

DO YOU BELIEVE IN "DUTCH" DATES?

PFC LAKO G. DOVE, CASUAL CO. 1, MCB—No, I'm a married man and it seems to me that the man should foot the bill at all times. I did before I was married and I think every guy should do the same.

PFC EARL PAUGH, HQ. CO., H&S BN., MCB—Yes, I agree that a girl can pay half the way on at least some dates. She works the same as a man and has almost the same rights as a man, so why not let her pay her way the same as a man? It's only fair.

SSGT. ROLAND KNAPP, MARSTON PAVILION STEWARD—I've never been on a Dutch date, but that's no sign I wouldn't go on one if the girl agreed. If she wants to go Dutch it's perfectly all right with me. I certainly won't argue with her.

PFC WESTON DRAPER, H&S BN., EIGHTH MARINES—It all depends on the girl. If it's a steady date and the boy and girl are planning to get married, then it's all right. But just for a casual date, I definitely think it's best if the man pays.

PFC RONALD LAROSA, H&S CO., EIGHTH MARINES—Yes and no. By that I mean when a fellow is in service and doesn't make much money, then I guess it's all right to go Dutch-treat. But when he is a civilian and if he's making good money, then I think he should pay.

CPL. R. C. PAYNE, HQ. CO., H&S BN., MCB—Yes, the girl can definitely pay half the cost of the date. Most girls in this day and age make almost as much as a man, so why can't she go half on a date? I think it's only fair for her to pay her share.

Marine: "The girl that I marry must be able to take a joke."
WM: "Naturally. That's the only kind you'll ever get."

'It's So Very Peaceful Here,' Says KMC Captain At Montford Point School

BY TSGT. BILL DAUM

To a young student at Seoul university in South Korea's capital city, June 25, 1950, became a turning point from the classroom to combat — as a member of the Korean Marine Corps.

Now undergoing training with the 21st Supply Officers' class at Montford Point, Capt. Sunjae Lee, KMC, looks back on that fateful day with a touch of bitterness in his voice, emphasizing the feeling all Koreans have for their enemies to the north.

The 29-year-old officer, who was studying economics at the university and living with his mother and father in that ancient city, immediately entered the Korean Marines, at the time a small but formidable fighting force.

He's seen the KMC grow from that small group to the world's second largest Marine Corps, next to its U. S. counterpart.

Lee joined the KMC at Pusan, and was later assigned to the Korean Marine Corps Schools, Chinhae.

When the First Korean Marine Regiment moved to the western sector, tying in with the 1st U. S. Marine Division, Lee was with the unit as regimental supply officer. After long months at this post, the personable young officer was transferred to KMC Headquarters to serve in the division of supply before being picked to attend the course at the Supply School Bn. here.

Since his arrival here, Lee has maintained an above average standing in the 30-student class made up of company grade officers aiming at a berth as unit supply officers.

Evidently never one to miss the boat, Lee arrived here several weeks before the 15-week course began last month. He pulled in to Lejeune in March after flying from Korea to San Francisco (stopping off a few days) to Washington's National airport, where he was greeted by USMC representatives and on to the New Bern, N. C., airport. From there he finished his 10,000-mile journey in fine style by rolling through the main gate in a bus.

"It is so very peaceful here in the United States," he told a reporter. "And the people—I didn't know there would be so many people!"

He went on to say that it seems as though Americans have a hard time realizing the havoc that spells Communism, adding, "the Reds are out to get anything they can."

Lee's plans for the near future are rather hazy at present, although he hopes to be assigned as an instructor at Chinhae when he returns to Korea in June.

SPOT CHECK—Capt. Sunjae Lee, Korean Marine Corps, checks a ration statement at a simulated regimental ration dump during a field problem for students of Supply Officers' course at Montford Point. The 29-year-old native of Seoul is the first Korean officer to attend a training course here, and expects to return to Korea early this summer as an instructor at the Korean Marine Corps Schools at Chinhae (Official USMC Photo).

More than 500 persons saw the game, lost by Camp Lejeune 12-4 to Norfolk Naval Air Station.

Next major attraction in the campaign — scheduled to run through June 6 — is the annual carnival at Goettge Memorial field house, May 18, 19 and 20.

Preparations for the carnival began this week when workmen began spreading sawdust on the gym floor. More than 30 booths will be erected for the carnival, which will feature nightly door prizes, taxi dancing with Women Marines and the music of the Division combo.

Outside the field house will be a baseball pitch and a kiddy train. Admission to the midway will be 25 cents. Hours: 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. each night.

