MESSAGE FROM THE COMMANDING GENERAL

On Nov. 11, our Nation will pay tribute to the men and women who have served our country in uniform. Veterans Day provides us the opportunity to reflect and pay tribute to those whose sacrifices and selfless service secured the privileges of freedom, democracy and the unmatched opportunity that we enjoy in the United States. While we pause in remembrance of our veterans, let us maintain vigilance over our Soldiers, Civilians and Family members in preventing accidents. Regardless of your destination or activity for the Veterans Day holiday weekend, ensure safety is forefront in your planning.

November is also the traditional beginning of the winter holiday season. Many of us will take advantage of this long weekend to travel, visit friends and Family. Motor vehicles account for the greatest number of holiday accidents. Excessive speeds, following too closely and failure to yield are all major causes of accidents. Watch out for motorcycles, get plenty of rest prior to long trips and remember do not drink and drive. These reminders are not only keys to successful driving but to survival.

To guard against accidents, leaders must ensure personnel receive counseling and encourage Soldiers and Civilians to openly discuss their off-duty plans. We must all remember that safety never takes a day off. Therefore, we must make good risk-management decisions and take responsibility for our actions both on and off duty. Have a safe Veterans Day holiday weekend.

"SECURE THE HIGH GROUND"

— Kevin T. Campbell, Lieutenant General, USA Commanding

THANK YOU

Thanks for a great season! I just wanted to send out a personal thank you to everyone who helped make the 2010 outdoor soccer season so great. I feel very fortunate to live in a community where people are willing to help out when it's needed. And for soccer, it really took a lot of effort by so many different people.

Thank you to Mark Long and Rick Funk who volunteered to lead the officials clinic. Also, I want to thank our volunteer officials - Steve Gauthier, Nate Jones, John Irwin and Bill Williamson. Their efforts were so important and immensely appreciated. I also wanted to send a special thanks to all of our volunteer linesman - Stan Jazwinski, Bill Eisele, Pat Gorman, Amber Fullerton, Mike Turner, Coty Davis, Jake Villarreal, Maddie Hall, Aubrey Sandborn, Jeff Sudderth, Erik Wills, Jason Kettenhofen, Jeremy Williams, James Hall and Jon Jahnke. Finally, soccer wouldn't have been complete without the assistance of all of our coaches and managers - Kenny Leines, Chad McGlinn, Lynn Leines, Jim Stepchew, Tyler Shields, Laura Price, Sheila Bigelow, Stan Jazwinski, Jason Kettenhofen and Jon Jahnke. Thank you for your interest and your efforts. The success of this year's season was all due to the efforts of all of our volunteers. So again, thank you so much! We could not have done it without you. Congratulations to the Spartans Varsity Boys and Go Green, who were this years' Champions. I look forward to the 2011 season and hope it will be just as great, but also just as much fun. Thanks again.

— Mandie Morris, Recreation and Programs Manager

A special thank you to all coaches who volunteered their time, knowledge and patience during the 2010 Youth Basketball Season. Your effort throughout the past few months in being positive role models and teaching the youth of Kwajalein Atoll the skills and fundamentals of basketball is greatly appreciated.

— Jason Kettenhofen, CYSS Youth Sports and Fitness Director

7th annual Marshallese Trade Fair opportunity to shop, share culture

Article and photos by Sheila Bigelow
Managing Editor

Kwajalein may not have a mall or large department stores, but we can at least count on a few annual events to keep the area under our Christmas trees full and our wallets empty. For the last six years, one such event is the Marshallese Trade Fair. The annual affair hit the seven year mark Monday as the doors opened at 9 a.m. and the line of people out to the road in front of the CRC hurriedly made their way in to shop.

Before the eager shoppers were allowed in, a few remarks were made by COL Joseph Gaines, USAKA/RTS Commander, and Minister Mattlan Zackhras, RMI Minister of Resource and Development. Both Gaines and Zackhras reminded everyone of how the trade fair came about, spoke a little about how much work it is to organize, and most importantly, how vital the trade fair is to not only the RMI economy, but to the preservation of the Marshallese culture and their values.

