The agency chief, Col. Glen E. Shaw, accepted the AMC Commander's Savings Bond Award last week signifying having attained a rate of more than 90 per cent. Installations and services has 87 persons assigned and 98 per cent have Bond savings plans.

The certificate was presented by the Arsenal Sav-

Mr. Reese pointed out that the Arsenal Savings Bond drive would continue

Perfect Weather Helps Sesquicentennial Fete

Under perfect weather Saturday, several thousand spectators witnessed the re-enactment of the founding of Fort Armstrong. The gala day marked the completion of months of elaborate preparation by the Sesquicentennial Committee and local historical groups.

The day's activities started at 9:30 a.m., when Miss Mary Davenport, a great-granddaughter of Col. George Davenport, first settler on the Island, opened the reconditioned Davenport House to the public.

Saturday and Sunday visitors streamed through the restored home.

The Scott County Home Builders Association remodeled the home and members of its auxiliary guided guests through the house. It had been furnished with furniture typical of the time when the founder of Davenport lived there.

The program started with the landing of Gen. Thomas Smith and his Eighth Infantry regulars at the shore in front of the Davenport House. They were greeted by Chief Blackhawk and an Indian party. Both groups

Thousands Expected at RIA For Memorial Day Ceremony

Featured speaker at Memorial Day services at Rock Island National Cemetery this year will be Marvin L. Raymond, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church in Moline.

The annual ceremony, usually attended by thousands of local residents since its inception in 1948, will begin at 10:45 Memorial Day morning, May 30.

Plans for the program were announced by Marie vocation and the benediction will be given by Rev. A. B. Collins of Rock Island.

Providing the music will be the Moline Boys Choir under the direction of Dr. Frederick Swanson. The choir will sing a series of religious songs as well as the National Anthem. It is the first time the group has appeared in this annual program.

Robert White, Transportation, has been chosen grand marshal of the parade. He will be assisted by Henry Therrien as marshal.

Deputy marshals will be Jesse Beadle, Gene Orendorff, Everett Osborn, Arthur Peterson and C. R. Hogberg.

Marching in the procession and taking part in the honors at the cemetery will be Boy Scouts, veteran's groups and the Quad-City Buccaneers.

Mrs. Bessie Barth Richardson of Rock Island will present the GAR colors and carry them in the parade.

The granddaughter of James J. Kinney, a Civil War veteran, who carried this flag at patriotic ceremonies and Memorial Day services until his death, she has carried the same flag on Memorial Day for the past 54 years.

At 11, weather permitting, there will be an aerial drop of flowers over the graves, said a spokesman.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies at the cemetery a firing detail will fire three volleys of shots and the musicians will sound taps at the Confederate Cemetery.

Arsenal Island will be a tourist attraction over the long weekend. Police Chief John Hannan, estimates that with good weather more than 25,000 visitors will tour the island.

SHINY WITH newness is the equipment at the re-furbished snack bar in the Post Restaurant as Shirley Johnson stands at the cash register and Betsy Uecker waits to serve customers.

New Snack Bar Offers Fast, Varied Service

The Arsenal's new snack bar opened Tuesday after about a month of refurbishing and installing new equipment.

The snack bar and post restaurant manager, Linn Neighbors, said the snack bar can handle as many as 600 customers an hour, compared to about 150 an hour in the old setting.

At a cost of approximately $20,000, some of the new equipment includes coffee urns, grills, salad bars and mixing machines.

Mr. Neighbors said the snack bar can offer hot and cold sandwiches, pies, salads, shakes and ice cream products as well as cigarettes and cigars.

Plans for a formal opening are being made for "sometime in mid-June," according to the manager. "We'll have some 'bugs' to iron out, I'm sure," he noted, "but so far things look real good."

Drum, Bugle Contest Set for RI Sunday

The second annual Fiesta of Drums, a drum and bugle corps competition, will be held at Rock Island's Douglas Park at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Sponsored by the local Buccaneers, a corps directed by Wayne E. Cunningham of the Arsenal's Shop M, Dept. 60-11, the competition will include three entries from Wisconsin and one each from Iowa and Illinois.

Competing under the rules and regulations set down by the All America Drum and Bugle Association will be the St. Patrick Imperials from Milwaukee, the Queensmen from Kenosha, and the Kilty Cadets from Racine, all in Wisconsin.

Also in the competition are the Centurions from Berwyn, Ill., and the Nee Hi's from Clinton, Iowa.

The host Buccaneers will give an exhibition as part of the afternoon's program.

In addition, exhibitions will be given by two all-girls' organizations, the Fraternal Order of Eagles' drill teams from East Moline and Davenport.

The Buccaneers, all teenagers, will appear for the fourth time at the Arsenal's Memorial Day services May 30. They will also perform at the Arsenal's picnic Aug. 6.

Arsenal and Army Weapons Command Bond reports are forwarded every week to Army Materiel Command, where they are compiled and called in to the President.

The payroll savings plan has been called the most effective way for all Arsenal employees to save regularly, said the project officer. Once a choice of plan is made, he continued, savings continue automatically "and build up considerable reserve for retirement or other worthwhile purposes."

A FAMILY AFFAIR develops as Charles Vaccaro, M-60 project manager staff officer, shows his sustained superior performance check to his sister, Mrs. Herman Lange, a nurse at the Arsenal, and his daughter, Charlene, who works in AWC Information. The check and a certificate were presented to Mr. Vaccaro by the M-60 project manager, Col. William L. Drennen.