Scheduled to be given away during the carnival are three 1954 automobiles, a boat with trailer and motor and other items.

'Chute Riggers Learn 'Safety Course' By Packing, Jumping With Own

By PFC JOHN GREENE

Peterfield Point, the Marine Corps Air Facility, New River, is one of the few small air facilities boasting a complete chute packing and rigging section, operated here by the air support squadron, 2nd Division.

Divvy Hobby Shop Adds Complete Unit For Woodwork Fans

The 2nd Division opened a new woodworking shop Monday in Bldg. 331 with TSgt. Enoch M. Conley in charge.

The unit is furnished with power tools and assorted accessories for use by woodworking hobbyists. The shop is open from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays and from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

The shop is part of the network of recreational facilities supervised by Division Special Services under Lt. Col. Marvin C. Stewart.

Colonel Stewart and TSgt. Conley said all the potential hobbyists will need to make use of the shop are a few leisure hours and a small outlay of cash.

TSgt. Conley will be available to assist with any problems. The shop also boasts a collection of books, plans and pamphlets to offer a choice of projects.

FIRST PURCHASE—Col. Donald M. Weller, chief of staff, 2nd Division, left, picks out a piece of cabinet hardware at the Division Woodworking shop as 1st Lt. W. R. Gardner, officer in charge of the Hobby shop, stands ready to make the sale. The shop is located in Bldg. 331 and is open to all hands (Official USMC Photo).

The men responsible for the phase of Marine Corps parachute work are headed by MSgt. Ehret, a veteran of 19 years in the Marine Corps and a former sergeant with 47 jumps.

The riggers are graduates of 16 weeks training at the chute riggers school, Lejeune, N. J. Here the men learn packing, folding and the use of 'chutes.

The climax comes when a man makes a jump with a chute he has packed himself. He insures that the men would live the life saving 'chutes and be aware of their responsibilities.

Asked about their feelings, the men at VMO-1 said they probably the most memorable in their lives because of the fold in the 'chute means death.

MSgt. Ehret said the chute used today is made of stock nylon, a relatively cloth designed with tiny fabric ribs to prevent beyond five inches. Nylon red silk 'chutes in 15% lighter than silk, the nylon n't absorb moisture, and the 'chute from falling.

In addition to the personnel another important 'chute cargo model. Used for supplies, the cargo 'chute is attached to the end of a large der capable of carrying thousands of supplies like food, munition, clothing, weapons, articles used in emergencies are placed on the wings of observation craft and are from 300 feet to prevent from drifting to enemy hands.

Still another duty of the —and a very important one—testing and caring for safety harnesses used in the craft based at the facility. The harnesses are inspected every six months and replaced ever soiled. They are strength tests every three months. The safety seat belt, for example, has to undergo a strenuous 2,700 pounds before being used in the aircraft.

Over 70% of the earth's surface is water and is navigable.

And those of you planning to spend your Sundays aboard the base will have to wear ties all day except when standing duty watches.

The following is a quote from Drew Pearson's column for last Sunday:

"Only the Marine Corps Commandant, General Lemuel Shepherd, so far has sided with Admiral Radford on intervening in Indochina. He claims two Marine divisions could mop up all the Red guerillas in the Indochina jungle."

The first group of Women Marine officers to be commissioned this year got their gold bars April 24 at Quantico. There were 15 of them. . . . Watch out for snakes. Lejeune has one of the highest snake populations in the country. A Cherry Point officer killed four copperheads in one afternoon in the backyard of his MOQ last week. His small daughter discovered them while playing. . . . The 5th Division will hold its fifth annual convention at the Hotel Statler in Detroit June 25-27. . . . Maj. Gen. Lewis B. "Chesky" Puller, who takes over the division here this summer, spent Easter with the 1st Division in Korea. He visited men who served with him at Inchon and other spots. At graduation ceremonies at Division Schools center he said the infantry marine with the rifle, bayonet and hand grenade will always be the most potent weapon of warfare. He went to Easter Sunday services with Maj. Gen. R. McC. Pate, division commander.

