

Eye On AMC

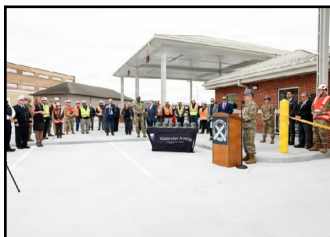

Wednesday, April 29, 2026

Army Under Secretary tours MCAAP

MCALESTER, Okla. – The Under Secretary of the Army, Honorable Michael Obadal, visited McAlester Army Ammunition Plant April 27. Obadal observed load, assemble, pack operations and discussed the installation’s strategic role in Department of War’s redundancy, specifically addressing the manpower and workload requirements necessary to meet current and future mission demands.

New gate, mortar factory, firehouse at Watervliet

WATERVLIET ARSENAL, N.Y. – U.S. Army leaders marked a major milestone in the modernization of Watervliet Arsenal with the official opening of the new Gillespie Gate, mortar factory and the groundbreaking for a new fire station during a ceremony April 13. Watervliet Arsenal is an Army-owned-and-operated manufacturing facility and is the oldest continuously active arsenal in the states.

Patriot Press provides vital experience to Soldiers

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. – Soldiers build logistical expertise and gain vital mission-ready experience through Operation Patriot Press. OPP is conducted each year by the Joint Munitions Command along with other major subordinate commands within AMC. The exercises enhance units’ operational capabilities and support JMC’s strategic objectives by emphasizing sustainment and readiness.

Barracks modernize with 500+ new furnishings

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Hawaii – U.S. Army Garrison Hawaii is improving barracks living conditions as the 25th Infantry Division prepares for an increase of incoming Soldiers. The garrison has procured over 500 new bunks, mattresses and dressers.

Related: Ansbach prepares for new facility

Trailblazing AMC data leader retires after 40 years

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. – Army Materiel Command’s first chief data and analytics officer, Dr. Chris Hill, is retiring after a combined 40 years of military and federal civilian service. His decades of service have made an indelible mark not only on the Army, but on every person he has served with – including me, his daughter. The least I could do is illustrate the impact he has had.

IMCOM reviews infrastructure, recognizes workforce

JOINT BASE MYER-HENDERSON HALL, Va. – Leadership from U.S. Army Installation Management Command visited Joint Base Myer-Henderson Hall April 22 to assess installation readiness, review critical infrastructure projects, and discuss ongoing quality-of-life improvements for service members and their families. The visit started with a command overview and briefing on current hot topics.

FOCUS ON THE FORCE

AMC recognizes employees for their impact on mission

Fort Leavenworth Lamp earns awards in state competition

Strong sustainers

Fort Buchanan Fire named Army’s Best Small Department

Humphreys Fire Department earns top Pacific honors

DOW and industry continue PCS improvements

PHCE offers guidance for PCSing with pets

How AER supports the force

Army’s military child of the year finds new life after tragedy