He emphasized that buying Savings Bonds gives people the feeling that they are giving valuable support to their country.

President Johnson recently said, "A successful Savings Bond program is of particular urgency at this time — facing as we do a firm commitment to the defense of freedom in Vietnam and a strongly rising economy at home."

Also noted was that Savings Bond interest is exempt from state and local income taxes, there is no charge for buying or redeeming Bonds, and E and H Bonds can be registered in the saver's name, or with a co-owner, or in the name of a beneficiary.

Savings Bonds Near $750,000 For County

Rock Island county residents purchased a total of $706,996 in series E and H United States savings bonds in March, according to William A. Haddick of Moline, Ill., general county chairman of the savings bonds committee.

Sales in the state of Illinois were $34,765,549, according to Arnold J. Rauen, state director of the Treasury's savings bonds division. This is an increase of 14.1% over sales for last March, and accounts for 7.6% of national sales which were $457,000,000.

Illinois purchases in the first three months of this year reached 27% of the annual quota which is $348,000,000.

Some people can't ride in a regular convertible without trying to convert it. ("Put the top down, Daddy." "Leave it up, Harry.")

You can't make a compromise. (Try driving a regular convertible with the top half-way up.) But you can buy one:

The Volkswagen Sunroof Sedan.

The Sunroof is a cross between a VW Sedan and a VW Convertible. It has a hole in the roof, with a steel cover that cranks open to give you 360 square inches of sky.

Or 359 1/2 square inches of sky. Or 1/4 square inch. Or whatever's comfortable.

And if no opening's comfortable, you can have that, too. Just crank the cover closed until it pops against its sealing gasket. This makes our Sunroof as airtight and watertight as our Sedan.

The cover is padded and lined like the rest of the roof, so you can hardly see it.

Some people can hardly see paying an extra $90* for it, either. (Until they take our Sunroof out on the road. And open her up.)

CHECKING OVER some of the TARGET copy is Paul Goldberg, new editor of the Rock Island Arsenal newspaper.

New TARGET Editor Former USAF Writer

BY BUDD A. WILLETTS
Acting Chief of Information

Since traditions of the journalism profession preclude a new editor from introducing himself to his readers, I am pleased to report this story.

Your new Target editor is Paul Goldberg.

He comes to us from Scott Air Force Base where he has been serving as editor of the installation newspaper there. He brings a wealth of writing and public relations experience to his new job with us.

Naturally, we looked over some of Paul's work before extending the job offer to him and we think you'll like his style of writing. He handles the facts of a "hard" news story in a forthright manner and on those stories of human interest, has a flare for injecting the light, lively and laughable phrase.

In the vernacular of the writing game, he writes "live" copy.

The new editor plans to hold a get-acquainted meeting with the Target reporters stationed in various activities of the Command and Arsenal as soon as he gets the other foot firmly planted in Army soil.

You see, he has been with the Air Force and Military Airlift Command for many years, retiring last September as a captain, Air Force Reserve.

His Air Force career goes back to 1942 when he became an aviation cadet. During WWII, he saw combat duty as a fighter pilot, flying P-38s and P-51s.

Subsequently, he served as a technical sergeant at many air bases and always in the writing and newspaper fields.

Paul's family, consisting of his wife, Jeri, and children Nicky 14, Gary 11, and Aaron Ray 4, will remain in Belleville, Ill., until school is out and then move to the Quad-cities area.

Jack Rice, who filled the editor's spot while the search was on for a permanent replacement, returns to his former duties in Information. A tip of the hat to Jack for his fine work in keeping the Target issues moving.

Student Wins High Awards

A 14-year-old boy, whose parents both work at Rock Island Arsenal, will receive two honors from his school when he graduates next Sunday.

David Miller, son of Theodore W. Miller Jr., AMSWESAV, and Patricia M. Miller, SWERI-PRC, will receive the American Legion Award and the Daughters of the American Revolution History Award.

Graduating from Rock Island's St. Joseph Elementary School, David was voted tops by his graduating classmates when they cast ballots on loyalty, honor, integrity and ability as a leader. The American Legion award signifies David is the "outstanding boy graduate of his school."

The DAR award is bestowed on the top scorer in a special competitive examination given to all the History students at St. Joseph's.

"Proud? That's hardly the word we think when we realize how we feel about David's accomplishments," said his parents.

Bonds Help Future

Almost a quarter of a century ago a Secretary of the Treasury coined the slogan, "They gave their lives—You give your money." The slogan helped kick off a drive which sold more than $18 billion worth of U.S. Savings Bonds to back up our fighting men.

That was during World War II, when all stops were pulled out in an effort to Bonds is an investment in these men and women and the job they are doing.

At the same time, an investment in savings bonds is an investment in our own future. With the new 4.15 percent interest rate, U.S. Savings Bonds provide a sound form for the growth of our savings dollar.

The maturity period of Series E Bonds sold since support American men on the battle lines. The situation today has its similarities.

True, the nation is not involved in global war, but we are not at peace. More than 300,000 American service men are deployed across Southeast Asia as part of a systematic effort in the postwar period to assure a stable peace. Thousands of other Americans in uniform stand guard over the shaky peace in other parts of the world. An investment in U.S. Savings

Dec. 1, 1965, has been reduced from seven years and nine months to seven years. A regular monthly savings plan of $18.75 (for a $25 bond) will accumulate $1,797 in seven years. The bonds purchased will have a maturity value of $2,100.