Gaines began by wishing the waiting crowd a good morning and thanking them for their continued support at the annual trade fairs. Gaines recognized Zackhras, Tom Moss from the Majuro U.S. Embassy, Laban Konelios, a key organizer of the event from RMI Ministry of Resources and Development, and members of the USAKA Host Nation office, Mike Sakaio and MAJ Chris Mills, for all their hard work and dedication put in to make the trade fair possible. "I appreciate all of your efforts in pulling this together," Gaines said. "This is the 7th annual Marshallese Trade Fair, but it's my first one." He praised those that have learned over the years to wait in the fish line first and have a friend or spouse wait in the line to the CRC gym so they get the first pickings. "There are some great goods in there," he continued. "They come from Majuro and the outer atolls. I just walked through briefly and there are some great handicrafts, so this will be exciting. Thank you all for coming. Spend all your money and let's make this a successful day."

Minister Zackhras then took the podium and took a moment to greet the crowd and thank all the people whose hard work each year make the trade fair come to fruition. "Good morning and welcome all to the 7th annual, I'd like to say RMI/USAKA Trade Fair." While Minister Zackhras has both heard about and supported the trade fair, this was his first visit. "I feel very privileged that I am able to join you all in witnessing first-hand another successful trade fair this year. USAKA has been a genuine partner in assisting the RMI economy. This unique arrangement has allowed our Marshallese people the opportunity to share their talents and culture with the local residents here on Kwajalein. I want to thank the Host Nation for going out of its way to deal with the various challenges in making today possible, from the smallest tasks to the most difficult ones so we can all enjoy what the Mar-

Edward Jednacz and his wife try to decide what to purchase at the Marshallese Trade Fair Monday in the CRC gym.

Delegates from Republic of the Marshall Islands, the Republic of Palau, the Federated States of Micronesia and the United States meet for their annual Joint Telecommunication Board Meeting last week at USAKA/RTS.

Joint Telecommunication Board meets at USAKA for the first time

By Sheila Bigelow
Managing Editor

The document that structures the relationship between the United States and the Republic of the Marshall Islands, the Republic of Palau and the Federated States of Micronesia is called the Compact of Free Association. It is a unique agreement that the United States has with only three countries in the world. These Compacts structure everything we do with these three countries in the political, defense, and economic sectors. The Compact is unique compared to the way the United States maintains relations with other foreign countries, and that is particularly true in the area of telecommunications. All telecommunication issues between the United States and these three countries are worked through what are called Joint Telecommunication Boards. The Compact states that there will be a bilateral, or joint, telecommunication board meeting with each of these countries at least once per year. This year, the JTBs were hosted at USAKA/RTS for the very first time.

William Grigsby, with the U.S. Department of State, is the U.S. Government Lead for Compact issues related to telecommunications. Several years ago he established the precedent to have the telecommunication meetings with each country all at the same time, within the same week, and each country rotates as host. This year, it was the United States' turn to host and it just so happened that it was getting close to the time to have another JTB meeting and two of the three countries were already in Mexico at the annual International Telecommunication Union meeting and could make a stop at USAKA on their way home. The benefits of scheduling the JTB in October at USAKA/RTS were discussed and determined to be the best possible location to host this year's JTB. Hosting the meeting on Kwajalein was a target of opportunity because it not only facilitated holding the meetings for the four countries, but it also offered some advantages for the USAKA/RTS staff by providing an opportunity to show these nations what we do here.

Delegates from each country began arriving at USAKA/RTS from Oct 21-26. There was a combined JTB meeting Oct. 26 with all four countries during which issues were covered that were of general interest. Then there were three, sequential bilateral meetings throughout the rest of the week during which country-specific issues were discussed.

One major purpose of these JTB meetings is to coordinate the use of the frequency spectrum. There is only so much radio frequency spectrum available, and if its usage is not planned, interference could occur.

