphibious operations than Camp Lejeune.

The island is slightly larger than Manhattan. Its rolling hills, tough high grass and marsh land, cut up by the rugged gullies running perpendicular to the beach, tend to produce enough variance of contour and cover to provide tactical interest.

Want Baby-Sitter? Make Request Early

Reservations for the baby-sitting service available to officers and their dependents at Paradise Point should be made well in advance in order to insure personnel being on hand.

Sponsors of the service also request that cancellations be made as early as possible.

For information call 6385 in the afternoon and evening or Mrs. Hardick at 6371 in the morning.

Men Of Second Marines Hold Delayed Christmas Party For Kids On Vieques

VIEQUES, P. R. — It was a joyous time on Vieques Jan. 28 as toys and clothing, collected by the Second Regiment, were distributed to a group of 150 children at a party in Isabel Segunda.

There were expressions of happiness on the faces of the youngsters as the gifts were presented by representatives of the Second Regiment and officials of Isabel Segunda, including Brig. Gen. Henry R. Paige, commander of the current Marine exercises on Vieques; Col. David W. Stonecliffe, commanding officer, Second Marines; Mayor Antonio Rivera Rodriguez of Isabel Segunda; and Judge Jose Rivera Piriz, district judge.

The toys and clothing were collected by the wives of the officers and enlisted men of the Second.

In talking to the group of happy children, Colonel Stonecliffe told them how the idea for the collection of gifts began.

It was nearing Christmas time at Camp Lejeune when the men of the Second Marines were planning their trip to Vieques. "This spirit and the thought of how the children of Isabel Segunda would enjoy receiving the clothing and toys prompted the collection," he said.

The colonel also thanked the local officials of Isabel Segunda for their "participation and great help in bringing happiness to this large group of children."

Service personnel, wherever they may be, are given every possible attention by local Foundation chapters and hospitals should polio strike their families, General Gillem pointed out.

Gen. Gillem, in a letter to Maj. Gen. Henry D. Linscott, camp commander, expressed his personal appreciation and that of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for copies of the photo sent both offices.

The picture was distributed by newspaper feature syndicates and was widely reprinted.

Service personnel, wherever they may be, are given every possible attention by local Foundation chapters and hospitals should polio strike their families, General Gillem pointed out.

Lejeune Cub Scouts To Review Parade

Camp Lejeune's Cub Scout Pack 90 and Pack 190 of Tarawa Terrace will review a parade in honor of the 44th birthday of the Boy Scout movement at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Marine Corps Supply Depot.

The review will come on the last day of Boy Scout week.

On Feb. 25 Pack 90 will honor scouting at the annual Blue and Gold banquet at 6 p.m. in the Paradise room of the Commissioned Officers' mess. Ceremonies at the banquet will honor the more than 21 million men and boys who have been identified with scouting since it was founded Feb. 8, 1910.

Each Den will decorate a table and a prize will be awarded for the best effort. Pack awards also will be presented.

The total passenger miles for personnel transported across both oceans during World War II was 33,384,509,000.

Red Flag Back Up; 92 Percent Qualify As Range Reopens

In Kipling's ballad, "The Road to Mandalay," the dawn "came up like thunder."

It comes up the same way every morning now in the vicinity of Verona.

The red flag is back up at the rifle range.

Any wildlife that many have returned to the area last December 18, when the range was officially closed for the year literally took to the hills as Marine riflemen sighted in and cranked off their first rounds for 1954.

Under the supervision of Lt. Col. John W. Russell, commanding officer, Rifle Range Detachment, 163 men fired on the range during the first week, which ended last Friday, with 92 percent qualifications.

Corporal R. G. Johnston, H&S Bn., MCB, fired a 236 out of 250 to take top honors with the M-1 rifle.

Staff Sergeant C. M. Burns, H&S Bn., MCB, fired the record pistol score, 364 out of 400.

WM Liberty Phones Now 'Out' Only

The liberty phones in both WM barracks, 60 and 63, are now used for out-going calls only.

Callers may leave a message at 3308 in barracks 60 or at 3593 in barracks 63 and the girls will call back.

Former liberty phone numbers are now being used by the training office and company office pay clerk.

Corps Given Seal After 178 Years

After 178 years the Marines have an official seal.

The seal features the traditional emblem in bronze topped by an eagle and banner inscribed with the Corps motto, "Semper Fidelis"—always faithful.

