

Eye On AMC

Wednesday, April 8, 2026

5 ways AMC is transforming Army sustainment

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. – Army Materiel Command isn't just talking about transformation anymore, it's delivering it. From the factories to the tactical edge, AMC is pushing modernization that Soldiers benefit from right now, while accelerating the pace of change demanded by the future fight. Read the article to learn five ways AMC is reshaping Army sustainment.

5 WAYS AMC IS TRANSFORMING HOW THE ARMY SUSTAINS THE FIGHT

Army under secretary tours SCAAP

SCRANTON, Pa. – The Under Secretary of the Army, Honorable Michael Obadal, visited Scranton Army Ammunition Plant March 19. SCAAP is a government-owned, contractor-operated facility that manufactures large-caliber metal projectiles to ensure warfighters have the ammunition they need to carry out missions around the globe. The plant has played a vital role in producing 155 mm artillery rounds.

Tobyhanna showcases capabilities for Army leaders

TOBYHANNA ARMY DEPOT, Pa. – Senior leaders from Tobyhanna Army Depot's higher headquarters witnessed firsthand the critical capabilities being championed by a dynamic civilian workforce during a visit March 31.

Related: CECOM delivers ATI quarterly update brief to AMC

AMC drives MILCON innovation by looking to industry

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. – At a pivotal moment in national defense transformation, Army Materiel Command is spearheading a revolutionary approach to military construction, repair and maintenance projects.

Related: Laying the future of barracks construction

TYAD achieves AS 9100 recertification

TOBYHANNA, Pa. – Tobyhanna Army Depot earned recertification to the Aerospace 9100/9110 quality standard this week after a lengthy and meticulous conformance audit by an external auditing body. The credential is rare: only 30,000 companies worldwide have earned the AS 9100 designation, while less than 1,100 hold the AS 9110 certification.

OIB looks to expand munitions production capacity

PICATINNY ARSENAL, NJ - In a landmark event to bolster the nation's defense capabilities, Army Contracting Command – Rock Island, on behalf of Portfolio Acquisition Executive Agile Sustainment and Ammunition and Army Materiel Command, held an Industry Day event March 19-20 focused on highlighting opportunities across the Organic Industrial Base.

FOCUS ON THE FORCE

Purple Heart awarded years after injury during heroic act

Fort Drum first responders awarded

Tobyhanna recertifies to lofty safety standard following pristine external audit

Sustainment Enabler Summit points AMC in a clear direction

NEWS AROUND THE ARMY

Army launches 2026 Spring and Summer Safety Campaign

Presidio of Monterey expands resilience support with neurofeedback therapy

Early momentum from Army acquisition transformation

Secretary of the Army sees future of cyber warfare, AI