President Johnson has called investment in U.S. Savings Bonds "both prudent and patriotic." Think it over. Start a monthly bond allotment and let it build for the future. (AFPS)

Once there was a little boy. When he was three weeks old his parents turned him over to a babysitter. . . .

When he was two years old, they dressed him up like a cowboy, and gave him a gun. . . .

When he was eight, they bought him a BB gun, and taught him to shoot sparrows. He learned to shoot windshields by himself. . . .

When he was thirteen, he told his parents other boys stayed out as late as they wanted to, so they said he could, too. It was easier that way. . . .

When he was fifteen, the police called his home one night. "We have your boy. He's in trouble."

"In trouble?" screamed his father. "It can't be my boy!"

But it was. — Sunshine Magazine.

Yet, in the blink of an eye, in the tick of your watch, I can turn deadly killer. I can snuff out the life of a kid still full of life—maybe your child. I can twist a smile into tears. I can wreak a cripple and destroy. I can deal out death like the plague. And I'm no re-

Excuses, Excuses

Following is a list of sure-fire ways to kill ideas on how to improve Federal Government operations. Read them carefully—they may be familiar—but try never again to use these rationalizations.

... We tried that before.
... We don't have the time.
... That's beyond our responsibility.

Defensive Driving

The object of Defensive Driving is to drive without having a preventable accident.

Defensive Driving requires the knowledge and strict observance of all traffic rules and regulations applicable to the area in which the vehicle is being operated.

Defensive Driving requires a constant alertness for the illegal acts and driving errors of other drivers and the willingness to make timely adjustments in one's own driving so that these illegal acts and errors will not involve one in an accident.

Defensive Driving requires a knowledge of and intelligent adjustment of one's driving to the special hazards presented by abnormal, unusual or changing conditions in the mechanical functioning of one's vehicle, type of road surface, weather, degree of light, kind of traffic, and one's physical condition and state of mind.

Defensive Driving requires a thorough knowledge of the rules of right-of-way and the willingness to yield the right-of-way to the other driver whenever necessary to avoid an accident.

Defensive Driving requires an attitude of confidence that one can drive without ever having a preventable accident.

specter of persons. A youth, a grandmother, even you, my friend . . . it's all the same to me.

I'm sensitive. I respond instantly to the hands you give me. Give me calm hands, steady hands, careful hands . . . and I'm your friend. But give me unsteady hands, fuzzy-minded hands, reckless hands . . . then I'm your enemy. A menace to the life, the happiness, the future of every person, every youngster riding, walking, or playing.

I was made for pleasure and usefulness. Keep me that way. I'm in your hands. I'm just a steering wheel. And you're my captain. Behind me you're the lord and master of a miracle . . . or a tragedy. It's up to you.

We're sure we'll have occasion to do double-takes more than once in future days . . . but we hardly expected our first one to happen within three days of coming on the job. For instance, last Wednesday, a gentleman walked into the TARGET office. He was obviously a carpenter, from the look of his coveralls and the large, wooden tool box he carried . . . And on the side of the box, in big, yellow letters were printed the initials . . . LJB.

Could be that Robin is losing favor in the eyes of Batman . . . or perhaps the caped crusader is adding to his crime-fighting force. In either case, we spotted an indication of things to come on one of those special license plates the state of Illinois issues to amateur (ham) radio operators. Parked near the Admin building was a car bearing the registration — K9BAT.

To most of us, the Fourth of July is Independence Day. But to the citizens of Mecklenburg County, North Carolina, today is the day they claim a signing of a declaration of independence from England in 1775.

And talking of "days," we're reminded that, among other things, Sunday is National Maritime Day and is also the beginning of National Salvation Army Week. Now, just where would you be without that enlightening information?

Who can forget the infamous day that President John F. Kennedy was assassinated? Not many perhaps . . . but how many know that May 29, a week from Sunday, is the anniversary of his birth in 1917?

And one of our vice presidents, the 38th in fact, celebrates his birthday next Friday. Can you name him?

--- But Not Safe

Tiny microphones and other sophisticated snooping devices spawned by an age of electronic eavesdropping have captured the public's imagination.

The clever methods of trench-coated espionage agents are continually unearthed by government investigators.

Clearly outlined procedures have been established causes of dangerous information leaks.

Take your telephone, for instance. It makes your job a lot easier—but it's not secure. Nor is the washroom or the snackbar, your desk drawer or your coat pocket.

Never discuss classified information over the phone or in public places. In fact, never discuss it anywhere unless the other person has to regulate the handling of classified information and documents.

These things add up to a security-conscious public. And in the Army, where secret-keeping is a big responsibility, such watchfulness is essential, particularly during the present time of expansion and activity.

But, in our concentration on preventing a major security breach, we're liable to overlook some obvious a definite 'need to know.'

Never tuck classified documents in your pocket or desk drawer for even a few moments, and never leave them in the open unattended.

In short, don't let the habits of daily routine lull your common-sense security consciousness. It would be mighty embarrassing to be on the watch for spies—and be done-in by your own telephone. (ANF)

Gifts, Donations Out Warns Army Reg

The following is extracted directly from an Army regulation, to remind everyone of the standards of conduct expected from Department of Army personnel:

"9. Prohibition of contributions or presents to superiors. No officer or employee in the U. S. Government employ shall at any time solicit contributions from other officers or employees in the Government service for a gift or present to those in a superior official position; nor shall any such officials or superiors receive any gift or present offered or presented to them as a contribution from persons in Government employ receiving a salary in an amount smaller than their own; nor shall any officer or employee make any donation as a gift or present to any official superior. Every person who violates this section shall be summarily discharged from the Government employ (R.S. 1784; 5 U.S.C. 113)."