The insignia is on a scarlet background encircled with a dark blue band inscribed "Department of the Navy" on top and "United States Marine Corps" on the bottom. The seal is edged with gold rope.

A replica has been installed at the entrance to Henderson Hall, Headquarters Marine Corps.

HORNING IN—L to r, MSgt. Edward V. Seeser, MSgt. Gerald G. Gauthner, HMC Eugene Sheperd, Capt. Willis S. Travis, and SSgt. L. S. Cook get a laugh out of the antics of Sheperd in displaying CWO J. W. Mikell's prize antlers which won a recent contest held by the Fish and Wildlife club. Mikell was unable to attend the Club's bi-monthly meeting at Bldg. 1404 MSD. All are newly-initiated members (Official USMC Photo).

Chaplain's Corner

For most servicemen there is no moment in the foreseeable future which promises more joy than the instant when enlistment is terminated.

Many will receive this discharge with little in the way of a positive plan for the future.

Some will have well-laid plans preparing them for all walks of life. Some few contemplate and look forward to another enlistment, this time in the army of God's workers. Yet many will be in a state of doubt as to whether God is calling them. These should be mindful of the words of Archbishop Cushing that they too may have "A calling from God . . . to do a part of God's work . . . for the service of God's people . . ." No one is ever discharged from the service of God.

For those to whom God is calling there are schools throughout the land which afford training and preparation. If you have ability to pursue higher studies you may have an obligation. The man in the Gospel story who buried the talent was marked neither humble nor wise.

Since the close of World War II, thousands of ex-servicemen have entered seminaries to prepare for the ministry. At the outset schools weren't set-up to accommodate and train these men, but now this situation has been remedied.

Many men in our armed services are contemplating service in God's vineyard, but some lack the initial courage to make the decision or they are deficient in certain required studies. Today more than ever there is great need for devoted men to carry the Word of God to His people; the harvest is ripe but the laborers are few.

Your chaplain can help you in many ways; do not hesitate to seek his advice, to hear his views and to draw from the fountain of his experience in following the call of the Master. — Chaplain Leon S. Darkowski.

The Marine Corps has lost two of its pioneer aviators—one through death, the other through retirement.

Lt. Gen. Charles F. B. Price died in San Diego Jan. 30. He was 72. The general began his Leatherneck order said the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps must trim 30,000 officers from their ranks during the next 17 months.

The Corps acted quickly. Tuesday it sent out the AlMar offering early release to almost all Reserve officers due to get out before September (Details on Page 1).

The Defense Department directive says the Corps must drop 138 officers. Present officer strength is 17,848 which must drop to 17,710 by June 30, 1955.

Shades Of Souza—Not since the famed John Philip Souza has the Corps produced a great composer of marching music, but a lieutenant colonel made his bid for the honor last week.

Lt. Col. Carl W. Hoffman, World War II Silver Star winner now serving in the Corps' N. Y. recruiting office, won a $1,000 prize in the Armed Forces march competition for the ASCAP-John Philip Souza awards. He was one of 24 Marine entrants.

Name of his winning piece: "Esprit De Corps March."

Across The River From Lincoln—The way was cleared this week for work to begin on the erection of the Marine Corps' giant Iwo Jima Flag Raising statue.

The Fine Arts Commission of Washington gave the Corps a spot in Arlington, Va., just across the Potomac River from the Lincoln Memorial and just north of the Arlington cemetery.

The statue, based on Joseph Rosenthal's great World War II photo, and paid for by contributions from marines will rise 32 feet about its 20-by-40-foot base. The flag juts into the air another 20 feet.

Total cost: $750,000.

Navy, Marine Bond Sales High In 1953

Navy and Marine personnel invested $90,861,675 in United States Savings bonds during 1953, an increase of $4,657,800 over 1952, according to a release issued by the Navy's office of savings bonds.

The Old Corps

Ten Years Ago This Week:

Lt. Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, Marine Corps commandant was at Lejeune to inspect the base. He told officers here, "I know it's irksome to be here and not in the Pacific, but you too are doing your share in training replacements for the fighting units."

Women Marines, then known as Women Reservists, celebrated their first birthday by participating in a coast-to-coast radio show, cutting a giant cake, and dancing at a birthday ball.

A feature in the New River Pioneer on the history of the WR's included this quote:

"Gone is the time when a WR met and bid her date adieu on the run under the watchful eyes of MP's. Now dates may be met at the barracks and a foursome can indulge in a rubber of bridge or a twosome may just sit and talk the evening away."

