Connect the Dots

Oh, no! One of our F/A-18E Super Hornets lost its outline. Let's get Truman back in the fight by connecting all the dots.

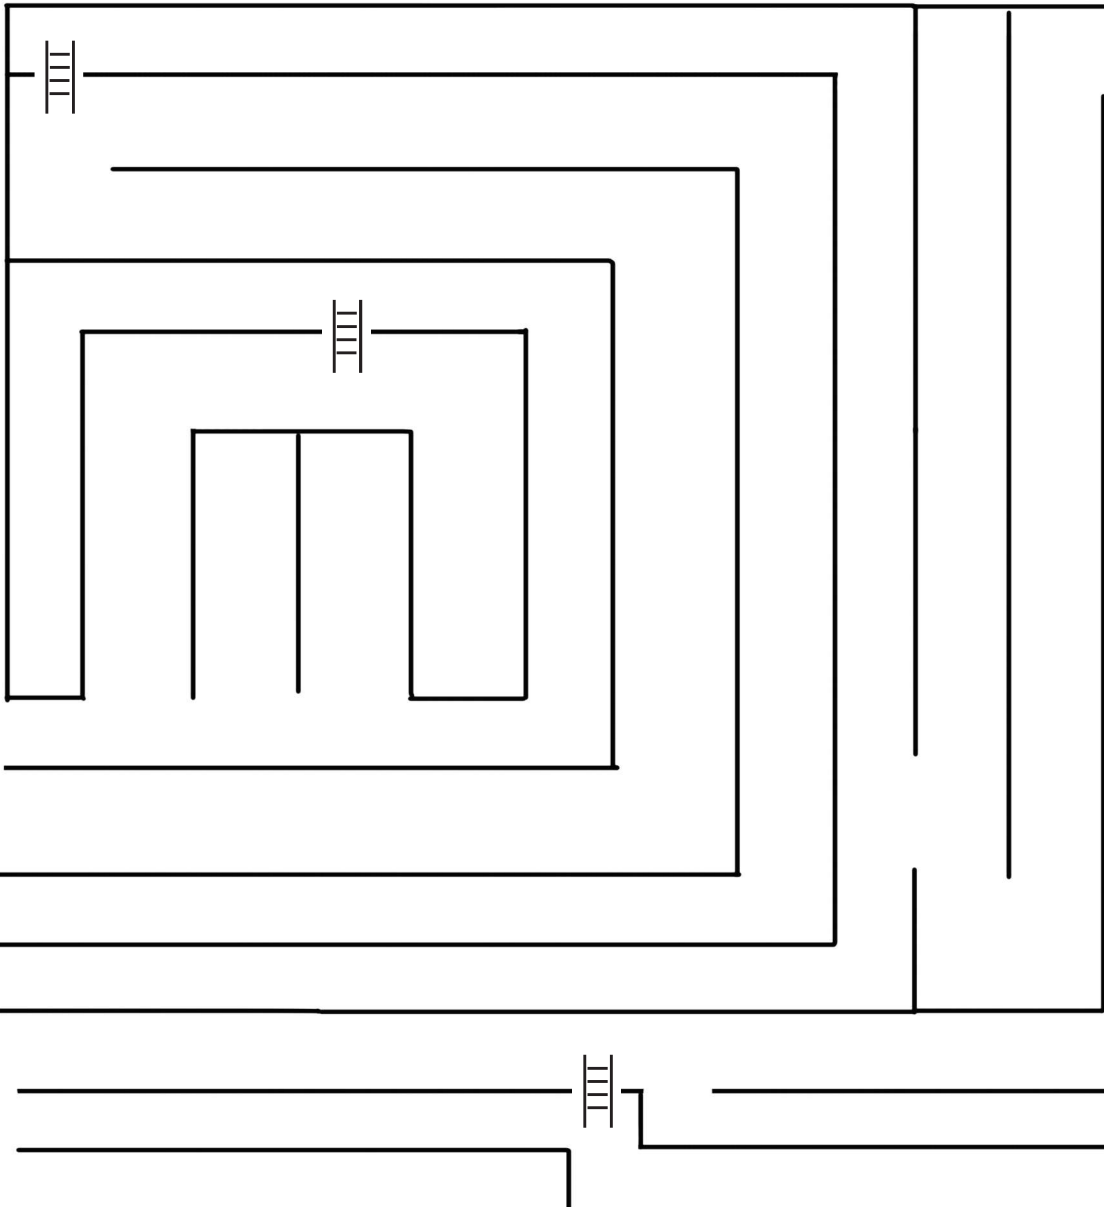

Sailors wear insignia on their uniforms that show their rank and the job they do. Did you know the captain of the ship wears an eagle?

Flying Squad Maze Race

Help our Damage Controlman reach the end of the maze to put out the class alpha fire!

Color the Numbered Spaces

Color each numbered space to see a Truman colored F/A-18E Super Hornet fighter jet.

All About the Air Wing

Did you know Truman carries an average of 15 planes from 9 different squadrons?
Each squadron is unique with their own traditions, customs, and uniform patches.
However, they all share the same goal of protecting Truman and providing global naval defense for America and allies.

If you were in charge of a squadron onboard Truman, how would your team stand out?
Design your own squadron patch bellow and decorate the F/A-18E to match it!

Silhouette Scramble

The Navy flies a variety of aircraft. Can you identify the shadows on the left by matching them to their names on the right? Some of them may be trickier than others.

Hey Kidz!
One of the F/A-18E strike fighter
jets seems to be a little lost.
Can you help guide our
PILOT back to Truman by choosing the correct path?

Design Your Own Battle Flag

While Truman's battle flag has taken many forms over the years, its message of motivation, resiliency, and determination stays true for every Sailor through time!

Color the Pictures

Spot the Difference

Hmm, something isn't right. Can you help our shipmate by spotting all the differences?

Can you find all 10?