The Army Weapons Command chief of staff, Col. Ted I. Sawyer, said he believes "the above cited paragraph is self-explanatory." He asked that the information be widely publicized.

Davenport Bank VP Speaks to FGAA

Speaking on the impact of the new, higher interest rates, the senior vice president of the Davenport Bank and Trust Co., Kenneth C. Hartman, was guest speaker at the recent dinner meeting of the Quad-cities chapter of the Federal Government Accountants Association.

The meeting at the Arsenal NCO Open Mess was April 27.

Mr. Hartman also commented on the rates' effect on the trend of our country's economics. "The situation in the Mid-west," he said, "is not as severe as presently being experienced on the East Coast."

Wayne Banks, president of the FGAA chapter, conducted the business meeting following dinner.

Preliminary plans for a chapter-sponsored symposium this fall were outlined, said a spokesman.

Limited Warfare Creates Problems Doctor Foster of DoD Says

Washington (AFNB) — When a "cold war" erupts into limited warfare it creates certain geographic and situation requirements that cannot always be anticipated, recently said Dr. John S. Foster, Director of Defense Research and Engineering.

He spoke of general purpose forces and emphasized the contributions of various research and development programs to current needs and experience in Vietnam.

"For obvious reasons," he said, "no weapon or piece of equipment can be built solely against the contingency of an anticipated war in a single geographical location." Limited warfare, he explained, inevitably requires improving and tailoring systems and equipment for the specific situation and "some previously unanticipated equipment need will arise."

Perhaps the more far reaching budget issue faced this year involves speeding up limited war research and development effort that shows promise so it can be applied early in the Republic of Vietnam, Dr. Foster said.

This problem was attacked last August through Project Provost, involving virtually the entire field of counterinsurgency and limited conventional warfare weaponry and equipment.

This is the time for vacation thoughts and plans for that wonderful two weeks with pay that make the other fifty weeks more bearable.

Families somehow always manage a trip but what about vacations and the single girl? Too many shy women miss the pleasure of travel because they cannot find a compatible companion and hesitate to travel alone.

Come now, assert your independence and plan a single vacation. After all you solo all year don't you?

There are many advantages to the relaxed solitude and doing things in solitary splendor. You don't have to think of anyone but yourself and you can do what you want when you want to. If you get bored with your own company take a sight-seeing bus trip — these busses are always full of tourists who are anxious to visit.

When you have established where you want to go, how long you can be gone, and your budget — check with a travel agent. He will be of great help in offering suggestions and will take care of the arrangements.

Don't say you can't afford a vacation. After all you are single and have often heard the cliché "You must have lots of money — you're single."

A final word of advice — if you want to know where the men go on vacation, the answer is simple — with their wives!!

Perhaps a word on tipping would be apropos for women who don't have a man to pick up the check. Fifteen per cent is the accepted figure so stick to it. Most waitresses regard women as terrible tippers and hesitate to give them good service so it is time to dispel this illusion.

Keep this in mind when you are out with the girls, and if the party is "dutch treat," let the waitress know when you order that you prefer separate checks. It will make things easier for her and less embarrassing for all.

'Good Citizen' Earns Citation

MAJOR LEE

A member of Rock Island Arsenal's fire department, who doubled in brass as a member of the Civil Air Patrol, was retired from the CAP and presented a citation for his efforts during his tour of duty.

According to TARGET reporter Genevieve Orr, the CAP retiree, Maj. Ralph B. Lee Jr., was cited for performing "outstanding service in the best interest" of the CAP from September 1951 until this month.

The citation also read that Major Lee's service "set an example of good citizenship for the cadets . . . to guide them all of their lives."

Your defense dollars forge a shield against aggression by supporting a POWER FOR PEACE team that preserves our national ideals and safeguards our freedom wherever they may be endangered. The men and women of the U.S. Army are proud to be a part of that team.

Helicopter Sets 21 Unofficial Records

Washington (OASD-PA)—The Army's new light observation helicopter, the OH-6A, has set a total of 21 unofficial world records for rotary-wing aircraft.

The new records claimed by the Army—12 for speed, and 3 each for distance, climbing and sustained altitude—were established in three different helicopter classes at Edwards Air Force Base, California, by five Army and two civilian pilots. Three of the records are for helicopters of all sizes and weights, the Army said.

The flights were conducted under the supervision of the National Aeronautics Association (NAA), and have been submitted for approval as official world records to the Fédération Aéronautique Internationale (FAI) in Paris.

The OH-6A now claims more world records than any other helicopter.

Colonel Davenport Found Murdered In House on Island

By Micky Walker

In 1833 George Davenport built the beautiful mansion which stands today. The house was erected about 150 feet North of Colonel Davenport's old log trading store. The main part of the Davenport house is still standing. This was the only part of the mansion which was restored when the building was reconstructed in 1906.

A model of the Davenport house is on display in the John M. Browning Museum on Rock Island Arsenal. The model reveals a unique feature of the floor plan of the Davenport house. The one story wings to the main building had no other means of access than the outside doors. The thinking behind this floor plan was probably to separate the quarters of visiting dignitaries as completely as possible from the portion of the house in which the Davenport family lived.