A column equivalent to the "WM Maneuvers" of the GLOBE reported this statement made by a WR after birthday inspection: "Those officers are terribly fussy . . ."

Movies showing at camp theaters were:

"The Pied Piper" with Monty Woolley; "Corvette K-225" with Randolph Scott; and "Under Two Flags" with Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert.

There were 7,234 Naval vessels in commission during World War II, in addition to more than 60,000 small boats, minor landing crafts, and district boats.

TRAEX Planning Coverage of Lenten and Passover Holiday

Lt. Cmdr. E. Vaughn Lyons, chaplain for Training Group 45.2, outlined a vigorous religious program yesterday as part of "spiritual lift" of TRAEX 3-5 ribbon maneuvers.

"TRAEX offers an excellent opportunity to fortify ourselves spiritually as well as to provide military combat readiness," the Sixth Marines' chaplain.

Lenten and Passover seasons fall within the cruise and services are scheduled for all Passover Schedules of Navy services well as those conducted by clergy will be published at ques.

There will be daily and Sunday services aboard ship and on shore. Services are scheduled for debarkation.

The Chapel is centrally located at Camp Vieques and services will be conducted at the end of each day.

Assisting Chaplain Lyons, Presbyterian, will be Chaplain Lt. Leon S. Darkowski and Baptist Chaplain Lt. (jg) ald C. LeMaster.

Jacksonville Church To Dedicate Service Center February

Official dedication ceremony for the newly-expanded service center of the Jacksonville Episcopal church will be held Feb. 8 p.m. at the center, 11 New I st.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas Wright, bishop of the diocese of East Carolina, will make the dedication. Brig. Gen. Matthew Horner, acting commanding general of Camp Lejeune, is expected to attend as representative. Maj. Gen. Henry D. Linscott, now away on temporary duty, according to the Rev. A. A. Horstmann, pastor of the church, the center currently contains reading and writing rooms, game rooms, a snack bar, a box, and a craft room.

Hours for the center are 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. seven days a week.

He served in Cuba, Nicaragua, Panama, France, Hawaii, China, and in the Pacific in World War II. His decorations included the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit, and the Presidential Medal of Merit of Nicaragua.

Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Cushman, Deputy Commanding General of Aircraft, FMF, Pacific, retired Feb. 1.

He had flown as a Marine for 34 years and had been in the Corps for 36. He was commander of the forward echelon of the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing that landed in Korea in July, 1950.

General Cushman once served as commander of the 2nd Marine Air Wing at Cherry Point.

The Razor's Edge—The administration's armed services economy drive began making itself felt in the Marine Corps this week.

J. Gen. and Mrs. H. D. Linscott bid farewell last week to the Linscotts, Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. H. D. Linscott, and children, who are their new duty station at the Naval Ordnance Depot, Mechanics.

Last Friday General and Mrs. Linscott entertained in honor of Julia E. Hamblet, director of Women Marines, at a cocktail party at their quarters.

J. Gen. and Mrs. Matthew C. Horner had as their house guests, Mrs. Burt R. Glidden from Lancaster, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Glidden guests of honor at a small party given by the General and Mrs. at their quarters.

S. Paul Drake spent several days last week in Washington, D. C. Mrs. A. Penzold entertained old friends and acquaintances at a party at her quarters last Friday morning.

J. and Mrs. L. L. Willis are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Willis' uncle, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Depenbrink, of Chicago. The Willis' entertained in honor of their house guests with a dinner-bridge party. Entertaining for Mr. and Mrs. Depenbrink were Col. and Mrs. Hauser at a small family dinner party in their quarters.

At Sunday night Maj. and Mrs. Gerald Allen had friends in for at their place down at Gales Creek.

Amidst realistic Virgin island scenery the Sixth Regiment entertained with an "Off To Vieques" cocktail buffet supper last Friday night in the Paradise room of the Officers mess.

S. Robert S. Finley gave a surprise birthday dinner party for her Lt. Lt. Robert S. Finley, at their quarters Sunday night.

Entertaining at a coffee Monday morning was Mrs. J. M. Whisen-honor of Mrs. Stephen A. Farr, visiting from Roanoke, Va. Mrs. husband, Maj. Stephen A. Farr (USA), who is now serving in was once a member of the Joint Landing Force Board here.