Maj. Mitchell Paige, holder of the Medal of Honor and former 2nd Division recruiting officer, has relieved Maj. Anthony R. Epplin as officer in charge of the 3rd Division NCO school in Japan. . . . CWO Charles E. Neus, 3rd Motor Transport Bn., 3rd Division, died in Japan recently. He was a veteran of 28 years in the Corps. . . . The famed Fourth Marine regiment celebrated its 40th birthday April 16 with a big shindig. It was born in 1914 at D. C. . . . Maj. Gen. Merwin H. Silverthorn, Paris Island commander, got a visit from John R. Schaub who served with him in France in 1918 when they were sergeant and corporal respectively. . . . CWO Bennie Claude Atkinson, who retired last week, wrote a letter to General Pate to request permission for his son to come home from Korea for the ceremonies. Permission was granted and Bennie Jr., a master sergeant, was flown back for 10 days.

Note to Lejeune fishermen: The blues were really running at Surf City last weekend. Many leathernecks were out with rod and reel. ## Can You Save $65,000 In 20 Years?

This article is for those who would like to enjoy a $65,000 savings account within the next 20 years. Would you like to? If so, here's how you can do it.

Suppose as a civilian you work at an unusually well-paying job where you can put aside an average of over $200 every month. This sum would have to be what you had left over after paying for housing, food, clothing, medical expenses, taxes and so forth. At the end of 20 years you would have banked approximately $65,000.

The monthly dividend you would receive from a savings account of this size—computed at the standard interest rate of two-and-a-half percent per year—would be about $137.

Now let's see what would happen if you had spent these 20 years in service ending up as an E-7. During this time you wouldn't have to contribute to a pension fund, you would have received added allotments for your wife and children, and you would have had many essential expenses covered by service benefits.

A check of the latest table for retirement pay shows that you would get a monthly retirement income of $137 a month—or the same amount you would get from a savings account of $65,000.

Stop and think about this before you get out of service. You'll go a long way before you find a deal matching this one (AFPS).

The Old Corps

Ten years ago this week: Lejeune was claiming two "firsts": SSgt. Lucille McLarrin, the first woman to join the Marine Corps after the Women's Reserve was officially established in 1943, was stationed here. Cpl. Etah Diefenderfer, also aboard, was believed to be the first married woman to share Marine Corps enlisted status with her husband.

The GLOBE printed the following verse:
The melancholy days are here,
The saddest of the year.
It's too hot for whiskey
And a little too cold for beer.

The three prize winners in the GLOBE'S Mother's Day letter contest were announced. Two of the winners were WR's.

Rear Adm. Joseph A. McMullin, medical officer for the Fifth Naval district, was aboard for an inspection of the Naval hospital.

Explorer Osa Johnson gave this bit of consolation to wives of marines:
"Don't worry about your men falling in love with beautiful maidens in the Solomon islands. The women there are ugly, dirty and smelly."

Movies showing at the Camp theater:
"Destination Tokyo," with Cary Grant, John Garfield; "Whistling in Brooklyn," with Red Skelton; "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," with Maria Montez and Jon Hall; and "Life Boat," with Tallulah Bankhead, John Hodiak.

AN OPEN LETTER

My dear friends:

We have reached again the period of the Navy Relief drive. Lejeune. Many of our personnel know the working of the drive, but many more, I'm sure, would like to "take a look at the Last year the auxiliary at this Camp, and at Camp alone, made 4,184 loans to service personnel. These loans made solely to people here at Camp Lejeune and totaled $20,466. All loans are made without interest. An additional $2,466 used in outright gifts, known as gratuities. Situations do arise where our people where a gratuity is the only recourse. In all emergencies were involved. Some of the loans we make collectible and, in other instances, loans made are later converted into gratuities. Last year alone, this auxiliary wrote off $10,370.50 as loans not collectible or converted the amounts to gratuity here at Lejeune are the third most active auxiliary in the Navy Relief Society, and there are 47 auxiliaries scattered out the Naval establishment. Our record looks even better if it comes to considering our overhead. We are proud of that we were 23rd on the list of 47 auxiliaries in the amount for overhead, salaries and office expenses.

Our total operating cost last year was $7,854.35, and the everything—even the gas for the Navy Relief station wagon—used by our visiting nurse. Such a record is commendable and made possible by the unselfish assistance rendered by our workers.

Now that you have had a chance to see the record, we invite your support and cooperation in our 1954 Navy Relief drive. The dollars that you contribute are used wisely and for the good of our people. Our assistance is rendered to our own family and their dependents. Without your help, we cannot function.

Gratefully,

Robert J. Schneck,
Acting Camp Chaplain
Executive Vice President
Camp Lejeune Auxiliary
Navy Relief Society.

Pfc Evelyn Smith Weds Robert Barnes

Pfc Evelyn C. Smith became the bride of Robert V. Barnes of Cincinnati, O., in a double-ring ceremony performed at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the Camp Protestant chapel.

