FORT RILEY POST

April 14, 2023

Hiring Our Heroes comes to Fort Riley

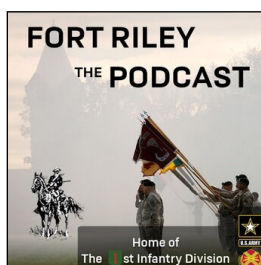

Job seekers met prospective employers face-to-face at Riley's Community Center April 13 in an all-day career summit designed to teach job seeking skills and link prospects with hiring managers from 98 prospective employers. The fair was geared for transitioning Soldiers, veterans and military spouses.

This week Doc Jargon explains the origin of Murphy's Law and how not everything that could go wrong necessarily always does.

Fort Riley the Podcast

In this week's edition of Fort Riley the Podcast we find out how Fort Riley serves the Guard and Reserve units who come here to train.

Historic Places

Sturgis Stadium is named for three generations of Army officers. Col. Samuel D. Sturgis, who fought in the Indian Wars from 1846 to 1886, his son, Maj. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, Jr., who served from 1884 to 1925.

General Sturgis' son, also named Samuel D. Sturgis, Jr., was a Lieutenant at Fort Riley with the 9th Mounted Engineer Squadron. In 1933, he commanded a troop that constructed the bowl now known as Sturgis Stadium.

Month of the Military Child

The annual Month of the Military Child Parade was held April 7. Check out all the fun photos of the event on our Flickr album HERE.