"So we coordinate the use of each country's utilization of spectrum to ensure that we can both operate our systems without interfering with the other," said David Seelye, USAKA Director of Information Management. Another function of the JTB meeting is that it allows USAKA/RTS to work with the Marshall Islands National Telecommunication Authority to set up new services and talk about what's coming in the future. "At this meeting we did learn that MINTA intends to bring over the air, paid TV to Kwajalein and are also looking to bring cellular/3G service with connectivity to the U.S. in the future,” Seelye commented. The fiber project at USAKA/RTS was discussed in this meeting as has been the case over many years. That project is essentially complete and the fact that MINTA will soon be brokering internet bandwidth for the USAKA residential community was a topic of discussion.

The meeting this year was particularly valuable because unlike previous JTB meetings, the U.S. delegates arrived three days earlier than the foreign delegates to discuss specific policy issues relative to operations here at USAKA/RTS. Along with Grigsby, Dr. John Fairlamb, Political Military Affairs Advisor for SMDC/ARTSTRAT, and Christopher Lewis, Interoperability Program Manager, U.S. Department of the Interior, attended as U.S. delegates. Representatives from Kwajalein Range Services attended the three-day prep to assist in discussions; Mike Tracy, Information Services Mission Planner Manager, and Lisa Marks, Frequency Spectrum Manager, worked with Fairlamb, Grigsby, Lewis, and Seelye to uncover issues and identify solutions. It just so happened that all the right people were together in one location, so actions that normally take six to eight weeks to work through normal processes managed to get wrapped up on the spot. All present obtained a clearer understanding of the importance of frequency management in support of USAKA/RTS missions.

This was a great professional team-building effort between the U.S. and these three countries. It gave some foreign dignitaries access to our installation for the first time. “They’ve landed on the tarmac, but have never had access to the installation,” Fairlamb stated. “We gave them a command brief and...the minister from Palau, who is the Minister of Public Infrastructure, asked us side questions on how we [Kwajalein] handle our solid waste. Waste management is a difficult issue for USAKA and each Compact Nation. The minister was given a tour and shown how we handle solid waste and he got to tour the incinerator.” There was value added in terms of our relationship with the foreign dignitaries.

Fairlamb stated, “The USAKA staff deserves credit for helping to make it go well. We solved some issues for the Directorate of Information Management and for the range on frequency coordination while it was ongoing. The command did an excellent job with hosting this meeting.” MAJ Steven Parrish, Protocol Officer Charlie Harjo and the Host Nation Office were praised for their attention to detail in regards to the arrangements made. They took care of all the clearances and billeting arrangements and the many other details that are required when hosting foreign government officials. They organized an official dinner the night everyone arrived which was a big success and created a positive atmosphere that lasted through the full week of meetings. “The USAKA staff deserves a big vote of thanks because everybody is happy with the way it went,” Fairlamb said. All delegates departed Oct. 29-30.

Big Winner

Ron Smith, left, is the lucky winner of a brand new Sun bicycle, the October Prize from AAFES' monthly contest. With him are right, COL Joseph Gaines, USAKA/RTS Commander, and John Hutchins, Burger King Manager. Participants who made their Burger King meal a 'large' size wrote their name and number on their receipt and turned it in to enter the contest. Next month, the same contest will be ongoing; the prize will be a turkey.

shallese community has to offer. We are helping the most vulnerable members of our community living in the outer islands whose livelihood depends on fisheries, handicrafts and agriculture. Today I am pleased to note that we have more than 30 handicraft retailers and farmers who were able to participate in this year's event. Let me remind you all that the Marshallese women who made the various types of handicrafts today first hand are considered the finest and most productive weavers in all of Micronesia. Some of the participants today have travelled the region and the globe to showcase their God-given talents. Events like this annual trade fair also give them the opportunity to share their valuable part of their history and culture with the outside world. I encourage you all, our friends here on Kwajalein, to start your early Christmas shopping for your loved ones back home in your respective states and by doing that you will help us share the history and culture that we all value. So today let us enjoy the fruit of our labor and to make this trade fair another memorable one."