A powder-blue linen suit with a broadcated linen half-hat and a prayer book topped with white rosebuds was selected by the bride.

Attending the couple were Miss Gertrude Smith, sister of the bride and Vol. Barnes, brother of the bridegroom. Miss Smith wore a pink linen suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The couple was honored with a reception following the ceremony.

WM Maneuvers

BY CPL. BECKY CARPER

I have Televisionitis and I fear it's catching.

It all started a few weeks ago when Barracks 63 installed a 21-inch TV set in the upper lounge. Now I find myself sitting in the front row surrounded by other wall-eyed individuals.

The symptoms of this dread disease are the same for each victim. The pupils of the eyes are dilated, the posture resembles that of a pretzel and weight increases after a number of evenings of candy bars and potato chips.

An evening's entertainment consists of murder, music, murder, commercials, murder and a midnight "owl" show of, you guessed it, murder.

Am I complaining? Just try to keep me from that set!

TV doesn't capture everyone's heart. A quintet in squabbly B brings the heart of the old West to Lejeune several nights a week. Consisting of Melba "Tex" Harper, with her guitar, Mollie Kiser and her concertina, Harmonica Player Pat Burbage, Uke Strummer Pat Potrykus, and Warbler Phyllis Tolliver, the group keeps toes tapping.

Cpl. Shirley Slaughter received a beautiful round-cut diamond from her fiancé, William E. Worth, of Staten Island, N. Y. They plan a fall wedding.

A wedding July 17 will unite Cpl. Joyce Cook and HN Norman Franceour, USN, of the Naval hospital.

Pfc Florene Little will attend seven weeks of the Naval School of Justice at Newport, R. I. Pfc's Marjorie Crayton and Grace Williams are attending Stenographers school at Norfolk.

Orders for enviable duty in the Hawaiian islands were received by Cpl. Ruth Decker. She's to report there by June 2 after a leave and short orientation at Treasure Island.

Steaks replaced the conventional hot dogs at the WM picnic last week.

Local Boy Scouts Take Six Awards During Camporee

Each of the six patrols from both Camp Lejeune Boy Scout troops attending the annual East Carolina Council camporee in Rocky Mount last weekend brought home an award for aggregate scoring in Morse code, first aid, pioneer chair building, flapjack cooking and fire building.

The Wolf patrol of Troop 190, Tarawa Terrace, led by Roy Dimiter, won a blue ribbon for a minimum score of 1,600. Red ribbons went to the troop's Cheyenne and Raccoon patrols, led by Kenneth Sullivan and Harry Pettit, and to the Panther patrol of Troop 90, Paradise Point, led by Fred Erdman.

Troop 90's Flaming Arrow and Daniel Boone patrols, led by Bill Key and Chuck Vaughn, won white ribbons.

Forty-one local scouts were among the more than 2,500 who took part in the camporee. Scoutmasters Pfc David E. Hill, Demolitions Platoon, Engineer School Bn., and Pfc Ed Quinlan, assistant to Chaplain Billy N. Wolfe, accompanied the group, which left here Friday morning and returned Sunday.

Trophies Awarded In Women Golfers' Ringer Tournament

Six trophies were awarded to winners of the Women's ringer tournament at the golf club Thursday.

The 10-week tournament, based on three-fourths of the handicap, was divided into three flights and the winner and runners-up in each flight received an award.

Mrs. J. B. Broadus took top honors and Mrs. P. T. Kujovsky was runner-up in flight A. After handicap deductions both women totaled 65, but Mrs. Broadus shot a 76 to Mrs. Kujovsky's 77 in match play.

Mrs. George Hering took first place in B flight followed by Mrs. C. J. Irwin.

Mrs. H. D. Hise shot a 62 for top C flight honors. Mrs. A. J. Galazewski was second.

Another women's tournament will be held May 4-18. Mr. Edward Vecchio of Jacksonville has donated $50 for the trophies.

Erratic Devilpups Suffer 5-4 Defeat At Hands Of Spuds

The Camp Lejeune Devilpups were nosed out by Pamlico County high 5-4 in a home game Thursday.

Three third-inning errors allowed four Pamlico runs, three unearned, to score. The Spuds tallied the winning margin in the fourth.

Lejeune scored two runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

Big stick for Pamlico was Third-baseman Prescott who hit two for four.

Lejeune's Bobby Peele smacked a three-bagger for the best clout of the game.

Winning hurler Gaskill pitched to 29 batters, fanned 10, gave up three walks and two hits.