Town Site

After building his house, Colonel Davenport became one of the men to lay out the town to be named in his honor. Seven men took part in laying out the town site. The site, then in the Wisconsin territory, was surveyed in 1836. The limits of Davenport lay between what is now Harrison Street on the East and Gaines Street on the West. From North to South, the town limits extended from Seventh Street to the Mississippi River.

The surveyors for the site of Davenport were a Major Gordon and a Mr. Bennett. Major Gordon was the Government surveyor of the LeClaire Reserve. The Reserve had been set up after the Blackhawk Treaty of 1832. It was adjacent to Davenport on the East.

LeClaire Founded

In the fall of 1836, Colonel Davenport purchased an interest in the LeClaire Reserve near the head of the rapids. He named the town site there in honor of Antoine LeClaire. Colonel Davenport then purchased an interest in the town of Port Byron, on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River. Later, in 1841, Davenport laid out an addition to Moline.

During the fall of 1837, Colonel Davenport accompanied Keokuk, Wappello - Poweshiek, Blackhawk, and about 40 principal chiefs and braves of the Sac and Fox tribes to Washington, D. C. In Washington, the Federal Government, with Colonel Davenport's assistance, was able to purchase a large portion of what is now Iowa.

Upon his return from Washington, Colonel Davenport and Antoine LeClaire opened a store on the corner of Front and Main streets in Davenport. This was considered the largest store in the area. The Colonel still kept his Indian trade on the Island. The last of the Indians came from the Des Moines River to the Island in 1840.

Later the Indian trading post was moved to the Des Moines River. It is presently identified by the city located on the trading post site, which is called Agency City.

Colonel Davenport gave up his Indian trading and resigned from the American Fur Company after 23 years.

Murder!

For the next four years Colonel Davenport spent his winters at ease in St. Louis and Washington, after years of hard labor in his fur trading enterprises. Then came the fatal Fourth of July.

A rumor had been circulating for some time that the Colonel kept $20,000 in gold hidden in his house or buried in his yard. As with most rumors, no one knew where or how it started, but no records exist which show he had ever kept that much cash around his home.

His home must have been spied on, for the robbers knew when he was alone. The rest of the Davenport family had gone to the city of Rock Island to participate in the holiday celebration.

The thieves crossed the river in a skiff, landed on the island, and knocked on the door of the house. Not thinking he was in any danger, the Colonel opened the door. He was immediately shot, stabbed, and dragged up the stairs to the bedroom in the West end of the house. He was roughly thrown across the bed. The robbers began torturing the Colonel, demanding to know where he had hidden the gold. He would not tell them because he could not, but in ransacking the house, the thieves found approximately $300 in a dresser drawer.

The Colonel's groans and cries made them apprehensive so they ran out of the house. The loud moans were heard by a man and a boy passing by near shore. They landed and found Colonel Davenport, bleeding and suffering. The man hurried to get a doctor. The doctor came as quickly as he could, but upon seeing Davenport, he knew there was nothing he could do to save him.

Caught

Colonel Davenport did not live through the night. The story of his death and the cause of it spread through the area like wildfire. If the criminals had been caught at this time, they would probably have been lynched on the spot. They were finally caught. The murderers were tried and some were hanged in the city of Rock Island.

When the Indians heard of his death, they came to pay their last respects. The Indians asked Mrs. Davenport if she would give them permission to bury "Saganosh", accompanied by Indian ceremony. Mrs. Davenport gave her permission for the Indians to bury Colonel Davenport. She chose the burial site in the Southwest corner of the yard.

Franc B. Wilkie, author of the book "Davenport Past and Present", which was published in 1858, was present at the funeral. The following is an account of the ceremony as written by him:

"On last Friday afternoon we were witness to a strange and interesting ceremony performed by the Indians over the remains of Mr. Davenport, who was murdered at his residence on Rock Island on the 4th instant. Upon proceeding to the beautiful spot selected as his last resting place, in the rear of his mansion on Rock Island, we found the war chiefs and braves of the band of Fox Indians there encamped in the vicinity of this place, reclining on the grass around his grave, at the head of which was planted a white cedar post some seven or eight feet in height.

"The ceremony began by two of the braves rising and walking to the post, upon which with paint they began to inscribe certain characters, while a third brave, armed with an emblematic war club, after drinking to the health of the deceased from a cup placed at the base of the post, walked three times around the grave, in the opposite direction to the course of the sun, at each revolution delivering a speech with sundry gestures and emphatic motions in the direction of the Northeast. When he had ceased he passed the club to another brave, who went through the same ceremony, passing but once around the grave, so in succession with each one of the braves. This ceremony doubtless would appear pantomimic to one unacquainted with the habits or language of the Indians, but after a full interpretation of their proceedings, they would be found in character with this traditional people.

Interpretation of Ceremony

"In walking around the grave in a contrary direction to the course of the sun, they wished to convey the idea that the ceremony was an original one. In their speeches they informed the Great Spirit that Mr. Davenport was their friend, and they wished the Great Spirit to open the door to him, and take charge of him. The enemies they had slain they called upon to act in the capacity of waiters to Mr. Davenport in the Spirit Land, they believing that they have unlimited power over the spirits of those they have slain in battle.