Monday evening the "Toastmasters" met in the River room. "Square-Rounders" also met Monday night, same time, same place. They welcome at any time newcomers who desire to join.

Wednesday night the Paradise room of the Officers mess was the site of a graduation cocktail party given by the officers and their of the Second Special Supply Officers course.

The doctors and nurses of the U. S. Naval hospital gave a "Fare-Wellcome Aboard" party in the Paradise room of the "O" club. The guests were extended to Lt. Cmdr. Margaret Richards, present chief who leaves soon to assume her new duties at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md. Lt. Cmdr. Ruth Erickson was welcomed aboard new chief nurse, coming from the U. S. Naval hospital, Great.

Wives of the officers of the 1st Bn., Eighth Marines (reinf.) now in the Mediterranean, are entertaining with a series of "get-together" coffees.

Officers of last week's duplicate bridge tournament at the Officers mess were as follows: North-South—first, Dr. and Mrs. S. Warner; Lt. and Mrs. W. Burks; third, Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. P. Harris.

East-West—first, Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. O'Neill; second, Lt. and Mrs. Atkins; third, Capt. and Mrs. W. Nelson.

WM Maneuvers

CPL. BECKY CARPER wonder when you hear an old Corps, just how it was through the files of the "New River Pioneer," predecessor to the GLOBE, uncovered some interesting facts about female marines during the times when most of us were still in grade school.

A Texas lovely by the name of Pfc Dixie J. Crevelt munched razor blades and nails. (Why? We don't know why. Maybe she liked them.)

One "boot" was the mother of a handsome 17-year-old male recruit. A note to the motor transport students: So you think you have it rough? Back in 1943, a 100-mile convoy test had to be passed with flying colors before an MT student could get her license.

The mess hall was adorned with this banner: "Every meal is a pleasant surprise."

A WR company newspaper was published in 1944.

One ambitious male marine inventoried a WR's purse and found it to contain 44 articles amounting to $79.73.

The director of the WR band was chosen to conduct the U. S. Marine Corps band at Headquarters Marine Corps. She did, and married the bass drummer a few months later. She's been directing him ever since.

A survey in 1944 showed that of 202 women, 143 chose marines to marry, and gave rise to the quip: "WR's who enlisted to free a marine to fight, are doing better than that. They're marrying the guy, too."

WR battalion during the war had its own guard company, wore MP brassards, and held guard mount each day.

When the WR's became WM's, they also gained a new title of "the world's best baby-sitters."

Back to the present: Sounds like the all-women band was fun, and they gained recognition as a top musical organization. Too bad that someone doesn't form one now.

Betty Miller, who recently reported in with Platoon 17A, left for Norfolk to attend Stenographers School for 12 weeks.

Margaret Swain Lodola and Ann Taylor Gibson were discharged Friday. Marge will retire to Camp Knox trailer park and Ann is heading for Miami.

Col. Hamblet Says WM's 'Here To Stay'

Col. Julia E. Hamblet, director of Women Marines, told members of the Lejeune WM company during her two-day visit last week that there is no doubt that women in the service are here to stay.

She said that it appears men are becoming resigned to the fact that women are working and will continue to work beside them for the good of the Marine Corps and the country.

In a special address in the Camp theater Saturday, the youthful colonel commented on the personal appearance of the women and said:

"I am proud and humble to be wearing the same uniform as you who stood inspection today. I am convinced that women at Camp Lejeune are some of the finest in the Marine Corps."

Colonel Hamblet, who arrived early Friday by helicopter from Cherry Point, was greeted by Maj. Gen. Henry D. Linscott, Camp commanding general, and Maj. Barbara J. Bishop, commanding officer of the Women Marine company.

Following a luncheon with members of the company, the General, and his staff, the colonel appeared as guest speaker at the graduation of the Women Marine NCO Leadership School.

The colonel, assisted by Capt. Elaine T. Carville, officer in charge of the school, presented diplomas to the 16 graduates and extended special congratulations to TSgt. Marie Proulx, TAD from San Francisco, who took top honors with a 93.86 average.

Friday afternoon, Colonel Hamblet inspected Women Marine company facilities and said that the condition of their barracks is "excellent."

She was honored at an informal coffee gathering in the staff quarters and at a reception in the General's quarters that evening. Women Marine officers held a dinner in the Camp Cafeteria for the colonel Friday night.