At that, residents hurried past the podium, eager to begin their shopping. While some deemed it important to be the first few into the gym to shop for handicrafts, others had fish on the brain and waited patiently for the coolers stocked with fresh marlin, tuna, yellow fin and more to be opened for business. There was also fresh fish jerky available for purchase.

Meanwhile, in the gym, bags were already overflowing with purchases. As usual, beautifully-made handicrafts were available from various vendors. There were purses, wallets, fans, coasters, wall hangings and hats. There were flowers of various colors and sizes as well as intricate models of boats and catamarans. There was plenty of jewelry, ranging from earrings, necklaces, bracelets, hair pieces, wuts and rings. There were t-shirts, dresses and skirts for sale as well.

Besides handicrafts, part of the annual trade fair loved the most by Kwajalein residents is the fruit.

All ages enjoy shopping at the Marshallese Trade Fair at the CRC gym Monday. Here, Dash Alfred and Ian Goldsmith check out what is offered.

Minister Zackhras, RMI Minister of Resource and Development, speaks to the Kwajalein community at the trade fair Monday.

As you neared the fruit tables you could smell the ripe and juicy assortment, making your mouth water. There were the favorites, tangerines, and plantains, papayas, peaches, bananas, dried breadfruit and gourds. The tangerines sold out very quickly and everyone waited patiently to get their hands on their favorites. One Kwajalein resident was overheard saying he comes for the breadfruit every year.

For those seeking unique gift ideas, Japanese glass balls were for sale as a specialty item. There were also potted flowers and beautiful, polished shells.

The five hour trade fair was not just an opportunity for Kwajalein residents to purchase gifts for their loved ones or to score beautiful Marshallese handicrafts from the outer atolls; it reminds us of the unique opportunity we have to share our lives with our Marshallese neighbors, learning and basking in each other's culture. The day was a definite success and I bet some are already looking forward to next year.

‘Shine My Ball’ winners of fall bowling league

By Bob Carter
Contributor

It was another fun and exciting end to our bowling season. Thank you very much for coming down and enjoying another eight weeks of bowling with me.

As always with our leagues, we have had some exciting nights, a few ho-hum nights and then nights where everyone is a target – Tuesday night was no exception. The league came down to four teams that had a chance for first place and the fourth place team came within a whisker of a roll off with the team that began the night in first place.

“Shine My Ball” and “Scotts and Tots” had three close games and “Shine My Ball” ended the night by winning total pins by one pin, which gave them three points and the “Scotts and Tots” winning one point. Waiting in the wings, “Hospital Buff and Fluff” took out “No Business” by winning four points and coming in second, only one game back.

Some highlights of the season– some extremely good scores were had by Jeff Fronzak, 265 and a 600 series. Evelyn Smith had a super 180. Dr. Kennan Buechter slipped in with his first 200 game (225). Erikka Collins finally had things going her way with a couple of 160 games the last week of bowling.

We had a few new bowlers and a few returning bowlers from past leagues. Again a resounding THANKS to each and every one of you who have supported my endeavors at the center. Also a special thanks to Thompson for helping me keep things running.

Quick reminder, the bowling center is open on Saturday nights. It can also be reserved for $45 and the deposit is used as down payment for shoes and the games that are bowled.

Kwajalein/Roi Veterans

The Hourglass wants to honor your service to America. We would like to take your photo and get your branch of service, years that you served and last rank held. Your photo will be published in our Veterans Day issue. Please stop by our office in the AFN studio (upstairs next to the library) in Building 805. Our hours are 7:30-11:30 a.m. and 12:30-4:30 p.m. If you are unable to meet at those times, call 52114 and we will make arrangements. If you participated last year and would like to use the same information and photo, please send an e-mail stating so to hourglass@smdck.smdc.army.mil. Deadline is Nov. 10. Once again, thank you for your service.