"The gestures toward the Northeast were made in allusion to their great enemies the Souix, who lived in that direction. They recounted their deeds of battle, with the number that they had slain and taken prisoners. Upon the post were painted in hieroglyphics the number of enemy they had slain and those taken prisoner, together with the tribe and station of the brave.

"For instance, the feats of Waw-co-shaw-she the Chief were thus portrayed. Ten headless figures were painted which signified he had killed 10 men. Four others were then added, one of them smaller than the others, signifying that he had taken four prisoners one of whom was a child. A line was run from one figure to another terminating in a plume, signifying that all this had been accomplished by a chief. A fox was painted over the plume, which plainly told that the chief was of the Fox tribe of Indians.

"These characters are so expressive that if an Indian of any tribe whatsoever were to see them, he would at once understand them."

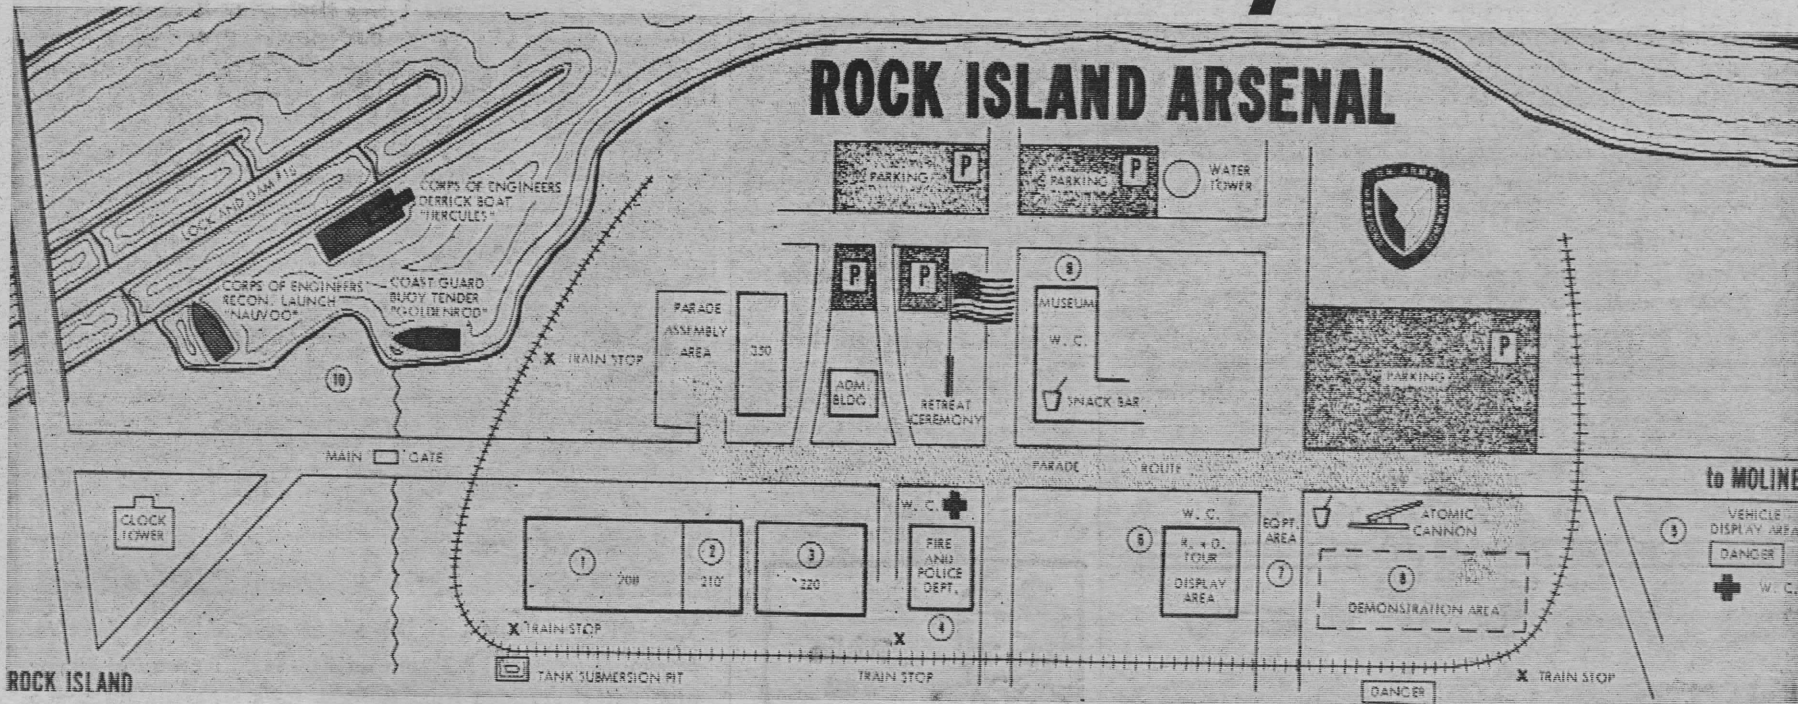

Colonel Davenport's remains were reinterred in the Chippeanock Cemetery in 1864. A stone replica of the cedar post marks his grave. His epitaph reads "Here lies a friend to humanity."

The home of Colonel George Davenport was restored shortly after the turn of the century. The main portion of the house was renovated at this time. Restoration again took place in the 1950's.

Gets 3rd Star

The deputy commanding general of U.S. Army Materiel Command, Lt. Gen. William B. Bunker, was recently promoted to that rank.