WM Birthday

which netted an average of $15,000 per month, worked long hours in the evening at the Red Cross rolling bandages or packing kits, and gave blood.

Streeter park was built (where the tennis courts are now) to provide an attractive spot for WR's and their escorts to meet (in the daytime). Laundries with new tubs and machines were added, and the PX began stocking up on women's articles.

Pfc Charlotte Plummer, who "just loved music," formed the first Women's Reserve band which was to gain nationwide acclaim when it toured the country. The director's happiest moment was when she was chosen to lead the U. S. Marine Corps band in Washington, D. C.

The company got its first female commanding officer when Capt. Dorothy Mott took over in August, 1944, and a recruit by the name of Pvt. Eugenia Lejeune was in training. Only a few years later, New River was to take the name of her father for the thriving Marine base.

"In The Field"
A rigorous field maneuver was held in October and the women liked it. They were put through a jungle sniper test complete with green cream and leaves for camouflage. They rode the waves in LCP's at Onslow beach and made a mock landing of their own.

Civvies were taboo and strange as it may seem to those who today complain of having to wear the uniform to a ball game, the uniform of the day was worn everywhere, to dances, games, and even enroute to the beach. A special recreation outfit was designed with forest green slacks, jeckit, and a sporty open-throated khaki shirt.

The war ended, and the question now was "What's next?"

The answer was the ending of recruit training at New River, and the point system. Twenty-five points were needed by a WR to be discharged, and by the end of summer only a skeleton crew remained. Finally a farewell party ended all Lejeune WR activities.

Less than five years later there was war in Korea. Women returned to Camp Lejeune to do their part and they were now known as Women Marines. They found two new barracks and a new CO, Capt. Mary J. Fischer, awaiting them.

For the first time women were granted European duty. Girls donned starched white uniforms and bonnets to do mess duty, and elsewhere women were making news. SSgt. Hazel Lindahl became the first Camp Sergeant Major in Building One, and MSgt. Margaret A. Goings became first sergeant of a male company.

But all was not work. The WM's found time to win the "All-Marine Championship" in basketball in 1953.

Capt. Fischer married in April, 1953, and was replaced by Maj. Barbara J. Bishop.

So the cycle goes. They come, make history, and leave to either find adventure in new duty, or they return to civilian life as better citizens.

Women Marines here look forward to upholding the fine tradition of the Corps, and wearing the forest green proudly, for many years to come.

The Lejeune boxing team stole the hearts of the Charlotte fans at the 22nd Annual Carolinas Golden Gloves tournament last week. The tournament, boasting a record post-war field of 163 entries, opened Wednesday with a pair of big programs. The whopping number of amateur leather slingers who signed up during last Tuesday made it necessary to stage a matinee show in addition to the previously slated night card.

Assistant Lejeune Boxing Coach Babe Miceli came up with the winning numbers in the first drawing for opponents for the first day's pairings. Daniels drew a bye into the service finals; Litvains drew a bye into the semi-finals, and not one of the Lejeune men had to fight more than once in one day.

Coach Mike Capriano did a tremendous job in coaching the team throughout the entire tournament. Especially notable was his quick stoppage of a bad cut over Richie Hill's eye in the first round of his first bout.

The referee almost stopped the fight because of the cut but Capriano stopped the flow of blood instantly with an adrenalin compound and Hill had no trouble the rest of the fight.

Lejeune Flyweight Don Daniels and featherweight Bob Rigsby had their pictures taken with Movie Star Audie Murphy.

One of the roughest and bloodiest fights of the tournament was between Lejeune's Nick LaRosa and Sammy Johnson of Fort Jackson. Johnson, whose tactics were anything but clean, had to go all out to cop the decision over LaRosa. He butted him in the first round on the side of the head, opening a one and a half-inch gash which took six stitches.

One of the quickest knockouts of the tournament was registered by Lejeune's Duke Belton. Duke opened up viciously to chill Alan Wills of the 82nd Airborne Division in 1:10 of the first round. It took fifteen minutes of working over him in the dressing room to bring him around.

The only incident that actually marred the entire tournament happened during the Service finals in the bout between Lejeune's Richie Hill and Duke Belton. Hill had a bad cut over the eye and Coach Capriano was trying to protect it for the grand finals. The referee accused Capriano of having the two fighters holding back and putting on the fix. The bout was held up five minutes. The ref ordered Capriano to have the two fighters mix it up more or have one of them to take the ten count. This incident caused quite a ruckus among the crowd.

