Reach goals and get fit with the Armed Forces Wellness Center

Indulge a little too much this holiday season? Does January find you over-sugared, stressed and ready to get back on track? The Armed Forces Wellness Center (AFWC) is a free resource on Fort Novosel that is equipped to help you set lifestyle changes to start 2024 off on the right foot. The AFWC approach is not your average trainer's fitness plan. This is a holistic process considering an individual's physical and psychological health to meet...

Chinook instructor pilot retires from federal service at 10,000 hours

It is said that students are often just one encouraging instructor away from being a success story. For many Chinook pilots over the past 20 years, that instructor was Department of the Army Civilian Charles Mineo, a retired chief warrant officer 4 who served during Desert Storm. Upon his recent flight in the Chinook marking his 10,000th incident-free flying hour, the well-known instructor pilot...

Army Aviation Learning Center equipment enhances education process

Flight school is hard work. There is no way around it. The Aviation Learning Center on Fort Novosel, however, is a valued resource to guide flight students through the speed bumps and barriers that may come during training. The latest technology at the ALC helps flight students with hands-on tools miles away from the flight line. George Snyder, ALC lead instructor, encourages students to utilize the myriad of resources the facility has to offer.

RANGES, TRAINING AREAS AND IMPACT AREAS ARE OFF-LIMITS!

Restricted Area, Off Limits, and Training Area signs may be posted along the border of certain training areas. Do not enter these areas. Entry into these areas places personnel at risk of serious injury.

Fort Novosel limits running, jogging, biking, swimming and walking to authorized areas for your safety! Training areas, including those adjacent to the cantonment area are OFF-LIMITS! Be safe and stay in areas designated for recreational use, like Parcours fitness trail behind the IHG Army Hotel or the Beaver Lake jogging and hiking trail.