In his Washington office, Gen. Frank S. Besson Jr., AMC commanding general, and Mrs. Bunker pinned on General Bunker's third star.

His son, Paul D. Bunker III, watched the ceremony.

The following are official Armed Forces Day statements to Americans from Lyndon B. Johnson, President of the United States, and Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of Defense.

Freedom is indivisible. It is not secure in America when it is brutally denied elsewhere on this earth.

The struggle to be free is a struggle worthy of man's unceasing sacrifice. And it is worthy of America's abiding commitment in Vietnam and in other parts of the world where violence threatens man's earnest desire to be free.

Those who serve in distant lands in the uniforms of our Armed Forces know the meaning of this commitment. They know the meaning of the bond which inextricably unites America's freedom with the freedom of her friends around the world.

They bravely and selfishly uphold an historic commitment. And they sustain a legacy which has made this nation the world's arsenal of freedom and democracy.

As Commander-in-Chief, I join all my fellow Americans in the traditional observance of Armed Forces Day, and in high tribute to the valor and dedication of those whose courageous service this day commemorates.

—LYNDON B. JOHNSON

On this Armed Forces Day we must resolve to continue our maintenance of powerful and ready military forces. We must also resolve to demonstrate our willingness to use these forces where our vital interests are at stake.

It is my hope that all Americans will lend their full support to our military forces defending the frontier of freedom in Vietnam. Such wholehearted support is basic to the strength of our defense effort.

Let us reaffirm that we can and will pay freedom's cost — whatever it may be. When aggressor states are convinced that war is no longer a feasible method to extend the area they control, our security is enhanced. When they are convinced that we will resist with force any encroachment on our vital interests around the world, the chances of war are diminished.

This is worthy of our abiding commitment in Vietnam and wherever freedom is threatened.

—ROBERT S. McNAMARA

VISITORS — Typical of the groups who visit the John M. Browning Memorial Museum on RIA is this group of junior high school students from Buffalo, Iowa. The student group was one of two that visited the museum recently. Museum curator Dorrell Garrison played host to 76 students that day. Of course, the teachers and drivers of the school buses also enjoyed the tour of the museum. were dressed in the garb of 1816.

After a brief welcoming ceremony, including an Indian dance, the program moved to the blockhouse replica on Fort Armstrong Ave. It was here that the main program was concentrated for the spectators gathered in front of the bunting-bedecked speaker's stand.

Acting as master of ceremonies, Ray Reese introduced the visiting dignitaries, including Illinois' U.S. Representative Gale Shisler, Quint-city mayors, Western Iowa and Eastern Illinois historical society representatives and members of the sesquicentennial committee.

Rock Island Mayor James H. Haymaker traced the development of the Quint-cities from the original beginning when Fort Armstrong was erected.

Col. Paul A. Nilsson, Arsenal commander, outlined the history of the fort as it related to the growth and development of Rock Island Arsenal.

Morris S. Colehour, general chairman of the Sesquicentennial Commission, presented to the colonel a framed document commemorating the occasion.

The document will hang in the Browning Museum.

The final act on the program was the unveiling of the 150th anniversary plaque mounted on a large boulder several hundred feet southwest of the replica of the original blockhouse. It also marks the location of the "time-capsule" containing many items of historical value that will be opened by a future generation.

The AWC-RIA Chorus and Orchestra, under the direction of Wibbey Fisher, presented the National Anthem and several musical selections popular in the 1880's.

Joe Gear of supply and maintenance, accompanied the musicians with a reading.

To pass on this heritage and attest to mementos of our Day, we have hereby caused Artifacts of this Celebration to be Encased in Stone Beneath, and duly recorded in the John M. Moving

Next month is the start of the annual peak period for household moving in the United States, reports the American Movers Conference.

The mid-June to mid-September rush, caused by the end of the school year and the convenience of the warm weather, is also the time that most military families pick up for new posts.

If one must move during these months, the best thing to do, says the movers' report, is schedule shipments for the first three weeks of the month since the last week is always the busiest.

You can find a Savings Bond—from the $25 denomination to the $10,000 one—to fit any security goal.

Five ECR Suggestions Get Favorable Action

The Zero Defects committee last week noted five error cause removal (ECR) suggestions that were acted on favorably, commented Cliff Vogt of the Quality Assurance office.

The ECRs were submitted by four persons, two from Transportation and one each from Quality Assurance and Research and Engineering.

Richard L. Neihaus of vehicle operations recommended that red warning flags be attached to sticks so as to be more easily placed on semi-trailers loaded with steel.

He also recommended a bell be installed in the building 157 office and attached to the phone so that employees could answer the normally unattended phone on weekends and at night.

Dale Smith of commercial traffic cited a problem concerning recording accurate weight records and shipping tonnage which prompted his supervisor to change procedures and alleviate the problem.

Quality Assurance's

James W. Martin brought up a problem related to gauging threaded components before and after plating. It was resolved by supervisors in QA.

Wayne Dixon of engineering services pointed out a legibility problem caused by the method used in microfilming documents. His solution, although not noted, is being submitted as a suggestion.

Rumor has it that there are certain golfers in the Rifles section who have become so good they are scouting the hinterlands for competition.

For instance, Maj. H. P. Underwood says he "doesn't care to play with poor golfers like Frank Burke."