Intramural Finals Begin Mon. Night

The annual Camp Lejeune intramural basketball tournament begins Monday at Goettge Memorial field house.

Six teams—two each from Division, Force Troops, and Marine Corps Base—will take part in the double-elimination contest.

Sammy Johnson.

Lejeune's Bob Rigsby lost another split decision to Fort Jackson's Ed Cole. Heavyweight Chuck Litvins was TKO'd in the second round by John Johnson from Fort Jackson.

Lejeune Coach Capriano and his assistant, Babe Miceli, will coach the Carolinas boxing team on the New York trip.

The five Lejeune men who won the Service championships Friday night, also won the grand championships against the Open titlists.

Flyweight Champion Daniels won a split decision over Max Davis of Mt. Holly J. C.'s.

Blackson, the Service bantamweight champion completely outclassed and outboxed Freddie Harted of the Durham A. C. for a unanimous decision.

Service Lightweight Champion Byars won a unanimous decision over Aimar White, unattached, from Mt. Pleasant in another mismatch.

Davis, Service middleweight champion, knocked down Dink McManus of the Mt. Holly J. C.'s, twice to completely outclass his inexperienced opponent.

Hill, Service light-heavy champion, knocked out Roy Smeltzer of the Mt. Holly J. C.'s, with a terrific right hand to the solar plexus which paralyzed his opponent in 1:05 of the first round.

The Leathernecks entered 16 men in the tournament. They fought 39 times, won 31—four by knockout—and lost eight.

Camp Basketeers Win One, Drop Two For 9-15 Record

LITTLE CREEK

Camp Lejeune returned home for a one-game stand last Thursday and defeated the Little Creek, Va., Amphibs 87-74 with a hard-driving game the taller visitors couldn't handle.

Newt Jones, former LaSalle ace, led the Leatherneck second-half onslaught which upped the third period margin to five points. Little Creek pulled up to within 57-60 early in the final session but a three-point field goal and free throw combination by Jones spread the difference to 74-62 and Lejeune won going away.

Jones scored 28 for Lejeune, Whitaker 20, and Leroy Smith 14.

PARRIS ISLAND

The Camp Lejeune cagers fell 18 points behind Parris Island in the first quarter and spent the rest of the night trying to catch up as the high-flying "Boots" poured the points on and romped to 106-81 win last Tuesday night at PI.

Leroy Smith paced Lejeune with 29 points.

The Parris Island Women Marines nipped the Camp Lejeune WMs, 32-30, in overtime, after the Lejeune girls overcame a 14-19 halftime deficit to send the game into the extra session.

FORT LEE

Camp Lejeune lost its first game on the current roadtrip to the Fort Lee Travelers, 88-65.

The loss brought the locals' record to 9-15.

The Leathernecks made a game of it. They led at the half, 36-34. However, the third quarter proved to be their downfall as they could score but eight points while their opponents swished 27.

Leroy Smith and Skip Whitaker paced the locals in scoring with 21 and 22 points, respectively.

ROUGH AND TOUGH — Lejeune's Nick LaRosa and Fort Jackson's Sammy Johnson tee off in the roughest and toughest bout of the entire tournament in the welterweight division of the Service Championships held in Charlotte. Johnson won the brawl by decision.

Division Basketball Playoffs Underway Hq. Bn., Shore Party Win First Games

The Division Intramural Basketball championship tourney tapped off last Saturday and after the first two rounds of play Hq. Bn., Group I, and Shore Party Bn., of Group II, shaped up as the teams to beat.

In the first game Hq. Bn. defeated the 1st Bn., Sixth Marines, 81-58. Headquarters got off to a fast 15-0 lead before the infantrymen could break into the scoring column but the Sixth Marines, sparked by their big center, Val Flora, got hot and pulled up to a 22-25 at the five minute mark of the second period. Then Headquarters' Don Meyers and Rocky Doyno spread the margin to 37-28 at halftime.

The second half was all Headquarters as Meyers hit very well from outside, running his high total to 35 points, distancing the losers. Doyno, 15 and Ed Kababek 13.

Flora led the Sixth Marines 25 and Ed Bariteau tipped the losers.

In the second game, Shore Party romped over 4th Bn. Marines, 72-39. Shore Party, by Jim Cunningham, won 25 points, got off to a period edge and were never troubled. Shore Party's Denis O'Neil 14 and Charlie Bryant 11. Joe Mazzola was high for the Tenth Marines with 11.