Losing Pitcher Don Pope faced 34 men, struck out two, allowed three passes and four hits.

Chief Of Staff

Corps in April, 1923, Colonel Drake served at Parris Island as a rifle coach, at Quantico, Va., and Culebra, P. R., as a member of the 3rd Signal Co., and at Marine Barracks, Hampton Roads, Va., before being selected to attend Officers' Candidate school. He was commissioned in January, 1928.

Colonel Straub, a native of Denver, Colo., expects to return to that city following his retirement here June 1, after 31 years of service.

Maj. Harley L. Grant, former assistant G-1, has assumed new MAJOR GRANT duties as Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1, MCB, as relief for Colonel Drake.

FISH STORY

No bait, quit fishing. This happened to a lad from the hills of Virginia. But while packing up his gear to go home he saw a snake trying to devour a lizard. Ideal! He captured the snake. The lizard would make good bait. But the snake would not let go his hold on the lizard. Quite generously, the lad poured two fingers of "stump juice" (carried for medical purposes only) down the snake's throat. The snake immediately released the lizard and slithered off into the underbrush. The lizard made excellent bait, but soon went the way of all bait and our fisherman again started to pack up. But what was this? Coiled beside his tackle box was the snake and of all things—in its mouth was another lizard.

Overheard while fishing: "I use a four-ounce sinker with the reel on click and never get a back lash." True perhaps, but the manufacturer provides you with click on your reel to prevent the line from running free when you take time out from fishing to grab a sandwich, light a pipe, bait the wife's hook or what have you. Further, it serves as an audible alarm when there's a fish on the other end of the line.

MAD DOG?

A dog bite should be attended by a physician as soon as possible. Rabies is contagious from three to five days before symptoms appear. Worry all year 'round too. A dog may contract the disease at any time. The disease is usually fatal unless treated promptly.

An animal call that mimics the cry of a dying rabbit can be used to call that cunning "Sly Renard," the fox, within 15 feet of the hunter in broad daylight. For details give this reporter a call: 9-8258.

A snake-bite kit complete with instructions is now available in our exchanges.

Crickets sometimes make excellent bait. Here's a way to catch a generous supply: Cut a loaf of bread in half and hollow out the inside. Place a hole the size of a half-dollar in one side and tie the two halves back together. Place this loaf in some tall grass where crickets are plentiful and you'll find that one night's catch will provide you with plenty of bait.

All horse's necks aren't necessarily part of a horse.

Liversedge Track Marks Fall As Locals Hold Annual Inter-Squad Competition

Lejeune's tracksters ended a two-week rest period Monday with a record-smashing inter-squad meet at Liversedge field. The trackmen broke two and threatened two other field records.

Coach Jack Warner said the times were unofficial but admitted that he was highly impressed by the team's spirit and performance in the meet.

Highlights of the meet were the 880 and two-mile runs.

Chet Franz, former University of Missouri miler, ran the 880 in 1:57.8 to crack the Lejeune record of 2:00 set by Dan Green in the All-Marine meet at Quantico in 1950 and came close to the 1:54.4 Liversedge field record set by Camp Pendleton's Jerome Walters here in the 1953 All-Marine meet.

Sonny Blankenship ran the two-mile in 9:59.5, breaking the 10:13.9 Lejeune record set by Clarence Williams in the North Carolina A&T meet last year.

He also came close to the 9:51 Liversedge field record Coach Warner set here in the Lejeune-Quantico meet of 1953.

Lejeune's Don Walker amassed 21 points for the meet's scoring honors.

Walker led his running mate, Howard Bankston, over the high and low hurdles in 15.8 and 22.5, leaped six feet to win the high jump, won the broad jump with 20 feet six and a half inches for a first and ran a leg of the 880 relay with the winning quartet of Team Captain Lou Gomic, Ted Francis and Tom Poland.

Coach Warner's charges meet the Fort Jackson "Golden Arrows" here at 1 p.m. Saturday.

INSPECTION ARMS—Maj. Gen. George F. Good Jr., commanding general, 2nd Division, inspects the rifle won by TSgt. Ermon T. Lewis, operations chief, 3rd Bn., Sixth Marines, in the 1953 Leatherneck Rifle competition. Sergeant Lewis fired 240 on the local range to win the 4th quarter and the 3rd Annual competition last year. The sergeant has been in Vieques during the past four months and was unable to pick up his prize, a Winchester Model 70 Match rifle, caliber 30-06 (Official USMC Photo).