Jews Celebrate Shavuos From Sundown Tuesday

The anniversary of the giving of the Torah to the people of Israel on Mount Sinai will be celebrated starting sundown Tuesday by Jews in the Quad-City area and around the world.

Celebrated until one hour after sunset Thursday, Shavuos commemorates the proclamation of the Ten Commandments.

Jewish personnel consider the holiday an occasion of rededication and commitment to the Torah, which is the repository of the sacred and constructive ideals of humanity — best known of which are the Ten Commandments.

The festival of Shavuos comes 50 days after the first day of Passover, the celebration of the exodus from Egypt. It is sometimes referred to as the "closing festival," to signify that the revelation at Sinai "was the crowning, glorious climax."

Jews comment that Shavuos marks the birth of the spiritual and moral law "which has illuminated all of western civilization since the days of Moses."

The teachings of the Torah, they continue, "are for all mankind." The Book of Ruth, the story of one who voluntarily accepted Judaism in place of the idolatry of her people, is customarily read on Shavuos.

The ancient Jews spent the 50-day period before Shavuos in daily prayer as a preparation for receiving the Torah. In some present-day, orthodox synagogues on Shavuos, it is still the custom to spend the entire night studying portions of the Torah and read from the Old Testament.

In many synagogues too, there is a custom of placing floral decorations near the Ark, the Torah container.

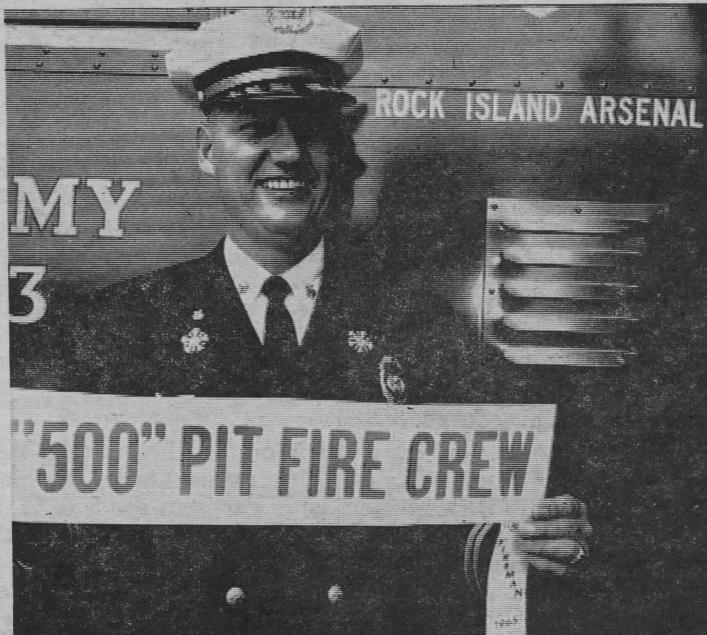

The act symbolizes the two-fold meaning of the holiday to Jews. It reminds them of Mount Sinai, where God revealed Himself to His people, and recalls the fruition of nature's gift, the spring harvest season.

Bonds Show Support Says Postal Chief

WASHINGTON (AFNB)—"Savings Bonds provide a channel by which we non-combatants, safe in our homes, certain of a roof over our heads and three good meals a day, can express our support and solidarity for the men who are risking death and disease," Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien told all Federal employees when announcing 25th Anniversary Savings Bond Campaign for Federal employees.

The campaign covers the entire month of May.

BACK TO THE BIG RACE — RIA Fire Chief Farrell Jordan holds the 1965 lapel ribbon in his left hand that he wore when he participated in last year's 500 Mile Race at Indianapolis. He didn't drive one of the big racers in last year's Memorial Day classic, though. He was one-third of the fire protection crew for driver Don Branson. In 1964, Jordan was part of the pit fire crew for A. J. Foyt, who started the race in the pole position. During both years, Jordan was the member of the three man fire protection crew who leaped over the protective wall to protect the driver during pit stops. The other two members of the fire crew cover the members of the maintenance crew and the refueling operation from vantage points behind the wall. The big banner which says "500" PIT FIRE CREW will go in the windshield of Jordan's car again this year. He will take part in his third 500 Mile Race.

Dependents Get Temporary Qtrs

Washington (AMCIN) — More than 200 families of military personnel on unaccompanied tours—including Vietnam—are temporarily residing in Government-controlled housing on or near Army Materiel Command installations. The program makes use of excess quarters that otherwise would remain vacant.

"To the serviceman ordered on an unaccompanied overseas tour of duty, his primary concern is not for himself, but for the family he leaves behind," Colonel Alfred J. D'Arezzo, AMC Director of Installations and Services, said. "A most important decision he must make is where he will leave his family and who will look after them. As part of the overall Army program for assistance to dependents of service personnel, the Army Materiel Command attempts to ease the burden of this decision by providing information concerning available Government-controlled housing on or near AMC installations.

The following AMC installations have adequate military family housing units available for immediate assignment to service families: Dugway Proving Ground, Utah; Seneca Army Depot, Romulus, New York; Anniston Army Depot, Alabama, and White Sands Missile Range, Las Cruces, New Mexico.

Direct Contact Encouraged

Interested military personnel are encouraged to write or contact the family housing manager at the installation they choose, to determine the type of quarters and the conditions under which they are available.

Armed Forces Day is set aside each year so that we may honor our men and women in uniform. Their sacrifices protect our way of life and safeguard our nation's proud heritage for future generations.