Monday afternoon Hq. Bn. defeated the 2nd Bn., Eighth Marines, 47-24. Headquarters had a tussle on the floor before they took a 70-61 quarter game. The Eighth Marines, by Larry L. Welsley, gave a bye in the first round, early 7-2 lead but Headquarters rallied to forge ahead 13-10 at the intermission.

The Eighth, spearheaded by big men, Tom Ford and Drom, recaptured the lead in the second period and floor at the intermission, 27-24 bulge. It was neck and neck in the third session with Headquarters whittling one point, Eighth's lead and it was 47-45, Hq. Bn., 45, the final period.

Meyers led the scoring, 14 and Don Denson made 14 and Don Headquarters. Ford tallied 14 and the losers 14.

In Monday's second round in the double elimination tournament, the Sixth Marines knocked the Tenth Marines out with a 53-40 preliminary over the Cannoneers. Meyers and Val Flora scored 25 and the Sixth Marines took a quarter advantage and split the fifteen points, 45-30, at the third period.

PI Women Invade Lejeune Tomorrow For Return Battle

The Parris Island WMs will pay a visit to Lejeune tomorrow night to meet the local cagers on the field house court at 8 p.m.

It'll be the second clash for the two top teams. Parris Island handed Lejeune its first service defeat since early in 1953, 34-32 on a road trip last week.

Last weekend, the Lejeune girls made their record seven wins and two losses by topping Norfolk NAS 56-47 and Henderson Hall in a Sunday matinee, 45-25.

Dale Mease, high scorer for the locals got a total of 40 points for the two games.

Norfolk's Marilyn Buck got 25 points as the opponents' high scorer.

WRESTLING ANYONE? — Lejeune's Bud House and Fort Jackson's John Johnson put on a good wrestling match in the first round of their bout last Thursday night at the Charlotte. Johnson came back strong to stop the Lejeune heavyweight in the third round.

The 2nd Combat Service Group last week won the championship of the Commissioned Officers' bowling league.

Maj. Gen. G. F. Good Jr., commanding general, 2nd Division, presented the trophy to Team Captain Maj. F. J. Rooney Saturday in the Paradise room of the Commissioned Officers mess.

Members of the winning team were: Lt. Col. W. S. Haskell Jr., Lt. Cmdr. M. W. Graham, Maj. C. B. Kyle, Lt. T. M. Kauffman, Lt. John Kozlowski, and Lt. W. L. Watson.

Brig. Gen. M. C. Horner, deputy president, Joint Landing Force Board, presented individual awards.

2nd CSG Defeats 2nd AmTrac 84-71 To Take 1st In Force Troops Basketball

Second Combat Service Group defeated the 2nd Amphibian Tractor Bn., 84-71, in a hard-fought contest that clinched Combat's first place in the Force Troops Basketball league.

The second - place AmTrac team, led by Rifkin's 16 points, tied Combat at half time. Combat pulled to a seven-point lead in the third quarter and were never again threatened. Noye led the CSG five with 22 points.

Combat Service disposed of the third-place 2nd Armored Amphibian Bn., 83-52, on Monday. Al Richter dropped 23 points for the out-classed Amphib quintet while Southwick led Combat with 21.

Armored Amphibian topped the 8th Signal Bn., 57-51, in Amphib's other game of the week. Richter's 20 points led the Amphibs, while Wilson's 16 was best for the defeated Signalmen. AmTrac won by default over Amphibian Truck Co., 2-0, Monday.

Second Topographic Co. lost three games this week when they were defeated by the 8th Engineer Bn., 90-44; Reconnaissance Co., 58-52; and 4.5" Rocket Btry., 44-42. Swenson led Topo in the first two games with a total of 51 points. Burzynski led Topo in the third game with 13 points. Harrison (23), Gabriele (32), and Caulfield (13) were high for the winners.

Eighth Motor Transport Bn. slaughtered an Amphibian Truck Co. quintet, 115-37.

Hq. Co. split two games by edging out the 8th Engineer Bn., 77-75, and losing to Recon Co., 98-97.

Ninth-place ANGLICO won two by topping Amphibian Truck Co., 63-21, and 4.5" Rocket Btry, 64-38. Chagnon led ANGLICO in the first game with 24 and the second with 22. Hammers led AmTrac with eight, while Collins with 13 was high for the Rocketmen.
